STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Writer Says Man Own Worst Enemy

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Man is his own worst enemy. I know I am not being profound when I make that statement; nevertheless, it is true. I see it in my own family.

My mother is an alcoholic. My father, who is so concerned about her, has become a "toodoodle" and got on at least 75 pounds. My sister is just the opposite; she is so worried about mother that she has starved herself down to about 80 pounds.

As for me, I am considered to be the philosophical "strong" member of the family. Frankly, they do not realize I am close to a nervous breakdown. What makes people actually do away with themselves? Miss A.

COMMENT: The title of my daily column is, "Stop Killing Yourself." It gets its name from a book I wrote about 20 years ago (now out of print) called "How To Stop Killing Yourself." Its theme answers your question, "What makes people do away with themselves?"

In my practice I have seen thousands of examples that testified to the fact that people are committing slow suicide. In most of us the powerful forces of self-preservation keeps us alive. But when another force, self - destruction, becomes the stronger of the two, then begins the slow, or rapid, slide to oblivion.

Unfortunately, in your mother's case, Miss A., self-destruction has taken the form of chronic alcoholism. In your father, the dangers posed by obesity,(heart disease, hypertension, diabetes, gallbladder disease, arthritis, etc.). And in your sister, the opposite malnutrition.

• • •

When you see such examples thousands of times, it is easy to agree that man is his own worst enemy. Overwork, underwork, tension, smoking, insufficient sleep and relaxation procrastination about seeing a doctor when others or something else serious threatens such are a few of the apparent ways it becomes evident that man goes about killing himself.

You can understand why I am so preventive - medicine minded. My prime purpose is to make readers of, the column awake it is their responsibility to strengthen the instinct of self - preservation so it can overcome any tendency to self - destruction.

We have a better chance for good health and long life, Miss A., if we acknowledge our common weakness: Man is his own worst enemy.

• • •

For Mrs. H.: Your daughter's problems are not "little ones." Sometimes mothers do not realize their youngsters are having a hard time of it. I have often said that adolescence is a much more difficult change of life than menopause. For example, this note:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Can you give me the safest diet for a child my age? I am 13. I have hardly any friends. I am getting tired of people laughing at me. I get kidded too much about being fat and I cannot take it any more. I am glad that I can write to someone. Miss L.

(This suggests, Mrs. H., that her own mother has not "listened.")

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My father is retired and would like to have a color TV set, but my mother is afraid of radiation. What do you think? Mrs. S.

COMMENT: As far as we know now, sets in good working order are safe if the viewer keeps a distance of six to nine feet away.

Girl Faces Charge Of Murder

TORONTO (CP) — An 18-year-old Toronto girl was charged Wednesday with non-capital murder in the death of her girl-friend whose body was found in the trunk of a car in Cobourg, July 8.

Mary Ament had previously been charged with offering an indignity to a dead body. She appeared in court Wednesday and was remanded without bail to Aug. 3 for a preliminary hearing by Provincial Judge Michael Cleary.

The body of Brigitte Jahn, 17, was found wrapped in a blanket with her head covered by a plastic bag. She had been shot in the back of the head.

The body of Miss Jahn was found in the trunk of Miss Ament's car when it was towed to a Cobourg garage for repairs. Cobourg is about 50 miles east of here.

Miss Ament told police then that she found Brigitte's body with a revolver beside it when returned to their room after a walk July 4.

She said she backed the car up to the front door, put a sewing machine in the back seat and the body in the trunk.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

August 27, 1971

Your Birthday Today: This year the results of your last several years of effort come to some application in your life. Your perspective alters as you see most issues in quite different terms. Whatever you have that is surplus or dispensable should be converted to cash or the most exchangable form you can negotiate. Today's natives are willing to work hard, interested in doing things correctly; sometimes unwilling to adopt original solutions to chronic problems.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): It's hard to keep secrets, particularly on facts scheduled for organized publication later. Divert attention to less sensitive issues by poking fun.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Neighbors, competitors seem restless, perhaps in response to your own strivings and what they've heard of your enterprises.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): People you care about thrive and prosper now enjoy their triumph but claim no reward or gratitude.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): It's your turn to remain serene amid a storm of debate, vigorous opposition, perhaps privately. Stick with a commonsense, conservative argument.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Chores do not generally attend to themselves you (or somebody) must do them. Make full and effective use of today's chances to learn while doing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Family and close associates pose good questions. You don't have all the answers have the candor to say so.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): You have no plausible excuse for delays. Starting early and avoiding detours and short cuts may help.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Hold your peace on the affairs of relatives, younger people. You haven't heard all sides of the story.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Explain, apologize promptly where you seem expected to; start fresh, as most people are willing and ready to do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Attend to routines, neglected or unfinished chores early and at a steady clip so the interruptions of later hours do no great damage to your schedules.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Business activities involve social doings and a deal of pleasure. Enjoy the occasion quietly.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): This is the time of a new idea in your life. Not yet up to discussion stage, but for keen looking and listening for facts, better perspective.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Now you know why they say, 'Women's work is never done.'"

Fall Drive Planned 'Against Oppression'

WATERLOO (CP) — Young Canadian radicals were urged to join a "fall offensive against oppression" Wednesday by socialist editor Arthur Young of Toronto.

He said the offensive would include support of a citizens' commission investigating the impact of last October's Quebec crisis as well as campaigning for women's rights and "defending the French language in Canada."

Mr. Young, 28, told the final session of the six-day cross-Canada Socialist Education Conference at the University of Waterloo that government officials harassed socialists during and after the Quebec crisis.

"The radicalization of Canadian society is deepening," he said. "We are the people the ruling class is starting to worry about."

The 18-member citizens' commission that will include Laurier Lapierre, head of French-Canadian studies at McGill University, will investigate government invocation of the War Measures Act. Public hearings will be held in 10 cities this fall.

Philippe Tourneyeur, 28, of Toronto, educational director of the League for Socialist Action, called for the building of a "bi-national party of Quebecois and English Canadians ..... a party of the best fighters from the oppressed."

He said the ranks will include "the red men and women from whom these lands were taken. The debt will be paid because we'll all be red by then."

School to Serve Adult Residents

TORONTO (CP) — The Metropolitan Toronto school board approved Wednesday construction of a $1.5-million inner-city school to provide additional services such as a free dental clinic to area residents.

The project is aimed at eventually providing active involvement and participation of neighborhood residents in operating the school.

PCs to Debate RC School Aid

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Premier William Davis has summoned Conservative members of the Ontario legislature to a special party caucus meeting Friday morning to consider whether to extend provincial financial aid to Roman Catholic high schools.

If the Conservative caucus quickly approves his decision, Mr. Davis could announce it publicly later Friday.

The way then could be cleared for the Premier to call an election as early as Oct. 7.

Since he became premier last March, Mr. Davis has been studying the question of separate schools. He has promised to give an answer to the Roman Catholic high schools' request for aid before calling an election.

The newspaper says Mr. Davis' decision already has been relayed to some cabinet ministers but it is a closely-held secret. It adds that most observers, on the basis of the premier's past statements, believe he will reject the request for aid, even though he might make other gestures.

A majority of the caucus is against full tax aid to the end of Grade 13, the report says.

Roman Catholic schools now are publicly financed to the end of Grade 8 as required by the British North America Act.

As recently as this week, Mr. Davis has insisted that Roman Catholic high schools past Grade 10 must be classified as private schools.

During the Conservative leadership race, Mr. Davis and other leadership candidates were greeted regularly by picketing separate school supporters.

Report Suggests Legal Marijuana

Request Based On Youth Views

OTTAWA (CP) — Use of marijuana and hashish should be legal for all at age 18, partly because no harmful effects have been proven, says a youth committee report to the federal government.

A hot political controversy is expected to flow from the recommendation, one of many in a 218 page report to State Secretary Gerard Pelletier by a three man committee.

It spent two years and $500,000 on the report, framed its drug recommendations after an attitude survey of young Canadians and did no original drugs research itself.

Chairman David Hunter, 28-year-old Toronto sociologist, told a news conference members would change their views if medical proof of harm is turned up.

He acknowledged that the expected recommendations on these and other drugs from the Le Dain royal commission "would carry greater clout than we."

For Other Stories On Youth Committee Report See Page 5

A commission headed by Dean Gerald Le Dain of Osgoode Hall law school now is writing a report to the federal government on its two-year study of non-medical drug use.

Its interim recommendations called for stepped up research to determine whether drug use is harmful. The federal cabinet immediately rejected another Le Dain recommendation—that fines of no more than $100 be levied for possession of any drug.

The youth committee went the full road for legalizing the so-called soft drugs—marijuana and hashish. Cultivation, sale, possession and use of these cannabis products should be legal.

Eighteen-year-olds should be able to buy and use them, said the report.

Reporters, noting the report's stress on alienation of youth as a factor in drug use, suggested to Mr. Hunter the 18-year age limit would alienate those under 18.

Why not 16, why not 14, he replied rhetorically. It was a good question. Eighteen was the age of legal responsibility.

He suggested reporters were rude to ask whether committee members had any first-hand experience with drug taking. He accused them of sensationalizing the drug recommendations.

As part of the proposed legalization, there would be government regulation and control of distribution and marketing. Drug education, research into effects and into treatments for drug abuse were suggested.

The report says drug laws here were untenable with respect to soft drugs. They were ineffective and had neither diminished drug availability nor consumption.

"By making innocuous soft drugs as illegal as dangerous hard drugs, the law forces the young to deal through illicit channels for both."

Adults regarded the young as identified with illegal activity and the young saw legislators as hypocritical. Research by the young "has demonstrated the harmlessness of soft drugs."

Authors of Youth Report

The authors of the federal government's report on youth, (left to right) Vincent Kelly, David Hunter and Pierre Bourdon, talk to reporters at a news conference in Ottawa Thursday. The report on youth, which among other things recommends the legalization of cannabis, was released Thursday. (CP Photo)

CYC, Cadets Under Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — Recommendations in the committee on youth report to the federal government Thursday include the following highlights:

—The cultivation, sale and use of cannabis drugs such as marijuana and hashish should be legalized. Purchase and use should be allowed at 18 and distribution and marketing should be regulated by the government.

—Federal funding, estimated at $10 million a year, should be discontinued for the armed forces cadet training program. The government should rethink its philosophy toward recreational and social programming for young people, diverting the cadet money to other youth activities.

—The government should disband the Company of Young Canadians, replacing it with a federal agency and regional agencies which would deal with a broad range of recreational and social programs.

—A federal program be organized to advise welfare recipients of their rights and that provincial and municipal governments be encouraged to take fuller advantage of the Canada Assistance Program.

—The Canada Council should expand assistance for cultural and artistic experiments by and for young people.

—A new agency should be created to intervene as mediator in potential violent social confrontations.

Brantford Pickets Dispersed

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Police with helmets and face shields and carrying long black billies moved in Thursday to disperse 300 shouting union demonstrators outside the Texpack Ltd. plant.

Twelve persons were arrested as the police moved into the obscenity-shouting demonstrators, who ran back from their advance.

They brought to 27, including 16 women, the number arrested in less than 24 hours at the plant which manufactures gauze dressings and other hospital supplies.

The plant was struck by 150 textile workers, mostly women, in July, but has continued in production.

Among those arrested was R. Kent Rowley, national president of the Canadian Textile and Chemical Workers' Union, on a charge of watching and besetting.

The union, which has no affiliation with international unions with similar names, is not a member of the Canadian Labor Congress. Texpack is a wholly-owned subsidiary of American Hospital Supply Inc.

There were no serious injuries Thursday as police, with a standby force of 40 only minutes away, moved into the demonstrators.

Union members from other cities were at the plant Thursday to demonstrate opposition to an injunction which limits pickets. As they grew unruly and began taunting police, Deputy Sheriff George Campbell read the injunction and warned them to disperse by 4 p.m. or be arrested.

At 4:15 p.m., the 46 police moved into the crowd. There were cries of "pigs" as the police moved forward.

Reaction to Youth Report Zeroes in on Legal 'Grass'

By JAMIE UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Most early reaction to the report of the federal committee on youth dealt with only one of its 29 recommendations: The proposal legislation of such cannabis drugs as marijuana and hashish.

Police spokesmen, medical authorities and drug abuse workers joined in disapproval of the proposal, rejecting it at least until more is known about the effects of the drugs. A few civil rights workers supported it.

"It is for the birds," said Manitoba Premier Ed Schreyer.

David Lewis, leader of the federal New Democratic Party, said he believes that possession of marijuana should be removed from the Criminal Code but from reports on the recommendations "it sounds a little wild."

Robert Welch, Ontario minister of education, termed the cannabis recommendation irresponsible.

The Canadian Medical Association opposed the legalization of soft drugs because, it said, not enough is known about their effects.

"It would be tantamount to legalizing ignorance" said Douglas Geekie, CMA director of communications. "We do not yet know the long term effects of these drugs. In fact, research is only just under way on them."

Metropolitan Toronto Police Chief Harold Adamson said he would be opposed to legal marijuana sales even through tightly controlled government outlets.

Jack Webster, acting chief of Winnipeg police, said he disagreed strongly with the recommendations because he knows of 200 young men addicted to hard drugs and "it's safe to say they all started on soft drugs like marijuana."

Similar opposition was expressed by Halifax Police Chief G. O. Robinson, Rev. D. Burton Isaac of Newfoundland's Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Foundation, New Brunswick youth minister, Brenda Robertson, and William Skinner, assistant general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association.

There were two lonely voices in support of the committee's recommendation.

Dr. Reg Robson, president of the B.C. Civil Liberties Association, said that "since there is no evidence of harmful physiological effects, it should be a private matter like the consumption of alcohol or tobacco, which do have harmful effects."

And Rev. Raymond Duncette, research director for the Ontario Separate School Trustees' Association, said that "the sooner they treat marijuana like alcohol the better it will be."

German Ship Is in Trouble In Lake Huron

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — The German-registered vessel Transmichigan today was aground in 23 feet of water in Lake Huron, a half-mile north of here, following a collision with the Brazilian freighter Nebuno.

The United States Coast Guard in Port Huron, Mich., said 42 persons were on board the German vessel, including 11 passengers. There were no injuries. The passengers were taken to a Port Huron motel.

The coast guard was unable to give details of the collision which apparently occurred about 4:30 a.m. on calm waters with a visibility of about 10 miles.

The coast guard said the crew and captain of the 429-foot Transmichigan are still aboard the ship.

Speculators Selling Gold

LONDON (Reuter) — Massive sales of gold by speculators were reported from European bullion markets today while in most centres the dollar was encouraged to cling on to its precarious position.

The price propped 90 cents an ounce.

In Zurich and Amsterdam the dollar was slightly firmer. In Frankfurt its rate was virtually unchanged.

But in London it weakened slightly during early deals and halfway through the morning its sterling rate was being quoted at $2.4747 compared with an opening rate of $2.4745.

The big sell out in the gold markets, which brought prices tumbling down this morning, resulted from speculators being scared off by the increased cost of financing their operations because of the dollar crisis.

Japanese Decide To Let Yen Float

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government will let the yen float on the foreign exchange market beginning Saturday, the finance ministry announced today.

The government's action, after two weeks of trying to hold the yen to parity of 360 to the U.S. dollar, was a major victory for President Nixon's program to put the U.S. trade balance back into the black.

The yen, which was considerably undervalued, was the chief target of Nixon's announcement Aug. 15 suspending the gold standard and putting a supplementary levy of up to 10 per cent on dutiable imports into the United States.

Finance Minister Mikio Mizuta said the floating the yen—allowing it to find its own rate according to the demand and supply—would be temporary.

Tadashi Sasaki, governor of the Bank of Japan, said in a statement that if the yen's margin of fluctuation against the dollar becomes too large, the central bank will buy dollars to stabilize the rate.

The Bank of Japan has bought about $4 billion in the last two weeks to keep the value of the yen down.

The government feared that increasing the value of the yen would cut into Japanese exports and have a deflationary effect that would intensify the sluggishness of the economy. But the pressure from abroad, and particularly the spectre of the 10-per-cent U.S. import charge, outweighed arguments in favor of standing fast.

Floating Yen May Help Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian goods which were competitive with Japanese exports in the United States now may be able to regain their position, an informant said today.

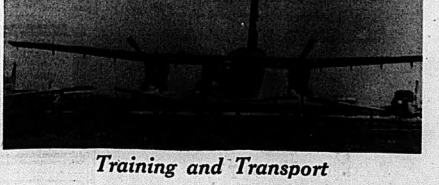
This is the likely result of Japan's decision to let the yen float in international exchange markets. But the extent of the improved climate for Canadian exports will not be known until foreign exchange trading settles down to the new situation next week.

Canada Is Given Little Hope

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was expected to get little encouragement today when a second delegation to Washington reports on its attempt to get a general exemption for Canada from a recently-imposed 10-per-cent supplementary duty on imports to the United States.

The first trade mission delegation spent four hours in conference with U.S. economic and trade officials in Washington. the Canadian government continued telling producers and manufacturers what the 10-per-cent charge could mean domestically.

Early in the week the agriculture department detailed products that could be hurt by the surcharge. This amounted the products worth $218 million of $300 million in Canadian agricultural exports, based on 1970 figures.



Thursday the trade department circulated a list of manufactured items that could suffer under the additional tax, noting half of Canada's annual $10 billion in exports to the U.S. and $2.8 billion will be adversely affected by being automatically 10 per cent more costly on the U.S. market.

The supplementary duty was imposed as part of an extensive economic policy revision by the U.S. Aug. 15. But while other aspects of the revision—wage and price freezes—were to be of 90-day duration, there was no announced limit to the duration of the duty.

Finance Minister E. J. Benson said in Washington last week Canada could not wait any lengthy period for a U.S. decision, but Thursday his deputy finance minister, Thursday said in Washington:

"I imagine there'll be a need for further discussions, maybe in Ottawa or else back here."

The best he could offer after the unusually-long meeting was that Canada was able to create a better understanding of its problems with the U.S. officials, adding that no resolution of the problem had been expected immediately.

Residential Planning

Belleville's Rezoning Problems Passed on to Quinte Area Board

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

True to predictions made yesterday, Belleville and Suburban Planning Board last night passed a motion to forward a planning staff report on the residential chapter of the proposed official plan on Belleville's housing needs and an accompanying rezoning bylaw, to the Quinte Planning Board.

Both Zdenek Kvarda, chairman of the board and Belleville Alderman E. Arnold Orr, vice - chairman of the Quinte board, expressed grave doubts that the tri-municipality board would give sanction to the housing proposal plan originally tabled in late June.

The board voted to forward the report without any restrictions, despite a move by Mr. Orr to initiate a temporary apartment construction ban, so that vested "interests should be protected." To protect the housing interests of present residents, Mr. Orr said such a freeze would provide the board with "breathing time."

He said such a move would be "no particular hardship on one group," referring to builders who have been seekiffi approval for apartment construction.

Mayor J. Russell Scott, ex-officio member of the board, told representatives that he's been negotiating with financial investment companies for mortgage funds to encourage housing development in the city.

Referring to any type of restrictive zoning, Dr. Scott said, "this would be the end of mortgage dollars in the area. They (mortgage and investment companies) are looking for a way to cut us off. All they have to do is read it in the paper and that'll be that."

Dr. Scott made this statement in reference to a recommendation by planning director Bert Kenny.

In his staff report, Mr. Kenny advised the board to "recommend to city council that By-law 6495 be amended by the addition of the words 'dwelling' as a permitted use from the "R" district."

He further recommended that the Ontario Municipal Board give temporary approval to such an amending bylaw for a period of at least a year in order to permit the completion of the total plan for the Belleville and Suburban Area."

Dr. Scott termed this proposal a "negative approach".

Planning director for both boards, Mr. Kenny defended his position, reporting the most pressing problem to the community is the oversupply of zoned land permitting multiple housing in the built-up portions of what he referred to as "the old city".

The report reads: "this zoning with its inherent lack of control, is permitting indiscriminate redevelopment of scattered parcels containing small housing for apartments ranging from small six-unit buildings to large high-rise apartment buildings.

"It is difficult to judge what the ultimate damage may be to the residential community if this practice is permitted to continue, but there is no doubt that the assembly of these areas will be adversely affected."

A second problem mentioned in the report is that of scattered, strip residential development occurring in the township.

The report recommended township committees of adjustment attempt to eliminate this urban sprawl.

Board member Horace Knight agreed with Sidney Township Reeve Jack Rush that such development has virtually ground to a standstill in the past five years.

Mr. Knight said the department of municipal affairs have inadequate, if non existent homes. "We're almost forcing them to quit their jobs and go on relief so that they can get housing," he said.

Mr. Casey, representing the rural approach tendered at several hearings held over a period of weeks to glean public reaction to the residential plan, doesn't feel the answer to the problem of housing shortages in Belleville should be dealt with by restrictions.

"When I hear of housing shortages in Belleville, I wonder what we should do about when we bring out a plan where all housing and residential development in Thurlow and Sidney would be frozen."

"There's lots of land out there for people to live . . . lots of room for everybody," he said, and I don't think there's any reason why they shouldn't have this chance."

The planning board, which turned over the reins of area planning to the QPB, also voted to forward all correspondence requesting zoning amendments and all reports to public meetings dealing with the residential chapter, to the next meeting of the municipality's board.

Information taken from this correspondence and minutes of the public hearings, conclude that city residents are in favor of the residential chapter and desire immediate action to prohibit any further apartment construction in the built - up residential portions of the old city.

On the rural scene, however, planning staff report that township residents consider the plan to be premature until some definite decision is made on servicing and until some sort of committment is made that will assure no future annexations by the city. Township residents consider the plan far too restrictive with respect to residential development and the rural development areas and consider the estate residential standards to be discriminatory and impractical.

This latter standard calls for development of not less than 2¼-acres of land with no less than homes totalling 1,800 square feet.

Chairman Says Board's Demise Not as Smoothly as Possible

The entire staff of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board last night resigned en masse.

However, this move was simply a formality marking the end of 24 years of the board's existance.

Founded on May 28, 1947, the Belleville Planning Board as it was known then, had as its first chairman, J. J. Trudeau. Their first planning director, John Beavis, was appointed in 1963 and succeeded by present director Bert Kenny in 1968.

The entire staff has been hired effective Aug. 31 by the Quinte Planning Board, which will co-ordinate planning for the municipalities of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Brighton, Frankford, and the townships of Sidney, Thurlow, Brighton and Murray, as of Sept. 1.

Although the Belleville board has yet to be officially dissolved by the department of municipal affairs, they are now without a staff and exist, as stated by chairman Zdenek Kvarla, as "a dead board with a name only."

Members at last night's final meeting of the board, expressed dissatisfaction with the Ontario government's delay in dissolving the board especially with the staff worrying two hats; that of attempting to continue with present work and the job of organizing the new Quinte board.

Mr. Kvarda said he was "disappointed with the method of takeover of the Quinte Planning Board."

He said "there hasn't been consultation with the (Belleville) board and this placed us in an embarrassing, position. "We've been forced to dissolve the board with work still left to complete."

The board chairman referred to these methods as "chaotic."

In a statement yesterday, Mr. Kvarda said he was a "little peeved at the municipal affairs department."

He felt the department didn't really "give a damn," that there has been "no cooperation between them, the residents or the Quinte Planning Board," commenting that the idea of forming an area board has been a neglected child of the province.

Board member Horace Knight of Sidney Township said he would have "liked to have seen things in a little better shape, but it just didn't work out."

Mayor J. Russell Scott suggested all municipalities involved in the area board, follow Belleville's example of appointing a planning committee to deal with local, current planning problems. These committees would take care of the bread and butter jobs, with special recommendations affecting the entire area, to be forwarded to the Quinte Board as a whole. These committees would be made of two members representing their respective municipalities.

Committee and board members from Belleville are, Dr. J. Russell Scott, Jack A. Ireland, Mrs. Robin Jeffrey, Arnold Orr, E. Arnold Orr, vice - chairman of the Quinte board, and Paul D. Russell.

Belleville and Suburban Planning Board members took the opportunity last night to express appreciation for the work of staff and fellow members.

Retiring representatives are: Chairman Zdenek Kvarda, E. A. Orr, Dr. John Stock, Mrs. Margaret Orr, Horace Casey, Douglas S. McLean, Clayton Hall, Jack M. Bush, Ernest J. Kells and Horace Knight.

Resurfacing Causes Problems

Drivers have been requested to avoid the bridge section of Bridge Street while city workmen finish application of fresh asphalt. Yesterday, a mile-long traffic jam on North Front Street resulted from tieups due to resurfacing on Canniffon Road. Police expect these jobs to be complete by today. In the meantime, traffic flows on Bridge Street are controlled by flagman Gordon Green of the city public works department.

Paving, Accidents Snarl Traffic

Resurfacing of city streets is nothing new, but coupled with rush-hour traffic, greasy roads caused by afternoon rain, and an ensuing traffic jam, police report seven minor accidents during a 20-minute, mile-long pileup of cars.

Drivers found cars backed up for a mile on North Front Street, from College Street to the Highway 401 overpass. At the same time, automobiles were delayed on Pinnacle Street, and Station Street, while city workmen resurfaced Canniffon Road.

"They were backed up in all directions," noted Chief Douglas Crosbie this morning.

He said the afternoon problem was the result of a vicious circle. The traffic jam was caused by reconstruction; the accidents were caused by the traffic jam; and collisions were aided by greasy road surfaces brought about by rain.

Chief Crosbie said reconstruction of Canniffon Road would be completed today, as well as the surface of the Bridge Street bridge. Work on Victoria Avenue has been completed.

Trenton to Get New CN Station

TRENTON (Staff) — Canadian National Railways announced today it will replace the old station structure at Trenton Junction with a new aluminum and glass - faced structure early in 1972.

In making the announcement, Rideau Area Manager, George A. Van de Water, said he expects the new $30,000 Trenton station to be in operation by mid - summer of next year following demolition of the present building.

Trenton's 'ultra - modern station will have an enclosed waiting hall and washroom facilities but ticketing will be done once passengers board the train.

The CN planning package also calls for a new platform and set of steps down to the station parking lot from the elevated platform level.

Mayor Duncan McDonald expressed delight at the news today, saying "we are happy as larks about it and thank local CN officials for their efforts."

In late 1970, council had lodged formal complaints with the railway over the derelict state of Trenton's station and platform.

"This new station will certainly erase the criticisms and give us something to be proud of," said the mayor, who is a senior CP Rail em- ...here.

Parks to Study Trailer Camp

City Parks Director Lloyd Syer will investigate the possibility of setting up a trailer park in Belleville.

At Thursday's meeting of the board members asked that the director obtain a summary of the grant structure for community-owned trailer parks, determine the availability of city-owned land for the purpose and report back to the board in time for consideration of costs in next year's budget.

Alderman Donald Soutter said a one-time grant of up to $100,000 was available to Belleville for development of a swimming beach and/or trailer park.

He said the city had requested the money and some, but not all the grant, would be used for development of a swimming beach on recently acquired park area on the west bank of the Moira River south of Highway 401.

He said the unused balance of the grant could conceivably be used for development of a trailer park.

Board chairman Ald. Paul Rusell observed, however, that a trailer park could not be developed on the west river bank park land which was purchased with the aid of a provincial grant through the Moira River Conservation Authority. Provincial legislation rules out trailer camps on conservation land.

The possibility of using city-owned bayfront property will be considered by Mr. Syer as a trailer park site.

A request for consideration of a trailer park was made to city council last week by the Trent Centennial Trailer Club and was referred to the city parks board.

Motorcycle Races Sept. 12 To Go on As Scheduled

West Hill residents living in the vicinity of the fairgrounds will have to put up with the noise annoyance of Sunday motorcycle races for at least one more time this year.

This was the decision yesterday of city parks board members following receipt of a complaint from a Ritchie Ave. resident who in a letter to city council in July protested against the Sunday bike races held on July 4.

The letter writer said the Sunday races were a breach of the peace and very undesirable in a residential area.

But the parks board contracted with the sponsors of the motorcycle races at the beginning of summer for another Sunday event on Sept. 12 and board members noted nothing could be done this year.

It was said that Sunday sports events were now legal under provincial law and a large number of residents favored this sort of entertainment.

At the same time board member Robert Phillips said he had expected complaints about the Sunday racing.

The board directed that a letter be forwarded to the there was nothing the Parks Board could do about the upcoming Sept. 12 date but the complainant pointing out that matter would be rvviewed next year.

Also at yesterday's meeting parks board members voted to grant use of the fairgrounds on the evening of Sept. 9 for a Canadian Daredevils' show.

Board Still Interested In East Zwick's Purchase

The question of outright purchase of the bayfront sanitary land fill property known as East Zwick's Island, as opposed to long term lease is under consideration by the Belleville Parks Board.

The East Zwick's Island property used until recently by the city as a sanitary land fill garbage disposal area is owned by the Federal department of transport and is leased by the city for $100 per year.

However, the city parks board has long range development plans for the East Zwick's property as a parks and recreational complex and there is a suggestion that the city purchase the area instead of continuing to lease.

Accordingly the harbor commission is arranging for an appraisal of the property to determine its market value.

Thursday Parks Board chairman Ald .Paul Russell was appointed by the board to meet with city harbor master Donald Barrett to discuss possible purchase details of the bayfront property.

We Need Each Other

A letter on this page today expresses concern about those pesky economic moves of the United States and the fallout in Canada resulting from this country's perennial dependence on our big southern neighbor.

But how puny are we to find ourselves in any situation other than dependence, to one degree or another, on the U.S? The fact that we have sovereignty over our own territory is one thing, but without the very considerable American financing of our commercial enterprises, without this kind of investment, where would we be?

Look at the car industry for one, and the auto pact which works very favorably for Canada, in the manufacture and distribution of cars which originate on U.S. drawing boards. There is no native Canadian car industry per se, no horseless carriage we can call our very own — like the Australian Holden which though a General Motors product, is of domestic design and manufacture.

Or the aircraft industry which produces no truly Canadian commercial jets. Thus, as is the case with most of the western world, Canadians get from A to B in U.S. Boeing 707s, 747s (jumbos) and Douglas DC-8s, along with the British Viscounts and Vanguards.

Those are prime examples, but throughout the economy there is the hand of U.S. investment and technical know-how. Take that away and we might as well go back to hewing wood and drawing water. If we are doing that in a metaphorical sense today it would be for real given a complete withdrawal of U.S. influence in this country.

Are there any alternatives? More investment from say Britain and Japan (which incidentally, has a growing hand on the economic tiller in British Columbia). If we cast off American economic shackles what about investment from these two countries? What about Sweden, which also has automotive stakes in Canada, as well as in the pulp and paper industry.

To a large extent then we are dependent on each other. No man and no country is an island in the economic sense. We may strive to increase our Canadianism, producing Canadian products and so on, but to shake off completely the necessary investment and expertise of the United States and other countries is to contemplate economic suicide.

Obsolescence Costly

The white paper on defence released in recent days illustrates the high cost of obsolescence. Although ten years have elapsed since the politically astute over the Bomarc missile it is still fresh in mind.

The potential efficacy of the Bomarc was suspect even ten years ago, following a checkered program of development, and their deterrent value up there in the North Bay silos is about as significant as so many white elephants.

The missiles are to be sent back to the United States. Will the Americans buy them back . . . well now there is an interesting question. And what price would they put on them today?

Some other tattered symbols of our defensive hardware's obsolescence: reference in a report of the white paper's provisions to Canada's "aging fleet of Centurions," a heavy British tank which Defence Minister Macdonald is contemplating replacing with the light, air transportable, Scorpion . . . mention too of the air arm's "somewhat long-in-the-tooth Argus" maritime patrol plane.

And so it goes. Change and decay in all around we see. Ottawa will buy replacement aircraft, or as in the case of the Argus maybe equip it with more modern detection systems, more ground weaponry as well, and ten years from now it will all be so much junk too.

Catch Those Tourists

A melancholy sight in summer days now declining are U.S. and other visitors driving through without stopping, like ships that pass in the night. We would like to see more touristic-attracting imagery on the main routes into town, signs indicating places of interest, perhaps a little descriptive matter, but certainly something new and bold and arresting. Such signs should draw attention to the city's shopping facilities, our community plants and their products, hotels, motels, restaurants, schools, places of entertainment and so on. As things are, even with Belleville's improving potential we have got to present the whole package with the kind of outdoor advertising expertise people can see as they drive along. This too is the kind of thing the Bay of Quinte Regional Tourist Council should be thinking of doing with the $5,000 it received recently from the department of tourism and information in association with locally-raised funds.

School—Job—Retirement Life Schedule Under Scrutiny

By KEN PRITCHARD

NEW YORK (CP) — Has "time," romanticized by poets, caressed by philosophers, belabored by economists, become anathema?

Do you, too, wonder what to do with it?

"Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of." The words are Benjamin Franklin's, in Maxims prefixed to Poor Richard's Almanac, 1757.

For many North Americans the advice has become increasingly difficult to follow.

On one hand is the so-called Protestant ethic, which holds that work is good for soul. On the other is the steady march of technology, which has reduced the work week for employees to five days, for some to four days and even, experimentally, to three days.

Travel has boomed, industries catering to man's leisure-time activities are among the fastest growing. But many an employee remains dissatisfied. He can't square his ingrained aversion to time-wasting with all those hours he spends before a television set.

"The Americans are a queer people; they can't rest," Canadian humorist Stephen Leacock once said.

But man's use of time can be recordered. And Dr. Robert Butler, a psychiatrist and gerontologist in Washington, D.C., suggests how.

Dr. Butler derides the standard education-work-retirement cycle of man's life. He would replace it with school-work-temporary retirement, more work, more work—perhaps in an entirely new field—and a combination of the cycle as long as desired. This, says the psychiatrist, would produce lifelong spiritual, psychological and mental growth, filling man's need for surges of creativity interspersed with periods of regeneration.

Some beginnings have been made toward improving man's work satisfactions. Job enrichment studies have led some firms to end deadening, assembly-line procedures by combining tasks so that a worker makes a recognizable product for which he has responsibility and in which he can take pride. Other firms are relieving monotony by switching assignments around.

Some companies are sending workers to school, to create more valuable employees.

The Conference Board in New York City reports that hundreds of corporations now sponsor tuition-aid plans and fellowships, seeking to keep employees abreast of the knowledge explosion.

But, since the employee is expected to return to the company that pays for his sabbatical, these plans do not go as far as Dr. Butler's proposals.

Pension plans are often the main deterrent to a series of school-work-retirement episodes in one man's career. Complete portability of pension credits is the answer, although statisticians still say the idea is actually unsound. Some thought now is being given to portability of pensions within entire industries.

Time should not hang heavily on the hands of a person faced with the possibility of several careers. His leisure time would become his stepping stone to his next job.

Sydney, N.S. Affair

No Police—and City Went Berserk

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

Logically society should someday evolve to the point where people are so well-behaved and self-disciplined that there is little need for police. But it is quite apparent that such is far from the case today.

It is bad enough that looting and lawlessness should exist in areas of civil unrest such as Ulster. But when the same thing happens in a quiet Canadian city such as Sydney, N.S., it is little short of shocking.

We would like to think that it couldn't happen here in Cornwall. But if our local police force went on strike — not that it is likely to do so in the immediate future, at least — the situation would be potentially more dangerous than that at Sydney. The proximity to Montreal and its gangster element would spell the difference.

Sydney is a city of 33,000, somewhat smaller than Cornwall, but its police force of 35 parallels that of this city. It is a city which has had an enviable lack of serious crime over the years. Yet when the police sat down and refused to cover all calls except those "where danger to human life is involved," the city apparently went off its proverbial rocker.

Mobsters turned Sydney's streets into drag strips and 19 people were hurt as a result. Alcohol was consumed openly in public, windows were broken, stores looted sand large gangs of young people roamed the streets.

Canada's Economic Dependence Implicit in U.S. Measures.

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

President Nixon's move to control America's widening balance of payments gap has set the money markets of the world into near panic.

While economists and financial experts in all corners of the globe ponder the effect and long term implications average men women remain frightened and bewildered by the complexities of the situation.

Harassed by world opinion on the Vietnam war, plagued by a multitude of internal social problems, the colossus of the capitalist world has further alienated her position among friends and supporters in the Western block.

Unequivocal faith in the invulnerability of the almighty American dollar has been reinforced by uncertainty, apprehension and anger. At home organized labor castigates the President's move, abroad the mutterings for retaliation are rising in volume. Whatever the ultimate outcome it is difficult not to foresee very serious repercussions on the Canadian economy.

With American investment controlling much of our resources and many of our industries, perhaps the government of this country can now be persuaded as to the folly of allowing industrialist handover to American capital of the birthright of all Canadians.

It seems obvious that our deep commitments in the areas of trade, and our policy of inviting almost unrestricted investment in Canadian industry and commerce may well now work to our detriment. Now that the chips are down, the supine posture adopted by our financial delegation, in begging, cap in hand for favors, indicates the vulnerability of our position.

General de Gaulle clearly recognized the inherent dangers of allowing American economic domination of France, and Canada, if she is ever to be free and independent in the true sense must shake off the financial shackles binding her to the U.S.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

Frontenac County Jail

Kingston Whig-Standard

The Frontenac County Jail, which dates back to 1860, was closed when the Quinte Regional Detention Centre at Napanee opened. No decisions regarding the future of the old jail have been made yet, but the idea has been suggested as a possible location for a county court house parking lot. We believe it is much more thought should be given to the matter.

As a recent letter to the editor pointed out, "In this city, the preservation of any limestone structure must take precedence over the creation of a parking lot. The highest possible level of imagination and resourcefulness should be brought to bear to discover new uses for old buildings." Our correspondent, Mr. Peter Lederman, went on to say: "The court house, registry office and jail buildings form an attractive and impressive complex: each element of this complex complements the other. Without the jail buildings, the total visual effect would be diminished."

This is an argument worth considering. We note that recently Kingston's architectural review committee toured the jail and decided that it was not worth preserving. Perhaps, as committee chairman Mrs. Margaret Angus suggests, there is "no reasonable use" to which the structure could be put. But have all possibilities been examined thoroughly? The jail may not be a potential tourist attraction, but does this mean that it has no architectural value or significance whatsoever?

Neither Frontenac County nor the City of Kingston can possibly preserve every old building, but the Frontenac County jail is part of a complex of limestone buildings. County Clerk John Taylor has said that the jailer's house and the outer stone walls may be preserved, but the decision to preserve the house will depend on an architect's report on the cost of renovations.

We believe that if, after further study, the jail is still considered not worth saving, strong efforts must be made to preserve at least the stone walls and, hopefully, the jailer's house as well. With stone walls intact it would be most attractive parking lot in the city —one where the cars are hidden.

Parking Meter Ruse

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

It's almost impossible to credit, but then anything sometimes seems possible for the Toronto municipal administration.

The reported consideration of a plastic device to prevent the motorist feeding beer once time is left on a parking meter is deserving of total condemnation. Its approval would surely doom any city government, even in Toronto.

One of the little joys which helps alleviate the pressures of urban living, than which none is more annoying than the need to fork out more than necessary for parking, is the discovery of a meter with some time unexpired.

What is wrong, the harried citizen might complain, with accepting a boon from a fellow citizen who didn't need all the meter time he bought and left it for someone else?

But at least some people in Toronto city hall would deny him this privilege and force him to pay for time still left on a meter as well as the additional time he might need.

What the city would be doing, in effect, would be hoping to make something like time and a half for its parking spaces.

In this part of Ontario we should still be able to count on the good sense and generosity of our civic leaders to refuse to go this far in mercenary madness.

Fort Frontenac, now Kingston, Ont., was captured and destroyed by the British 213 years ago today —in 1758—when it was an important defended post on the fur trade. The site of the present city was picked by Lasalle in 1673 and the great explorer was made commandant of the camp. In 1783 the site was reoccupied by United Empire Loyalists from New York State and was named Kingston, probably in honor of King George III. It later became the chief naval base on Lake Ontario.

Nixon Brings Element of Toughness to Dealings with Allies

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Nixon, in his new proposals for relief of the United States dollar in the international monetary system, has brought a new element of toughness into his dealings with the Western allies which could revolutionize the U.S. role in the world.

The president has put it bluntly to the Western European partners and hopes that he is no longer content to see the United States shouldering what he regards as an unfair burden in the world, at the expense of the U.S. economy.

Dispensing with any prior consultations, the president forthrightly served notice that he wanted the other industrialised non-Communist powers to co-operate in revising the international monetary system because that the dollar's position was improved without a formal declaration of devaluation and the U.S. given an equal chance in world trade.

He put direct pressure on Japan and some of the European nations to revalue their currencies upwards—thereby, in effect, devaluing the dollar—by suspending convertibility of the dollar into gold. He also announced that for a temporary and indefinite period all imports would be subject to a 10-per-cent supplementary duty.

Diplomatic observers believe that Nixon's aim was to force the allies into accepting the fact that millions of Americans feel their country is being what one columnist called "Uncle Sugar to much of the rest of the world."

In Nixon's view, shared by many Americans, it now is time to look at problems more in terms of purely U.S. national interest in the monetary as well as the political and defence fields.

This is in line with the Nixon Doctrine which the president first outlined on the island of Guam in 1969. In broad terms this looked to a reduction of the U.S. defence effort in the world in favor of greater responsibility on the part of countries allied with the U.S.

A climate of opinion has been building for some years—and has been brought into sharper focus by the Vietnam war—that the U.S. has borne more than its fair share in keeping world order, maintaining free trade and trying to improve international standards of living.

Many Americans find it irritating that, having helped the defeated countries of Germany and Japan back on their feet" after the Second World War, the U.S. now has to compete with them in world markets on sometimes disadvantageous terms.

The approval given at home to the president's new international policy suggests that even the interventionists of the 1940s now favor a more restricted U.S. world role in the 1970s.

For the last two years, the president has been appealing for a new global partnership to which others would provide their resources and energies as well as the United States.

Signs are that his determination to try to bring that about has grown stronger in the last six months. The reason may be that he has a new principal adviser at his side in the tough-talking resolute Texan, Treasury Secretary John Connally.

Nixon so far has resolutely opposed any large reduction of U.S. forces in Europe on the ground that this can only come as part of a negotiated mutual and balanced reduction of forces with the Soviet Union.

But Connally is known to feel strongly that the European allies should bear more of the cost of Western defence.

Any reluctance by Western Europe to accommodate the United States in its desire to see a new international monetary system more favorable to the U.S. might result in a recommendation to the president by Connally that he take some tough retaliatory measures in connection with the troop issue.

Apps Among Opponents Of Legalized Hashish

TORONTO (CP) — Legalizing the use of marijuana now could lead to another thalidomide disaster, a spokesman for the Council on Drug Abuse said Thursday.

Nick Leluk, commenting on a federal committee proposal to legalize the drug, said too little is known of marijuana's long-term effects.

"We don't want a recurrence of the thalidomide situation. Only after thousands of deformed babies were born in North America did we learn about the drug."

Gerald Le Dain, Osgoode Hall law dean who heads the Le Dain commission on the non-medical use of drugs in Canada, declined comment until the final report of his own inquiry is made public this fall.

Sylvanus Apps, Ontario minister of correctional services who headed a provincial government committee on youth a few years ago, said he was opposed to making the drug legal.

"In my opinion it would be dangerous to legalize the drug before we have all the facts about it before us."

Similar comments were made by Dr. Lionel Soloush, who was chairman of the Canadian Medical Association committee on drug use, Dr. Wilfrid Boothroyd, senior medical officer of research of the Ontario Addiction Research Foundation, and Peter Turner, president of Toronto's experimental Rochdale College.

But Rev. Raymond Durocher, research director for the Ontario Separate School Trustees Association, welcomed the proposal.

"The sooner they treat marijuana like alcohol, the better it will be," he said.

The Better Half — By Bob Barnes

Liberal Urges Freeze On Size of Work Force

JARVIS, Ont. (CP) — An Ontario Liberal government would retaliate against new United States import duties by compelling American-owned subsidiaries exporting to the U.S. to freeze their work forces, party leader Robert Nixon said Thursday night.

Mr. Nixon said he would impose emergency legislation so that Ontario workers could not be dismissed without direct appeal to the labor minister.

"Just as the American president required a wage freeze, the same freeze would be applied to all U.S. controlled operations in Ontario to protect the workers and their jobs."

In a speech to the Haldimand-Norfolk Liberal Association, Mr. Nixon said another Liberal "stop-gap" measure to cope with the 10 per-cent supplementary duty would be to grant a 13 per cent tax credit to Canadian-controlled Ontario companies exporting to the U.S.

To aid individual exporters, such as farmers, Mr. Nixon proposed an emergency tax fund for the 90 days the U.S. trade measures are in effect.

Mr. Nixon said the U.S. policies will seriously hurt Ontario's $159 million food export industry.

He said Bradford, a centre of the province's food export industry, appears to have lost a third to a half of its total market in the United States.

Mr. Nixon said Ottawa Rivet Veneer Co., employing 40 persons, has ceased production, and Jax Mold and Machine of Simcoe faces a $10,000 a month bill to maintain its $100,000 monthly U.S. export program.

Text of his remarks were released prior to delivery.

Committee on Youth Report:

Radical Youth Charter Or $500,000 Mistake?

OTTAWA (CP) — The long-awaited report of the federal committee on youth was poised Thursday between a future as a radical charter for Canadian young people and the political oblivion reserved for $500,000 misunderstandings.

The two years of spadework that went into the report showed up in sections dealing with education and unemployment among youth.

But the decision of the three-man committee to take a stand in favor of legalizing of marijuana attracted the most attention when the report was released.

At a news conference shortly after, committee chairman David Hunter, a 28-year-old Toronto sociologist, frankly admitted the government will be unlikely to accept all of the 29 groups of recommendations contained in the report.

Support for the view was provided almost immediately by several government departments and agencies.

In a statement acknowledging receipt of the report, State Secretary Gerard Pelletier thanked the committee for its work and pointedly noted that it had been an independent inquiry.

Defence Minister Donald Macdonald was quick to challenge a recommendation that Canada's military colleges be turned over to civilian control.

The minister also criticized the report's claim that cadet programs are out-dated and its recommendation that the estimated $10 million a year now spend on them be diverted to new social development programs.

Dal Brodhead, executive director of the Company of Young Canadians, took exception to a recommendation that the newly-reorganized agency be disbanded.

From outside government circles, meanwhile, a spokesman for the Canadian Medical Association ridiculed the recommendation on marijuana and hashish as "tantamount to legalizing ignorance."

At the centre was the 218-page report entitled "It's Your Turn, available to the public through Information Canada at $2.50 a copy.

The book was described by its authors—Mr. Hunter, Toronto lawyer Vincent Kelly, 33, and Montreal sociologist Pierre Bourdon, 28—as the product of a massive collaboration with 10,000 of the more than four million Canadians between 15 and 24 whose ideas and interests were canvassed and assessed in the project.

Also incorporated were detailed population studies indicating that the higher-than-average unemployment rate endemic among youth for the last 20 years may be pointing to a social crisis.

The prospects for employment for males in the 15-24 age group are seen as particularly grim. Under-educated, unskilled, inexperienced or all three, the male youths will face increasing competition for jobs from older, experienced workers, the growing number of women in the work force and the generation just behind them.

To deal with what it portrays as a bleak, possibly insoluble, problem the report recommends creation of a youth employment directorate.

Among other things, the directorate would ensure that existing grams take into account and investigate the special unemployment problems of youth and would initiate its own programs to provide jobs.

In a more general view, the report finds "an open breach of confidence between adults and youth."

Canadian young people, it says, "show every indication of joining the great refusal taking place throughout the world."

"Their confidence in the existing order is being undermined on two fronts: Not only are they forced intellectually to challenge many of the values inherent in our society, but also the traditional motives or incentives for participation in the system are increasingly unavailable."

Canadian youth, the report confidently asserts, are readily entering the counter-culture labelled in the U.S. by author Charles Reich as Consciousness Three.

In response, the report proposes to the government a program arbitrarily entitled P2.

P2 appears as a tentative blueprint for the much-dis-ing and future government programs, often-vague concept of participatory democracy.

Granting that the eventual goals may be Utopian, the report proposes that existing programs for summer student employment and travel, including the Opportunities for Youth program, the CYC and other initiatives be included in P2.

Envisioned is a panel of five regional agencies and one national agency to provide services and support to social development projects conceived in local community assemblies.

A key characteristic of the local assemblies is that they would bring together young and older citizens to make decisions affecting their lives—a distinct alternative to the technocratic structure of modern society, the report maintains.

The report, however, isolates the drug issue as a central cause of dispute between young people and their elders. Tackling the issue head on, it at least does not fudge in its conclusions.

"Drug laws as they stand are ineffective," it states.

"Logically, it is difficult to understand how a society, successful at suppressing the use of drugs such as tobacco, alcohol and chemicals by its members, can hope to erase the use of soft drugs now so popular with, and available to, such a large number of its population."

Medical studies on the effects of marijuana are far from conclusive, the report claims, adding that "the most reliable studies show it is not physically addictive."

Cannabis sales should be regulated and controlled by the government, it adds.

More specific, perhaps less ambitious, recommendations include proposals that:

—The federal and provincial governments co-operate in an independent study of the goals and methods of Canadian education, complete with projections of developments to the end of the century;

—A federal program be introduced to advise welfare recipients of their rights and that provincial and municipal authorities be encouraged to take fuller advantage of the Canada Assistance Program "particularly in terms of the potential it offers for programs aimed at young people";

—The Canada Council expand assistance for cultural and artistic experiments by and for young people;

—The federal government seriously consider creation of permanent sites for Summer and Winter Games and also develop as soon as possible a non-competitive parallel to its current fitness and amateur sport program.

The report also reviews the contributions of voluntary associations, cautioning that support too often goes to those adult-led groups—the Boy Scouts of Canada and the YW-YMCA as examples—which have developed successful lobbying techniques.

"Canadian Theatre Is an Exciting Vital Force"

By SUSAN KORAH
Women's Reporter

"Canadian theatre is an exciting, vital force" said Mrs. Marian Wilson, well known in Belleville and outside for her deep and abiding interest in the arts, particularly in the field of drama. "It will make its contribution to the future of the country, stimulating all Canadians in that national pride which appeared in the Centennial year and which must continue to be maintained."

Mrs. Wilson obviously practises what she preaches for she devotes an amazing amount of time, energy and intellectual effort to the development of Canadian theatre and to the presentation of its history.

Just back from a summer course at the Harvard Institute of Arts Administration, she bubbles over with freshly stimulated enthusiasm, new ideas, plans and projects.

Relaxing over coffee in an attractive, sunlit room in her Bridge Street home with glass doors exposing the rich green of the lawn outside, she chatted about the course and how it broadened her knowledge and understanding of theatre. This in turn she said is helping her with another project she has been engaged in since 1967. With the aid of a Canada Council Grant, she is doing intensive research on the history of Canadian theatre. Out of this research says Mrs. Wilson will come a book on the history of the Dominion Drama Festival or Theatre Canada as it's called now, a bi-lingual and bi-cultural institution which has done invaluable service in fostering a national theatre in Canada.

Elaborating on her summer session at Harvard, which is just another landmark in the course of a distinguished career that includes years of service to the theatre in many capacities, she explained that it was an intensive program to provide individuals with skills in management and problem-solving relevant to administering arts organizations such as Arts Councils, theatre guilds and ballet companies. The goal she said was to understand the fundamentals of managing, as distinct from performing in arts organizations. Out of the total of 115 graduates so far, four are Canadians, she reports.

This year's group included people from various parts of the world and visiting lecturers included experts from the Arts Council of Great Britain, Sweden's cultural department and the Rockefeller foundation. Some of the highlights of the course were field trips organized by class members, including one to Stratford.

MARIAN WILSON...

...here from Boston to the Boston Centre for the Arts, the Cambridge Arts Centre and the Berkshire Arts Festival.

Asked if she had any specific new ideas for Belleville she said that one of her hopes and dreams is to see a cultural centre in Belleville along the same lines as the Midland Arts Centre in Birmingham, England which offers facilities for community participation in every artistic field from paintings and ceramics to ballet. She said she would also like to see the Quinte Arts Council of which she was the founding-president, expanding its services. As a result of her course, she has been invited to give some lectures at La Proudmere, the Montreal International Theatre.

All this should immerse Mrs. Wilson more deeply than ever in the world of theatre. Her research project involves travelling from coast to coast, visiting all the regional theatres each of which operates differently, interviewing the survivors among the 69 founding members of the Dominion Drama Festival and collecting anecdotes about theatre. As chairman of the archives committee of the Dominion Drama Festival, she takes very seriously the task of collecting and organizing all available material on the history of the festival. The book will be published during the 40th anniversary year of the festival.

A number of things have already been accomplished because of her research. Interviews with theatre pioneers have been taped and preserved for future reference. Contact has been established between public archives and regional theatres so that their histories will be recorded on microfilm.

Mrs. Wilson also feels that special archivists have been made aware of the importance of preserving the history of local communities' theatres and that the groundwork has been laid for making these records accessible for future students of theatre history and the social history of Canada. Her studies have also stimulated other publishers to undertake similar tasks.

"There is still no comprehensive publication about the history of English theatre in Canada. Certainly there are some works on French theatre history," she points out.

Her eyes take on a starry look as she obviously thinks of new tasks ahead, fresh fields to conquer . . . Mrs. Marian Wilson is certainly not resting on her laurels and has not been just sitting pretty since she won Belleville's first cultural award in 1969.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH EDWARD LaPALM

LaPalm – Barlow

Rev. Peter Tett officiated at the wedding ceremony in St. Thomas Anglican Church, Belleville, when Mary Elizabeth Barlow daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Barlow of Corbyville was united in marriage to Kenneth Edward LaPalm, son of Mrs. Berenice M. LaPalm of Belleville and the late Mr. Kenneth P. LaPalm. Donald Davenport rendered traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Robert Reid.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of peau de soie with the empire bodice featuring a wedding band collar and full bishop sleeves trimmed with Alencon lace entwined with white velvet ribbon. The same trim was carried out down the front of the gown and bordered the hemline. The skirt of the gown flowed into a graceful self attached train with similar trimming. Her headpiece was a cluster of white orange blossoms with stamins of miniature seed pearls and tiny buds accented with peau de soie leaves attached to a four tiered silk illusion veil in boat-fast style and falling to shoulder length. She carried a bouquet of white orchid daisies and pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Ruth Hoskin, sister of the bride as matron of honor, wore a floor length gown in shimmering organza with the empire bodice in capri blue with high stand-up collar and long sleeves with ruffles at the wrists trimmed with green and turquoise Guipure lace. The full skirt was white organza. She wore a white picture hat trimmed with blue flowers cascading from ribbons and carried a white tulle muff with white shasta daisies and pink baby carnations.

Bridesmaids Miss Karen Boyle, Miss Barbara Wright and Miss Kathleen LaPalm, sister of the bridegroom were gowned similarly to the matron of honor.

Lieut. James Clarke attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Allan Lanigan, Richard Phillips and Kenneth LaPalm, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the Four Seasons Hotel, Belleville where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a turquoise gown of Italian lace with an overlay of ribbon, matching petal hat with white accessories and a white glamelia corsage encircled with pink baby carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a pink ensemble consisting of peau de soie dress and matching lace sleeveless coat, pink and white accessories and a blue glamelia corsage encircled with pink baby carnations.

For the wedding trip to points north, the bride chose a petal pink pant dress of silk polyester with a white orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. LaPalm will reside at RR 2 Amelisburg.

WEDDINGS

GORDON — SINE

Kathryn June Sine daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Sine became the bride of Gregg Alexander Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan A. Gordon at Forest Hill United Church, Kitchener. Rev. Bruce Underhill officiated at the evening ceremony.

Pamela Stevens of Kitchener was maid of honor. The bridegroom was attended by David Parks of St. Catharines as best man. A cousin of the bride Gary Maxted of Toronto and a brother of the bride Matthias Sine of Kitchener were the ushers.

A reception was held at the Historian Room of the Inn of the Black Walnut. The newly married couple will live at 34 Euclid Ave., Waterloo.

The bride will be attending Stratford Teachers' College in fall and the bridegroom is a third year architectural student at the University of Waterloo.

Pretty Novice Passes Test

Among the large number graduating from the summer water safety program at the Kinsmen pool on Monday evening will be 5-year-old Amy Schrieder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schrieder of 23 Glendale Road. She was successful in the test at the end of her instruction as an advanced beginner. Her instructor program manager Lynne Anne Muldoon is seated.

Kinsmen Pool Closes Doors After Training 500 Youngsters

When school re-opens in September nearly 500 city and rural youth will be returning to classes much better equipped for swimming and reacting in the case of an emergency on the water.

The wind up of activities at the Kinsmen recreation complex this coming Monday at 7:30 p.m. will be highlighted by a poolside ceremony when awards will be presented for proficiency and Kinettes play host to the youngsters who participates for male lifeprogram.

Then gone will be the familiar happy sounds of children at play at the East Hill corner for another season.

Each graduate from the summer course, says pool and playground manager Lynne Anne Muldoon, 21, is a potential life guard and Royal Life Saving examiner. And that's good for several reasons, adds the senior instructor who returns to Queen's University this fall to continue studies for her diploma for teaching English in high school.

According to her, anyone qualified as a life guard or Royal Life Saving examiner is a cinch for full time employment these days. Job opportunities for male life guards for instance, are almost endless she noted, pointing out that most of the shortage, of trained water safety personnel is due to increase of high rise apartments and schools with built-in pools going up across the country.

She said that the owners of large apartment buildings prefer to employ personnel trained in water safety for their own protection as well as that of their tenants. She claimed the shortage could become acute with the building of more apartment towers and schools with indoor pools.

Although demand is heavy for lifeguards it happens there are more males providing the service than their female counterparts. And the opposite sex receive slightly lower wages ($100 a week to start) which may be a point for Women's Lib to press in the fight for equality.

The facility for providing city and rural youth training in water safety is maintained by the Belleville Kinsmen Club with an active pool and playground committee comprising Robert Thomas (chairman), Colin Wilcox, Walter Wrickett, Jack O'Donald and Bill Andrews.

Manager Muldoon's staff for operating the pool was composed of Paul Thompson, 19, assistant manager, June Ashley, 20, Barry McGugon, 18, Stephen Burtch, 20, Paul Osborne, 19, maintenance, Jean Burkett, 18, and Alice Hallman, 14, both playground supervisors.

Red Cross Water Course Ends at Y

The Red Cross Water Safety Leader Course held at the Y in Belleville, wrapped up this weekend as the 19 students in the program sit for their final examinations.

The 36 - hour course (18 in the pool and 18 in class) is designed to give the student a good working knowledge of water safety, life saving technique and leadership.

The two instructors for the course were Dan Hemirovsky and John Romanow. Both were employed by the Y for the summer.

"To provide as informative course as possible we obtain-guest speakers to lecture on certain areas of the curriculum," said James Cleveland, physical education director for the Y.

Members of the Red Cross teaching and examining team spoke at the lectures and will be responsible for the testing tomorrow.

Upon completion of the one - week course, students will be able to assist qualified instructors in teaching. The certificate awarded through the course is also comparable to the bronze medallion and will allow successful students

Letter from Husband On Eve of Retirement

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I don't know who wrote this but it makes a lot of sense these days when more and more men are retiring — and getting on their wives nerves.
My copy says, "Sent In By Ruth Streit, Modesto, Calif." I hope you think it's worth printing. — ANOTHER CALIFORNIAN.

Dearly Beloved: I'm coming home to live with you 24 hours a day. Something I've been looking forward to for 40 years. I didn't marry you so I could work. I worked so I could marry you — and I figure that even at $100,000 hours apart because of my job. I hope to make amends in the years left to us.

I'm sorry I'm not the same handsome fellow in the wedding picture, with black, wavy hair and a waistline a belt could go around — and legs that could still chase you around the dining room table. But I do have a deeper appreciation for you and a better understanding of what marriage means. I owe you a great deal. You stood by me during some rough times. You never worried me with other men (not too much, that is) and you never spent more than I made. You put up with my peculiarities and you were nice to my nutty relatives.

I don't have many regrets, but I do have a few. I was a fairly important man down at the office. Please don't make me a flunky at home: I don't mind doing some of the chores but don't ever ask me to do women's work. And when help finish drib in and out of the house, don't ask me to play host. They come to see you, not me. And now that the kids are gone and we have two weird cockroaches, will you please let me have one? Not to sleep in. I still want my place next to you in the old fourposter, but I'd like a room where I can throw my junk around, or take a nap, or play accumulated tapes at full blast. It'll be fun privileges, dear, and a little time to adjust, and I'll be the finest fellow you ever retired with.

Devotedly, Your Loving Husband.

DEAR HUSBAND: You sound like a pussycat. I hope your wife is smart enough to smile and say — "Yes, dear . . ."

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've had my share of problems, but by the grace of God, and a marriage counselor who couldn't save our marriage but helped me grow, I've come through my divorce stronger and better person.

I am presently involved in a situation that has me half crazy with indecision. I've been seeing a married man for six months. I believe I am in love with him and have told friends that we might marry. The consensus is that I would be crazy to mix my three children (two boys and one girl) with his six (all boys). My mother tells me we would be fighting over the children constantly.

I am not a child (I'm in my early 30's), and I realize no marriage is without problems, but I do love this man and I don't want to lose him if this thing with the children can be worked out. What the chances, Ann? I should tell you that his sons are very balanced and they seem to like me very much. Thanks for your help. — TEETER TOTTER.

DEAR TEETER: I see no reason why you could not have a successful marriage with a father of six boys provided you agree in advance on the ground rules: No favoritism, and no "do you know what YOUR son did to MY daughter" complaints. When the kids outgrow you (and you bet your life they will) there must be no taking sides. Punishment should be swift, just, and equal.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

BY MARY BRYSON

ANN LANDERS

If you give your teen-age daughter a clothes allowance, let it be hers to spend as she pleases. Give advice if it's asked. Otherwise let her learn from her mistakes. Resist the temptation to give her extra money to rectify a mistake. Also the temptation to lecture about her unwise choices.

Successful Living

Uncertain Future Disturbs Sister

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My sister is in grade 12 and is very upset because she has no idea what she wants to do after graduation.

She is 17, a pretty girl with a most winning smile although a little shy. She does not find school easy.

She has tossed out the following lines of work: (1) teaching — can't bear the thought of having to study for two years; (2) secretary — boring; (3) nursing — does not want to handle money; (4) nursing — no science; (5) hairdressing — no aptitude.

Surely there must be many other jobs. Your help would be greatly appreciated. — Big Sister

Deer Big Sister: There are heaps of jobs. But she knows them not wholesale and for the wrong reasons.

For one thing, she needs to know more about the market and the jobs; for another, she needs to know more about herself. For a third, today's vocations — of any stature at all — call for some period of specialized education.

What does she know about being a secretary? Why doesn't she want to handle money? If nursing interests her, she can get her sciences.

Better start her off with a counselling session and some someone who knows the score to clue her in about the necessity for some vocational training.

Dear Doris: My friend and neighbor's girl is getting married and I would like to give her a shower. She already has a few things so I guess I'll ask her mother what she would like. Maybe we could all buy something together.

What do I serve? Do I decorate a little? Do I usually give something too? We will probably go to the wedding.

When do I phone the people or do I write invitations? How long before?

I hope you don't say, "Buy that booklet and it will tell you everything." I would like your own answer, please. — Clueless but Willing

Dear Willing: I know. It is more fun to have a personal letter than to have to search back and forth in a booklet for your answers. Yet books about how to do things have been a tremendous help to people — even me!

Sure, decorate a little. While crepe paper covers, white honeycomb wedding bells, a white watering can suspended above a guest of honor's chair with ribbons streaming down to a plastic laundry basket decorated with large white bows — these will make it festive.

According to me it is more fun if each guest brings a gift. Specialize in things he needs: linens, or kitchen ware or cups and saucers — perhaps. Or make it miscellaneous. Telephone or write the invitations 10 days before the affair. The hostess also gives a gift.

The original idea of showers was to provide extras for the new home.

Serve small fancy sandwiches or a bit more substantial chicken on patty shells. Decorate a shower cake with white icing.

TV's Queen of Sewing Consults Astrologer

NEW YORK (CP) — Lucille Rivers, television's queen of sewing, never makes a business decision without consulting her astrologer.

During an interview, the silver-haired star of the Lucille Rivers Show—Fashions in Sewing credited much of her current success to astrology-based advice from Lon Ritchie, a 31-year-old former circus performer, who is bidding for North American success as a popular stargazer.

Miss Rivers—"I've been engaged a half-dozen times but always cancelled out"—takes a plane to Toronto every few weeks to make 20 or 25 segments of her syndicated 10-minute TV show about home sewing. Lucille, seen on more than 100 United states TV stations daily, now appears on Canadian screens also.

The sewing lessons draw 5,000 to 15,000 letters a day, Miss Rivers said, most of them directed to the sponsor, and enclosing a small fee for a pamphlet dealing with a particular topic.

Descendant of a French-Canadian family that migrated to the U.S. in 1818—the surname then was Lariviere—Brooklyn-born Lucille decided in her teens that she was going to be a star at something. Denied a stage career by parental veto, she became a self-taught dressmaker and had a thriving business by the time she was 21.

She lectured on sewing for McCall's magazine, switched into radio, and in 1960 started Sewing for Fun, a daytime CBS-TV show.

A little more than 10 years ago she wrote the bug-selling Better Homes and Gardens Sewing Book, which still earns royalties.

"Then about three years ago, a momentous thing happened," Miss Rivers recalled. Seeking astrological advice, she was referred to Lon Ritchie.

She had heard him singing in a French nightclub several years earlier.

But this meeting was with a new Lon Ritchie, who had become an astrology expert on a non-professional level.

Ritchie, a skinny man who turned up for the interview in an unbuttoned striped shirt and white bell-bottom trousers, his hair carefully coiffed in golden curls, has had a career that is hard to believe.

He left his Massachusetts farm home at age seven and joined the Ostal Circus. At 19 he was recognized as one of Europe's foremost trapeze artists.

From writing song lyrics as a hobby he gravitated into singing—in French—and soon was earning bookings at leading European clubs.

Next he tackled movies, making his debut in The Dancer Flame, a French picture filmed largely in Cape Breton.

After Miss Rivers tracked him down, he charted her horoscope and things began to happen.

"I parted company with the people who were trying to develop a show for me," Lucille recalled. Another producer, Harold Mendelsohn, finally put the show together, found a sponsor, and sold it to 69 stations for its debut in June, 1969.

"All the people involved with us have been checked out by Lon by astrology," said Lucille. She said she follows his advice on such matters as the best day for making a business decision and even for taping sessions.

Taping of the sewing show was switched this year to CFTO-TV in Toronto, a decision based on plans for world-wide syndication.

"Syndicators find that a show is more readily accepted for distribution if produced in Canada," said Bernard Gurtman, a public relations aide to Miss Rivers and Ritchie.

High Rates of Cancer Since Atomic Bombing

HIROSHIMA, Japan (Reuter) — Doctors investigating the after-effects of the 1945 atomic bombing of Hiroshima are finding disturbingly high rates of leukemia and cancer in survivors who were only young children at the time.

Death rates are significantly higher than the national average and there is no sign that the peak has been reached, says a study published by American and Japanese doctors working in the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission.

The commission examines statistics based on studies of victims and a control group of people not involved in the bombing.

The latest report, compiled by doctors in charge of the statistics, medicine and pathology departments, covers 15,584 survivors exposed to atomic radiation and 5,023 unexposed controls.

All were under 10 years of age when Hiroshima became the first city hit by an atom bomb Aug. 6, 1945.

The report notes that leukemia was identified early as an important radiation effect among survivors. Most of the deaths up to 1955 were attributed to this.

But the commission doctors say evidence now is accumulating that the bomb's insidious after-effects are also appearing in the shape of malignant tumors and other forms of cancer.

This is most noticeable in survivors who received radiation doses exceeding 100 RAD —the scientific measurement of radiation.

Of the study group, the report says, there were 1,109 high-dose survivors, eight of whom had died from leukemia by 1969.

This compares with a national average of 0.42 such deaths.

The doctors say there were eight more deaths from cancer other than leukemia against an expected one to two deaths, five deaths from carcinomas (cancer) of the thyroid gland against an expected two to three, and six deaths from other forms of cancerous malignancies where one to two would normally be expected.

The commission report states that although there are only 19 malignant neoplasms (tumors), these have occurred in a group of only 1,109 persons, the oldest of whom now is only 35 years. 25 YEARS

"In short, after a latent period of about 15 years—that is, from 1960 onwards—children who received radiation doses of 100 RAD or more began to develop an excessive accumulated increase is clearly apparent, with no evidence yet that the peak has been reached.

"During the next 10 years these persons will be entering the most cancer-prone, middle-aged, cancer rates begin to increase markedly.

"Speculation is useless as to what the future may hold. However, it is clear that this group of persons exposed as children must be followed closely and continuously."

Meanwhile, the Hiroshima University Bomb Radioactivity Medical Research Institute has begun a study of genetic genetic damage in the post-bomb generation.

Tabloid History of Canada Written From Back of Bus Vantage Point

TORONTO (CP) — A bearer with the Liberty! fist raised in revolutionary salute is cover illustration and first unfolding in Tim Named It Canada Because That's What It Was Called.

She Named It is a tabloid history of Canada written from the vantage point of the back of the bus.

It manhandled says it was produced entirely by volunteer labor, by The Corrective Collective, eight members of assorted, women's liberation groups in Vancouver. The lettering and his harried [illegible] low-victims were drawn by Collette French.

Catherine Walker, one of the researchers cum authors, calls it a people's history of Canada, with a basically socialist slant.

She says she and her friends wanted to present the history usually left out of text books.

"You never learn who organized the first union. You never learn that kind of history.

"Women are never mentioned. Their role is considered irrelevant, but it was crucial.

"You're always told how great Wolfe was and about that great battle. You're never told why it happened."

Miss Walker says the title is for the tabloid came from a newspaper history of Cuba" printed in the United States. The Canadian version was originally planned when some U.S. women came to Canada in April to meet a group from Manchina.

"We felt they should know more about this country. Then we went beyond that and we felt Canadian women and men should know more about the country."

The co-authors divided their research by concept. Miss Walker says, rather than by chronology.

"One woman did Quebec, another did labor history, another took American imperialism in Canada and tried to link that. I did the Depression."

Working in spare time, they put the 40-page tabloid together in three or four months. Miss Walker says it is selling mostly in Vancouver, on campuses and in one or two sympathetic book stores.

It has sold out its first printing of 2,000 and another is planned.

Miss Walker acknowledges that most of its sale has been to the converted, people whose views already match the one in the tabloid. She would like to see it get a wider audience.

Slice hot or cold lengthwise or crosswise .Good served hot with raisin sauce or cold with mustard sauce. I strain the broth and use it for soup stock.

Trenton Air Base Celebrates 40th Anniversary Next Week

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON (Staff) — "The sight of planes sweeping down from the cloudless sky brought many to the training base to see at first hand the machines of the air . . . the pilots, as they left their machines, were dressed in the French grey of the Air Force, many of them wearing numerous decorations won in the Great War."

It was Sept. 10, 1931 that The Ontario Intelligencer recorded this event — the opening of what is now CFB Trenton.

There were earlier air stations — Borden, Halifax-Rockcliffe, Winnipeg, High River and Vancouver — but the one that opened a mile and a half east of here 40 years ago has superceded in national importance most others that pre-dated and followed it.

The site had been picked after a lengthy examination of thirty Ontario land parcels on Oct. 12, 1929 and Trenton's late Senator William Fraser had been a leading advocate of the Bay of Quinte location.

Chosen as a replacement for Camp Borden, it was felt by government planners "a double overhead could be avoided" by establishing a base in this type of setting.

Borden was "unsatisfactory even for land aeroplane training" and a sea plane station was also being sought. Trenton was the answer because it could offer a suitable sea and land plane base, thus ruling out the necessity of setting up two installations.

The original announcement of government intention to set up the new station indicated that $2 million would be spent over the first few years to drain and level the farmland 1,000 acre property and build hangars and workshops.

When the first squadron, Squadron No. 3 of the Royal Flying Corps of Canada, arrived in the fall of '31, only one hangar had been built for the 11 planes that were moved here and the 50 officers and men were billeted in Belleville and Trenton.

A hard winter set in that year and so did the depression. By spring, the future of Trenton, as a military centre and the very future of the air force was in jeopardy.

In March 1932, federal appropriations for air services were severely slashed from $3,442,000 in 1931-2 to $1,750,000 for the year 1932-3.

Some bases, like Dartmouth, were forced to close and 78 officers and 100 men were released from the country's air force.

From 1934 to 1936, a large unemployment relief scheme was carried out at the Trenton station. Several thousand men were employed at the base during the massive mid-depression make-work project.

It was during this period that the administration building, a seaplane hangar, landplane hangar, barrack blocks, married quarters, and workshops were built. Roads, sidewalks and drainage pipes were laid and an adequate water supply secured.

Early in 1936, technical training and army co-operative schools moved to Trenton from Borden, followed in June 1937 by flying training and air armament schools. New specialist schools were formed to give instruction in navigation, seaplane flying wireless operations and storekeeping.

By the end of 1937, Trenton was a complete air training centre with a population of 350 officers and men. The training group of the then Royal Canadian Air Force had grown remarkably through the mid-30s and was formed into an Air Training Command Sept. 15, 1938. Command headquarters were situated in Toronto but most of its activities were at Trenton.

From 1935 to 1938, No. 1 (fighter) Squadron and No. 6 (torpedo bomber) Squadron were located here but these moved off to Calgary and Vancouver respectively.

As World War II loomed near, decision was made not to close out Borden but keep it as an intermediate training centre, while Trenton came into its own as the advanced training base.

Large - scale construction programs at the station cushioned the depression somewhat for Trenton, according to the town's former mayor, Kenneth Couch.

He recalls "they were lean years but people were lucky to get the 30 cents a day with food and clothing (to work at the station construction camp) . . . business picked up and accommodation became as scarce as it is now."

In line with Trenton's role as a training hub, May of 1939 brought the organization here of Advanced Wing Training Headquarters, a full Training Squadron and the Ground Instructional School.

Also on the base by that time were technical training, air armament, equipment training, air navigation and sea plane schools.

As Canada went to war, Sept. 10, 1939, training activities at Trenton were greatly expanded and even the mush rooming construction could not keep pace with the growth. Some units were moved to other locations across the country but, in the course of time, other new training schools were formed here.

Key to Trenton's wartime growth was the British Commonwealth Air Traning Plan announced by Sir Kingsley Wood, Britain's Secretary of the Air, Oct. 10, 1939. By the program, Canada was used as the advanced training centre for pilots and airmen of all Commonwealth lands participating in the European theatre.

By the program, 22 basic training centres were set up across Canada, while intermediate training of Commonwealth crews was handled at Camp Borden and advanced stages here.

When the multi - national training plan terminated in March 1945, Trenton's Central Flying School and Flying Instructors School had together produced 4,687 flying instructors, an average of 69 a month since the beginning of the war.

The war years also gave birth here to the No. 6 Repair Depot, now the Air Maintenance and Development Unit, but in the general mobilization a string of schools had been scattered from Trenton to points like St. Thomas and Vancouver. However, new schools had replaced them during the course of the war — a school of administration, a composite training school, with the former being absorbed by the latter.

As one history of the time records," day after day, night after night, undaunted by the elements, Trenton's three schools (central flying, a d m inistration, composite) moved steadily onward to produce the base upon which the ultimate edifice of the RCAF is built."

In January 1945, the headquarters of Air Command was formed at Trenton, previously having been located at both Toronto and Montreal.

When the war ended, units still functioning here included the AC Headquarters, 6 RD, the Central Flying School, Air Command Communications Flight (1) and station headquarters.

Air Command was renamed Central Air Command in March of '47 and two years later Training Command replaced it as part of a functional reorganization of the RCAF.

From September 1953, training elements of the four-year-old Air Transport Command began to establish new homes at Trenton with the move here of 4 Field Technical Training Unit. On Jan. 18, 1954 it was joined by 4 Operational Training Unit.

Big changes came to Trenton in September 1958, when the home of Training Command was moved to Winnipeg and replaced by the headquarters of Air Transport Command.

During the same month the 426 "Thunderbird" Squadron was moved here with its fleet of North Stars. This squadron was disbanded in the year after its arrival but not before it had participated in a spectacular relief operation in aid of victims of the Agadir, Morocco earthquake.

(426 Squadron was reformed this year as an amalgamation of the still resident field technical and operational training units of Air Transport Command.)

Training still continues at Trenton but the station's finest hour as a school was unquestionably during the Second World War. Tribute was paid to Trenton, the school, on Sept. 30, 1949 with the unveiling of elaborate memorial gates along the base's South Side perimeter.

These were presented to Canada by the governments of the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand to commemorate their partnership in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Trenton's relationship to national foreign policy was accentuated by the plan and this hand - in - glove connection has continued to the present and will be likewise in the future.

Although preluded by the Agadir assistance, the present character of Trenton as a military centre dates, in many ways, from June 9, 1961 when Air Marshal Hugh Campbell officially opened the gargantuan No. 10 Hangar — then and still one of the largest in the country — and introduced a dozen sleek new home-grown products, the Yukons, capable of carrying five times the cargo of the North Star it replaced.

Canadian involvement in the Congo, peacekeeping in Gaza and Cyprus, disaster relief to answer the cries and natural calamities of the 60s, even the Pakistan flood disaster relief program of 1970 was largely hinged on the capability of the Yukons. 437 Squadron and her crews.

In its way too, 424 Squadron which came here in 1968 with Search and Rescue and lighter transport roles has added to the fabric of Canadian international commitments, with the striking illustration of the June 1970 relief operation to victims of the Peruvian earthquakes.

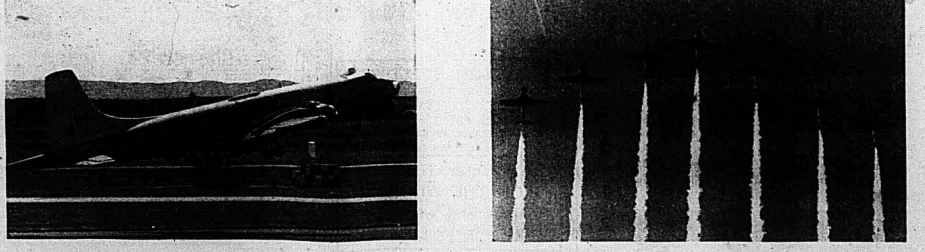
Trenton, for the last year, has been very much part of the jet age with a steadily increasing fleet of Boeing 707s at 437 and the Yukons retired after a decade of service. However, the air termination has been offset somewhat with the recent move here of 12 transport Hercules aircraft and 436 Squadron.

This move has enhanced Trenton's position as the heavy air transport centre of the Canadian Armed Forces, a reputation it now enjoys as it enters its fifth decade of history.

Public Invited To Take Part Thursday Sept. 2

TRENTON (Staff) — Final touches are now being put on a series of special events scheduled for next week to honor the 40th anniversary of CFB Trenton.

Tuesday evening will be the date for formal celebrations at the base, with officers' mess, AMDU and Southside Warrant Officers" and Sergeants' messes hosting commemorative activities.



Chief of Defence Staff, Gen. F. R. Sharp, and a list of former Trenton Base commanders, will be guests at an officers' mess dinner party during the evening.

The same night, a cocktail party and dance will be held at the Southside Recreation Centre for warrant officers and senior NCOs, their wives and guests. The guest list here will be headed by Quinte MPP R. F. Potter, Mayor Duncan McDonald of Trenton and Belleville Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott. Former warrant officers and senior NCOs, retired to pension and living in the area, have been invited through an advertising campaign in the local media and organizers expect more than 100 of these will be attending, together with at least 400 regular service personnel.

On Sept. 2, CFB Trenton will be open to the public for the annual Armed Forces Day, during which visitors will be able to witness the Canadian portion of the International Air Show, to be staged later in the week at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto.

U.S. Wage Freeze May Affect Orr's Million-dollar Deal

BOSTON (AP) — Bobby Orr, the Boston Bruins' super defenceman, has a new five-year contract, estimated to be worth $1 million, with the National Hockey League club.

Now there is the question: Is Orr free to begin spending his money?

The problem centres around President Nixon's 90-day price and wage control order, which is in effect until at least Nov. 14.

The president's Cost of Living Council said Thursday athletes are not exempt from the freeze and may not negotiate new contracts calling for increases in salary during the freeze.

At a news conference Thursday to announce the contracts, Bruins' president Weston Adams Jr. said the pact had been "completed and executed" last February after more than a year of negotiations.

He said the contract was not announced at the time because of several minor points that had to be resolved.

"It's up to the government to decide if it applies," said Alan Eagleson, Orr's financial adviser, in regard to the freeze.

"If the wage freeze applies to Bobby Orr's contract, he will play for last year's salary. If not, he'll play for the figure we've negotiated."

Orr's salary last season is estimated at $35,000-$40,000.

Although financial terms of the new contract were not announced, Eagleson, who also is executive director of the NHL Players' Association, said it was "the highest in the history of hockey and probably one of the highest in the history of sports."

Orr, 23, the NHL's Most Valuable Player the last two seasons, said he was "very, very happy" with the contract.

"I've spent five years in Boston that have been five of the greatest years of my life. I hope to stay here at least another five years. I'm very happy."

Orr, who said he has got on 15 pounds during the off-season "taking it easy," has established numerous records since coming into the league five years ago. He holds NHL season records for most assists, 102; most goals by a defenceman, 37; and most points by a defenceman, 139, all set last year.

He also won the James D. Norris Trophy the last four seasons as the league's outstanding defenceman.

The Cost of Living Council ruled that professional athletes who had not entered into new contracts prior to the Aug. 15 freeze cannot negotiate contracts during the 90-day period calling for salary increases to cover their services during the freeze.

Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, said the council's decision was expected but "the question remains, will the wage freeze be lifted after 90 days or will it be continued?"

All NHL players must sign contracts before attending training camps which open during the second week of September.

Campbell said players of U.S.-based teams will negotiate raises, to become effective when the freeze is lifted.

Three Share Fight

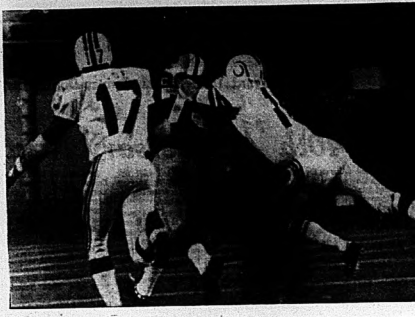
EDMINTON (CP) — There was a three-way fight to retain first place today in the third round of the Canadian junior golf championships.

Tied with one-under-par 141s after the second round Thursday were Adam Brown of Hamilton, Mike Defalco of Lucerne, Que., and Rob Laing of Prince George, B.C.

Only one stroke behind was 18-year-old Scott Keenlyside of Langley, B.C. with even-par rounds of 71.

The first-round co-leader, Mike McLaren, 16, of Woodbridge, Ont., fell into a third-place tie with Bruce Heuchan, 17, of Aylmer East, Que. McLaren, who carded a first-round 69, brought in a 75 Thursday, while Heuchan had 71 and 73 for 144.

Defalco, 18, didn't make the Quebec team this year because he broke his hand playing hockey and was out of golf for a month. This didn't show, however, as he brought home a par-35 on the first nine and a one-under 36 on the longer leg for a 71-70—141 total.



Brown, 18, has been playing well all week. He led Ontario to the interprovincial team matches Tuesday with a sparkling 66 he also has rounds of 71-70.

Brown was five-under after 15 holes and it appeared he was going to take a crack at breaking 66—the club record.

"Then I just choked up, to tell the truth. I started swinging a little too quickly."

Seventeen-year-old Laing, who plans to enter a physical education and recreation course at the University of British Columbia this fall, said his putter gave him his 70 Thursday.

"My putter was working well," he said. "I sank a couple of 10-footers. Also, the greens weren't as spiked up as yesterday."

Ticats' Worster on Drug Charge

HAMILTON (CP) — Two more members of the Hamilton Tiger-Cat football club have been arrested on drug charges.

Fullback Steve Worster, 22, and defensive halfback Seth Miller, 23, were arrested shortly before noon Thursday in a Sherman Avenue dwelling by RCMP and Hamilton city police.

Earlier in the week, rookie reserve lineman Wayne Philbrick was arrested at his home in nearby Vineland Station after 50 pounds of marijuana was discovered by police in a building on a farm he leased. He was charged with possession of marijuana for trafficking purposes.

Worster, co-captain of the University of Texas Longhorns' last year, was charged with possession of one ounce of marijuana and a water pipe.

Miller, from Arizona State, also was charged with possession of marijuana.

Worster and Miller were to appear in magistrate's court today.

Ralph Sazio, Tiger-Cat general-manager, said:

"Until the facts are known, nothing is going to be done.

"If it is what they (police) say it is, then severe disciplinary action will be taken. And I emphasize severe."

Battle of Roughies

Pass Probable Weapon

REGINA (CP) — Observers forecast an aerial duel tonight when Ottawa Rough Riders and Saskatchewan Roughriders meet in their 11th Canadian Football League encounter since interlocking games started in 1961.

Each has won five previous games, but there's more than a tie-breaker at stake for the clubs.

Each is looking for a win to move into sole possession of second-place in their respective leagues.

Ottawa, with four points, is tied with Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats behind league-leading Toronto Argonauts, with eight. Saskatchewan's four points are good for a tie in the Western Conference with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and British Columbia Lions, behind Calgary Stampeders who have 10 points.

With the guessing for a throwing game, Ottawa has the edge in a healthy quarterback, Gary Wood.

But Saskatchewan signal-caller Ron Lancaster, suffering bruised ribs, is expected to work hard to get back in the form which won him the 1970 CFL most outstanding player award. He has admitted his performance this season has not been to his liking.

Saskatchewan ranks will be strengthened by all-star tackle Ed McQuarters, back for his first game this season since losing an eye in a home workshop accident this spring.

McQuarters' injury was the first in a series which have depleted the Roughriders' lineups this season, leaving coach Dave Skrien to rely ot times on some untried rookies.

Still out are defensive halfback Henry Dorsch with a knee injury and end Ken Frith, out for the season with a broken neck vertebra.

Ottawa coach Jack Gotta has had injury problems too, but Al Marcelin is expected back tonight at halfback after recovering from a twisted knee and hand injuries.

Fullback Dennis Duncan is unlikely to see much action because of a partial shoulder separation suffered last week against Hamilton. In Duncan's spot probably will be newcomer Greg Thompson, a Canadian who has seen little action this season.

Lancaster is expected to go heavily for halfback Bobby Thompson and possibly end Nolan Bailey as favored receivers, but fullback George Reed also will be out for handoffs, to regain his WFC role as top rusher. He missed most of the 1970 season with a leg injury.

The weather forecast calls for temperatures in the mid-80s and partly cloudy skies for the game, to be televised at 8 p.m. CST (10 p.m. EDT) on the CTV national network.

Now Passander Buys His Own Hot Dogs

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — When Tony Passander walked into the London Lords camp he was just 500 miles down the pike, but it was light years away from the Canadian Football League and the Grey Cup champion Montreal Alouettes.

The Lords' headquarters are the changing rooms of a public outdoor skating rink, and the practice field is the grassy flats beyond a baseball diamond where occasional home runs gave flankers and split ends additional misstiles to watch for. It is a long way from the Autostadt.

If the physical facilities were not enough to make Passander forget where he was, he was soon reminded when he emerged dripping wet from the showers at Lakeport high school in St. Catharines, after leading the Lords over St. Catharines Rams 15.1 in their Ontario Rugby Football Union senior league opener.

"Where's the towels?" Passander asked.

Everyone howled. "You bring your own in this league," someone said.

"Bring your own towel. Buy your own hot dog." Passander murmured. Then he laughed with everyone else.

The former back-up signal caller to Sonny Wade isn't worried about how far or how near the CFL is. In fact he plans to be back in the league in two years—wearing a London uniform.

The Lords are working toward obtaining a CFL franchise by 1973 and hope to build a solid nucleus of Canadian players around Passander. The Anaonia, Conn., native is the only American on the team.

Play Twice Sunday

Rollins' Don't Have Practice Time

Rollins Construction will be seeing softballs in their sleep after the next four or five days when they will be playing at least four games with two of them in one day.

The Rollins-Brewers Mills OASA Intermediate 'A' playoff series must be completed by Wednesday and as of today only one game in the best-of-three series has been played, the Belleville team's 1-0 Wednesday night win.

The second game has been scheduled for Sunday afternoon in Brewer's Mills, but the 4 p.m. starting time is the big worry for Rollins though who play again at 8:15 in their Commercial League playoff with Howard and Roberts. The hour and a half drive from Brewer's Mills will cut it close.

Rollins' troubles don't end there. With the third and deciding game, if necessary, to be played in Belleville, the local team doesn't have a field to play on. The Rollins management is hoping for a rearrangement of an Industrial League game to allow their game to be played.

The Commercial League games scheduled for Thursday which were rained out will be played Sunday in the same order — the Juniors — Pilot, Anne grave Feed with the Rollins - Howard and Roberts game to follow.

The Juniors and Cementmen were knotted 1-1 before being rained out in the fifth inning Th[illegible] the best - of - seven series three games to go. R[illegible] lins and Howard and Roberts have split their four games.

Busher Jackson Finally Earns A Place

TORONTO (CP) — Long denied his rightful place among hockey's greats, Harvey (Busher) Jackson was inducted into Hockey's Hall of Fame Thursday night.

Jackson, a left winger of Toronto Maple Leafs' famed Kid Line of the 1930s, was one of five former National Hockey League players and builders inducted, bringing the Hall's honor roll to 180.

Others inducted were the late Terry Sawchuk, goaltender with Detroit Red Wings, Boston Bruins, Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers; Ralph (Cooney) Weiland, Boston great of the 1920s; Gordon Roberts, high-scoring winger with Ottawa Senators and builder Arthur Wirtz of Chicago Black Hawks.

Jackson was the last member of the famed Kid Line to be honored at the Hall. Centre Joe Primeau and right winger Charlie Conacher preceded him.

A great competitor on the ice, Jackson's off-ice capers had him constantly in hot water with Leaf management, and until this year the stigma followed him. He died June 25, 1958.

Conn Smythe, crusty owner, general-manager and coach of the Leafs during Jackson's career and a member of the Hockey Hall of Fame selection committee, vowed that Jackson would never get into the Hall so long as he sat on the committee.

But the committee this year overrode Smythe's objections and Smythe resigned from the committee.

"The Kid Line is being reunited tonight," noted Milt Dunnell, former Toronto Star sports editor, in his eulogy of "one of the classiest left wingers of all time."

Dunnell announced that NHL president Clarence Campbell had been authorized to grant Jackson's son, Kim, who accepted the award, complete costs of a college education "for as long as you want to collect college degrees."

Sawchuk, eulogized by his last coach, Emile Francis of New York Rangers, as being the toughest goaltender "when the odds were the greatest," died suddenly in May, 1970, after an accident near his Long Island, N.Y., home.

Terrence Gordon Sawchuk played more seasons, more games, and recorded more shutouts than any other goaltender in NHL history, despite a boyhood injury that left his left arm two inches shorter than his right.

Weiland, a spry 66, was a member of three Stanley Cup winning teams at Boston, the third as coach of the 1940-41 club, the last Bruin championship club until 1969-70.

The Seaforth, Ont., native played 11 seasons in the NHL with Boston, Detroit and the old Ottawa Senators, playing on two Bruin championship teams: 1928-29 and 1938-39.

Hockey Tides Shift Quickly

by Maurice Switzer
Sports Editor

At the pre-season stage, hockey tides change faster than an exotic dancer during a police raid.

For example, Belleville's Junior B fortunes looked pretty bleak until about 24 hours ago. All it took was a piece of paper to change things.

Trenton Community Gardens manager Harold Long received a letter from the group of businessmen who have operated the Junior B Golden Hawks the past two seasons informing him that they have no intention of operating ANY team this year, B, C, or Z.

When Trenton withdrew from what was the six-team Eastern Ontario Junior B League, it was presumably to join a proposed Junior C group involving Picton, Gananoque and Napanee, not leaving Belleville with a broad range of area player talent to tap.

Then Cobourg pulled out to leave the Fairways in a four-team league with Peterborough and Oshawa Junior A-backed entries, and a smooth-running Kingston organization that produced an Ontario finalist a couple of winters ago.

The only bright note in manager Jim "Snipe" Mathews' otherwise bleak outlook on Junior B life this winter was that all four remaining league entries would be in the playoffs. But even that's not as good as it sounds.

A guaranteed playoff spot doesn't usually mean guaranteed success because regular-season fixtures tend to amount to little more than exhibition games.

Everybody making the playoffs is comparable to kissing one's sister — nobody takes things too seriously.

Bigger Pool?

Thursday's Trenton move not only means the Belleville B's will probably have a chance to pick up Trenton prospects, but some of the Prince Edward County players who would have participated in a C loop. The chances of that league getting off the ground now are something less than phenomenal.

The additional pool of possible players should make for a stronger Belleville entry, one which would not necessarily finish on the bottom rung of the reduced four-team ladder and provide spectators with their money's worth.

The question remains: "Which spectators?"

Trenton's arena manager has made overtures to the Fairways about playing some of their home games in his rink. Some Trenton area names in the lineup would be an obvious drawing card.

But manager Mathews has already booked ten Friday night Belleville Memorial Arena games, and four Sunday dates, with one more to be figured out.

He still has his problems, but at least Mathews now knows the solution lies within h/s grasp.

Usual Senior Skeptics

Meanwhile, the usual gloomy senior hockey pre-season rumors are running rampant through the gin mills and other dens of sport-talk iniquity.

They include the standard calamitous forecasts, such as half of last year's lineup accepting offers to play for Norway's national team.

To be fair, question marks do crop up as one goes down the Mo-Hawk-cum-Quinte roster.

Goalie Steve Rexe is serious enough about becoming a resident of another Senior A league city to put his house up for lease, and last year's backup Bob Moon has moved to Ottawa.

Dave Jones, after turning down an offer to coach Ken Murphy's Quintes, is now leery about any awkward situations that might arise from playing with people he formerly gave hockey orders to. His departure would be a big loss, since Jones has proven that, despite stalling legs a bit wobblier than they were with the McFarlands a dozen campaigns ago, he is still one of the headiest players in the OHA senior ranks and capable of contributing 20-goal seasons in that company.

Doug Senior, who led the Belleville senior scoring parade in his first season with them, is being plagued by the back injury he suffered late last season, while defencemen Lou Kazowski and Bob Wilson have announced their retirements.

But Peterborough stalwarts like Greg Marchen, Lorne O'Donnell, and George Godson were, at last report, still planning on returning, as were local prominents like Ralph Plane and 23-goal-scorer Wayne McConnell.

Some Silver Lining

Other pieces of silver lining are the promise shown by players like young defenceman Mike Rexe, who only got the chance to show his talents near the end of last season and the possibility that such budding types as defenceman Greg Burkitt and goalie Ron Jury, invited to Oakland Seals' Oshawa training camp, could be a big boost should they find themselves in the Quintes' colors.

The loss of sergpny Les Colligan now looks less likely than it did a month ago. The hard-nosed winger is having second thoughts about playing hockey in Europe this winter.

Last, but not least, the addition of new coach Gene Poirier should be a positive factor in the development of the 1971-72 Belleville entry.

Despite being decried by the pre-season skeptics as a "kids' coach," Poirier has earned the respect of hockey types in the area for his demanding approach to the bench job.

Most are unaware that Poirier had played and coached Maritime senior hockey teams in an era when that level of hockey was a few notches above the working-man's group it is now.

And as the rookie pilot says, whether men or boys, you still play hockey the same way. By putting the puck in the other team's net and keeping it out of yours.

'More the Merrier' for Walsh On Local Harness Circuit

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

Three heads are better than one and 12 legs are better than four. Just ask Jerry Walsh.

The anatomy totals are derived from Jerry's investment in three harness horses, which besides keeping him busy for most months of the year, provide him with a good percentage in picking up some pay-off money at any one of Belleness racing cards.

"I generally race all three horses every Saturday night so it gives me a pretty good chance of getting something," states Walsh.

The four-year veteran of the Belleville racing scene has had no urge to race anywhere other than the Belleville or Kingston track up to now, but the future holds bigger and brighter prospects. "I enjoy riding and training and I'd like to make a living of it some day maybe in Toronto or Montreal. It's getting to be a big thing around here with the track and the barns being improved but there just isn't the money."

Lady Violet Direct, Roya K. Abbey and Kendlebrook are his three main concerns now, with the trio returning him over $1,400 this year. He last starts than past racing seasons. Indicative of Walsh's racing flesh is Lady Violet Direct who has finished out of the money only twice in 16 starts.

Walsh, who also owns his own catering service in Belleville, lives on a farm where he has two more colts coming up but for the meantime his hobby will be concerned with

Pennant-winners Don't Pan Out

The Cosy Grill picked up speed in the late innings of Thursday night's Ladies Softball League semi-final playoff action to pass BYBF and record an 11-7 win.

Sandra Claus went the distance for the Cosy fanning three and walking three. She gave up 14 hits. Marg Reid had a home run and a single to lead the winners-at-bat with Nancy Francis and Sheila Ray adding a double and two singles.

Sue Morton lasted five innings for BYBF giving up five runs. Betty Ann Dafoe gave up the remaining six runs in her two innings of relief. The pair gave up 18 hits. Marg Scanlon had three singles and Donna Preston a double to pace the losers.

In another game, the giant-killing Dairy Queen toppled Weese's Flowers 8-5 to eliminate the pennant winners — three games to one.

Marianne Sills fired the win fanning one and walking four. Marcie Graham had two singles and a triple for the new league finalists.

The winning duet has become a common sight at the pay-off window at the Belleville harness racing fixtures each Saturday with only two occasions out of 14 they haven't been in the money. Lady Violet Direct is only one-third of Jerry Walsh's racing concerns but the twelve-year-old mare has more than earned its share of the trio's $1400 earnings this year.

Kinsmen Done Waiting

The Belleville Kinsmen Juniors have had a long wait since their Eastern Ontario Baseball Association championship series with Kingston but the holiday is over and it's time to get back to work.

The Kinsmen received a bye into the Ontario Baseball Association semi-finals explaining the long delay, but this weekend will make up for it as the locals play a home and home series with Brantford. The winner of the best-of-three series will meet either Port Colborne or Chatham for the Ontario championship.

The locals will be visitors for the Saturday game making the trip to the Western Ontario centre for a 2 p.m. game. Game time for the return match at the Fairgrounds will be 3 p.m. Sunday.

Any person willing to offer their services in driving to Brantford Saturday is asked to call Garth Bradshaw at 962-4635. At least one or two more cars are desperately needed to get the boys to the game.

Bats won't be the only thing swinging for the Juniors this weekend as they will be holding a fund-raising dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall tonight. Dancing begins at 9:30. Tickets are available from any team member or executive or at the door.

Howard Makes Top 20

EDMONTON (CP-Staff) — There are two ways of looking at Jeff Howard's performance at the Canadian Junior Golf Championships — either he is well behind the leaders halfway score of 141, or he can be considered as one of the top 20 golfers in the country. The Trenton native fired 76-78 in the opening two rounds which left him 13 strokes off the pace, but in a two-way tie for 13th place.

Coach Hunt Begins

Belleville Minor Hockey Association president Don Gavey has gone into the advertising business.

What he's looking for are volunteers for coaches and managers of the city's six Ontario Minor Hockey Association all - star entries, from tyke through juvenile age brackets.

"And we urgently need conveners and coaches for our house leagues," said the 1971-72 president of the 1,200-boy organization.

Interested parties should contact Mr. Gavey at 962-0324 during the day, 968-6005 evenings, or write Box 761.

First Time This Year

Red Sox Beat Royals, Avoid Red Faces

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After 12 straight defeats and the possibility of an embarrassing season sweep by Kansas City Royals, Boston Red Sox were on the verge of becoming the Red Faces.

The complexion suddenly changed, though.

Boston averted a series shutout with a 7-0 triumph over Kansas City Thursday night, whipping the Royals for the first time in a year. The Red Sox lost the last game of 1970 and the first 11 this year.

"All good things must come to an end," philosophized Kansas City manager Bob Lemon.

"There's not much else you can say."

"The odds just caught up with them, the law of averages," said Boston Red Sox manager Eddie Kasko.

The odds may have had something to do about it, but the Red Sox also had something else going for them—Ray Culp. He pitched a six-hitter.

"They had just beaten up on us," said the burly right hander. "They've got a good, young club. It took one of my better nights to get them out."

All the action Thursday night was in the American League as Cleveland Indians trimmed Milwaukee Brewers 10-6, Baltimore Orioles beat the Chicago White Sox 8-7 in a rain-shortened, eight-inning game and Washington Senators drubbed California Angels 8-3.

Before running into Culp, the Royals were close to doing something that only one team in the history of baseball has done —sweep a season series. Baltimore Orioles shut out the Royals last year and, in fact, had won 23 straight over two seasons before Kansas City won a game this season.

The Red Sox made certain there wouldn't be another sweep this year as they scored four runs in the fifth off Ken Wright, including Reggie Smith's three-run homer.

"They could have won 1-0, but they just unloaded on us tonight," manager Culp said. "I really pitched a fine ball game.

"My home run was about due," said Smith, "I don't recall ever coming here without hitting one."

Ed Farmer pitched strong relief as Cleveland rallied from a 4-0 deficit with four runs in the fourth and five in the seventh to beat Milwaukee.

Paul Blair delivered a tie-breaking single in the Baltimore eighth before rain washed out a two-run rally by Chicago in the ninth.

Larry Biittner touched off a five-run splurge with a tie-breaking single in the ninth inning, carrying Washington over California.

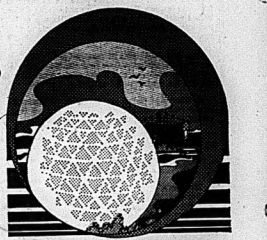
Carty Blames Cops



ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves outfielder Rico Carty, who led the National League in hitting last season, said Thursday his right eye probably has been damaged permanently as a result of an altercation involving three Atlanta policemen.

The policemen have been suspended without pay and Police Chief Herbert Jenkins commented: "This case involved the worst case of misconduct by a police officer I've ever seen."

Jenkins said the matter would be taken to a Fulton County grand jury for investigation, and that the suspended policeman also would be brought before the aldermanic police committee.

Catalina Kid Makes Honor Roll

TORONTO (CP) — Five Canadians, including George (The Catalina Kid) Young, are among a list of 48 international swimmers elected to the first honor roll in the Marathon Swimming Hall of Fame.

The honor roll will be placed in the International Swimming Hall of Fame in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The list was also released here by Bill Radds, executive-director for the newly-formed Marathon Swimming Foundation.

"The foundation was formed earlier this year to promote the sport of long-distance swimming in all its aspects," Rodda said in his release. "And to research and preserve records of the solos and races held throughout the world."

The list of initial inductees is a who's who of marathon swimming with six persons elected for each year since 1963 when records of the sport were first collected.

Among the first six is Young, the Toronto swimmer who won international fame at the age of 17 when he captured the $25,000 first prize put up by Bill Wrigley, Jr., for the 20-mile Catalina Channel swim in 1927.

Young's Catalina swim was later described as "the real reason" for the inauguration in 1927 of the annual world marathon swim at the Canadian National Exhibition here.

Young won the CNE race in 1931 and retired from swimming in 1933 to take a job with the Pennsylvania Railroad in Philadelphia, where he still lives.

The other Canadians honored are Marilyn Bell, first swimmer to cross Lake Ontario; Cliff Lumsdon of Toronto, four-time world champion marathoner; Patty Thompson of Hamilton, 1969 women's world champion marathoner, and George N. Duthie, who organized the marathon races at the CNE during the 1950s and 1960s.

Welch Will Not Tell Teachers' Group About Policy on Separate School Aid

KIMBERLEY, Ont. (CP) — Education Minister Robert Welch declined Thursday to answer questions fro mthe board of governors of Ontario Teachers Federation concerning financial aid to Ontario's separate schools.

Asked whether Ontario had planned to expand education grants for secondary schools to Grade 13 from Grade 10, Mr. Welch said:

"I'm in no position to comment on what the government's position is going to be.

He said Premier William Davis would announce the government's stand before the next general election because "we've made the commitment."

Earlier the 50 delegates meeting at this resort 150 miles northwest of Toronto, approved a motion recommending that they meet with the government's Human Resources Committee, "to discuss the matter of teacher supply and demand."

The delegates want a clearer picture of the number of unemployed teachers in the province.

Earlier in the week, deputy minister E. E. Stewart estimated that up to 1,900 of the 5,900 graduates of Ontario teachers colleges this year could be unemployed.

Delegates also referred a draft copy of what amounts to a teachers' bill of rights back to committee for further study.

It include the rights of teachers to share, in the form of loans in any provincial funds available for academic education; the right to appeal education department decisions, the right to a teaching year of not more than 200 days, and the right to consultation and involvement in the establishment of a philosophy of education, curriculum and program services.

In a morning session, John Rodrigues, teacher from Creighton, near Sudbury, accused the federation of being so concerned with upgrading its professional status that it regards trade unions as a form of "leprocy."

His motion that the federation get together with large unions to discuss mutual problems and reactions to wage and price freeze controls was defeated by the board.

Last Rally of Alberta Election Tonight

EDMONTON (CP) — The final major rally of the 1971 Alberta election campaign will be held tonight in Calgary and as the Monday vote approaches, few observers are brave enough to predict the outcome.

Neither Premier Harry Strom nor Progressive Conservative Leader Peter Lougheed, the front-runners in the campaign will predict the number of seats they will win.

"We are confident," said Premier Strom, fighting his first election as government leader, a position he inherited in 1968 from E. C. Manning, now a senator.

"I sense a growing momentum and a desire for change," Mr. Lougheed told a crowd Thursday night in Edmonton's Jubilee Auditorium—a rally which attracted more people than the Social Credit rally Wednesday night.

Wednesday, however, the premier and his candidates had to compete with a Western Football Conference game in the city.

The Social Creditors and Conservatives have held their major Edmonton rallies and the premier moves into Calgary today.

Grant Notley, the New Democratic Party leader who attracted 1,300 persons at a Calgary rally, says any more than one seat for his party would "be a bonus." Mr. Notley is predicted as the winner in Spirit River-Fairview in northern Alberta.

Liberal Leader Bob Russell, whose party has 20 candidates in the field, is fighting a tough four-way battle in St. Albert.

The number of seats needed to form a government in the enlarged 75-seat legislature is 38. Redistribution added 10 seats. At dissolution, the Social Credit government held 49 seats, the Conservatives 10 and one seat was vacant.

Both Mr. Strom and Mr. Lougheed vowed to visit each of Alberta's 75 constituencies and both have almost reached their goal. Mr. Lougheed had docked more than 70,000 miles.

The Social Credit and Conservative parties each have full slates of 75 candidates while the NDP has candidates in 70 ridings. Three independents bring the candidate total to 243.

The Conservatives have concentrated on the "time for a change" theme while the Social Credit leader has concentrated on the government provided by his party during the last 36 years.

Mr. Strom told an overflow audience at Wednesday's rally a Conservative victory would be the first step in the eventual takeover of Alberta by the socialists.

He said Social Credit was the "true answer" to socialism and a party of the people while the Conservatives are the party of special privilege and interests, a party against which the socialists would have a field day.

Davis Says U.S. Surcharge Not as Harmful as Feared

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis said Thursday Ontario will be not as badly hurt as feared by recent economic moves taken by the United States.

He told a Canadian National Exhibition directors' luncheon that Ontario economists at first feared that up to 35 per cent of the province's exports to the U.S. would be affected by the 10 per cent supplementary duty.

"That was 11 days ago and we have since seen the number of industries affected drop to 25 per cent and only a few hours ago we learned only 20 per cent would be affected," Mr. Davis said.

"It is certainly not as alarming as it seemed."

He said the supplementary duty does not apply to many of Ontario's larger industries, including nickel, iron ore, newsprint, pulpwood and the automobile industry.

Ontario's yearly exports to the U.S. amount to half the Canadian total of $13 billion. The premier's 20 per cent figure would represent products worth about $1.2 billion.

Cows, Dogs Sensed Coming Landslide

MONTREAL (CP) — A herd of cows and two dogs apparently sensed the St. Jean Vianney landslide disaster three hours before it happened, investigators revealed in a preliminary report Thursday.

The massive landslide swept through the small town 115 miles north of Quebec City May 4, moving 15 million tons of earth, swallowing up 40 homes and killing 31 persons.

The report was prepared by three investigators led by Quebec government geologist Jean-Yves Chagnon.

The investigators studied the terrain and interviewed dozens of area residents for information on the slide which swept through the town of 1,200 as many were preparing for bed.

Pitre Blackburn, a farmer, testified that he was unable to send his cows back to their grazing land at about 7:30 p.m. on the night of the disaster. The slide occurred three hours later.

"The cows, though usually docile, refused two attempts to put them out in the field that night," Mr. Blackburn had to leave them in the barn," the report said.

The field was washed away by the slide, the report added.

Two other disaster survivors reported that their dogs began behaving "abnormally" around 7 p.m. The animals were described as being extremely nervous.

One man said his dog acted the same as he did during a thunderstorm.

Both pet owners saw their streets split in half by the slide.

A chilling description of the disaster was given to investigators by Mrs. Roger Filion. She reported that Mrs. Lise Laforge, who perished along with her four children in the slide, called her between 10:30 and 10:45 p.m.

Mrs. Laforge asked Mrs. Filion if she felt a slight earthquake. She said she could suddenly see the lights of the city of Chicoutimi from a window in her home.

This was unusual because the view of the city had been previously obstructed from the Laforge home by a hill 200-feet high. But the hill was swallowed up in the slide and moments later the Laforge home went with it, taking Mrs. Laforge and her three children to their deaths.

Bus driver Jules Girard said he was driving his bus when he slowed down to pass over what appeared to be a small gully in the gravel road.

"However, as the front wheels of the bus reached the gully, the soil in front of the vehicle just 'disappeared' and the bus got stuck on the edge of the slide with its front wheels in the air," the report said.

Girard ordered the 18 passengers to escape via the rear door and was the last man to leave the bus. He then ran in a westerly direction, describing the sensation of the 150-foot run as like running on "moving stairs."

He had time to warn the inhabitants of one house on the way but could not get to three other houses.

Mr. Girard saw the three houses disappear into the crater with a sudden, vertical movement the report said.

He also saw a car driving down the road disappear into the carter.

A bridge across the Riviere aux Vases which flows into the Saguenay River was smashed to bits by a 60-foot high tidal wave of mud and rock moving at a velocity of 16 miles an hour, the report said.

The total amount of land washed into the 200-foot deep crater was about 350,000 square yards.

It was also noted that the clay and mud and the ground turbulence did not come to a complete halt until May 6.

Federal Trade Crisis Program Is in Initial Stages

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's contingency planning to meet the current trade crisis is still largely in its initial stages, a number of sources in the federal government indicated Thursday.

So far, the government is concentrating its main effort in trying to get an exemption from the United States' new 10-per-cent surcharge on imports, mainly of manufactured goods, from Canada.

But most government agencies have been asked to assess the impact of the U.S. import surcharge on the Canadian economy and suggest ways it might be met if a general exemption is not forthcoming.

None of these, it is understood, have yet reached the stage of cabinet decision.

When asked after Wednesday's cabinet meeting whether the government had a contingency plan, Prime Minister Trudeau first answered with a plain "yes," but a moment later added: "Well, I wouldn't say that it is worked out, because we are hoping that the surtax will not apply. We are working on the contingency where it would not."

Contingency planning in fact began in a nebulous way the moment President Nixon announced Aug. 15 that he was imposing the surcharge, ordering a 90-day wage and price freeze, and asking Congress to speed up tax relief. The immediate reaction among top civil servants here was, naturally, "What do we do now?"

A finance department source said early this week that alternatives to the possible exemption from the surtax were being considered, with priority being given to things the federal government could do by ministerial order or cabinet order-in-council.

Another source said Thursday that all of the possible courses of action are being looked at on basis of what the government could do itself, or what it might have to ask Parliament for by legislative action. Parliament resumes its 1971 session on Sept. 7.

Tax relief has been suggested for industries hit hardest by the U.S. import surcharge. This could be granted by a ministerial announcement by Finance Minister E. J. Benson, followed by ratification by Parliament later.

But government advisers are not sure how far this could be taken if it were to benefit only those firms that are damaged, without encountering heavy cost in the treasury in foregone revenues.

A prices and wages freeze is said not to be an immediate prospect for Canada, but the prices and incomes commission has been reported to be drafting stand-by plans. These were intended originally to be put on the shelf for use in another rapid inflation struck Canada. Now they may be held in reserve for mid-Novemeber.

The 90-day U.S. wage and price freeze is expected, technically, on Nov. 12, but the Nixon administration is to produce some machinery to moderate price and wage increases after that date.

Voluntary Breath Test Is Barred as Evidence

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Provincial Judge G. G. Marsham has ruled that a London woman who volunteered to take a breath analysis test could not be convicted of impaired driving because the Criminal Code of Canada says police must demand the test.

He dismissed the charge against Carol Johnson, who volunteered to take the test. Defence counsel Norman A. Peel of London argued that the criminal code specified police must demand the test and a voluntary "blow" into the apparatus is therefore not valid evidence.

The judge said the Crown attorney should appeal the ruling.

Mrs. Johnson was charged April 28 after voluntarily blowing into the equipment which registered .16. She was charged with driving with more than 08 per cent alcohol content in her blood.

Tweed District News

TWEED — Mr. Don Clarke has returned to his Denbigh home after being a patient in the Belleville General Hospital, where he underwent surgery.

Mr. Neil Grant, has returned to his home in Vennachar, after being a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

Howard Gibbs and Arnold Stinchcombe of Mountain Grove, drove to Belleville Sunday where they chartered a plane at the Belleville Flying Club and flew back over the Mountain Grove area, including Parham, Sharbot Lake, Arden, and Bordenwood.

Resident of Tweed and district, who remember the Reverend Allan Edward Pepper, will regret to learn of his death some weeks ago.

Department of lands and forests sale of timber tenders will be received by the department of lands and forests up to and including Tuesday, September 14, for the right to cut the timber on Part Lot 21, and Lot 22, Concession 17, Grimsthorpe Township. Further particulars may be obtained upon application to the District Forester at Tweed, Ontario.

Longer Surcharge Stays, the Worse Its Effects

TORONTO (CP) — The longer the new U.S. surcharge remains on imports from Canada, the greater will be the damage to all parts of the Canadian economy, Finance Minister E. J. Benson said Thursday night.

"It is probable that the initial impact of the surcharge on the Canadian economy as a whole will not be too severe," he said, "although certain sectors of the economy will face serious problems immediately.

"But the longer the surcharge continues to apply to Canadian exports, the greater will be the adverse impact throughout the whole Canadian economy."

Mr. Benson spoke to the Law Society of Upper Canada, a speaking engagement that was arranged weeks ago before he flew to the Netherlands for a holiday. The vacation was cut short by President Nixon's new economic policies announced Aug. 15.

He said there were important signs of good recovery in the Canadian economy at mid-year.

Retail sales in April, May and June were 17 per cent above a year earlier, indicating high consumer spending, a factor that would be vital to the continuing growth of the economy.

Labor income was rising steadily, reflecting growth of employment, he said. Between April and July, 817,000 new jobs were created, 36 per cent more than in the same period last year.

And capital expenditures, surveyed this spring by the trade department, were forecast at 11 per cent greater in 1971 than in 1970, almost two per cent higher than shown in a survey at the start of the year.

But while these and other indicators underlined accelerating growth, Mr. Benson said the Nixon announcements cast a cloud on the outlook. The 10-per-cent surcharge would affect almost one-quarter of Canada's exports to the U.S., which exceed those of Japan and the six European Common Market countries combined.

Mr. Benson said the present system of federal sales taxes is likely to remain basically the same for several years.

He said he does not propose to make further basic changes in sections of tax law after Parliament deals with his new bill on personal and corporation income taxes this fall.

Moreover, he said, when the federal government takes up the subject of sales and other commodity taxes, "it will likely be the responsibility of a different government."

He did not elaborate. It is believed it was the first time he has made reference to public the possibility of leaving the finance portfolio, but he said in an interview before the speech he has not made any decision not to run in the next general election, likely to be held in 1972.

All Or Nothing for Juveniles

Belleville wasn't going to settle for another tie in Thursday night's juvenile lacrosse play-off game and nothing short of a win would appease them.

With that in mind the locals stopped Trenton 4-1 to take a one game to none lead in the best-of-five juvenile finals. The first game ended in a 3 - 3 draw.

Dan Payne, Gerald Grier, Kerry Reid and Garth Penn each tallied for Belleville while Neil Turner was the lone scorer for Trenton.

One city championship was decided in action last night when the RCAF T-Birds defeated the Y's Mens Club 4-1 to capture the peewee title. Ross Hand had two goals with Jerry Hackett and Doug Rainbeh adding single tallies.

Dave McBride replied for the Men's Club.

In a hotly contested game Rick Barbeau recorded his third consecutive five - goal game in leading the Quinte Motor Hotel to a 7-5 win over Towers Food City. The win gives them the series and advances them into the league finals against Simpson-Sears. Sandy Waterson and Chris Rutledge scored the other Queen's goals.

Gord Male with three goals and John Lowe with two handled all the Towers' scoring.

Daisy Queen evened their novice series at one game apiece with a 6-3 win over Bob's Sports. Steve Ridell with two goals and Mark Conway and Bob Isaac with one each were the Daisy scorers.

Jerry Healy, Hugh Northy and Brad Miller replied for Bob's.

Milers Mauled

The Golden Mile Olympic peewees saw the long and short of Belleville Minor Soccer this week losing 5-0 and winning 1-0.

Toni Britton's three goals paced Bob's Auto Olympics to their 5-0 win. Rick Barbeau and Sterling Wilson scored one goal each for the Winners.

Stephan Edwards made sure of the only break in the game for the Milers in their 1-0 victory over the Falcons. Edwards scored on a second half penalty kick to win the game.

Swiss Beckon Bathgate

BARRIE (CP) — Andy Bathgate, veteran of more than 15 years in the National Hockey League, said Thursday he is quitting professional hockey and hopes to become a player-coach in Switzerland.

"I'm positive I won't play pro hockey any more," said Bathgate, who will be 39 Saturday. Playing with the Swiss team would be an opportunity for his family to see some of the world, he said.

Bathgate, here as an instructor in a summer hockey school, said he is having difficulty acquiring an amateur card, which would enable him to join Ambry Piotta, the Swiss senior amateur team which has offered him a job.

He said Vancouver Canucks, who acquired his playing rights from Pittsburgh Penguins in the reverse draft this summer, are reluctant to release him.

The right winger, who scored 349 goals and 624 assists in 1,003 NHL regular-season games, said he hopes he may no able to join the Swiss team without the amateur card. He said he expects a ruling on the matter from the Swiss Ice Hockey Federation in a few days.

Bathgate, a native of Winnipeg, won the Hart Trophy as most valuable player in 1958-59.

Jackson Jilted

RALIEGH, N.C. (AP) — Jackie Jackson, woman baseball player, apparently will not become a member of the Raleigh-Durham team of the Class A Carolina League.

Walter Brock, the team's general-manager, said Thursday he had sent the 23-year-old Burtonsville, Md., coed an alyst a telegram cancelling the club's contract offer, which he had made Wednesday.

Brock indicated he had not received firm, written confirmation from the first baseman-outfielder that she intended to appear Monday in Durham to sign a contract, and that he assumed she was no longer interested.

Earlier, Brock had said details of the contract were agreed upon by telephone Wednesday and that only the formality of her signature was needed before she donned uniform.

Miss Jackson was given a tryout last week by the Pittsfield, Mass., team of the class AA Eastern League.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Mention "Ike" and most of us think of Eisenhower. Mention "Pap," last and few know it is a contraction of the name of its inventor and developer — Dr. George Papanicolaou. By their nicknames you shall know them — and honor them.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My doctor tells me that a Pap test taken five years ago probably saved my life. It was positive. The surgen removed my uterus. There has been no recurrence of the cancer since then. At this late date, I am frank enough to say that I have gone all this time without really trying to find out just what is meant by a Pap test. Will you explain? — Mrs. O.

* * *

COMMENT: Its main purpose is to discover early whether there is the beginning of cancer of the cervix (the neck of the womb), a common area for cancer in women. For this reason we fondly recommend that women have a Pap test at least once or twice a year.

It is not painful. All the doctor does is collect fluid from the cervix, which is bound to contain some loosened cells. This smear is examined under the microscope. If the cells show no abnormalities, then the report usually comes back as a negative test. If questionable, it is repeated.

However, if the examiner finds there are some atypical "wild" cells in the specimen, he calls the test positive. Cancer cells are beginning to grow in the cervix. If there is doubt, a biopsy (removal of a bit of tissue) will furnish the answer.

Once the definite diagnosis is made, operation (with or without radiation treatment) is the usual decision. You can be thankful, Mrs. O., that your Pap test picked up the condition so early.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Most young expectant mothers now know they should beware of taking drugs during their first three months of pregnancy. Like German measles, some drugs can harm the baby.

But don't you think they are going overboard in refusing to take even an aspirin tablet when they are in their eighth or ninth month? I have a neighbor who is pregnant and is having severe headaches, but she will not take an aspirin.— Mrs. D.

COMMENT: A good rule is to take no medicine during the entire pregnancy without the consent of the attending obstetrician. It has been reported lately that even an aspirin may produce unwelcome effects on the youngster, such as bleeding or other complications.

So better not try to talk your friend into taking medicine for her headaches. What is most important is to discover the reason for her discomfort. That is the doctor's job. If he believes that some medicine is imperative, he will prescribe it.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: X-rays show I have a gastric ulcer. My doctor has put me on a strict diet for six weeks and wants me to return for another series of stomach X-rays. Isn't this too early for a re-examination? — Mrs. M.

COMMENT: It might be too early if you had a duodenal ulcer. But I believe his reason for wanting an early checkup is to determine if there has been any healing or diminishment in size of the gastric ulcer (stomach ulcer).

He is playing safe, and he thankful for it. He wants to make sure that it is a simple ulcer. If in doubt, operation is the proper method of discovering the extent of the trouble.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 28

Your birthday today: Begins a year of getting to the spiritual centre of life and its questions. Whether you plan it or not, your own welfare leads you to seek broad group effort that must be done for your community. There is opportunity to expand your personal expression by leaving behind outworn routines, bad habits. Today's natives tend to become involved in helping others in crises, and are generally very efficient at almost anything they try.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your eyes and appetite are far larger than you needs and budget — look but don't buy yet. Selling off excess belongings can be a lark.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Your own moves should be considered well in advance and kept to a minimum. You should keep by now the characteristics of those you love.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Even trivial routines, superficial habits and mannerisms turn out to have special impact on your prosperity and opportunity.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Friendship blossoms and may go on into something more serious than average. Pursue sentimental projects.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Credit where it's due opens doors for you. Patronage does not yield positive results; mutual self-respect does.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): No matter how humorless the situation seems to you, go along with a laugh. Somebody's view

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Expenditures are lowered, down in shambles — your own as well as those of others. Mindful of your own affairs becomes a positive virtue.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Almost behind-curtain is worthy of exploration but be aht shy of formal affiliations for the immediate.

Temptation is toward dramatic expression, generous entertaining. Most such activity not only would defeat its intentions but you'll need to use the money for better purposes later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22—Dec. 21): "Upward and onward" becomes the slogan for today. Playing it straight emerges ahead of petty self-centred approaches.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Pretensions are lowered, down in shambles — your own as well as those of others. Mindful of your own affairs becomes a positive virtue.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Have a care for the feelings and rights of others as you reach for improvements. Those who normally work smoothly with you are sensitive.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Your ambitions point one way; homelife and its promised serene happiness may not be on the same road for you now.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Knowledge Gives Standard

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We all pay lip-service to the idea of "knowledge" but we don't understand the most important thing about it. And that is the "negative" use to which it can be put.

One of the main purposes of "knowing" any subject really well is to give us a standard of what knowledge really means. Only when we have this standard can we appreciate our ignorance on other subjects.

Suppose we become an expert in the field of music. We grasp the technical nature, its intricacies, its subtleties, its elusive problems. Thus, the music we read or hear is far different from what the layman hears or talks about in popular discussions of the subject.

Now, when we approach another field — say, history or politics — we have a yardstick for measuring our degree of knowledge and ignorance. We know what knowing really consists in. And we do not delude ourselves that our smattering of opinion and prejudice and hearsay in the field of history or politics really constitutes anything resembling "knowledge".

And this is perhaps one of the most important things we can learn in life — a respect for the nature and extent (and limitations) of knowledge in any field. Without this appreciation, we run the risk of arrogant ignorance when we leave our specialty.

This is not to suggest that only the "experts" have a right to discuss fields that fall in the public interest, like politics, or psychology, or even housing and urban planning. Every intelligent and concerned citizen must take an interest in such matters; many of them are too important to be left to the specialists.

It does suggest, however, a little more modesty and a little less dogmatism in discussing them. It suggests that "common sense" is not enough equipment to bring to the full understanding of music. Only when we know what we do not know can we begin to learn something.

And the only way we can know that we do not know something is by comparing it with what we truly know. Someone with a smattering of information in a number of subjects, and no serious foundation in any one of them, may sound glib and plausible at cocktail parties, but lacks the essential respect for knowledge that makes his contribution worthwhile.

Whitehead said long ago that everybody should have general knowledge and special knowledge: general, because without it he is too narrow a specialist: and special, because without it he lacks the criteria for evaluating his opinions. Only the two together make an "education".

U.S. Surcharge Changes Thinking

Possibility Slim, But Federal Election Talk Revives

OTTAWA (CP) — In Ottawa's favorite guessing game — the date of the next federal election — next year remains the most popular choice, but the new United States import duties have revived scattered speculation about the possibilities of a vote this fall.

Until U.S. President Nixon announced the new 10-per-cent duty two weeks ago and cast a heavy shadow over Canada's exporting business the government's advisers were confidently predicting a brighter employment picture for next spring. This could be a compelling factor in the timing of an election.

But the picture is no longer clear. Prime Minister Trudeau has said that "thousands" of Canadians could lose their jobs because of the U.S. surcharges. If these surcharges are maintained for a long period, the full impact could hit Canadian industry in six months time.

In the face of this, no one is predicting what the unemployment situation may be like by next year.

Some highly-placed Liberals argue that if an election were held this fall-even with relatively high unemployment-the government would have some success in laying the blame squarely on the U.S. doorstep.

But by next spring, they say, the initial impact of Mr. Nixon's move will have been forgotten, and the government would have little success in blaming external forces.

The danger of a fall campaign held under these conditions, say sources, is that it would be bound to take on strong nationalistic overtones, which could be construed as anti-Americanism.

They say that Prime Minister Trudeau, who makes the final decision on the election date, is opposed to nationalistic-style campaigns.

There is also the problem of positive campaign issues for a campaign held under such circumstances.

There is general acknowledgement that any retaliatory action taken by Canada against U.S. exports would further damage Canadian industries, many of which depend on the availability of American supplies.

A cabinet source says there is no doubt that the effects of the U.S. policy will be seriously considered in terms of an election date, "but we'll have to wait until the dust settles before any conclusions can be reached."

One Thousand Flee Burning Ferryboat

Thirty Bodies Found

BRINDISI, Italy (AP) — A fire-devastated a Greek ferryboat off the southeast coast of Italy today, forcing about 1,000 persons on board to abandon ship. The Italian navy said about 30 bodies were recovered from the sea.

An undetermined number of dead were still floating in the stormy Adriatic six hours after the disaster.

Between 600 and 700 passengers and crew were taken aboard rescue ships, which converged on the scene 25 miles off this southern Italian port.

Early reports said many of the passengers plunged into the sea from the deck as fire raced through the 11,874-ton Greek ferryboat Heleanna.

A Lebanese freighter, Universe Defender, plucked about 400 survivors from the sea and made for Brindisi.

A Soviet ship, Svoboda, took on 60 persons. A plane from a U.S. Air Force base dropped rafts after its pilot spotted many persons swimming away from the burning ship.

An Italian Air Force officer said the ship burned for more than six hours and was "destroyed" but still afloat. No one was left aboard, said the officer, Col. Vicenzo Gasperini of the Italian military base at Taranto.

The ferry, loaded with tourists, was heading from the Greek ports of Piraeus and Corfu to the Italian city of Ancona when the blaze erupted, apparently in the kitchen.

Mounties Guard Five Jails

EDMONTON (CP) — Mounties stood guard at five provincial jails today after the regular staffs walked out in a dispute over bargaining rights.

Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart of the Social Credit government linked the walkout to Monday's provincial election.

Officials at all the jails said withdrawal of services by the guards was orderly and they were given ample time to put emergency plans into operation and call the RCMP. There were no reports of disturbances among the estimated 1,000 prisoners.

RCMP would not say how many men were sent to the jails.

Warden Ernie Noel of the Fort Saskatchewan jail said most of his staff walked out at 9 p.m. and there was no picketing. The jail was being staffed by a skeleton force of administrative officials and about half a dozen RCMP sitting around.

He said the job of the Mounties was to guard the outside. Mr. Gerhart said he had photographic evidence of "political involvement"—pictures showing signs on the front of an association official's home supporting the opposition Progressive Conservatives in Monday's provincial election.

Davis Unlikely To Give Extended RC School Aid

TORONTO (CP) — Reports in two Toronto newspapers, say Progressive Conservative members of the Ontario legislature apparently decided Friday to oppose extension of aid to Roman Catholic high schools.

The Star says all but two or three of the caucus members were reported to have favored retention of the present government policy which supports separate schools to Grade 10.

The Globe and Mail says only a handful of the members argued for extension of aid, and says most of them talked only in favor of a compromise and not blanket financing.

Following a meeting of the caucus behind closed doors at Queen's Park, Premier William Davis told reporters that government policy on the matter will be further discussed by the cabinet Wednesday.

He said he could give no date when the government's policy would be announced. However, the Toronto newspapers speculated the announcement would come next week, possibility the day of the cabinet meeting.

Noting that caucus discussions are secret, Mr. Davis declined to give any indication of what policy had been presented. But Mr. Davis said it was "no secret" that the separate-school issue was discussed.

The Star says it is expected the cabinet will confirm the stand it reports was taken at the caucus meeting, attended by most of the 68 PC members.

It quotes one source as saying that even the seven Roman Catholic members of caucus—three of them cabinet ministers —offered no strong support for the grant extensions.

It says one Catholic member said he has been deluged by telephone calls from his largely Roman Catholic riding, "all but a few of them saying no to give the grants."

St. Louis Blues Death Song

Satchmo's Ex-wife Dies Playing Piano Tribute

CHICAGO (Reuter) — She died as she would have wished —swinging the blues at a piano, leading some of those 'cats' who made the Chicago style of the 1920s the great sound it was—and the jazz world mourned today.

The death of Lilian Hardin Armstrong at 73, the woman who tutored and married the jazz age's greatest trumpeter, Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, came less than two months after his death.

She was struck down Friday afternoon in Chicago's Civic Centre Plaza as she led her kind of men—jazzmen. Red Saunders, Art Hodges, Helen Forrest among them on the piano in a tribute to Satchmo.

As they swung into the St. Louis Blues—the anthem of the jazz decalogue—Lil Hardin collapsed, the victim of a fatal heart attack.

They stripped off her silver slippers, applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, took her in an ambulance to hospital, but Lil was dead within a few minutes of her arrival.

The death cut another gap in the rapidly thinning ranks of pioneers who fashioned and played the rhythms that swept the world.

Lil Hardin, born in Memphis, Tenn., met up with Satchmo in Chicago when gangsters and prohibition were setting their mark on the brawling Midwest capital.

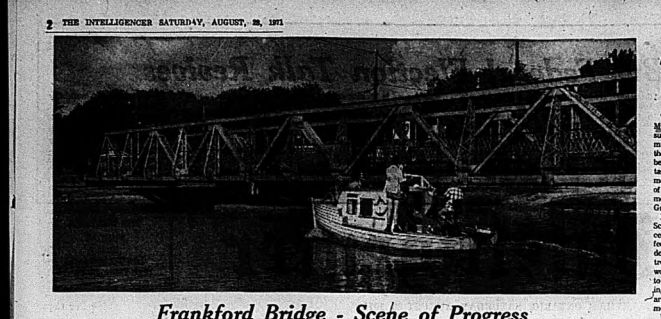
Armstrong, whose funeral in New York she attended about seven weeks ago, arrived in Chicago in 1923 to play second trumpet with the legendary Joseph (King) Oliver's band. She was the band's rhythm pianist.

Lil and Louis married in 1924 and moved into a southside apartment. She encouraged him, worked with him and taught him to read music.

Seven years later the couple separated. They were divorced in 1938.

When Armstrong split away from Oliver's band, Lil carried on, pounding out the rhythms, recording and composing.

She wrote more than 150 songs in her career, many of them still favorites with jazz enthusiasts—songs like Sarutiin' With Some Barbeque, Just For a Thrill, Brown Joy, Oriental Strut and Perfect.



Despite separation, Armstrong and his former wife teamed up again—at the famed Dreamland in Chicago—where Lil formed a great group.

It was thanks to her urging that Armstrong, who had been making all of $35 a week, was given another $20 a week by Dreamland's manager.

She also persuaded the manager to bill Armstrong on the marquee as "world's greatest trumpet player." The sign did not exaggerate.

Mrs. Armstrong still lived in the Chicago house that she and Louis bought in 1927.

Mrs. Armstrong—she never gave up her married name—had been in retirement for a number of years.

One of the key points of progress for Frankford is embodied in the bridge pictured here at the end of the nine mile rapids near Frankford. A long history accompanies the bridge including the time when it was demolished by a large ice flow. A new bridge was reconstructed in 1904 and stands till this day as one of the links between Frankford and the neighboring communities.

Locomotive Fence May Be Removed

Should the fence surrounding the old CN steam locomotive at Zwick's Island Centennial Park be removed to allow children to climb at will?

That is the question facing members of the city parks board after attention has been brought to the possibility of the present fence itself being a hazard.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds told parks board members this week that on several occasions he had observed young boys "climbing all over the old locomotive," this despite the fact it is surrounded by a fence.

"If one of the boys fell on the fence, it could be fatal," he warned.

It was noted that similar locomotive showpieces in parks in many other centres were not fenced, with kids being allowed to climb at will.

At Zwick's Island, although the locomotive area is fenced, a stile allows viewers access to the locomotive cab from which all the old operating controls are removed.

"There is nothing to see in the cab and the fence doesn't prevent boys from climbing the locomotive," was the comment of one board member.

Survey to Produce Cost Of Anti-pollution Act

The Canadian Federation of Municipalities is conducting a survey to determine which municipalities are affected by the recent agreement signed between the Federal and Ontario governments to implement an accelerated program of municipal sewage treatment facilities for the Lower Great Lakes basin.

Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott said Friday he had received an enquiry from the federation asking operational details of the local sewage treatment plant and what would be the approximate cost to the municipality in achieving the water quality standards contained in the agreement.

Under the agreement municipalities in the basin will be expected to raise $230 million over the next four years in a combined $500 million attack on pollution of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

The Federation letter noted that according to press reports all but $42 million of the total will eventually be paid by residents of the communities.

The Federation letter asks whether Belleville is affected by the agreement and whether the municipality has been consulted by senior governments or agencies of senior governments in connection with the planned program.

Mayor Scott said he was now determining operational details of the local sewage plant and said neither of the senior governments had consulted the city about the Lower Great Lakes cleanup agreement.

"The answer is no," said the mayor.

Mayor Scott said he didn't know what Belleville would have to do to bring its facilities up to standards called for in the agreement.

Until requirements were known there could be no estimate of the cost, he said.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission is currently completing construction of a $1.7 million secondary treatment addition to the sewage treatment plant in Foster Ward.

Pedestrian Killed Walking for Gas

Police Provincial Police here called out an extra officer last night to help cope with a rash of accidents on district highways.

An unidentified man was killed at the junction of Highways 37 and 401. He is believed to have come from outside the Quinte district.

Early this morning a transport truck overturned 1½ miles east of Belleville on Highway 401. The driver, Alexander Melville of Port Credit was treated at Belleville General Hospital for scalp lacerations and released.

In another incident about 1 a.m. Saturday Thurlow fire department chased a burning car from Point Anne lane westward to the intersection of Foster and East Dundas St. in Belleville. The car caught on fire on Highway 2 near Point Anne lane and the fire department was summoned. However, the car continued to burn with the fire truck in pursuit, until well inside the city limits.

No serious injuries were reported from the series of other accidents reported throughout the district. None of those taken to hospital for treatment were admitted.

City police were called to a four-car pile up on North Front St. near Harvey's about 10 p.m. Friday. A passenger in one car, Michael Quinn, 62, Madoc, was treated at BGH and released.

Percy Whiteman of Belleville, suffered minor injuries when his car was in collision with another driven by Arthur J. Brunet, Hillier at the corner of Bell and Dundas St. The Whiteman car, eastbound at the time of the accident, overturned as it exited, coming to rest in the Santa Village buildings on the parking lot of LaSalle Ambulance.

A Peterbrough man was killed on Highway 401 near the Highway 37 interchange after his car ran out of gas. The pedestrian left his car in the east bound lane of Highway 401 and was walking along the road toward Belleville when struck by a car.

Car Toll At Mall 46,000

You're right. There were a lot of people at the Quinte Mall this past week.

With car counters (electric eyes) positioned at each entrance, the management of the plaza claims "there were 46,000 cars in our lot over the first week of business".

Although it would be impossible to count each person who entered the door, "we have estimated that there are probably three occupants in each car. From these car figures and approximations, we can assume that there have been 138,000 customers in the opening week."

David Blandford, manager of the mall says, "This figure has to taper off but it will climb again to the opening figure and more than likely surpass it by Christmas."

This population figure does not include bus loads of shoppers ferried into the mall each half-hour from the city and does not include the walk-in traffic. "These bus loads will stabilize the approximation of how people a car load and add to the over-all figure," said Mr. Blandford.

"The merchants are extremely happy," said the mall manager and we are proving that a mall can work in a community of this size."

Sunny Sunday Coming

TRENTON (Staff) — Quinte residents preparing for the worse from the side effects of tropical storm Doria can relax and expect a beautiful weekend, according to the duty forecaster at CFB Trenton this morning. His report showed that the storm at 9:30 a.m. was a shade north of New York City, farther east than scheduled and that the Quinte district has already received most of the rain that followed the storm.

It would be clearing by this evening, he noted.

Sunday will be sunny with temperatures in the mid-70s.

Radio-Record Player Stolen

PICTON — The Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police is investigating the theft of a radio-record player, valued at $200, taken from the Milford residence of Roger Moore.

An unidentified person or persons apparently gained entrance to the Moore home through a basement window during the family's absence this week. An OPP spokesman said today there are no suspects in connection with the incident.

Train Cuts Car In Two But Driver Unharmed

TRENTON — Bernard L. Deruska, 21, of RR3, Belleville can consider himself to be lucky to be alive today.

The car he was driving was cut in two by an eastbound CN freight train at 2:53 a.m. this morning in a collision at Meyer's Crossing on the 2nd of Sidney township south of Highway 401.

Ambulance attendants reported he was unconscious when they picked him up at the scene. He was treated at the emergency department of Trenton Memorial Hospital home. Mr. Deruska was alone in his car at the time of the accident.

Convention Bureau Expanded

The decision of the local Chamber of Commerce to set up a Belleville Convention Bureau is meeting with encouraging prospects.

At the inaugural meeting of expanded bureau held Tuesday night it was noted that 909 mail solicitations of various national and provincial organizations have been completed and out of 115 replies received more than 50 have expressed interest in considering Belleville as a convention site.

Already several conventions have been arranged for Belleville by the bureau including the American Hellenic Association and a sales conference for Holland Paper.

At the inaugural meeting, chairman George Van de Water reviewed the progress of the bureau to date and welcomed new members—Alderman Gerald Joyce and Jack Ireland representing the city, Chris Cornwall of the Four Seasons Hotel and Gordon Collins of the Sun Valley Motor Inn.

Three sub-committees were appointed.

Cobbledick Displays Trimson

New Tomato Variety Tested in Quinte

By MARGARET BAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — The Trimson tomato, developed by Jack Metcalfe, tomato breeder for the Smithfield Research Station, Trenton, this summer represents something new under the sun in Prince Edward.

A cross between the Trent variety and varieties characterized by dark crimson colors, the Trimson is remarkably "Topsy - turvey".

Instead of ripening first on the outside, the Trimson reddens from its centre outward.

Fruit and vegetable specialist for the Ontario department of agriculture in Prince Edward, Robert Cobbledick said yesterday the Trimson has been grown in the county this summer exclusively by tomato processors.

Approximately 20 acres of farm land throughout Prince Edward were sown with seed offered by the Smithfield Research Station.

He explained the Trimson is an early season tomato which is a decided advantage to growers concerned with damage from early frosts. Their total yield would not be as seriously reduced with the Trimson variety, in the event of frost, as it now would be with the Heinz 1350 variety.

Described by Mr. Cobbledick as "a mealier tomato" the Trimson holds its shape when peeled in the can and also will hold on the vine.

This second characteristic is important to the picker working on a quota basis. If he exceeds his quota the Trimson will sit in the field without signs of spoilage for a short time.

Prince Edward's new tomato is slightly less acid than other varieties and is considered very good for table use.

The Trimson, this year for the first time being processed to a significant degree in the county, could earn its place with the established Heinz 1350 and Trent and Rideau varieties.

"If this year proves as we expect it will, the Trimson will pick up a lot of the slack some of these other varieties have had," suggested Mr. Cobbledick.

The Trimson and other tomato varieties now are being picked and processed in Prince Edward as approximately a dozen area factories gradually swing into operation.

Among the first to begin processing in the Quinte district were the Greer Canning Co. Ltd., Wellington and Shannonville Canners Ltd.

The county's largest vegetable crop in terms of gross returns to the farmer tomatoes are grown on 1200 acres of Prince Edward farm land. The annual gross income to local growers has been estimated at approximately $500,000, annually.

At least 300 persons find summer employment as peelers in Prince Edward canneries as tomatoes travel from field to factory.

Picked in five peck crates by tomato harvesters, the fruit is usually allowed to sit in the field or at a processing plant for a day or more to promote good cooler.

At the factory tomatoes undergo government inspection and are graded as grade one, grade two or culls. Growers are paid in accordance with the grade system with no price offered for culls.

Tomatoes after being graded are weighed, then dumped into a water bath. The bright red orbs of fruit are caught by a conveyor belt and pulled toward a steam bath for scalding. This process loosens the skins of the tomatoes for ready peeling.

The tomatoes, now with skins cooked are fed to a central conveyor belt with peelers seated on each side of it. These factory employees select tomatoes as they travel past on the conveyor belt and peel them. They are then dropped into cans, salted for flavor, capped and cooked.

The purpose of the cooking process is to bring the temperature of the can's centre to 195 degrees Fahrenheit, killing bacteria.

Samples from each run of tomatoes are taken by representatives of the Canadian department of agriculture, Belleville, as checks are made on the grade. Tomatoes can be packed as standard, choice, or fancy. Taste tests are taken and samples sent to Ottawa for evaluation.

Cans containing the freshly packed tomatoes are cooled in still another bath, then hung in giant baskets to dry. The cans are then packed away.

Most of the smaller canning factories will label their tomatoes this winter as orders are received from various stores.

The tomato harvest will continue until the first killing frost, usually in late September.

Mr. Cobbledick said yesterday dry weather this spring badly reduced the potential on irrigated tomato fields. Heavy rains received this week will help in sizing late maturing tomatoes but where drought has reduced vine growth significant change is unlikely.

Park Site Paved Area Approved

Lightfoot Construction Ltd. of Belleville has been awarded the contract for asphalt paving of the parking lot and roadway leading to the new Centennial School park site in West Belleville.

The amount of the Lightfoot tender was $14,541.80 — or $700 below the $15,210 bid submitted by McFarland Construction.

During the summer the parks department graded the new parks area west of Centennial School and north of the new Dick Ellis Rink and the Sir John A. Macdonald Public School and seeded it with grass.

The 50-acre school and park site will be developed as a recreational complex by the parks board and Hastings County Board of Education.

Loyalist Pilot Project Co-operative Venture

Loyalist College this fall will begin a co-operative program to train mental retardation counsellors, president Herbert Young announced today.

Arrangements have been completed with Prince Edward Heights, the new hospital for the mentally retarded in Picton, for Loyalist to provide the complete academic portion of the training.

Trainees are recruited by the Mental Retardation Branch of the department of health for a two-year training program. Upon successful completion of the program, they are awarded a certificate by the department of health. They will then be employed as residential counsellors at Ontario centres for the mentally retarded.

The course will be set up so that students will alternate between Picton and Belleville, and academic portion of their training may be immediately applied in the clinical setting of the hospital. Loyalist will employ one fulltime instructor who will be permanently stationed at the Picton hospital.

This type of co-operative venture is a first for both the community college system and the department of health. It was proposed by H. J. Colliver, board member for Prince Edward County. It will be used by Loyalist as a model for future programs dealing with service courses.

Rezoning Would Allow Fifty Rowhouse Units

Belleville and Suburban Planning Board Thursday night approved an application by Maurice H. Rollins Construction Ltd. to rezone a portion of land siding on Moira Street West, Tripp Avenue and Elgin Street, from single and family detached buildings to multiple attached group dwellings.

Rezoning from R1 and R2 to R4G will allow the construction company to proceed with development of 50 rowhouse units in that area.

A representative of the company told the board, "if zoning is approved, we will get a contract for geared-to-income housing."

Planning director Bert Kenny said 'as far as use of the land is concerned, we are in favor of it." However, he said widening of access roads would have to be considered.

This suggestion was made into an accompanying motion approving the rezoning application, which will be forwarded to city council for its sanction.

Irresponsible Talk

The federal youth committee's recommendation that marijuana and hashish be legalized is just one more indication of the permissiveness of our day.

Almost as reprehensible is the line taken by many who are against legalizing the stuff but only on the grounds that not enough is known about its effects. As we have pointed out in the past, only recently in fact, there is evidence that men have committed murder under the influence of marijuana. It has happened in Vietnam and we are not referring to killings in the course of battle action but of U.S. soldiers by their buddies. Then there is the young man in custody in Montreal in connection with the death of a student employee at Man and His World; the accused allegedly was under the influence of marijuana.

Thus it may be seen that use of such drugs can make a person lose control, and all the more so in persons of unstable temperament.

To recommend the legalization of marijuana and hashish is to promote the further degeneration of a society already weakened in recent years by licence of every hue. Instead of being the devil's advocate it is time government-sponsored study groups turned their attention to old-fashioned character-building.

For their part, young people and those adults who also have fallen prey to drug usage, would be doing themselves, and society, a favor by dropping the habit. The world needs men and women, not walking wounded, zombies — and in the extreme, people who have blown their minds to the extent they are in psychiatric hospital, some with irreversible brain damage.

Return Visit

Nostalgia is a powerful element in the human soul. The dictionary defines it as homesickness, a longing to go back to one's home, home town, or homeland. Also a longing for something far away or long ago.

Malawi president Dr. Hastings Banda must have felt this keenly during his State visit to South Africa. The first black head of state to make such a visit to the white-dominated republic, Dr. Banda visited a gold mine near Johannesburg where he worked almost 50 years ago as a clerk. He walked over a railway footbridge he had once used, on his way to buy text books. Here it was, he said, that he had received much of his education from that very rail platform at the tiny station of Delmore he caught a train on the first leg of a journey to the United States to fulfill a vow he made years before to become a doctor. Nearby stands the now defunct mine where he worked as a clerk; he walked through the deserted complex, recalling people who had worked with him, recalling names and the positions of their desks as they were then.

New Zealand-born author Hector Bolitho, a British resident and author of many works on the Royal Family, noted in his autobiography: "you can never go back to the places upon which time has placed its stamp." There is a lot of truth in that statement. Sometimes though an opportunity presents itself for a once-in-a-lifetime return visit, amid the ghosts of past endeavor that were the spur to achievement and, ultimately, leadership and stature among one's fellow men. Dr. Banda, one of black Africa's leading personalities, has been afforded such an opportunity.

Change And Decay

Globe and Mail columnist Richard Needham says Toronto has not reached the stage of decay and violence of such American cities as Detroit, New York, Cleveland and Chicago. And he does not (with fingers crossed) think it will.

"Downtown Toronto," he says, "is safe; I should know; I walk through its streets and alleyways at all hours of the day and night. Downtown Toronto is alive and well; as the Civic Square indicates, as the Yonge Street malls of the summer have indicated, as is indicated by the crowds flocking into Simpson's and Eatons."

For the decline which some cities in the U.S. are undergoing, Mr. Needham picks an appropriate theme, the heading also of his article. It is from Henry Francis Lyte's celebrated hymn, Abide With Me: 'Change and Decay in all Around I see. . ."

Eight Trips in Three Years

The Prime Minister's Exotic Tastes in Vacation Travel

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Small wonder Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau has been feeling a little on the sensitive side about his offshore vacations.

He has only had eight of them in three years.

A bit better than one every six months.

That is exclusively out-of-the-country travel, mind you, and excludes recreational time-outs in such Canadian holiday haunts as the Bugaboos, Garibaldi Park, the Laurentians and the Gatineau.

And it does not count, of course, as it should not, long weekends at Harrington Lake, the Prime Minister's summer lodge, nestling in solitary splendor amid the ancient white pines on the edge of Gatineau Park, 20 miles north of the Capital at the end of a one-lane gravel trail guarded by the RCMP.

A foreign holiday every six months or less is a far better travel deal than any other Prime Minister has ever managed.

And all done so quietly and in such privacy that nobody really seemed to notice until the Prime Minister himself, in a rare mood of contrition, revealed he had detected some "feelings of resentment by press and public," as he put it, on his frequent absences in romantic Faraway Places.

Not resentment over his official missions of business — to Australia, New Zealand, Singapore, Pakistan, India, London, Washington and points in between — but just of the jetting to foreign shores for fun and frolic.

His first vacation venture was modest enough, if so private as to be almost secret like most of the others, just a flip down to Florida where he holed up with travelling companion Finance Minister Edgar Benson in an unpretentious Fort Lauderdale district - on - the - beach motel.

There a hound-dog type of investigative reporter tracked him down and flushed him out but lost the scent in his flight from publicity.

Then in August of 1968, shortly after his federal election sweep, he was off again, this time to an undisclosed destination in Spain. Nobody, that trip, got close enough to shoot a picture or get a quotemer get even a rough rundown of how or with whom he spent his time.

That December there was a week out on an island in the Caribbean off the Mexican coast, later pin-pointed on the map as Cozumel — a strictly exclusive wealthy - watering hole — where he spent a week skin-diving with friends into the coral caves of the emerald sea.

Came then a long "work-break" in between fun flights abroad, lasting nine months — with time out only for quickie holidays here at home — and he was off again in September '69 for the magic places you read about in the travel sections of the weekend newspapers.

The Mediterranean.

He spent three weeks cruising the Med on a borrowed yacht, in the company, among others, of a mysterious female whose identity never has been made public officially.

That time there were pictures — fleeting glimpses, stolen glances taken through telescopic lenses, by those enterprising photographers of Paris MATCH — revealing nothing really of the kind of holiday it was, serving only to tease public curiosity.

Three months later, in December, he jetted out again to the Caribbean for another skin-diving deep, deep down, 150 feet or more, into the coral caverns off the island of Roatan, Honduras. He was away a week.

Again he eluded prying eyes, photographic and reportorial alike.

Only a month later, in January of the new year, the Prime Minister, if obsessed as he seems with privacy, made the tactical error of flying out to one of the world's best-publicized vacation resorts, the ski slopes of the French Alps. Again it was a shortie vacation, just a week.

And that was it, foreign-holidaywise, for the Prime Minister for last year. Of course there were, as there have to be for any PM, excursions on official Government business, and short recreational breaks here at home.

The sun and sand of the Caribbean must exert a compelling magnetism for the Prime Minister, for it was to The Bahamas — with a pit-down for a plane change at Nassau and a flip to the Out Islands — that he took his bride Margaret in April for the second stanza of their honeymoon, the first having been spent on the slopes of British Columbia's-Whistler Mountain.

And since that idyl, they went again, only three months later, to Yugoslavia's Caspian coast, scheduling other jaunts in Eastern and Western Europe while astutely combining business and pleasure . . . as he explained it . . . when they flew away before he had to hurry home to mind the ex-officio neglected economic store.

Count them . . . eight offshore vacations in three years, a goodly shade better than one every 19 weeks.

Nice going, if you can manage it, what?

Ald. Keegan's Remarks On Makeup of Council

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I find it hard to believe that Mr. Keegan gave very much thought to his emotional tirade at Centennial Secondary School on Wednesday evening.

It seems inconceivable that a man who has chosen to spend many years in public service would deny that right to a fellow councillor because of the colleague's choice of vocation. Is the municipal political field to be limited to sign painters and doctors?

Can he really believe that justice is being threatened by Mr. Sautter's presence on Council? Not realistically.

Furthermore the management of the local press does not need Mr. Keegan's directions on 'good sportsmanship' to assure equal time for all parties. Equal time has always been the rule, and he, of all people, should know it.

It sounds as if someone has put words into Mr. Keegan's mouth and that he is spilling them out, holier skelter, with little regard for fact.

His diatribe, if indeed it is his, is a model of weightlessness. It is an essay of negativism without one constructive alternative offered.

Come now Mr. Keegan, there must be 'good sportsmanship' on all sides. Isn't that what this is all about?

Highway 33

Quinte Historical Body And Kingston-Adolphustown Link

Letter in Kingston Whig Standard

The recent announcement that the federal and provincial governments may jointly take action which might result in the preservation of the scenic beauty of Highway 33 between Adolphustown and Kingston is indeed encouraging.

Equally encouraging is the recent expression of widespread public interest which indicates that many people in the Eastern Ontario hope that action may soon be taken to prevent uncontrolled development of the lakeshore in a way which might prejudice or even ruin its potential as a scenic, historic and recreational area for public enjoyment.

The Quinte Historical Sites and Parkways Association has been advocating such action since 1957. The objectives of the Association as set forth in our constitution are as follows:

1. To interest government and other responsible bodies in the preservation of the natural beauty, recreational facilities, and historic sites in the Kingston-Quinte area.

2. To urge that commercial and industrial development should not be allowed to destroy those locations which by reason of topography or access to the waterfront are particularly worthy of preservation for public enjoyment.

3. To recommend the development of Highway 33 as a scenic route after the manner of the Niagara Parkway and the Thousand Island Parkway.

The Quinte Historical Sites and Parkways Association welcomes the interest of any individuals or organizations who are concerned about this matter, and we urge anyone who considers this to be an important problem to make their views known to their elected representatives at every level of government; township, municipal, county, provincial and federal.

The public must take action if they wish to protect this still preservable, still beautiful, and still largely unpolluted section of Canada's rare and great waterway.

S. R. Beharrell
Chairman,
Quinte Historical Sites and Parkways Association

Life Span of Canada's Indians Averages Only 44 Years

Brockville Recorder and Times

The further north an Indian lives the better off he seems to be. This is the impression gained from reading about life in Northern Ontario in the current edition of Topical Quarterly, a magazine published for Ontario public service employees, and from a talk about a recent conference in Cleveland, Ohio. The Quarterly has devoted its summer edition to Northern Ontario, tourist attractions, larger towns and cities and Indians. The Indian in the north seems to be much better off than his brothers further south, especially those on the reservations. The Cleveland item points to the plight of the Indian in many places throughout the United States, which has its Canadian counterpart.

In the far north, the Indian lives well, has his own business and home, sends his family to school, there are few arguments and many continue through high school, some going on to university. As one moves south, however, the dropout rate grows, so does poverty and unemployment. Thus it is that Indian Power took advantage of an opportunity in Cleveland to get across their point of view during the city's 175th birthday celebration. "We might be 175 years late but we're imposing an immigration law", one sign read. "Go back". But since the past cannot be changed, the Indian is increasingly striving to grasp the present in his own hands in order to shape the future.

"The aim of Red, or Indian, Power — the right of Indians to be free of colonialist rule and to run their own affairs with security for their lands and rights — is the major theme of contemporary Indian affairs," writes Alvin J. Sosephy Jr., an authority on Indian history.

The statistics that describe the situation among Indians — conservative Indians, that is — fully justify the millions.

For instance, the Indian's average life span is only 44 years, and infant mortality is three times the national average. His average yearly income is $1,500 half the national poverty level. Unemployment ranges from 40 to 70 per cent. Forty-two per cent of Indian schoolchildren drop out before finishing school, almost double the national average. The suicide rate among Indian teen-agers is three times the national rate, and alcoholism is rampant.

Old Testament Lecturer Says Judaism Is Mushroom Cult

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON (AP) — John Allegro, who stirred a controversy by claiming Christianity was founded by a mushroom-worshipping sect, says that Moses, Abraham and all the other Jewish patriarchs are myths, and that Judaism is rooted in a sacred mushroom cult.

The 49-year-old lecturer on the Old Testament puts his theory forward in a new book called The Chosen People.

Allegro writes that the orthodox history of the Israelites was an "idealized mythology," a key incident of which was the rescue of the Jews from slavery by Moses, who led them into the desert of Sinai.

"The names of the patriarchal heroes . . . are non-Semitic, as our recent researches have shown and go back to the earliest known civilization of the Near East.

"The biblical identission of the desert 'wanderings'", was false, says Allegro, and "the whole concept of the desert God owed more to the efforts of later theologians to historicise their mythology than to any authentic tribal memories of Israel's early experiences.

"We are now able to pinpoint the source of the patriarchal myths in a particular form of the fertility religion, centred on the cult of the sacred mushroom."

The Jews were formed of a mixture of peoples in ancient Palestine. Their religion was evolved "to deny their mixed heritage and to consolidate their precarious political position on the basis of a fanciful ancestry and an exclusive religion," the book contends.

The name of their God, Yahweh — Jehovah although portrayed as a "pure" antisexual deity, actually was a form of the Greek god Zeus, he says. Both names meant "spermatozoa"the source of all life."

Allegro claims the Judaism known today was "born in blood and nourished in the agony and loneliness" between the deportation of Jews to Babylon in 597 BC and the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans in 70 AD.

"The dismemberment of her state and despoiling of her most sacred shrine bred into the Jewish soul a ruthless self-assertiveness that has spared neither her own people nor those who has proclaimed her enemies," he says.

Jewish history between 587 BC and 70 AD is described in the book as a constant conflict between "modernizers" who wanted to mingle and merge with other cultures, and religious fanatics.

The fanatics often acted under the influence of the mushroom drug and saw themselves as "the chosen ones," Allegro says.

"The letters that had been erected to safeguard the purity of Judaism have served ever since to provoke the envy, distrust and hatred of the gentile world."

Allegro, an acknowledged Dead Sea Scrolls scholar, has often been accused of sensationalism in his writings and lectures.

When his book, The Sacred Mushroom and the Cross, came out last year challenging orthodox belief on the origins of Christianity, his theories were denounced by clergymen and 15 other leading academics as "erotic fantasy."

Multiple Sclerosis Victim Is Hospital's Chaplain

By JOHN LUNDQUIST

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Rev. Paschal Kelly makes a round of visits with patients, spreads cheer in the hospital lobby and occasionally says mass in the chapel.

It's no more than you'd expect of any hospital chaplain.

But Father Kelly spends most of his time flat on his back, helpless except for a little finger movement, turning his head and quietly talking with friends.

In the 67-year-old Roman Catholic priest, it's the spirit that blooms.

Although a victim of multiple sclerosis more than 30 years, he counts his blessings.

"People have been so kind to me," he tells a visitor. "I'm so grateful for all the things that come my way."

Father Kelly regards himself as a self-appointed special chaplain at St. Mary's Hospital, where he has been confined nearly 15 years. And you can tell there's something unusual about Room 1016 of St. Mary's before you enter.

Planted in the hall at an angle just outside the room is a 20- by 12-inch mirror propped on a six-foot wooden stand anchored by a cement block. Except for the mirror it's all painted hospital white.

The reflection shoots an image into a mirror propped on a chest near the foot of the priest's bed. This is aimed at another mirror suspended from the headboard, so Father Kelly can see what's going on in the hall.

He has other props. A second mirror on the chest angles out the window. He can watch chugging barges or other traffic on the winding Mississippi River. To his prism-equipped spectacles are fastened a curved mouthpiece and a small hearing aid. These enable him to converse on the phone when he presses his head slightly to the left, activating a special switch.

Another switch, mounted on the bed rail to the right of his head, flicks the color television set from one station to another. The television rests on the dresser alongside two mirrors that open the doors to you, you wouldn't understand his world in the hallway and the river.

Father Kelly enjoys all the equipment, most of which was rigged up by hospital electronics specialist Ed Lanctot.

"Somebody said to me one day: 'Why do you have all these mirrors?' I said: 'If you have to have that explained to you, you'll probably likes to look out of walls. That's why there's windows.'"

Helped into a wheelchair pushed by a nurse, Father Kelly visits rooms in the hospital or spends afternoons in the lobby, talking or reading newspapers. Sometimes, aided by a fellow priest, he says mass in the chapel.

Born at Dover, N.J., Father Kelly grew up in Yonkers, N.Y., and Sayre, Pa. Then came a decade of college and seminary in Rhode Island, Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois and Washington, D.C. He was ordained a Dominican priest at Baltimore Md., in 1933.

A year later, he was stricken by multiple sclerosis and went to Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn. Despite the onset of the crippling disease, Father Kelly was an assistant pastor at Holy Rosary in suburb, Minneapolis, and said mass from a wheelchair in the years 1944 to 1956.

Now, considering the view from his 10th-floor window of new buildings altering the city's skyline, Father Kelly regrets the loss of signs of earlier days. "They're turning this prairie village into a hodge-podge," he says in irritation.

He laments also that his generation is leaving young people with so many formidable problems.

"I'm a great admirer of these COs (conscientious objectors)," he says. "These boys have the courage to stand up against the trend. Apparently the young breed doesn't want to be pushed around. And perhaps that is our salvation."

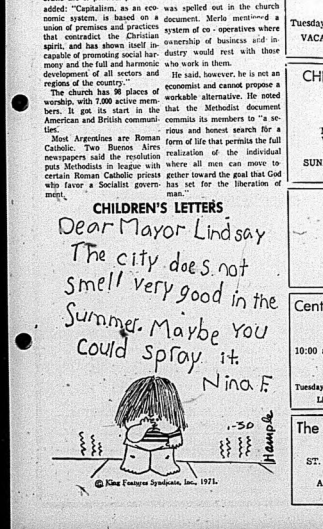
As for modern trends in religion, Father Kelly says the fundamentals are unchangeable. "They're there, as they always have been. These frills about guitar playing don't bother me a bit."

Argentine Methodists Critical of Capitalism

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Evangelical Methodist Church of Argentina has issued a criticism of the government—and of capitalism in general.

A church assembly in Cordoba approved a resolution accusing the government of autocratic use of political power. It added: "Capitalism, as an economic system, is based on a union of premises and practices that contradict the Christian spirit, and has shown itself incapable of promoting social harmony and the full and harmonic development of all sectors and regions of the country."

The church has 98 places of worship, with 7,000 active members. It got its start in the 19th American and British communities.



Most Argentines are Roman Catholic. Two Buenos Aires newspapers said the resolution puts Methodists in league with certain Roman Catholic priests who favor a Socialist government.

Jose Merlo, executive secretary of the Methodist organization, said the Methodists and their pastors are "thinking about same problems", but that the priests are also thinking in terms of ideologies such as Marxism and Peronism.

The only alternative to capitalism was spelled out in the church document. Merlo mentioned a system of co - operatives where ownership of business and industry would rest with those who work in them.

He said, however, he is not an economist and cannot propose a workable alternative. He noted that the Methodist document commits its members to "a serious and honest search for a form of life that permits the full realization of the individual while all men can move together toward the goal that God has set for the liberation of man."

Reader Says Pickles Recipe Is Perfect

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Last August you gave a recipe for Chunk Pickles that were perfect. We raise our own cucumbers and I want to make those pickles again but am sorry to admit I cannot find the recipe. Don't you think you should print it every year? — Mona B.

ANSER: You girls call the plays and I execute them. Actually I am gratified at ways when you are so enthusiastic over my recipes.

FAMOUS CHUNK PICKLES

6 qts. 4" cucumers freshly picked
2 cups pickling salt (not iodized table salt)
16 cups cold water
Boiling water (see notes)
2 tbsps. powdered alum
3 cups sugar (divided — see notes)
10 cups cider vinegar
1 tbsp. cassia buds
1 tbsp. whole allspice berries
1 tbsp. celery seed

Be sure your cucumbers are fresh.

Wash and scrub the cucumbers in running water and cut, one lengthwise and then into 1" chunks. In a large kettle or dishpan add to the cucumbers the pickling salt and 16 cups cold water. Mix well to dissolve salt and let stand 12 hrs. or overnight.

In the morning drain. To 16 cups boiling water add the powdered alum, stir to dissolve and pour over cucumber and let stand 12 hrs. Drain and cover with another 16 cups boiling water and let stand another 12 hrs.

Drain thoroughly. Boil together 6 cups sugar, the vinegar and whole spices, tied loosely in a bag with a long string attached. When boiling pour over drained cucumbers and let stand 12 hrs. (Next step is done 3 times.) Drain off pickling liquid. Add 1 cup sugar to it, bring to boil and pour over drained pickles. Let stand 12 hrs. Repeat twice, at 12-hr. intervals, until you have added the 2 remaining cups of sugar.

Finally heat pickling liquid without any more sugar. Pack cucumbers in sterile jars. (I had 16 ten-oz. jars.) Remove spice bag from boiling syrup and pour syrup over to cover cucumbers and seal. These are at their best if they rest for 6 weeks before serving.

This is a good recipe for amateur pickle makers to follow.

Carrying Place Couple Mark 50th Anniversary

The 50th wedding anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rollins, RR3, Carrying Place was held recently in St. John's Anglican Church Hall, Carrying Place. The couple were married in 1921 in Belleville by the Rev. Tom A. Seale. Mrs. Rollins was the former Evelyn Greatrix of Actinolite, while Mr. Rollins spent his early life in Ivanhoe. Since their marriage they have resided in Flint, Michigan; Detroit, Michigan, Toronto and Belleville where Mr. Rollins was employed as a tool and dye maker (now retired), while Mrs. Rollins kept the home fires burning.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolins are active in the Carrying Place United Church, he is a member of the AOTS and she is active in the UCW activities. Mr. and Mrs. Rollins were blessed with three children — their daughter Reta (Mrs. Wes Murray) of Hamilton, with her two daughters, Gayle (Mrs. Bill Roberts) and Linda (Mrs. Alan Bedford) — their son Fred of Carrying Place with daughters Jo Ann, Peggy, Terry and Shelley — and their son Herb of Hamilton with sons Bradley and Gregory.

"The 'At Home' was attended by guests from Hamilton, Tweed, Kingston, Belleville, Frankford, Madoc, Binbrook, Ivanhoe as well as many friends and neighbors of the Carrying Place area. Some members of the Carrying Place UCW helped with the lunch.

The honored guests received many gifts as well as messages of congratulations from Trudeau, John Deefenbaker, William Davis, Wayne Scott, George Hees and many more dignitaries as well as from many relatives and friends.

On the Saturday, the couple was taken out to dinner with all the family, (18 in all) to Maple Inn at Bloomfield, after words returning to their son's and daughter-in-law's (Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rollins) home for a family get together.

Club Activities

MADOC SENIOR CITIZENS

On Sunday, August 14, a number of the Madoc and district Senior Citizen's members met at the O'Harn Mill conservation area, where they acted as hostesses to the many visitors during that afternoon. Approximately thirty members of the club enjoyed an outing at the Price conservation area at Actinolite. Just north of Tweed, on Wednesday, August 18. A feast of corn, hot dogs and watermelon was enjoyed and served by chef Mr. Johns, with the assistance of Mrs. Johns.

During the afternoon the members strolled across the rustic bridge and around the beautiful grounds there. At the conclusion of the day Mrs. DeClair expressed the appreciation of all to Mr. and Mrs. Johns for the lovely treat.

The next meeting of the Senior Citizens will be held in the United Church basement on Wednesday, September 1, with the lunch committee for this meeting being Mr. Jim Burns, Mrs. P. Brandworth, Mrs. Farrow, Mrs Moorcroft and Mrs. Yearwood. An exciting afternoon of fun and games is being planned. Members are invited to come and enjoy themselves.

Ann Landers

Reader Irritated By Previous Letter

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is for the girl who "through some mixup" didn't invite her mother and dad to her wedding even though they lived in the same town. The bride asked you if she should remind her mother of her promise of several years back to give her the beautiful set of dishes which has been in the family for a long time. If I were the girl's mother she'd get the dishes all right — in a thousand pieces, right over the head.

ANN LANDERS

What's the matter with kids today that they treat their parents so lousy? No consideration. No respect. Nothing. I know of parents who aren't invited to their children's college graduation. The kids say, "It's no big deal. I may not go myself" . . . and nothing more is said about it. Parents who sweat blood to put their kids through for four years of college consider it a plenty big deal, but the spoiled brats never think of THAT. They wouldn't budge an inch to give their parents a little pleasure. If this is the "New Generation" you can have it. — CHARLESTON, W. VA.

DEAR CHARLES: Please don't hang labels with such reckless abandon. Not all kids are selfish and spoiled rotten. Some are a joy to their parents.

A girl who would neglect to invite her mother and dad to her wedding because of a "mixup" needs more help than Ann Landers can give her — and that's what I told her. To assume that most kids would behave in such an inconsiderate manner is grossly unfair.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read a quotation not long ago which might stimulate some thought and self-examination among your readers. "The person who is always knocking a friend will one day find no one at home."

Perhaps this explains why certain folks are friendless.

What are your thoughts on "friend-knockers"? Why do people do it? Do you have any ideas which might help us to understand these detractors? — LEXINGTON.

* * *

DEAR LEX: The chronic knocker is insecure. Often, the qualities he most dislikes in others are the ones he despises in himself. Muckrakers and back-biters are lonely people. They may attract a small audience of listeners but they have no real friends.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I notice you have a healthy respect for the voice of experience, so perhaps you will print this letter for the mother of the 29-year-old son who lives at home. I specialize in my own life story and I hope that mother out there listens.

She is blaming her son for being a free-loader when the fault is hers. She should not let him take advantage of her in such a shameless manner? I hope she wakes up soon and hands the big lug the mortgage and the bills, and says, "Look . . . you're part of this outfit, ante up." She should instruct him to do his marketing while she does the cooking and takes care of the house — let him know it's a 50-50 deal.

When he entertains, go somewhere, mom. Stay away. He's not a 15-year-old kid who needs chaperoning. And don't ask any questions if he decides to stay away for the night.

I hope you have the courage to change things in your home because if you don't you're going to be stuck for the rest of your life with a sponge of a son who will be sunk when you're gone because no woman in her right mind would have him. — COUNSELED AND WISER.

DEAR C AND W: Thanks for the benefit of your experience. You make a lot of sense, woman.

Pantyhose Styles More Varied Than Ever Before

Dramatic leg exposure has inspired a new opaque panty hose style by Burlington Canada, presenting an unbroken line of opaque elegance right up to the waistband.

Bikini is another style that assures flattering leg exposure by providing the tiniest bit of panty with sheer nylon stretching from toes to well above mini shorts where it's knitted on at the hipbone to the panty. This special way of knitting makes the panty hose go along with you.

And, then there's the ultimate affinity for leg exposing fashions — the all sheer panty hose, providing elegant sheerness right up to the waistband. For just the naked shoe gambit, there's a sandal foot style panty hose.

Endo-Stat, the new anti-static panty hose, cling only to the leg, not to the skirt or pants leg. A perfect combination of super stretch yarns and anti-stat properties achieves a new dimension of comfort and fit in panty hose.

For women on their feet all day, a new sheer support panty hose has been perfected that achieves more support and more sheerness simultaneously, so no one will suspect the comfort you enjoy.

To insure custom fit for every type of figure panty hose styles show height and weight on their size charts.

Friendly Humor A Sign Of Personal Recognition

By DORIS CLARK

"Friendly humor is welcomed by the retarded who, like any others, see it as a form of friendly, personal recognition." This is the statement of a man who works with them. To me this means that individuals with something less than average intelligence are still people with personalities, and would prefer not to be treated as strange specimens of humanity.

But doesn't this apply to some other groups too? Does not a youngster enjoy sharing a humorous situation? Does not any shy person? Laughter relieves anxiety and is a kind of leveller.

If we are willing to laugh with him, whoever he is, he will love us. I said, "with him", Laughing at him is a disagreeable kind of one-upmanship.

Dear Doris: No matter what time I put my three-year-old daughter to bed she is up around six in the morning. This morning I was mad and she had dumped all the clean laundry on the floor, and to make matters worse she bent an expensive photograph. She plugs the love in and one time she had it on the floor.

When she is at her grandmother's they say she does not touch a thing, yet when she comes home nothing is safe. I have punished her and punished her by taking her toys away and I can her rear.

It seems to me talking just goes in one ear and out the other, but I don't like to beat her all the time. — End of My Rope

Dear End: Why not ask grandma what her secret is?

Are you being consistent? There is no use issuing an order if you allow her to ignore it one time and punish her another. Follow through, not with a beating, but with prompt action to see that you are obeyed. Isolation would give her time to think over what she has done and to want to make amends.

Try praise. When she does something the right way, for once, give her a hug and a kiss.

One mother says, "When corporal punishment seems necessary, a good sharp slap gets the point across far more effectively than a tanning."

How about leaving those precious possessions where she can't get at them? And have you thought of getting her to fold the clothes with you or dry the dishes? Even little people like to feel useful.

Confidential to Boy Trouble: Taking thought for your date's pocketbook will raise your stock. Stepping out costs money and he will appreciate an invitation over for the evening — provided you have a go-ahead from your parents.

It doesn't have to be a big party, but it is up to you to see that the evening doesn't turn into a necking session. When you come home from a date, if the folks are still up, ask your date in for a cup of coffee.

Boys are people and appreciate being treated with courtesy, introduced to parents, entertained with records, ping pong or the latest sociable game — not forgetting the irresistible attraction of home-made refreshments!

Let a Canadian social worker in on your difficulty. Doris may be able to have the day for you!

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

By Viva Richmond Graham

"The subject of history is the life of peoples and of humanity." — Count Tolstoy (1828-1910).

"Though it is a year this month since we were in Russia, my impressions remain vivid and sharp, for it is indeed, an impressive country," says Anne Boyd, 4 Kellar Drive. She accompanied her husband, Dr. John Boyd to Stockholm, Sweden, where he attended a week-long International Congress of Educators of the Deaf. From 500 delegates representing many countries, a group of 45 delegates and their wives then spent the following week in Russia, (after which, visits were made to clinics for treating the deaf, in Prague and London).

SOME RUSSIAN IMPRESSIONS

"Our stay in Russia," continues Mrs. Boyd, "was divided between Moscow and Leningrad, where we stayed in modern hotels. Little differences in Russian ways from ours comes to mind. On each floor of the hotel is a desk where a woman is on duty night and day. Guests are required to leave their keys with her. Large tags on the keys help one to remember to do so. But one time (our first evening in Leningrad), my husband had forgotten to do so and upon our return we were challenged by the door man.

"Meals seemingly were served continuously. Our group sat at two large tables in Moscow and at six smaller ones in Leningrad. Our most Russian cereal was breakfast: eggs (boiled or poached), rye bread and kind of sponge cake sometimes, and small cookies. Coffee in a small demi-tasse was served from a pot from the stove. It was a disappointment for most of us that other meals were American dishes, though the food was good.

"For some reason, fruit was scarce, though we were served some luscious grapes several times. Perhaps the weather was too cool, for, though it was August, it was in the 40 and 50. One reason, however, in our party, who was from California, had brought only light clothing decided against buying an overcoat priced around $125 and of poor quality, declaring 'I'd rather freeze'.

"The contrast between the construction of fine buildings such as Hermitage, cathedrals and others where workmanship is of the highest quality of the Czar's reign and the modern ones such as high-hotels where workmanship is slipshod, is striking. Yet, paradoxically, in the former buildings where restoration is carried on, the craftsmanship is exquisite.

"This was evident in the city of Zagorsk, some 50 miles from Moscow by bus. It is an early religious centre, originally walled around several cathedrals, a hospital and houses, which in turn is now surrounded by a city of 100,000. In the old part, restorations are skillful and beautiful. On display are costumes, old toys, vestments, jewelled icons and fine tapestries. The oldest cathedral which is Russian Orthodox was holding services (there are no pews) which I attended.

"It is true that society in Russia seems to be a closed one; where freedom of movement is suppressed, organized and one never feels free to take off at any time.

"But in spite of that fact, I came away remembering the super-underground railways where the lights have crystal chandeliers, walls are beautifully decorated, even mosaiced. Remembering the circus which we attended in Leningrad and how the people, as people the world over, were happy, enjoying themselves as they gaily laughed at the talented, subtle clowns and enthralled by the sleek elegant animals, the splendid trapeze artists, fine acts of singing, playing musical instruments and dancing that were all outstanding.

"These along with attending the Opera of Madam Butterfly performed in the handsome red-velvet and gold interior of the magnificent Bolshoi Theatre are memories of Russia I shall treasure always."

Figurines Popular In Victoria's Reign

YOUR ANTIQUES

by Jack Jamieson

Staffordshire figures, so named because they come from unidentified potteries in Staffordshire, were among the most popular ornaments collected during Queen Victoria's reign. They were intended for the mantelpiece of the common man, in North America, where mantelpieces were beginning to be out of date, they graced what-nots and knick-knack shelves. The figures are made of pottery and most have no marks other than the name of the figure represented.

The earliest and best figures are those of the Royal Family. Queen Victoria herself is portrayed in robes-of-state, on horseback, and with each of her many children as they appeared. The Prince Consort was a favorite figure, as well.

Interest in the Royal Family continued into the reign of Edward VII and the best of the late figures are those of Edward as King and his Queen, Alexandra. European royalty was included too! All of the German and Prussian royal connections, Napoleon III, Empress Eugenie, the Shah of Persia and the King of Sardinia.

The most valuable single single figures now are separate equestrian models of Sir Robert and Lady Sale. Sir Robert's career is forgotten now, but in 1842 he made headline news by relieving Jalalabad in Afghanistan. To do so he had to abandon his wife and daughter at Kabul, ignore official orders and press on to Jalalabad. Lady Sale escaped "with only her diary," published in 1843 as Journal of the Disasters in Afghanistan". They gained international fame in the English-speaking world.

Sir Robert was not content to rest on his laurels. In 1845 he took to the field again, was wounded and died. Lady Sale came to a sticky end, too. She was captured by the Afghans under Akbar and disappeared from view.

Lord Roberts is another figure to be immortalised as a mantelpiece decoration. He came to fame in China in 1864 and remained famous over a tumultuous career that ended with his death in 1885 at Khartoum in the Sudan. His melodramatic end, just two days before Khartoum was relieved by a sluggish and vacillating British government, sold phenomenal numbers of his effigy in the 1890s.

Jenny Lind was popular on both sides of the Atlantic. In England, Jenny Lind figures sell for as much as £70. In Canada most figures sell from $25 to $50 regardless of what they are. The most valuable Staffordshire piece is a group known as the "Grapplers", which sold for £100 in England in 1967.

Religious figures, the Pope (Pius X), Sankey and Moodie, the Duke of Wellington, Shakespearean characters, Amelia Bloomer, Uncle Tom and Little Eva, Lincoln, Washington, Franklin, Byron, Sir Walter Scott, Kossuth, Peel, Disraeli, Gladstone, Elizabeth Fry, Florence Nightingale, are but a few of the subjects.

Victorians indulged their taste for the morbid as well. The illustration shows William Palmer, a notorious mid-Victorian murderer who was modelled along with a model of his house where murders took place. Both are now valuable and collectible; about $75 apiece.

Worster Released by Ticats Following Court Appearance

HAMILTON (CP) — Fullback Steve Worster and defensive halfback Seth Miller were released by Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference Friday after they appeared in provincial Court on charges of possessing marijuana.

General-manager Ralph Sazio explained: "Both players have asked for their releases for the best interests of the club and for everybody else.

"We've put them both on waivers with no recall and they are available to any team in the league.

The two players were charged Thursday after a combined raid by RCMP and city police on the home they rented with teammate Larry Watkins. They were remanded to Sept. 28.

Sazio admitted making the pair free agents was a calculated risk, but "it gives both parties an opportunity this way to decide if they want to come back and decide if we want them back."

Earlier in the week, Wayne Philbrick of nearby Vineland Station, a rookie reserve Canadian linesman with the Ticats was charged with possessing marijuana for the purpose of trafficking.

A 50-pound cache of marijuana was discovered on a Bellefleet Township farm leased to Philbrick. No plea was taken when he appeared in court and Philbrick was released on $1,000 bail for another court appearance Oct. 12.

Worster, from Orange, Tex., and Miller, of Rockford, Ill., were to leave for their homes after Thursday's court appearance.

Worster, all-American co-captain of the University of Texas Longhorns last year, was signed by the Ticats in May to a three-year contract reported to be $100,000.

He was to report to the U.S. army draft board at Houston Sept. 14 for six months of reserve duty.

Both players could have been placed on the retired list, as was Philbrick after his court appearance, but they would have been ineligible to return to the Canadian Football League this season.

Placing the two on waivers, the Ticats run the risk of another CFL club claiming them. Miller, however, expressed reservations about either wanting to play again in Hamilton.

"As Mr. Sazio said, public opinion would probably be against us regardless of the outcome of the case. Half the people would assume we are guilty and half that we are not guilty."

"I just feel sick," said coach Al Dorow, "This is not only the low point of my football career, but the low point of my life. . .

"This second dose of trouble sickens me. After Philbrick was charged, I assembled the players and cautioned them about their habits.

"I told them not even to have a beer in public places downtown. One person sees them have one beer and in the re-telling it comes out 10 beers."

Sazio said Thursday that severe disciplinary action would be taken against the two players if the charges were confirmed.

"I don't know if any more are involved, but I'm amazed and stunned," he told newspaper men. "We've never had problems like this in our history."

Saskatchewan Wins 42-21

Ottawa Snowed Under As Reed Equals Record

REGINA (CP) — Fullback George Reed of Saskatchewan Roughriders tied the Canadian record for touchdowns with three as he led his team to a crushing 42-21 win over Ottawa Rough Riders in a Canadian Football League game before 16,500 fans Friday night.

Reed, a former Washington State star, tied the record of 91 touchdowns set by Dick Shatto, the now-retired back for Toronto Argonauts.

The win lifted Saskatchewan to sole possession of second place in the Western Conference, four points behind the unbeaten Calgary Stampeders and two ahead of British Columbia Lions and Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Edmonton Eskimos languished in the cellar with two points.

In the Eastern Conference Ottawa was tied in second place with Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Ticats, four points behind undefeated Toronto Argonauts.

Ottawa led Saskatchewan 14-7 at the end of the first quarter, 21-20 at half time and at the end of the scoreless third quarter. Saskatchewan came alive to add 22 points in the final 15 minutes, holding Ottawa scoreless for the lopsided win.

Saskatchewan added two touchdowns on pass interceptions by Bob Kosid and Bruce Bennett and got its sixth on a 23-yard pass from Ron Lancaster to Bobby Thompson.

Saskatchewan counted six more points on three converts by John Steele, two centre kicks by Jack Abendschan and a single by Al Ford.

Ottawa scored touchdowns on forwards by quarterback Gary Wood to Hugh Oldham and Billy Cooper, and a fumble recovery by linebacker Gerry Campbell. Gerry Organ converted two of the three Ottawa touchdowns and Marcel Dolecew kicked a single.

Saskatchewan's defensive tackle, Ed McQuarters, played his first game since losing the left eye this spring in a home workshop accident.

Saskatchewan may have lost the services of centre Ron Caphan who left the field in the second quarter and did not return.

A fumble by Al Marcelin on the game-opening kickoff and the recovery by Wayne Shaw led to the first Reed touchdown. His second came after a Saskatchewan drive aided by two pass-interference calls against Ottawa.

Reed scored his third touchdown on a run from the Ottawa 12 after Saskatchewan gained 49 yards on a Lancaster-to-Thompson forward. The big gain came on the first offensive play after Ottawa lost a third-down gamble on the Saskatchewan 49.

Argos' Eight-man Blitz Causing Keys Concern

VANCOUVER (CP) — Toronto Argonauts' bolldoser-like defensive line that throws eight men at the quarterback is coach Eagle Keys' main worry when his British Columbia Lions play the undefeated Eastern Football Conference leaders on Sunday.

"It's their blitz that worries us most," said Keys Friday. "They use an eight-on blitz instead of the normal six or seven, figuring that they can get to the passer before he gets the ball away.

"So if you send out four receivers you only have enough people left to stop six of them."

The vision of his slim quarterbacking punter Brothers is mocked by eight Argo tacklers also has Keys thinking about who to start—veterans Paul Brothers or untried rookie Don Moorhead.

"If they do come in like that, Moorhead has better ability to run and get out of trouble. There again Brothers is more experienced. That's what I've got to pick between. Either way we expect the quarterback to get spilled sometimes."

Keys said he won't decide who'll be calling the signals until just before kickoff at 2:30 p.m. PDT, (5.30 p.m. EDT). His decision is made that much more difficult after a look at some of the Argos doing the hitting.

Defensive tackle Jim Stillwagon and safety Marv Luster—"an expert on such things," Keys said—will be on the line, trying to duplicate Calgary's 32-1 walkover against the Lions earlier this week.

Toronto coach Leo Cahill doesn't sound as optimistic as a coach of a team with four straight victories should. He indicated Friday that Argos could lose one of two western games in the next week, either against B.C. on Sunday or Edmonton next Wednesday.

"I might be satisfied with a split of those two games in the West," he said.

Toronto quarterback Greg Barton said he's impressed with the Lions, after meeting them in one exhibition match and viewing game films.

Toronto can't take the Leos lightly, he said, since Toronto's most-talked about players—Joe Theismann, Leon McQuay and Sullwagon—are still young and could make mistakes.

Cahill said slotback Dave Cranmer, used sparingly in the team's first two games, will get more action in Sunday's game.

"We hardly used him the first two games and he was getting himself down," said Cahill, promising to use him in a role similar to that exploited by B.C.'s Jim Young.

Cranmer turned a short pass into a 94-yard touchdown in Toronto's game against Montreal then scored a 45-yard touchdown in the Argos' last game, against Ottawa.

The game will be nationally televised on the CTV network.

Windless Football Without Dome?

WINNIPEG (CP) — If Canadian Football League quarterbacks didn't have enough problems contending with opposing defences, unpredictable winds often have baffled passers and punters.

But if a proposal by a University of Manitoba professor works, the problem of winds may be eliminated on playing field, without domes.

Prof. Guf Bertels of the university's mechanical engineering department says experiments during the last year indicate it is possible to create almost windless conditions on the playing field and in the stands of Winnipeg Stadium.

He says wind deflectors, constructed according to aerodynamic principles, can reduce a 30-mile-an-hour wind to three miles an hour or a 50-mile-an-hour wind to five.

Three students, John Robson, Gary Faley and Bob Quirk, placed a scale model of the stadium in a wind tunnel to observe the wind patterns in the unprotected stadium.

Deflectors were then added and the effect observed. Mr. Bertels said the students have demonstrated the idea is workable and now are working to refine it.

The deflectors, made of metal supports covered with reinforced plastic and able to withstand winds up to 100 miles an hour, would cost between $20,000 and $40,000 depending upon the durability required.

Richmond Hill Joins Club

RICHMOND HILL, Ont. (CP) — This community just north of Toronto is the latest to make a pitch for a domed stadium.

York regional council Thursday approved a proposal by the town to ask Metropolitan Toronto to build a stadium on the site of the old Langstaff jail farm the city owns.

The proposal is the fourth for the Toronto area. Two have been suggested within Metropolitan Toronto limits and the other in the town of Whitby, about 20 miles northeast of Toronto.

Junior Leader Banks on Stance

EDMONTON (CP) — Murray McLaren, a 16-year-old Woodbridge, Ont., high school student, stepped on to the course today with a new putting stance which he hoped would win him the Canadian junior golf championship.

McLaren changed his stance Friday and grabbed the third-round lead with a three-under-par 69. He put that with rounds of 69 and 75 for a 54-hole total of 212.

One stroke off the pace was Mike Defalco, 18, of Lucerne, Que., with 71-70-72. He had been tied for first place with Adam Brown of Hamilton and Rob Laing of Prince George after the second round.

Laing and Brown each fired 73 Friday and were tied for third with 214s.

By himself in fourth place with 217-par rounds of 70-75-72 was Stephen Ball, 18, of Weston, Ont.

McLaren entered the third round in a third-place tie with Bruce Huchon, 17, of Aylmer East, Que. Heuchan blew to a 78 Friday and with a 222 total was just about out of the picture.

"I had confidence in hitting the greens before," said McLaren. "Now I have confidence in putting.

"That's what did it. I just started it today. It's a more open stance."

He nearly had a 67—one off the 6,667-yard Windermere Golf and Country Club record—on the final hole, when his 60-foot birdie putt just missed the cup.

Defalco said he could have done better if his putter had been hot. He missed the first month of the golf season after breaking his hand while playing hockey for Ottawa Rangers of the Central Junior Hockey League.

"But it's great now. It doesn't bother me at all."

Knudson Sets Course Record in Match Play

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Toronto's George Knudson fired a stunning six-under-par 66, a course record, Friday and moved into the quarter-finals of the $200,000 United States Professional Match Play golf championship.

Knudson eliminated Pete Brown who shot a 71.

Arnold Palmer, gunning for his fifth title of the season, scored a 69-72 victory over Dave Eichelberger in the third round of the head-to-head play.

Scoring is based on total strokes over 18 holes. Friday's winners meet in the 18-hole quarter-final, then the survivors play in the semi-final later in the day. The final is Sunday.

In other play for the $35,000 first prize, Tom Weiskopf edged Ray Floyd 71-72, Ken Still dumped Dave Stockton 70-74, Phil Rodgers defeated Gene Littler 71-71, Bob Lunn defeated Jerry Heard 71-72, Lee Trevino defeated Bruce Crampton 71-73, Bruce Devlin defeated Jack Nicklaus 70-72, Dan Sikes defeated Bruce Crampton 71-73, Bruce Campton beat Gardner Dickinson 71-75, DeWitt Weaver edged Julius Boros 71-71, and Lou Graham nipped Art Wall 70-71.

Knudsen meets Rodgers today on the 6,973-yard North Carolina Country Club course, Palmer plays Crampton, Weaver is against Graham and Weiskopf takes on Still.

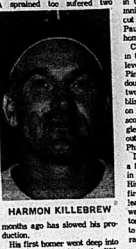
Now He Likes Cleveland Park

Two Swings Change Killebrew's Mind

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two home runs in a game can quickly change a batter's opinion of a park. Ja did it to Harmon Killebrew Friday night.



The Killer, the 1959-heading home-run hitter in baseball history, had said recently: "I always had trouble shooting in that park," referring to Cleveland's (Municipal) Stadium, where he had hit only 18 of his 500 career homers. "And the Indians have always had good pitching through the years."

Friday, Killebrew apparently had not trouble seeing the ball —and no trouble with the Indians' pitching. He slammed his 30th and 505th homers and drove in five runs, leading the Twins to an 8-4 victory.

"This is a good park to hit in, especially at night," he said after the game.

In other American League games, Detroit Tigers downed Chicago White Sox 4-2; Kansas City Royals blanked New York Yankees 4-0; Oakland Athletics beat Washington Senators 6-2; California Angels edged Boston Red Sox 1-0, and Milwaukee at Baltimore twi-night doubleheader was rained out.

Killebrew's homers were only his 19th and 18th of the season, months ago has slowed his production.

HARMON KILLEBREW

His first homer went deep into the left-field stands in the fifth inning and scored Rod Carew, who had walked with two out. Tony Oliva, who had singled, lit was hit of loner Steve Dunning, 9-12, and gave the Twins a 4-3 lead.

Killebrew's second homer sailed over the left centre-field fence in the seventh and drove in Carew, who had opened the inning with a singl, knocking out Dunning. Killebrew Mike Paul was the victim of the homer.

Cleveland had taken a 3-0 lead in the first inning off Bert Blyleven, 11-15, on singles by Vada Pinson and Ted Uhlender, a double by Roy Foster and a two-run single by Chris Chambliss. Chambliss went to second on a passed ball and tried to score on John Lowenstein's single to left. But he was thrown out by Cesar Tovar's peg to Phil Roof.

Detroit's Joe Coleman burlied a five-hitter for his 16th victory in beating Chicago rookie Rich Hinton, who was making his first major league start.

Hinton, a fine batter in with 71. leader in runs batted in with 71. was hit in the left eye by a Hinton pitch in the third and taken to a hospital. Preliminary X-rays indicated no fracture.

Rookie left-hander Paul Splittorff of Kansas City stopped the Yankees with a sparklin three-hitter for his third shutout of the season and drove in his first major-league run with a single in the eighth.

California scored a first-inning run against Boscon on singles by Sandy Alomar and Mickey Rivers plus Tony Gonzales' double play, then Andy Messersmith and Lloyd Allen made it stand up with a four-hitter.

Three-run homers by substitutes Curt Blefary and Angel Mangual backed the six-hit pitching of John (Bule Moon) Odom and Led Oakland past Washington.

Odom's route-going effort was his first complete game since June 27.

Cubs Take Fight Out of Own Dugout

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago Cubs, who have been fighting themselves for a while, pulled no punches against Atlanta Braves and had them seeing stars.

One of the stars the Braves saw was Billy Williams and another was Milt Pappas.

Williams drove in all the runs and Pappas pitched a five-hitter as the discomfited Cubs decked the Braves 3-0 Friday and got back on the right track for a pennant run.

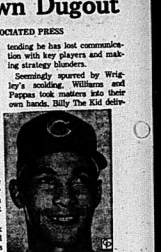
It was a nice change of pace for Chicago, which had lost four of five before Friday during a siege of open dissension against manager Leo Durocher.

Before their bounce-back against the Braves, owner Phil Wrigley had admonished his players to forget about friction with the 65-year-old Durocher, whom some had criticized as inept.

While the Cubs were traversing a bridge over troubled waters, starter Bunker Bell and relief ace Ted Abernathy III pitched a two-hitter against the Braves—Los Angeles at New York, San Francisco at Philadelphia and San Diego at Montreal.

It was the only other National League games played. Pittsburgh Pirates stopped Houston Astros 7-3 and Cincinnati Reds trimmed St. Louis Cardinals 8-7.

Wrigley, interviewed in the wake of a Monday clubhouse meeting in which several veteran players shouted criticisms at Durocher, rapped Marvin Miller, leader of baseball's players' union, regarding player attitude.



Although stating he didn't think Durocher was "doing as good a job as he could," Wrigley said it was too late in the season "to make any radical changes."

"As I see the situation, every sports writer thinks he's better Durocher's hide, and the Chicago Press has been no exception. The players read the papers and they think they have to take up the same theme."

The Cubs, with 1965 off attendance to date, may break their 1969 record.

Some sports writers covering the Cubs have been sharply critical of Durocher all season, contending he has lost communication with key players and making strategy blunders.

Seemingly spurred by Wrigley's scolding, Williams and Pappas took matters into their own hands. Billy The Kid delivered a two-run triple in the third inning and slammed his 25th homer in the sixth. Pappas allowed only four singles and Sonny Jackson's fifth-inning double while his mates helped with asparkling defence, including two double plays.

BILLY WILLIAMS

The victory kept Chicago on the scent of the East Division-leading Pirates, six games behind in second place.

Dave Cash and Rinaldo Stentett each drove in two runs and Dock Ellis notched his 18th victory with last-out relief help from Dave Giusti as the Pirates beat Houston.

Clay Courts Credited For Spaniard's Success

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jose Cambra of Barcelona, Spain, credited years of playing on hard-packed clay courts for two close wins Friday in the boys under-16 division of the Canadian open tennis championships.

The current under-16 champion in Spain and No. 3 foreign seed here, Cambra had a tough match against Robert Bestwick of Vancouver, edging him 7-5 in the opening set and clinching it 6-3 in the second.

He came back soon after to defeat Bruce Perry of Seattle, the No. 1 seed who was fresh from a successful tour in the eastern United States, in the under-16 semi-final.

He slammed Perry's serves at his feet when the hardhitting Washington player came in, or deftly passed him with a well-disguised forehand.

Cambra broke service only twice in the first set, with the ball reverting to Perry just once. It seemed to unnerve Perry, who got only one service break in the second set to Cambra's three. The result was 7-5, 6-2

"I play many hours on clay in Spain and England, but he plays on concrete. It makes a lot of difference. If we play on his courts, he will," Cambra said.

The busy young spaniard is entered in two finals today, the under-16 against Mike McLaughlin of Toronto and the under-18 against Richard Legendre of Quebec City. The second match is to be televised by the CBC at 2:45 p.m.

Legendre, who's over 18 of 21 collegiate singles matches playing for-Florida State University this season, Friday easily beat Mike Mcleod of West Vancouver, who had turned into something of an upset king at the tournament.

He was too strong and nearly flawless in the 6-2, 6-2 win. M c L e o d's backhand faltered several times and legendre was quick to follow up.

Legendre said of his match today with Cambra: "I'll try and play it safe, that is continue to keep the ball in play and wait for errors. He may be tired after his 16s match—if it's rough. It's hard to get up for the next one."

In the girls' competition Liza Nard, a shy, 13-year-old blonde from Modesto, Calif., surprised everyone by defeating Vancouver's best, Janet Hall, 7-5, 6-2 for the under-16 championship.

Earlier in the day, the Californian beat Brenda Cameron of Victoria 6-3, 6-3 for the under-14 title. Miss Hall is still alive, though, scheduled today Adrienne Stadnik of Toronto for the girls' under-18 championship today.

Brockville Consoled

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Don Collison struck out 16 batters and threw a one-hitter Friday as Brockville defeated Lexington, Ky., 4-1 in a Little League World Series consolation game.

Collison had a no-hitter goingo into the sixth and final inning, when Lexington ponchh hptzar Gregory Rayborn topped the ball in front of the plate and bait ihhot for a hit.

Brockville scored its first run in the second on a homer to centre field by Gerald Crooke and added three more in the sixth. Lexington scored its only run in the fourth on a wild pitch.

Brockville finished seventh in the series, Lexington finished last.

In another consolation game Friday, Jorge Cruz, a youngster with a blazing fastball, pitched a no-hitter for Caguas, Puerto Rico, as the Latin American youngsters shut-out Augusta, Maine, 4-0.

Cruz struck out 14 batters and got stronger as the game moved along. Augusta only mounted two threats, getting runners on first and second in the fourth and a runner on third in the fifth.

The championship will be decided today when Taiwan meets Gary, Ind. Both teams crushed first and second-round opponents with devastating hitting attacks.

NHL Cracking Down on Brawls

TORONTO (CP) — The National Hockey League rules committee introduced legislation Friday in another attempt to reduce on-the-ice brawls.

At a meeting here, the committee decided that, as of the first exhibition game this season, any player who physically becomes involved in a fight between two other players immediately earns himself a game misconduct with its $100 fine.

"Our linesmen are quite capable of handling an altercation if two men are involved in it," said NHL president Clarence Campbell. "Where the problem comes up is when a third man comes in to help out. Then, almost automatically, and especially so if one team is shorthanded, you get players coming off their benches."

The committee also altered two rules which were introduced in June.

Now, a player first off the bench during an altercation receives a game misconduct and a double penalty. The original rule called for a game misconduct and a major penalty.

The duration was considered an improvement because coincident majors incurred by each team cancel each other and have no effect on the number of players on the ice.

Another alteration increases the penalty to a goaltender who leaves his crease during a fight. As before, he is fined at least $100. But now, he also is given a two-minute penalty to be served by a team-mate on the ice at the time.

Last year there was a 62-per cent increase in fighting majors over the previous year.

Summer School Out

They have winter ball for baseball and spring training for football so why not summer hockey!

Considering that the extent of summer hockey is limited to scattered schools run by professional players, the sport does not compare with say, winter ball down south but it does serve its purpose.

Instruction, practice and helpful hints are offered by camp pros to all paying participants ranging from tyke to junior age players. It also offers the chance for the kids to prepare themselves for the upcoming hockey season as well as providing the pros a possible opportunity to get in some early preparations.

The example of such a setup is the annual Kingston Hockey School which has drawn a local contingent of hockey hopefuls, including Larry Mavety who is working for a spot on the Buffalo Sabres starting line-up.

Big Brother Watching

TORONTO (CP) — National Hockey League officials will have another eye watching some perform their duties this season: The NHL is adding video tape cameras to the equipment of referee-in-chief Scotty Morrison.

Morrison, attending an NHL rules committee meeting here, said the equipment was only to aid him in pointing out style errors to his officials.

"We want our referees and linesmen to understand that we're not adding this equipment to second-guess their decisions," Morrison said Friday.

"We might ask the company from which we're ordering the equipment to take a camera to a game and concentrate on that official for, say, 10 minutes of each period.

"The next time that official is in Toronto, we'll ask him out to the office to see what he's doing. . . . . You can learn a lot by watching yourself."

He said he hopes each NHL rink eventually will be equipped with a videotape camera.

CORK All Set To Float

KINGSTON (CP) — More than 1,000 sailors are converging on this Lake Ontario city this weekend for one of North America's major sailing regattas.

With more than 500 boats expected to compete in 11 classes at this year's six-day event, the Canadian Olympic-training Regatta, Kingston (CORK), will have almost doubled in size from its inaugural three years ago with 313 craft in seven classes.

By mid-week 413 boats were entered with the last-minute rush still to come. Last year 678 competed, including many former Olympic and world champions from Canada, the United States, England, Denmark the Virgin Islands, The Netherlands and the Bahamas.

"We expect an increase of about 100 boats over last year," said Harry Gamble, an organizer with the host Kingston Yacht Club. "That will give us somewhere between 500 and 570 boats with approximately 1,200 competitors."

There's already considerable controversy about the innovation, not the least from Lord's, home ground of the Middlesex team and where the rajahs of cricket meet to hand down pronouncements affecting the game around the world.

The old school tie brigade of Lord's have not got around to issuing the word yet but Middlesex secretary Arthur Flower dissents.

"I haven't got much time for betting," he sniffs. "It's a sucker's game and I can't see a betting shop at Lord's."

Amid probablyno one ever will, Lord's being what it is.

But Notts official Jack Elliot says that, while some people will throw up their hands in horror at cricket and bookies getting into the same bed, his club is desperate for cash and "must cast the net for an honest penny."

Ken Barrington, a former England test cricket star, agrees with the Notts move. "I have been in favor of it for years and so have many other cricketers. It must help attendances."

But a big thumbs-down comes from the Surrey club, one of the better First Class elevens.

"Betting had to be barred from cricket in the early days because too many matches were thrown," says Surrey secretary Geoff Howard.

"I would approach it with caution. Rules have been known to start in other countries when a batsman, heavily backed to reach a century, gets out in his 90s."

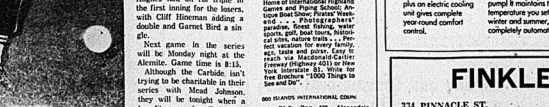
Meads Make Hits Count

There weren't many hits in Friday night's Industrial Softball League play-offs but the four that got through the Union Carbide defence were enough to put the defending league champs down for the count.

Mead Johnson bunched three quarters of their hitting in the first and eighth innings to nip Union Carbide 4-2, to even the best - of - seven finals at one game apiece.

Sonny Holoway's first inning triple drove in two runs for Mead's for an early lead but the Carbide rallied back with runs in the third and first frames to send the game into extra innings.

A walk and Ray Sarles' double produced Mead's winning run in the first extra inning.



Holoway fired three-hit ball, fanning nine and walking two. His triple and single accounted for half the winners' hits. Ray Sarles and Rick May added the other safeties.

Ken Osbourne went the route for Union Carbide, allowing four hits while fanning three and walking six. Jark Hughes had an rbi triple in the first inning for the losers, with Cliff Hineman adding a double and Garnet Bird a sin gle.

Next game in the series will be Monday night at the Alemite. Game time is 8:15.

Although the Carbide isn't trying to be charitable in their series with Mead Johnson, they will be tonight when a benefit game for Ted Marshall is planned.

Marshall, a player for Union Carbide, suffered a severely broken ankle while playing against Deseronto in July. The game will be played at the CNR park commencing at 6:30 p.m.

"It's beautiful to come in out of the hot sticky weather into cool air-conditioned comfort" says Edward Storey.

When Edward and Marguerite Storey bought their home in Edgewood Park near Peterborough two years ago, they were specifically looking for the comfort and convenience of an all electric home. "We've tried most other kinds and found that nothing can compare with electricity," explained Mr. Storey, "it's so much cleaner. It's a forced-air electric furnace with built-in air-conditioning. Now we can keep our whole house as cool or as warm as we want. For us the air-conditioning is a big bonus."

"Well, I sure like the air-conditioning," agrees Mrs. Storey, "I can use my oven on the hottest days and still feel cool and comfortable." "It seems to give us more privacy," comments Mr. Storey, "Every room including all the basement area is really liveable all year-round." "And because Total Comfort Conditioning is so clean, my housework is cut down," says Marguerite Storey, "Greasy film doesn't collect on walls, windows or curtains. And there's very little dust to cope with." "We've never lived in a home that's been so comfortable," is the way Edward Storey sums it up, "There's just no comparison." The Storeys are just one of many families that are enjoying electric Total Comfort Conditioning. Talk to a qualified contractor, or ask your Hydro.

Or choose the heat pump! It maintains the temperature you set, winter and summer, completely automatically.

No matter what type of forced air heating you have, it's simple to install a central electric cooling unit.

On Job 11 Years

Carrying Place Bridge Custodian Friend of Area Youngsters

Guardian of the Highway No. 33 bridge at Murray Canal in Carrying Place, Norman Brown is earning the respect and admiration of both adults and youngsters. In addition to his regular chores Mr. Brown has assumed responsibility for custody of the community's offspring when they visit the canal for fishing and swimming.

A man who likes to fish and to help those fishing to haul in their catch, a teller of wild and funny stories, Mr. Brown owes his present status to a desperate attempt to find employment over a decade ago.

"About 11 years ago, I was out of a job, and I didn't know what to do. One day, I went into the local post office and saw applications for all kinds of civil servant's jobs in the Quinte area," Mr. Brown recounted.

"I applied for them all. There was one for a lighthouse keeper, another for a post office job and another for this bridge keeper's job at Murray Canal. I felt that if I applied for all of them, II was bound to get something," he added with a smile.

Married for 25 years and the father of twin 24 - year - old sons, Donald and Ronald, Mr. Brown has added to his regular work in lifting the bridge to permit passage of boats through the canal system, the custody of local youngsters who visit the canal to fish, find swim. And his strict discipline and friendship has gained the admiration of the community's parents.

The parents believe he makes an ideal friend for their children, especially when it comes to discipline.

"He's strict with them, but he's very fair. All the kids love him, and when it's time for kids swimming in the canal to leave, all he has to say is, 'that's it,' and they go without complaining," G. M. Hebb, a father of three boys, stated.

"And sometimes he tells them stories, especially fishing stories, and even helps them fish and bring in their catch," he added.

Mr. Brown is on duty for five months in the year, three of them by working a 12-hour shift six times a week.

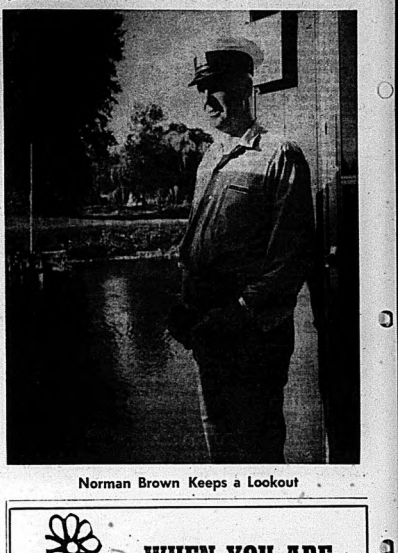
His season at the bridge begins on May 15, but during the first and last months of his five - month stint, he only puts in an eight - hour workday.

Born in Carrying Place, Mr. Brown entered the Canadian army engineers corps in 1941 and served in Ireland.

"A few times I came close to getting it, but it was nothing too bad," he remembered.

After the war he worked at many jobs, spending two or three years at each before shifting to another. Before being employed at his present position, Mr. Brown worked for two consecutive companies for periods of five years each before losing them when the companies declared bankruptcy.

That's when he mailed a rash of civil servant applications.



During the off-season, he keeps busy with driving school buses, taking vacations to the east coast and Florida and cultivating his garden at home.

"Except for the odd car trying to crash the barrier gate when the bridge is up, things are usually quiet here. On hot days, I have some 40 kids at times swimming here, and I have to ride herd on them. But with kids raring and tearing about, friends and neighbors coming in to talk or fish, and opening and closing the bridge, I haven't got time to get lonesome," Mr. Brown pointed out.

During the past month of July, 1220 boats passed through th system, and each year the number of boats that pass through the canal is steadily increasing. Mr. Brown suspects that perhaps within the foreseeable future, the bridge may be altered to allow passage without lifting the bridge, or the bridge may be closed.

"Back in 1958, we had 1278 boats passing through, and the bridge was lifted 1027 times. Last year, some 2750 boats entered the canal and the bridge was lifted 1800 times. And the figures keep rising," Mr. Brown explained.

Although the present bridge was built in 1935 with mechanical means of operating it, today the bridge is operated by hydraulic pumps.

New Director Hired

Theatre Guild Outlines Season Program

By SUSAN KORAH
Staff Reporter

The Belleville Theatre Guild will lift the curtain on its new season on Monday under the directorship of 24 - year - old Ted Bairstow, whose professional attitude to work contrasts pointedly with his lack of "arty" airs affected by many in his field.

Pleasant in his manner, he sports a beard and a "with it" appearance, yet is no disillusioned, anti - establishment cynic and should relate easily to people of all age groups.

Though this will be his first job as a professional director, his experience in various aspects of theatre is fairly impressive. For two years a drama student at - Queen's University, he later worked in the drama department of the University as a technical assistant while continuing his studies. He directed a couple of plays last year and has acted regularly for the past three years. His acting experience includes a part in Duncan's Death, the lead role in Hello, Out There and a part in Shaw's Heartbreak House.

Last year he designed the set for a medieval liturgical play produced by the music department of Queen's University and his technical experience includes working on lighting and sound effects for various plays.

The Belleville Theatre Guild proposes to present four plays this year, Dial M for murder by Frederick Knott, Harvey by Mary Chase, The Rainmaker by Richard Nash and She Stoops to Conquer by Oliver Goldsmith.

Dial M for Murder is a modern mystery play said Mr. Bairstow. Alfred Hitchcock paid the author a great tribute when he said that all he had to do was to film the script. There was no need to make any changes to increase suspense. Mr. Bairstow commented that Harvey is an American comedy in which fantasy plays a part. He said that The Rainmaker is a romantic comedy while She Stoops to Conquer is a mixture of romance, comedy, farce and slapstick.

Mr. Bairstow hopes to begin the year with a series of workshops for which he has devised theatre games. These games will take the place of more conventual auditions by testing the individual's acting potential in a relaxed, informal setting. Casting for the first play will be done in this manner and if the plan is successful Mr. Bairstow hopes to eliminate formal auditions for the entire year.

Another change in the guild set-up will be the "package deal" admission - cum - membership fee. The membership fee of $7.50 ($3.50 for students) will automatically entitle a person to see all the four plays. The sale of these subscription tickets will start on Monday.

Yet another innovation is the link between the guild and Loyalist College. Mr. Bairstow will set up a performing arts course at Loyalist College. The first part of this course will be an introduction to theatre for actors. Though the emphasis will be on theatre, some time will be devoted to television and movie acting. The second part of the course will be a continuation of the study of acting techniques. This will be a regular daytime course, six hours a week, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

One night a week, Mr. Bairstow will teach an extension course from Loyalist College at the Pinnacle Playhouse.

Asked for his opinion of the playhouse, he was enthusiastic in his praise. "It's astonishing that a city of this size has its own playhouse," he said. He pointed out that many other theatre groups have to use church halls and school auditoriums. "Compared to the facilities they have, the Pinnacle Playhouse is a treasure," he said.

Youngster Survives Bridge Leap

SARNIA (CP) — Only two persons have lived to talk about their jump off the Blue Water Bridge 152 feet into the St. Clair River.

One of them is a 14-year-old Sarnia youth who took the leap Thursday and is in hospital recovering from severe back bruises.

The youth had been involved in an accident with his father's car before he jumped following a police chase. No charges have yet been laid. The youth said in an interview:

"If I could have seen the water I don't think I would have jumped. It was just all black down there.

Here is his story:

"I was on my back all the way down. I couldn't turn around. I couldn't do anything, everything was going around so fast I couldn't see anything.

"The wind kept blowing me around like a leaf. I don't remember breathing on the way down.

"I didn't think of anything before I jumped but on the way down I did.

"I kept thinking about hitting the water, about how it was going to feel. I thought about being on my back. I thought when I hit, my back would break.

"Then I hit the water. I don't remember anything about that. The pain came after a while.

"I can't remember getting to shore. I remember . . . pulling myself out of the water.

"I don't really remember too much about walking home. I don't really remember going home. I only remember getting there . . . to my door.

"I am glad to be alive."

'Lord Porn' Draws Laughter

LONDON (CP) — The case of the porno show and the reluctant peer has the British public rocking with laughter in its holiday deck-chairs.

The seventh Earl of Longford, a venerable father of eight and grandfather of 10, has taken it upon himself to tilt at the windmill of the permissive society—in particular, the spread of pornography in Britain.

For reasons that remain somewhat obscure, Lord Longford, a 65-year-old Roman Catholic, found it necessary to inspect the notorious sex-fair life of Copenhagen in an attempt to assess the impact on the citizens of the Danish capital and on his personally-appointed team of five.

But Longford got more than he bargained for amid the alien porn.

When he and his party entered one of Copenhagen's so-called "live sex" shows, the earl was shocked and outraged to find himself expected to participate in the entertainment, with a showgirl who draped herself around him, dangled a whip and suggested he take part in a little sport.

"There were three courses open to me," he said later. "One to participate; second to sit there making it plain I detested it, or three, to clear out —and I took that course."

His colleagues, he said, stayed on with "heroic stoicism" for the rest of the show. They spent the remainder of their time in Copenhagen talking with officials and porno-brokers and inspecting about 400 sex shops.

Longford said that he hadn't been harmed by the experience at the sex show, but he felt he might have been if he had stayed longer.

Flying back to London with no firm conclusions either way about the influence of Denmark's wide-open sex market, Longford carried a dozen "samples of Danish porno magazines but restricted his reading on the aircraft to the Book of Proverbs.

Customs officials inspected the books for 10 minutes before allowing him through on a guarantee that he would keep the material under his personal control.

The incident was picked up by British newspapers, which dubbed Longford "Lord Porn."

Two younger members of the team, which Longford says is financed by a "charitable trust" involving a wealthy tobacco family, added further piquancy by announcing they didn't see much harm in the Danish scene after all.

Longford is a former lord privy seal in Harold Wilson's Labour cabinet and the patriarch of a famed literary family. His wife, Elizabeth Longford, wrote much-praised biographies of Queen Victoria and the Duke of Wellington. His daughter, Lady Antonia Fraser, produced the best-selling Mary, Queen of Scots, while his heir, Thomas Pakenham, who doesn't ure a title, wrote a well-reviewed account of a crucial year in Irish history.

Air Line Strategy

U.S. Backs Dollar Crisis with Hard-nosed Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. diplomats have adopted a hard-nosed stance on international air-route deals, reflecting President Nixon's tough new economic policy and trouble some longtime friends abroad.

Last week the United States, for the first time since the Second World War, told a foreign country—the Republic of Ireland—that its airline will lose its lucrative New York stop unless U.S. carriers get a better break in Ireland.

Now U.S. negotiators are bargaining rigorously with Australia, seeking to boost American air traffic to that country. Meanwhile, Washington has pocketbook a bid by Australia's air carrier, Qantas, to step up its service to the United States.

The Belgians are in unhappy about a U.S. refusal to allow their airline, Sabena, to fly to U.S. points beyond New York that they have talked about cancelling their air agreement with the United States.

A Belgian negotiating team is due here next month—but U.S. officials say they won't give in.

A similar meeting with Venezuela negotiators is scheduled for October.

Canada, France and West Germany also want more flights throughout the United States but U.S. authorities say economic conditions at this time bar granting foreigners more routes to U.S. cities.

In a 1945 agreement, U.S. planes were allowed to refuel in Shannon, and the Irish won flights into New York, Boston and Chicago.

In passing years the increasing range of airliners shrunk Shannon's importance as a fuel stop.

MAKING ROADS SAFE — These roadways in suburban Montreal show roadside hazards. At top, a distracting island of poles has been left after construction of a new road. Below, on Lakeshore drive in Dorval, Que., a stretch of at least 10 miles has all hydro and telephone poles as well as fire hydrants are on the road instead of beyond the roadside. These pictures were taken by the Canada Conference of Young Drivers. (CP Photo).

Fewer Tourists on Road As Vacation Period Ends

There may have been fewer tourists on the highways since the first of August and also a falling off in the number of vacationers at the tent and trailer parks but Quinte area tourist operators are not complaining.

They say the number of customers compares favorably with the same period last year and say falling off since July is mainly the result of the end of the vacation period.

One tent trailer park operation at Coe Hill, in North Hastings, the Red Eagle, reports there has been a falling off since the first week in August.

At the same time business for the season is above that of last year and at least one motel operator at Belleville had the same story.

At Lavallee Tent Park near Bancroft business was reported slower than in July but a spokesman said this was to be expected.

The falling off was blamed to some extent on the weather and also to the fact that fewer people take their holidays this late in August.

"It always has been slower in August than in July," was the comment.

At Belleville, a Chamber of Commerce spokesman said there had been a definite decline in the past week in the number of tourists seeking accommodation.

One motel in the north end of the city adjacent to Highway 401 said the number of Americans had dropped off a bit during the past week, but whether it was the result of the end of the holiday season, weather or the economic situation was difficult to assess.

A spokesman at the Tops Motor Hotel said this had been the best season since the motel opened about ten years ago.

At the Sun Valley Motor Inn no falling off in room rentals has been noticed since Aug. 1, noted it would be difficult to assess the true picture because of possible business resulting from the opening of the Quinte Mall.

This week the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed reported nearly 700 vacancies at provincial camping sites in the Quinte area.

During July and the first week in August all campsites were completely filled.

Car Found On Lot, Returned

TRENTON — Harry Hill, 36 John St., Trenton, had his car stolen from a parking place on Elgin Street near Murphy Street last night, but he did not have to do without its services very long.

An alert Ontario Provincial Police constable, David Cook, on patrol in the village of Brighton west of here early this morning, noticed a car not familiar to the local area sitting in the yard of a garage in the village.

A check later revealed the car had been stolen at Trenton. The vehicle, without apparent damage, was returned to the Trenton police department this morning.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Foiar J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have been told I have an upside-down stomach. Just what is meant by that? My doctor says that is as good an explanation as any, after having taken X rays.

I have no symptoms. He suggests no special diet. No medicines. I feel fine except for occasional heartburn. But what scares me is the "upside - down" bit. I will appreciate any words of advice. Thank you. — Mrs. B.

• • •

COMMENT: I am guessing that your doctor means by the term "upside - down" stomach a hiatal hernia. Ordinarily, the esophagus (commonly known as the gullet) passes down through the diaphragm to reac the stomach. There is a comfortably tight fit.

But when the opening becomes too large in the diaphragm to reach the stomach a portion of the stomach may slip up through it into the chest, that is, "upside-down." This is also called esophagial hernia and hiatal hernia.

Thousands of people have this condition and are unaware of it because they have no symptoms. Only a routine X-ray examination discloses its presence. But many others do have complaints.

Like yourself, for instance: heartburn, due to regurgitation of food. Others complain of pains which may simulate an ulcer of the stomach. Still others say that gas under the chest disturbs them — especially when they lie flat in bed.

In some patients with hiatal hernia I have seen, they were first suspected of having a coronary attack because of intense chest pain. Recently a patient with hiatal hernia complained only of some difficulty in swallowing. So you see, Mrs. B., symptoms vary — or are not present at all.

What to do? Although, in some obstinate cases, operation may be necessary, the usual treatment is medical: guarding against overeating (especially before bedtime); taking six small meals rather than one or two large ones; sleeping with the head of the bed elevated; dieting to lose excess weight, and occasional antacid medications to neutralize heartburn. What I am trying to stress is that hiatal hernia ordinarily is not a serious disease.

• • •

For Mr. L.: Acromegaly requires special treatment; it cannot invariably be helped. It is due to a disorder in the pituitary gland. It causes abnormal growth of the jaw, extremities.

I suggest that you ask your doctor to refer you to one of the large medical clinics in this country for evaluation. Sometimes they operate. Just taking medicine, and being treated by a doctor every three or four months may not be helpful. I am sure your doctor will be glad to cooperate—by calling for outside help.

• • •

For Mrs. U.: As you are moving out of the city, I believe you show good sense in asking your child's pediatrician to give you a copy of the injections and tests he has already had. There is no reason for the child's being retested and reinoculated unnecessarily by his new doctor. Incidentally, DPT "shots" mean inoculations directed against diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough) and tetanus (lockjaw). Be especially sure that he gets (or has had) inoculations against red measles, German measles and mumps. And, of course, protection against poliomyelitis, along with whatever else the doctor finds necessary.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 29

Your birthday today: There is just no evading the direct approach to life and all its challenges and limitations in the coming year. Whatever skills you have will be used, and you will have to develop more to cope with what comes to you to do. Little of your mission can be passed off for others to attend, and it is unlikely that you can take anything for a long time to come. Today's natives often are reserved, self-sufficient, paying little attention to advice.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Any effort to arbitrate or adjust others' differences only gets you involved and over your depth. Go ahead with an individual project.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Take your share in the community's traditional rituals. Make the rounds of old friends, returning favors and loans. The general draft is favorable.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Conversation promises to fill your day. Among the amenities a few good exchanges guide you well.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Home life and its enjoyment requires important deeds and some sacrifice of outside promotions or displays.

LEO (July 3 — Aug. 22): You must come up with more answers this Sunday, and you may have to share confidences to get a full enough perspective.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Step up and demand what you are entitled to enjoy. Where you encounter conflict, make sure you're in possession of the whole story before you proceed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Everybody has a few rough edges and is bound to grind them down a little encountering those of others. Choose the old standbys you get along best with for a rather sociable Sunday.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): People you don't know well are quite curious. Go along and learn more about them and their reasons.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Plan a nearly solitary day — catch up on neglected correspondence. Clear up your immediate surroundings; spend your time to thought for the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): You can't pursue all the lively alternatives open now. Select the more conservative, letter organized ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): You think you're just being factual when you're causing new problems for others, and ultimately yourself. There's no special need to push toward goals beyond present possibilities.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Initiative finally passes into your hands. You can persuade most people to see at least part of the story your way.

For August 30

Your birthday today: Opens a sustained drama of your inner evolvement toward higher spiritual expression. Limitations must be transcended or simply accepted as irrelevant to the greater reality. Today's natives are reserved, seldom follow advice, usually ultraconservative in some matters while being wide open on other issues.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Big questions answer themselves as you go. It's the steady encounter with little ones that wears you down.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): A romantic flavor comes into your experience with hints of exotic, hard to believe glamor. But keep your work up to schedule.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Temptation is to rationalize or change the discussion when a fixed answer is needed. Find out the facts and present them where you are asked.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Being devious or subtle only creates misunderstanding of what you want and where you're going toward it. Be forthright, despite rebuffs, and go on.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Gather together all who can share your way of life and who are free and willing to collaborate. You may even build a new working group while having fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): You might reasonably begin a vacation — or you may find that just getting back to work may be a relief from the past week and weekend. Close out things rather than make extra starts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Bring together old friends for reunion, comparisons, perhaps the establishment of a working crew. There's good news to share as well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Simplify your career activity where you can; drop sideline activities particularly if they no longer pay well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Go directly to the point, deal with people whose views clash with yours, come to some line of agreement. Mutual self - respect is the only feasible course.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Partisan attitudes have a way of involving you as devil's advocate, defending ideas you don't really enjoy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your gentlest approach to one you love is none too delicate now. Find a symbolic form of declaration to go with your words.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Working conditions should be left alone for the moment. Changes need more preparation can be made later with better prospects.

Alberta Election

Decision Monday as to Whether Lougheed Can Upset Socreds

EDMONTON (CP) — The courtship of Alberta's estimated 878,000 eligible voters reaches its peak in the province's 17th general election Monday when they will decide what kind of a government they want to live with during the next five years.

The polls are open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. MST, and the voters basically have three choices—something oh In the Social Credit party, something new in the Progressive Conservatives, or the New Democratic Party.

Also in the contest, but with no chance of forming the government, are 20 Liberals and three independent candidates—for a record total of 343.

Social Credit has been in power since 1935 and Peter Lougheed, the 43-year-old Calgary lawyer who led the Alberta Conservatives out of the political wilderness, insists "36 years is enough."

Mr. Lougheed, who travelled 7,300 miles on the campaign trail, insists it is time for a change. He offers the Conservatives, a party that was without a seat in the legislature when he became leader 6½ years ago, as the alternative.

At dissolution, the Conservatives held 19 of the 65 seats in the legislature. Social Credit had 54 and one seat was vacant.

Redistribution has added 10 seats and increased membership in the legislature to 75 from 65.

Social Credit's 36 years in office is not a record. The Liberals held power in Quebec for 39 years and in Nova Scotia for 43.

Premier Harry Strom looks to solid rural support and the party's "best-ever" urban organization to bring about the re-election of Social Credit.

In the last political election, May 22, 1967, Social Credit won all but four rural ridings in collecting 55 of the 65 seats. Six city ridings went to the opposition.

Mr. Lougheed predicts a close race in 25 constituencies this time, with the Conservatives and Social Credit each taking 25 of the remaining 50 seats.

He said the two leading candidates in the close ridings could be separated by as few as 200 votes.

Sunday, the Conservative leader will spend most of the day at party headquarters in Calgary, making telephone calls to key ridings.

Mr. Strom, the 57-year-old former farmer who became premier in December, 1968 when E. C. Manning retired, said the warmth of voters in rural areas has given him a "tremendous lift" but warned supporters not to be lulled into complacency.

"We started a little cool, but we've become stronger as we go along," he said.

The four party platforms offered all sorts of new programs, with the Conservative platform the most extensive.

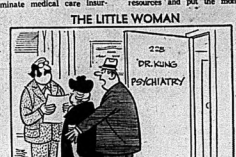
Social Credit promise a $1,000 grant to people who purchase a home for the first time; an increase of $10 million in loans for new industrial expansion; preschool programs for the underprivileged and handicapped; reduced medical care insurance premiums for senior citizens; receiving the guaranteed income supplement; a $10-per-month grant to municipalities for construction of recreation and cultural centres; to preserve the family farm; to double the funds in the Albert Farm Purchase Board to $41 million and to pay 25 per cent of crop insurance premiums.

The Conservatives say they will reform property taxes by removing the 30-mill levy for education and by doing away with tax increases on home improvements; set up a $50-million fund to attract and expand industry; build a network of small colleges and technical schools in medium-sized centres; eliminate medical care insurance premiums and provincial income tax for senior citizens; and set up a fund to provide interest-free loans to municipalities for major recreational facilities.

For agriculture, the Conservatives promise to develop marketing policies to improve domestic and export sales; maintain the family farm; boost processing of produce within Alberta and enlarge credit for agricultural enterprise.

The NDP says it will reduce the municipal share of hospital costs by 50 per cent; meet all the costs of education from provincial general revenue; increase oil royalties and corporation taxes; acquire ownership of the province's power companies; eliminate tuition fees, eliminate medical care insurance premiums and relieve farmers of their premediatz debt worries.h

The Liberals promised to place a lay on all non-renewable resources and put the money into education; extend government support to kindergartens; eliminate medical care insurance premiums and establish a government operated line of commodity insurance.



Grant Notley, the 32-year-old NDP leader who has worked for the party since 1961, said there is no doubt Social Credit support has diminished throughout the province.

Mr. Notley said the question that remains is what percentage of dissatisfied voters will swing all the way to the NDP rather than accepting a more moderate adjustment.

"Initially, we were fairly modest in our outlook," he said. "Now we believe realistically that we can win up to 10 seats." m'a n a g e r of an advertising agency and a public relations

Bob Russell, the 40-year-old firm who became Liberal leader early this year, said the present political scene "leaves little choice for the Alberta voters . . . (without a Liberal voice) the socialists will move into the vacuum."

Nixon Hints Softened Line On Pay Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a wake of Japan's decision to let the yen float in international money trading, the Nixon administration has hinted to United States workers they eventually may be allowed to collect frozen pay increases.

"I feel that as much as possible, where there are bona fide, legalistic contracts, people should get what they have coming to them," Assistant Labor Secretary W. J. Usery said Friday.

Labor sources estimate $300 million in negotiated wage increases are frozen under the wage-price sanctions.

Usery said at a news conference that no final determination has been made on whether workers may collect the pay increases, but he said the administration is considering such action in response to organized labor's complaints.

"I think in due time these decisions will be made," he said. Usery's comments came amid statements by the government and leading economists that the floating of the yen signified a victory for Nixon's policies.

Japan's action on the yen was expected to improve the U.S. trade deficit by encouraging U.S. exports and discouraging imports, one of the chief goals of the Nixon plan. U.S. labor unions have complained bitterly for several years that a flood of cheaper Japanese goods was putting thousands of Americans out of work.

"The yen was the major objective of our floating the dollar, and letting the yen float accomplishes the prime objective," observed Walter Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. "It should do a lot to help relieve international monetary tensions."

Yen Is Released, Pound Restricted

LONDON (AP) — Britain has reacted to the floating of the Japanese yen by clamping restrictions on pound sterling investments to discourage speculators from shifting their holdings from Tokyo to London.

The British treasury announced Friday night that no interest will be paid on foreign-owned money deposited in London starting Tuesday, the first day of business after Britain's bank holiday Monday.

The treasury move followed Japan's decision to float the yen, a step welcomed by British, industrialists competing against Japanese exports.

Neither the British treasury nor the Bank of England made any official statement on the Tokyo move, but The Financial Times said: "It can be taken for granted that they share the more overt enthusiasm for the new floatation shown yesterday by the Americans and the Germans."

The treasury acted quickly, however, to hold off a flow of speculative money into Britain. The new exchange controls were designed to discourage further buying of pounds by nonresidents, either to cash in on Britain's six-per-cent lending rate or to profit from the rising value of sterling.

The unprecedented controls ruled that:

—Banks and other institutions operating sterling accounts for residents—or firms—of countries outside the sterling area will not pay interest on any new deposits "for the time being." No time limit was set, and residents of the sterling area were not affected.

—Financial institutions will not accept further deposits for the time being from non-residents of the sterling area.

—Banks were restricted in converting foreign currency deposits into sterling, but the degree of restriction was not announced.

The treasury action did not reduce the convertibility of sterling, and non-residents will be allowed to buy pounds and deposit them with British banks. But no interest will be paid while deposits wait, and resident of re-selling the pounds at a profit.

The floating of the yen increased the attraction of sterling as a speculation investment, until the controls were announced.

The yen float is expected to help European exporters as Japanese money—and therefore Japanese prices—become more expensive.

Relief Study Ready

TORONTO (CP) — Allan Greenman, Ontario's trade and development minister said Friday he will meet in Ottawa Thursday with federal trade department officials to co-ordinate their responses to anticipated effects of the United States 10 per-cent extra duty on imports.

He said the meeting will deal with measures to be taken in the event of decreased export sales and layoffs due to the extra duty.

An ad hoc committee to co-ordinate information among federal and provincial governments was established this week and is headed by Ivan Head, a special assistant to Prime Minister Trudeau.

Mr. Grossman said "there is no need to panic. We still have to find out what products will be effected, to what extent and for how long."

He said in an interview: "Most but not all relief measures will have to be taken by the federal government.

"We are getting numerous letters and telegrams and there is a lot of concern."

However, he said the Ontario government has not decided any relief measures are necessary.

Economic Reports To Change

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Future reports on economic regions in Ontario will be briefer and more readable than those already released, Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Friday.

Reports on five of the province's 10 economic regions have been produced to date.

Mr. McKeough told a news conference his department now realizes reports for some of the regions were difficult to read and understand. The new ones, he said, will be "more readable, shorter documents."

Mr. McKeough was in London to meet with the regional development council for the Erie Economic Region, which includes the counties of Middlesex, Elgin, Oxford and Norfolk.

The councils, made up of elected and appointed representatives, gather statistics for the economic development programs.

Mr. McKeough said the final structure for development regions in Ontario could sensibly be broken into four or five parts instead of the present 10 regions.

A Cleaning House

TORONTO (CP) — A new central university admissions "clearing house" next June will mean prospective students will have to fill out only one form when they apply to any of Ontario's 16 universities. The applicants need list only the names of three universities they want to attend. If the applicant isn't admitted to any of his three choices, the centres will put him in touch with other universities where openings still remain.

Britain Asks Eire To Catch Terrorists

Newfoundland May Buy Mill

ST. JOHN'S Nfld (CP) — Premier Joseph Smallwood said today the Newfoundland government has asked the Bowater Corp. in London for an option to purchase the company's mill in Corner Brook.

Earlier at a press conference the premier had announced his government would take over the vast Corner Brook operation, but later he qualified this by saying the move still must be approved by Bowaters.

At what he called "the most important press conference of my life," Mr. Smallwood said he had heard from Bowater management during the weekend that it planned to close the No. 7 machine at the Corner Brook mill which turns out 100,000 tons of paper a year. The move would have resulted in up to 1,200 men, losing their jobs, at least 330 in the skilled trades in the mill itself.

This would be for a minimum period of two years, and was "a calamity that poses a threat" to the economic future of the whole area.

The premier, who is expected to call a provincial general election soon, told reporters he had hastily called his cabinet to discuss the situation.

He had come to the conclusion that the main trouble was seated in the worldwide ramifications of the Bowater organization. He felt that if Corner Brook centred industry could be cut clear of this organization and made independent it could do a much better job and be more successful.

"As a result, the government has come to a decision to take over the plant," he said.

The value of the mill to western Newfoundland has been estimated at $22 million annually in wages and services.

It is one of the biggest mills in the world. It produces an average of 1,070 tons of paper a day, employs about 1,000 in the mill and another 1,000 in its vast woods operations. It also has a hydroelectric facility supplying a large section of western Newfoundland.

The mill, which has undergone several modernization programs, was opened in 1925.

Prisoners Are Traded

BONN (Reuter) — East and West Germany have swapped spies and political prisoners, the Sunday newspaper Bild am Sonntag says.

The paper says the exchange was made Wednesday.

The report says the East Germans asked for the swap before the next round of talks on details to be incorporated in the recently concluded Four Power draft agreement on Berlin.

Most of East Germany's agents held in the West had already been released. Ten agents and secret couriers were set free, some of them without being formally charged or coming to trial, the paper adds.

A number of other spies already sentenced were pardoned and immediately released, Bild says. In exhange, the East Germans freed what were called political prisoners, four of whom had served several years of life sentences.

New Storm Develops In Bahamas

MIAMI (AP) — A tropical depression with winds gusting to 35 miles an hour swept over the Florida peninsula just north of Miami Sunday night and headed toward the Gulf of Mexico, the National Hurricane Centre reported.

No injuries or property damage were reported. Drought-stricken areas of south and central Florida received up to two inches of rain, the centre said.

The depression, travelling west-northwest about 15 miles an hour, might strengthen after it reaches the Gulf south of Tampa, a forecaster said.

The foul weather front, which developed a day after Tropical Storm Doria died down, lashed the western Bahamas with heavy showers and a few squalls as it steered toward the Florida coast.

Police Station Gunned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man with a shot gun burst into a police station late Sunday night and sprayed the front desk with buckshot, killing the desk sergeant and wounding a woman clerk, police reported.

Police said earlier they had no leads to the slaying.

Immediately after the shooting at the Ingleside station in the southwest part of the city, police officials ordered armed officers to guard the eight other police stations.

The gunman stuck a 12-gauge shotgun barrel through a hole in a bullet-proof glass partition at the desk and fired, police said. Buckshot struck Sgt. John V. Young, 45, in the chest, police said. He died minutes later in the station.

The blast also hit Ellen Lipney, 30, but she was not in serious condition.

Officer James Nanz, one of two other officers in the station, said of the gunman: "He just came through the door and started shooting."

The gunman stepped back after the blast, police said, and pumped several more rounds of buckshot into the partition and a metal door which leads to the station's inner offices.

Police Chief Alfred Nelder launched an immediate search.

One investigator, Lieut. Charles Ellis, said the gunman with the shotgun was a tall black man.

Lost Soldiers Hit at Border

BELFAST (AP) — Britain called on the Republic of Ireland government today to capture the terrorists who killed a British soldier and wounded another after their armored car strayed across the border into southern Ireland.

The provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army admitted in Dublin that its men had ambushed the British patrol Sunday night and fought a half-hour gun battle on the frontier with Northern Ireland.

The British foreign office in London asked Sir John Peck, British ambassador in Dublin, to demand a full investigation and ask for promises that "no effort will be spared to bring the offenders to justice."

The IRA is outlawed in both Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic, but its men operate with virtually full freedom on the republican side.

At the same time, the Irish Republic asked its ambassador in London to make a formal complaint, about the British patrol's incursion into republican territory, an incident bound to worsen relations between the London and Dublin governments.

The gunbattle erupted after two British Ferret armored cars drove 100 yards across the unmarked border to the republican village of Hackballs Cross, where they were surrounded by an angry crowd that stopped the patrol and set one of the cars on fire.

While the villagers held the troops virtually captive for an hour, might strengthen after it reaches the Gulf south of Tampa, a forecaster said.

The foul weather front, which developed a day after Tropical Storm Doria died down, lashed the western Bahamas with heavy showers and a few squalls as it steered toward the Florida coast.

Police Chief Alfred Nelder launched an immediate search.

One investigator, Lieut. Charles Ellis, said the gunman with the shotgun was a tall black man.

The provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army admitted in Dublin that its men had ambushed the British patrol Sunday night and fought a half-hour gun battle on the frontier with Northern Ireland.

The British foreign office in London asked Sir John Peck, British ambassador in Dublin, to demand a full investigation and ask for promises that "no effort will be spared to bring the offenders to justice."

The IRA is outlawed in both Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic, but its men operate with virtually full freedom on the republican side.

At the same time, the Irish Republic asked its ambassador in London to make a formal complaint, about the British patrol's incursion into republican territory, an incident bound to worsen relations between the London and Dublin governments.

The gunbattle erupted after two British Ferret armored cars drove 100 yards across the unmarked border to the republican village of Hackballs Cross, where they were surrounded by an angry crowd that stopped the patrol and set one of the cars on fire.

While the villagers held the troops virtually captive for an hour, a carload of about six IRA men moved into position near the border. When the remaining Ferret retreated back into Northern Ireland and stopped to change its flat rear tires, the gunmen opened fire across the frontier.

Trooper Robert Ager was hit in the shoulder and when Cpl. Ian Armstrong dashed into the gunfire to rescue him, Armstrong was shot through the heart.

Commanding officer Lt.-Col. Michael Palmer, who watched the incident from a helicopter overhead, radioed the reinforcements. A Saracen armored car sped to the frontier and the gunmen fled. Palmer said that by driving into the republic, the patrol leader "made a mistake—he paid for this one with his life."

The frontier between the two Irelands is unmarked at many points and British troops have inadvertently crossed it several times before, with the British government issuing a routine apology in each case. The frontier gunfight drew furious headlines in British newspapers, however, and the bloodshed appeared likely to increase tension in the frontier district.

Irish army patrols in the area were intensified Sunday night.

The corporal was the fifth British soldier killed since the British army took over peacekeeping duty in troubled Northern Ireland two years ago.

Another British soldier was wounded in the head by gunfire Sunday in Belfast, and two more were hurt when a car rammed an army roadblock.

The frontier shooting came amid more reports of bombings and street violence in the North. Four bombs exploded within a minute in Londonderry, injuring no one. Four more went off in scattered parts of Belfast.

In another border incident early today, two British soldiers were slightly injured when a speeding car attempted to smash through a roadblock into southern Ireland at Killeen, about eight miles from the scene of Sunday's ambush.

Two men in the car were also slightly hurt and were detained.

In Belfast, a chemical manufacturing plant was severely damaged.

Israel Halts Move Of Refugees at Gaza

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel has stopped transferring Palestinian refugees from camps in the Gaza Strip to housing outside the strip, informed sources said today.

Suspension of the controversial program is indefinite, pending a further decision by the government, they said.

The sources suggested several factors led to the move: International objection, especially by UN Secretary General U Thant, plus complaints by refugees that they had been moved too far from their places of employment.

The newspaper Haaretz said one reason was the reluctance of the refugees to move to the occupied West Bank of the Jordan despite Israeli enticements to move there.

The sources said the government believed it had reached its objective in the Hadarbaya, at Chatt and Rafah camps by moving about 14,000 persons, bulldozing their homes and building patrol roads in their stead.

However, the original plan called for transferring 140,000 of the 210,000 Arabs in the camps.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: August will be ending on a sunny note in most of Ontario. Temperatures should be a little cooler in most regions Tuesday as a fresh surge of dry air moves across the province from the northwest. At the leading edge of this new air mass a few showers are occurring but by the time it reaches the lower lakes late today the showers should be few and far between. Maximum temperatures in the southern regions are expected to be in the high seventies and low 80s today and for the most part in the low to mid 70s Tuesday.

Permanent Ban Asked on Jail Pickets

EDMONTON (CP) — The case of the guards who walked off the job Friday at five provincial jails goes to court again today, with the government seeking to have temporary injunctions against picketing and "interference" with jail operations made permanent.

After a hearing Saturday in which lawyers for the Civil Service Association and the attorney-general's department argued about admissibility of evidence, the temporary injunctions obtained by the government Friday were continued until today.

The walkout came as a result of a dispute between the government and the guards over bargaining rights.

RCMP officers moved into the jails after the guards departed.

Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart confirmed that RCMP were on duty at all five jails, "but not in as great numbers as expected because more staff than expected" remained at their posts.

Mr. Gerhart said during the weekend the Social Credit government's attitude is that jobs will be in jeopardy for those who leave their work but that the government won't be taking any specific action until after today's provincial election.

The attorney-general has said the dispute had political overtones and that the "bone of contention" all along has been whether the government would take action before the election.

No disturbances were reported among the more than 1,000 prisoners still in the five institutions.

At Fort Saskatchewan, near Edmonton, warden Ernie Noel said 48 RCMP had been called in to supplement senior administrative staff and that prisoners were co-operative.

About eight or nine RCMP officers were assisting with guard duties at the Peace River institution, Warden J. O. Desrochers said earlier.

About 10 RCMP were reported on duty at the Lethbridge jail.

Total number of RCMP involved and numbers of guards still on duty were not revealed by any officials.

A spokesman for the guards at Bowden jail, near Red Deer, said Sunday that in the event of a disturbance the guards would go to the jail to assist if requested to do so by the superintendent.

Senior Citizen Housing Report Is Released

TWEED (Special) — The Ontario Housing Corporation of Toronto has forwarded to the village of Tweed a recently completed report of a survey made last spring to ascertain the need for senior citizen housing in Tweed and district.

Copies of the report have been forwarded to members of council, and the executive of the Tweed Senior Citizens Club. This latter organization was active in the promotion of the needs survey.

The report shows that Tweed's population included 19 per cent senior citizens, which the report says is higher than normal for a village of this size.

The survey reports that there were 90 eligible senior citizens of whom 23 were considered to be "very interested and needy". The characteristics of these 23 senior citizens are as follows:

Forty per cent derived their incomes from Old Age Security and Guaranteed Income Supplement.

Over two - thirds had a monthly income of under $150.

Almost one - half lived in single - detached homes.

Three had outdoor bathroom facilities and three shared their bathroom facilities.

The report notes that it was impossible to collect more monthly rent for 12 people, but only 6 paid under $70 monthly, and none paid under $40 monthly.

Eleven persons would pay less rent in Ontario Housing, nine of these over $30 less, and none would pay more. In addition to the above 23 senior citizens mentioned in the report, an additional six persons were not contacted, but were considered to be "very interested and needy" on the basis of their initial questionnaire returns.

Since there is no Ontario Housing project in the village at the present time, the report recommended that consideration be given to the construction of 20 one-bedroom units immediately, and that construction of a further 10 units be considered for erection after the first project is completed. At this time, the number of units could be increased if the demand indicated the need for such accommodation.

The report also showed that Tweed had a higher than average number of single detached houses with a total of 406 in 1970. This represented 79.1 per cent of all accommodation in the village, compared with a provincial average of 63.1 per cent single detached dwellings.

There were 31 semi and duplex dwellings in Tweed, representing 6.1 per cent of accommodation, as compared with the provincial average of 11.3 per cent.

There were 76 apartment and row houses, representing 14.8 per cent of accommodation compared to a provincial average of 25.4 per cent.

The report indicated that 72.8 per cent of the housing is owned.

This indicates that a significant proportion of the single-detached dwellings in Tweed are owned rather than rented. It also showed that there is a shortage of semi, duplex, row and apartment rental-type accommodation.

The report goes on to say that at the present time there is no accommodation specially designed for senior citizens in the village of Tweed.

There are 7 homes for the aged in Belleville, which provide special care, and 2 in Madoc. However, these are not suitable for senior citizens who wish to rent self-contained accommodation and remain in Tweed.

The report concludes that the type homes and apartments in Tweed are scarce and quite expensive. The housing market in general is very tight, resales occur rarely, although there are a few small, older homes which would sell for approximately $12,000.

Generally, retiring farmers are unable to purchase any accommodation in the village and therefore remain on their farms.

Albert McTaggart, president of the Tweed Senior Citizens Club, states that club members were pleased with the report and the recommendations, and that they were co-operating with the members of the municipal council in an effort to find a suitable location for the proposed senior citizen housing project.

Mr. McTaggart said he hoped to see work on the project get under way this autumn.

Liberals Debate Election Date

TRENTON (Staff) — Eastern Ontario Liberals continue to make preparations for a fall provincial election.

On Saturday night the Prince Edward-Hastings Liberal Association's annual fund-raising party at president William Menzies' place at Glen Miller, was bolstered by a visit from James Trotter, MPP, sitting Liberal member for Toronto Parkdale as guest of honor.

Mr. Trotter briefed riding candidates present including Rev. Ian Munro of Tweed (Hastings), Barry Young of Napanee (Prince Edward - Hastings) and Gerald Weaver of Trenton (Quinte). He joined in a special strategy session for Quinte riding executives in the host's kitchen.

Joel Mazer of Belleville the president of Quinte Liberal Association, Anthony Young of car vice - president of the Prince Edward-Hastings Association and president of Bala Liberal Association and Gerald Weaver, Liberal candidate for the riding took part in the discussions.

Mr. Trotter told the group he was convinced the Liberatives would call an election for Thursday, October 14. He said this information was based on the indication the U.S. surcharge would dampen the economy and create greater employment problems in the province. "The Davis government prefers to look for people's confidence in the administration before things grow worse," he explained. "I'm satisfied the Premier's backroom boys think along the same line."

But, not all the party stalwarts in attendance agreed with the guest of honor's assumptions. One of them was Donald Joss, a well known visitor and party stalwart from Nassau, Bahamas who was defeated as the Quinte candidate by Conservative Dr. Richard Potter in the last Ontario election.

Mr. Joss emphasized that he believed the Conservative leader would wait until spring to call an election because there were signs in the financial world that the economy will employment problems improve despite the Nixon administration's application of the surcharge.

He said he went along with Premier Davis' reasoning that "the United States was Canada's best friend and customer and Canadians should not panic while experts in both countries continued to negotiate to resolve trade difference brought about by President Nixon's action. He said he preferred to take an optimistic view of the outcome of the talks. Mr. Joss returns to the Caribbean island with his family on Thursday after spending the summer holidays in the area.

The Prince Edward-Hastings Association divided $550 between the riding of North - umberland, Quinte, Prince Edward-Hastings and Hastings in a presentation ceremony with Liberal federal candidate for Prince Edward-Hastings Dwayer Cunningham handing over the cheques. The gifts were from a fund established by the Association with money from sponsoring various projects.

CNE Can't Fill Jobs

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian National Exhibition officials said Sunday they can't find 200 people for $80-a-week jobs for the remaining seven days of the exhibition.

The 200 are needed to replace people who have quit.

The CNE has a special permit allowing casual workers to work 100 overtime hours during the exhibition. But Howard Tate, CNE assistant general manager, said overtime costs in the past have been so high it was decided to hire two shifts of students in such categories as ticket-selling.

Each shift works 52 hours for four days, then is off for four days.

"Our trouble is that many of the students don't return for their next four days work," Mr. Tate said.

Officials were to meet today to discuss the situation which is affecting the CNE's sagging business and inconveniencing visitors.

Mr. Tate said some information booths and booths selling tickets for a "dream home" draw were unattended because of a lack of staff.

There were line-ups at ticket windows Sunday because there weren't enough sellers to handle the large crowd that jammed the grounds.

The CNE has hired about 2,000 casual workers this year to work at midway ticket sellers and as gate and parking attendants.

France set up the two-tier system and also dropped in Frankfurt. But in Zurich the dollar was up slightly.

The turnover was too small in European markets for any real trend. London markets were closed for the August bank holiday.

Dealers on the Tokyo market reported the dollar holding steady in quiet trading.

Trading opened slowly in Paris where banks quoted 5.34-5.35 financial francs to the dollar, down from 5.39-5.40 at the close Friday. Today's rate corresponded to a devaluation of about 3.8 per cent.

Dealers reported initial trade quiet in Frankfurt, where the dollar opened at 3.3940 marks, down from Friday's closing price of 3.3970. Within the first hour, the dollar fell to 3.3925 marks but recovered somewhat to 3.3935.

The dollar opened in Zurich at 3.97 3.98 Swiss francs, up from 3.9625-3.9775 Friday. This amounted to a dollar devaluation of 2.2 per cent from Aug. 13 and 2.7 per cent from the previous official parity.

In Tokyo, the dollar held steady just above 341 yen. It closed at 341.60 in interbank dealings, a 5.1-per-cent decline from its old value of 360 yen. During the day it traded as high as 341.70, but dealers estimated volume at less than $100 million.

Lt.-Gen. Gordon M. Graham, commander of U.S. forces in Japan, ordered the temporary suspension of yen sales at U.S. military facilities in the country. He said the suspension would be lifted as soon as the monetary situation settled.

Finance Minister Mikio Mizuta called on the Japanese people to face the yen-dollar crisis as an "honorable agony" and overcome it to build a strong nation. Speaking in a televised discussion, he said the yen float and the 10 per cent U.S. surcharge on imports would hurt the Japanese economy. But he said the government plans massive spending, mainly in public projects, to stimulate the economy and employment and offset any adverse developments resulting from the U.S. defence of the dollar.

Ottawa Ex Attendance Declines

OTTAWA (CP) — A record one-day crowd of 71,416 visited the Central Canada Exhibition on its final day Sunday, but total attendance for the fair's 10-day run fell short of last year's mark.

Over-all attendance was 563,343 this year, down from 603,279 last year.

Cold, rainy days clouded exhibition activities for much of its run.

Despite smaller crowds, gate receipts were expected to exceed last year's figure. Admission was raised to $1.50 this year from $1.

Pinnacle Tailor Shop A Canadiana Museum

By JIM WILLARD
Staff Reporter

Hanging high on one far wall is a primitive cradle that was once used to cut grain and stack it in sheaves for pickup. Nearby, a ceremonial sword originally from the Black Order of the Orange Lodge attracts attention while pinned to a pillar is an ancient carpet-stretcher.

And there are other items from history dating back over a century, including some ancient pressing irons and telephone equipment. There's even a model of the first effective sewing machine, patented in 1854.

This collection of museum pieces cannot be found in any ordinary museum. In fact, they are not in any museum at all.

The A. R. Liddle tailor shop, on Pinnacle Street near Dundas Street in Belleville is the home of these relics, and the present owner and son of the founder of the business, Robert A. Liddle, delights in displaying and explaining the items to customers and curiosity-seekers alike.

"I have always been interested in history, and when I became master over my father's business on Front street, it was only natural that I would start to pick up pieces here and there, especially at auctions. You would be surprised at some of the stuff that's available at those auctions in Hounston and President Lundberg has been invited as guest speaker. Both organizations emphasize youth improvement projects.

Another proud father, Cdr. Ken Makaski, escorted his charming daughter, Kathleen, to St. Joseph's where she was married to John Lecour. The wedding party and guests adjourned to the Turtan Lounge after the ceremony for the wedding luncheon and enjoyed an evening of dancing afterwards. The Duke of Edinburgh Unit wishes the happy couple a long and healthy life.

The Happy Hour has proved very successful. The light lunch provided is a welcome appetizer before going home to dinner. In the evening the accomplished pianist and singer, Wally Sawyer, will be on hand to entertain the members and guests at the regular Friday Social.

The chairman of the sick committee reports that there are four comrades in the Belleville General Hospital. They are: Leo Bellinger, room 726; Bill Shepherd, room 723; Ab Turk, room 623 and Don Parker, room 694. He has visited them all and they are resting fairly comfortably.

Pope Critical Of Ulster Policy

CASTELGANDOLFO, Italy (Reuter) — Pope Paul broke a two-year silence on Northern Ireland Sunday with an appeal for peace which included criticism of the Belfast government's tough security measures.

The pontiff told pilgrims at his summer residence here:

"The situation there recently grew worse, and was then further aggravated following the adoption of exceptional security measures which were strongly resented by at least a part of the citizens."

He was referring to the measures announced Aug. 9 by Prime Minister Brian Faulkner, who said he would order the internment of men considered a serious and continuing threat to public order and safety.

In his last statement, on Aug. 17, 1969, the Pope supported the Roman Catholic demands for equal rights with Northern Ireland's Protestants but condemned the use of violence to achieve their aims.

LONDON (AP) — Canon John Collins, leading Anglican pacifist in Britain, urged the Pope to visit Northern Ireland on a peace mission.

The 66-year-old campaigner said the Pope and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, head of the Anglican church, should stay in Belfast while politicians worked for a solution acceptable to Catholics and Protestants.

Number, Please

Demonstrating use of one of numerous antiques stored in one section of his tailor's shop, Robert A. Liddle boasts a collection of relics ranging from oldest model of sewing machine to a decades old mechanical apple peeling device. This particular telephone used in European hotels is nearly 50 years old.

things," Mr. Liddle explained.

When the original site of the shop burned down, along with the building it was housed in, all collected items up to then were also destroyed.

"You know, when you lose something, you try harder to catch up again. You're more serious, and it becoffie a living hobby," Mr. Liddle stated.

Among his present collection, he can boast original sad irons used in the Quinte area, of all different types that were employed by different businesses.

"I remember as a kid, my mother used to use the flat sad iron, the type with three sets of irons. You would lift off the handle and replace the bottom iron with another type of iron," he remembers.

One particular iron that was in vogue more than 75 years ago could be brought back for use today for clothes worn by modern youth. That was the crimper iron.

"In the old days, everyone used to wear those frills for collars and wrist bands. Well, look at today's mod clothes. No difference, eh?" he asked.

Others used charcoal to create steam to iron clothes and some employed naphtha gas to create heat.

"Some didn't go over too well. Too much smoke or smell," Mr. Liddle recalled.

"On the gas irons, the flames would come out the side and they sometimes started fires on the clothes you were ironing."

Many of them weighed an average of 15 to 18 pounds.

In the tailor shop, an eight-sided machine was used to continuously iron garments. Each side had an iron and when the operator used all the available steam in one, he moved along to another side, and the cycle repeated throughout the day.

"With some of these irons, you really worked up a muscle in the arm," Ethel, wife of the owner, added.

However, the single most interesting item in the collection is a duplicate model of the original sewing machine patented by the Singer Sewing Machine company back in 1854. And a story rests with its invention.

"In 1850, a carpenter had sort of invented a sewing machine, but it was not too good. Then he joined in partnership with a machinist and both invented a marketable machine two years later, one using the disc for feeding thread of today's bobbin.

"That's when the trouble started. The Wheeler and Wilson machine was challenged by the Singer company models, two other rivals. For years, the legal battle was staged, and the courts said that Singer stole secrets from Howe and Howe stole from Wheeler. They eventually decided that the only way to solve the mess was to amalgamate all three companies, and that's how the Singer started as it is today," Mr. Liddle explained.

Along with first - model telephone sets, he has some other unique machines. There's one for peeling apples, ('you could peel ten apples by hand compared to the time you needed for one with that device.") another for taking pits out of cherries and another for pushing cores out of apples.

He even has the original cricket bats used over 60 years ago in the old Belleville cricket field where Cashway Lumber yard is located today.

"An Englishman tried to interest people in cricket, but it seems everyone was playing ball at that time," Mr. Liddle recalled.

"You know, getting back to that Wheeler model, it was the first time that a needle had an eye in it for sewing. Before, they used to punch a hole in the fabric, draw the thread through and then punch another hole. It was good for leather and heavy canvas, but lousy for ordinary clothes," Mr. Liddle pointed out.

Does the process of collecting cost much?

"No, not really. I go to auctions a lot and get tips from friends. I usually limit myself to eight dollars per item. To show you how much prices change a lot, I used to get a sad iron for one dollar but just recently a lady just got the handle for two dollars. Now, what are you going to do with just a handle?" he stated.

And as you look around the room, you cannot help but feel that you're not in a modern tailor's shop, but in a county museum. Perhaps the modern housewife would dread using one of the ancient sad irons today, but, some four or five decades ago, it was the latest thing.

Garbage Packer Gutted by Fire

Surprise was the name of the game late Sunday morning for the driver of a big automatic packer garbage truck owned by Kingston Commercial Refuse.

The big truck was westbound on Highway 401 just west of Napanee when a motorist flagged the truck driver down to tell him his vehicle was afire.

The truck was pulled to the shoulder of the four - lane highway but before firemen could put out the flames, the vehicle, worth nearly $100,000, was a complete loss.

Earlier the driver had picked up a load of plastic refuse from Millhaven and was on the way to a dump when the mass, unknown to the driver, caught fire.

Three Thefts On Weekend

City police report a small jewellry heist at the home of Norman Albert, 219 MacDonald Avenue, sometime between Aug. 23 and the weekend.

Away for the summer, the Alberts' house was checked Aug. 23 but upon return of the family, an apparent entry was discovered. Sometime last week, a thief or thieves entered the home and made off with an unvalued amount of small jewellry, liquor and cash.

There is no sign of entry, but police continue their investigation.

Also over this past weekend, theft of stereo tape players, radios and a camera have been recorded.

Sometime Saturday, a side window vent was forced on a car owned by James Murray, 251 Sidney Street. A stereo player, one tape and a Polaroid camera, valued at $200, were removed.

Gary Robert White of 121 Stanley Street, reported a stereo tape and eight tapes were stolen from his unlocked car Sunday. Value of these items is given as $150.

Whytock Wins Corn Contest

MADOC (Special) — By a margin of one point, Norman Whytock captured the recent Silage Corn Crop competition held by the Madoc Agricultural Society and the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food with an accumulative total of 92 points.

Following close behind in second place was Raeburn Robinson with 91 points, while Allen Ketcheson was third with 90.

Other top place - finishers in the event judged by Jim Thompson of Stirling were Don McKinnon, W. A. Forestell and Harold Harris with 89, Sager Brothers Co. with 88, Ray Sexsmith and Allan Franks and son with 87 and Allan Thompson with 86.

Seven other competitors received scores ranging from 73 to 84 points.

Accident Toll Heavy

Provincial police report a record weekend for what is known as "fender - bender," minor accidents. A total of 18, including two major mishaps, has been reported.

Most recent of these comes from the Madoc detachment OPP offices, as Constable Donald Creelman reports a truck load literally "creamed" at the junction of Highway 62 and Highway 7, at 9:10 a.m. today.

Gordon Mitts, 42, of RR 2, Stirling, driving a Stirling Creamery Truck, was crossing south on Highway 62 when he was struck by a vehicle being driven by Ambrose Vermeer, 53, of Hamilton.

The creamery truck was fully loaded and as described by the officer, "there was cream everywhere". Department of highways workmen moved in to cover up the slippery white liquid with sand.

As of press time, the conditions of Mr. Moynoch, and his passengers Mrs. Marion Moynoch, 59, Mrs. Bridgeste Irene Moynoth, 55, and Mrs. Ursula Andrews, 69, all of Hamilton, at Belleville General Hospital, were not available.

Damage to the Moynoch 1968 Plymouth, has been estimated at $1,300 for the demolished front end. The cream truck has, at most, $25 damage, not including loss of four cans of cream.

Most serious of the weekend mishaps was the highway death of William Harold Gallagher, 34, of RR 9, Peterborough, who was struck Friday at the junction of Highways 37 and 401, apparently walking for gas.

A guardian angel was watching over Bernard L. Derusha, 28, of RR 3, Belleville when his car was sliced in two by an eastbound CN freight train, 2.53 Saturday morning, at the junction of Joyer's Crossing and the 2nd Concession Road in Sidney Township, south of Highway 401. He is recovering in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Election Soundings

The first shots in a provincial election probably not far distant have been fired with the selection of Gerald Weaver of Trenton as Liberal candidate for Quinte riding.

Mr. Weaver and supporting speakers threw out enough election flak to indicate a lively contest when it comes. There was the old chestnut for example concerning the Conservative party's long tenure of office, extending over some three decades There was mention of the prickly issue of separate school support, or rather lack of it, and inevitably, the perennial topic of political patronage.

From Alderman Keegan there was a challenge to sitting member Dr. Richard Potter on his attitude toward the recent rock festival and questioning of the "moral and spiritual values" of a government which he insinuated would condone "open sale of drugs, liquor, vice, nudity and rape." This of course was a matter for the police but it also makes good election dialogue and Alderman Keegan knows it.

Then there was Mr. Keegan's dismay over a council colleague he said was acting as "the chief lieutenant of the present member for the riding of Quinte" and who also happens to be managing editor of this newspaper. For Mr. Keegan's information Ald. Don Soutter's responsibilities as a councilor, his personal politics and his duties on this newspaper are kept separate. The public too may judge for themselves on the basis of this information.

Nor is there any question in any election that "equal time will be given to all parties." That has always been our policy and it will be no different next time. Here then are the first soundings of election controversy. They will not be the last; we hope for the public's sake that the parties will give most emphasis to the facts and try to avoid making debating points for no other reason than that they sound good. Out of this first nomination meeting though has come some valid points for discussion; we can expect more on these in the weeks to come.

Panhandlers Busy

Panhandling is the word for it these days, but begging is more to the point. It is the growing thing among the unemployed and disinterested young in cities like Ottawa and Toronto, to ask for spare change from anyone or everyone while crashing on some handy pad or, as in one case here locally, propping up a Front Street doorway. We were looking in a window when the youth tried us for a dime. Unsuccessfully, even though he said "sir." Yes they can be polite enough, like the hitchhiker we encountered on 401 near Kingston who had on his cardboard sign, "Ottawa please."

A different case was the amiable rogue who took us for the price of a cup of coffee as we were about to drive away from the supermarket the other day. He said he had seen us somewhere before, in Kingston he thought, or Brockville, explaining apologetically that he had missed a bus home. He had no money at that, and with a flourish displayed an empty pocket. Before we knew it we had parted with the price of a cup of coffee. He was middle-aged and tolerably well-dressed and well-spoken and we drove away musing on the varying arts of panhandling: the direct method, Oliver Twist fashion, and the more subtle, I've-been-you-before routine. Come to think of it he did look rather familiar.

First Things First

In some cases and in some places — crowded streetcars or subway trains — a gentleman will still give up his seat to a lady. A gentleman may even stand up in the presence of a lady. But there is no way round the situation — Women's Lib notwithstanding — which dictates that a head of government should stand erect among his fellow men. This was the case recently when Prime Minister and Mrs. Trudeau arrived home from Europe recently.

Still At It

With the United States and the Soviet Union having long since given up rending the atmosphere with their nuclear experiments, France is still crashing its nuclear cymbals in the South Pacific. It has exploded five this year and 44 in all since it began the program in 1960. Surely by now France has all it needs in the nuclear field, quite apart from the fact such weaponry may not now be required, when even the two Germanys are agreeing to closer contacts for families on both sides of their artificial borders, when even the fear of nuclear war has long since receded.

David Lewis Hires Advisors to Get NDP Message Across

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democrat Leader David Lewis, convinced that the electorate can best be reached through the media and small-group gatherings, is beefing up his staff to help him get his message across.

His new aides, all young and enthusiastic, share his views that the old-fashioned political rallies—the type that former leader T. C. Douglas used to favor—don't represent the best vehicle for getting their leader into power.

Already, the 62-year-old Mr. Lewis has criss-crossed eight of Canada's 10 provinces since he assumed office last April.

He has walked picket lines, talked with citizens' groups representing everything from apple prices to high rents, and he has held countless meetings with small groups of workers and supporters.

He has seldom shouted from the podium of mass rallies, except when supporting candidates in provincial elections.

And, unless his plan changes, this is the way he will reach out to the electorate until the next election is held.

Behind Mr. Lewis, and helping him plan his approaches to the people, is a high-powered team of advisers, most of them highly dedicated to their task, and most of them pulling in their belts to absorb the financial losses incurred with their new employment.

One of the strongest advocates of the small-meeting campaigning is Murday Weppler, a 34-year-old former newspaper man, who recently joined the Lewis staff.

Mr. Weppler, who worked for most daily newspapers in Saskatchewan before becoming editor of an English-language paper in Hong Kong, was recently the Queen's Park correspondent for the Ottawa Citizen.

Now executive assistant to Mr. Lewis, he says:

When David goes out and really meets the people, and listens to their problems, he is being compared with the prime minister. And here is a man practising participatory democracy, not talking about it."

Mr. Weppler, a native of St. Boniface, Man., is only one of three newspaper men enlisted for the Lewis team.

R. H. (Bob) Buchanan, 45, had worked on newspapers in Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario before spending 10 years as executive secretary of the Toronto Newspaper Guild. For the past six years he has been publisher and editor of the weekly Banner in Acton, Ont.

He now is director of communications for the NDP, and will be polishing up the party's printed material, writing speeches and, if present plans are successful, he will publish a regular party magazine.

Working with Mr. Buchanan, but concentrating on Mr. Lewis' press relations, is Lewis Seale, 23, former parliamentary correspondent for the Toronto Globe and Mail. He is the leader's new press secretary.

Mr. Seale, a native of Quebec City, worked on several Quebec newspapers, including the Montreal Gazette, before joining The Globe and Mail.

There are others, besides newspaper men, adding intellectual muscle to the NDP leader's office here. The most notable of these is Boris Celovsky, 47, who is leaving a senior post with the department of regional economic expansion to become research director for the NDP caucus.

Mr. Celovsky, who came to Canada in 1950 from Czechoslovakia, was said to have taken a very substantial salary cut to join the NDP. He holds bachelor degrees in law and economics, a masters degree in Canadian history and a doctorate in political science.

Party officials say the leader's office already is operating on a more-efficient and efficient basis than in the past.

Some describe it as a more urban approach, utilizing modern methods of communications, and concentrating more on modern, problems, such as city rents and urban redevelopment.

"Things were bound to change," said one party member. "Tommy (Douglas) was raised on town rallies of farmers; David communicated with picket lines."

Pollution Clean-up in 'Triangle' Should Be Total Effort by All

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

A massive clean - up day which will involve a voluntary effort by residents of the Golden Triangle has been announced by the Eastern Ontario Development Council. Such efforts are becoming commonplace at the community level but this could well be a first on such a broad basis.

The Golden Triangle is roughly the area bounded by Kingston on the west, Pembroke to the north and the southeast tip of Glengarry County. Major city in the triangle is Ottawa, of course. But in organizing all the other cities, towns, villages and townships, the EODC has accepted a major challenge.

The clean - up day is tentatively slated for late October. On the face of it, this gives EODC officials more than two months in which to plan and organize their strategy. We hope this will be enough time, but it is also evident that people at the community level will have to bend their shoulders to the wheel if the effort is to be crowned with success.

There are many reasons why this project should be supported. From an environmental point of view, cleanliness yields many benefits. A person travelling through a clean, attractive area cannot help being impressed and is likely to return. Thus the clean-up should encourage tourism as one of our major industries in Eastern Ontario.

Cleanliness is also a prerequisite of good health. Ecologists have been warning us over the past several years that pollution is one of the major hazards facing mankind today. Pollution doesn't necessarily mean smoke belching from the smokestack of a factory, effluent flowing from sewers. It can also exist in the backyard of a home, along a country road where someone too lazy to go to a legal dumping area has scattered garbage, or as junk in a small stream or field.

Two of the items which contribute substantially to litter are plastics which are slow to decompose and glass bottles. But the paper plates and cups which may have unthinkingly been left on the landscape after that weekend picnic are also pollution.

Basically, such clean-ups are good because they not only eliminate unsightly litter but at the same time encourage at least the thinking people of any community to check up on their own habits. Such efforts may also encourage the industrialist, the shipping magnates and governments to be more pollution-conscious; and to do something about it.

Cash Register Before News

Ma Murray Socks It To Fellow Members of Media

John Anderson in The Vancouver Sun

Canada's daily newspapers came under attack Wednesday by non-publisher Ma. Murray.

They were described as "great big lumps of mush" filled with advertising at the expense of meaningful news.

They were accused of failing to play a leading role in public affairs and with failing to listen to the voice of the public.

"All they hear is the music of the cash registers," charged the 81 - year - old publisher of the Bridge River - Lillooet News.

The 200 - person audience at the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association convention at the Hotel Vancouver loved every minute of her speech.

That is, until it was their turn.

"And it's about time the weeklies began to set an example," Ma roared into the mike. "I think I have the only weekly newspaper in B.C. that has guts enough to attack the premier of this province.

"And look at Alberta. They have had one government in there for 34 years. By cracky, the newspapers ought to be ashamed of themselves.

"How can democracy work if you go on year after year with the same government? No wonder politics are stagnant."

Ma gave her speech, after being presented with the Sydney R. Stone award for the Honored Citizen of the Year.

She said that the weeklies, as an example to the dailies, should pull up their journalistic socks and play a more active role in public affairs.

"If the weekly newspapers don't do it, it's for damshur the dailies won't do it," she said.

Ma also lambasted the association for deciding at the convention to change its name to the Canadian Community Newspapers Association and to allow admittance of nonweekly "community" newspapers.

"You can have one million communities but you won't have one million weekly newspapers," she said.

Along with the Sydney R. Stone trophy, Ma received a cheque for $300.

As she left the speaker's podium, Ma, who has been publishing the Bridge River-Lillooet News for 40 years, waved the cheque and shouted: "And oh yeah, I'm going to make the last payment on that bloody press of mine with this."

She received a standing ovation.

Nelles Kidnapping Principals Paroled After Only 20 Months

The Globe and Mail

Two men, sentenced to 10 years in jail for their part in the 1969 kidnapping of Mary Nelles, have been released on parole after serving just seven months of their sentences. Normally, says National Parole Board Chairman George Street, they would not have been considered for parole until they had served 40 months, or a third of their sentences. They were paroled earlier because of the unusual circumstances surrounding the case. The board felt there was no chance of these men ever again becoming involved in a crime of this nature, and so the power it has to make exceptions was exercised.

There are a number of places in Canada where this statement will not be believed — every single one of Canada's national penitentiaries. In the pens the "unusual circumstances" will be interpreted to mean that the convicted men were, apart from their crime, socially acceptable, not members of the no-called criminal class, and hence nice lads gone temporarily wrong. The residents of the pens will have been expecting these paroles, as they have expected and seen other parties granted to non-criminal criminals. They will be quite extraordinarily cynical. If Mr. Street could but listen in upon their judgments.

There are grounds for their cynicism. The crime was one of the most serious in the Criminal Code. It involved violence to persons, the subverting of a policeman, the threat of death, the collection of $200,000 ransom.

If the men who committed this crime are to be let off with no more than a token part of their sentence, where is the deterrent for others who may plan and carry out a kidnapping?

If Mr. Street does not want cynicism to spill out of the penitentiaries into the countryside, he had better explain those "unusual circumstances" in detail.

The first Canada-wide railway strike ended 21 years ago today—in 1950 — when Parliament ordered 125,000 members of 17 striking unions back to work. The strike began Aug. 22 after failure of negotiations over higher pay and reducing the work week to 40 hours from 48 hours. The strike nearly paralyzed the long-distance communication and caused layoffs in industries dependent on railways, such as coal and metal mining, food packing and wood and chemical processing. It was Canada's most costly labor dispute to date.

1851—A 52-day strike at the Hollinger gold mine near Timmins, Ont., for higher wages and dues checkoffs ended.

1967—Ninety persons were killed and 80 more injured in a theatre fire in a Paris suburb.

1944—The provisional French government was set up in Paris by Charles de Gaulle.

1944—Allied troops began invading the Gothic Line in Italy.

Off Probation

African Leaders Watch Mobutu As Congo Regains Its Stability

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP) — In Western eyes the Democratic Republic of The Congo is not a model of democracy in action. But African leaders, who for seven years shuddered at disorder in the former Belgian colony, are watching President Joseph Mobutu, once an army sergeant, with respectful interest.

Mobuti took power in a military coup in 1965. He has brought stability to The Congo, restored some validity to The Congolese currency, attracted new industry and investment, and brought new hope to the barefooted population of colonial days.

Last year Mobutu held elections for a new parliament. He gave up his post as commander of the army and was elected president. Instead of the 540 parties in existence at independence in 1960 there now is one, Mobutu's.

His prescription for democracy, Congolese style, is "the art of making people happy."

He said in a recent interview:

"With us in The Congo the exercise of democracy derives from the fact that the chief, duly informed as to the needs of the masses, with whom he remains in direct contact, assumes all responsibility and only renders an account to the people. It is a type of democracy perfectly adapted to our way of life and the results age there to show that it is the right one."

African leaders recognize in Mobutu's definition a compromise of the forms colonial powers introduced and the type of tribal leadership black Africans had for centuries before the white man arrived with his district commissioners, local councils and legislative assemblies.

Mobutu's most serious trouble has come from the students. When students at Lovanium University outside Kinshasa seized the rector and stoned army cars, Mobutu closed the university and drafted all the students, men and women, into the army.

The rector was rescued.

Thirteen African countries now are headed by men with military backgrounds, and only in an odd dozen states are there opposition parties.

Jobs in the public sector—especially in the army, police force and civil service—were the ripest plums to fall into African hands when the colonial grip was loosened. Millions of Africans have no place in the money economy.

If the army feels that its position is threatened, if corruption in government circles drains off tax money, if a ruling clique favors its own tribal followers to the exclusion of others, the stage is set for dissatisfaction and revolt. Every government employee wants to protect the unique blessing independence has provided.

In one-party states, with most leaders seeking life tenure, force is the only answer. The army and police have the firepower, the force.

African armies in colonial days served as the protector and enforcement arm of the colonial governor and his ruling apparatus. Loyalty was to the governor who paid the wages, not to the people and certainly not to any such amorphous concept as a nation. The armies developed autonomies of their own and do not take kindly to civilian control.

Another problem is the agonizingly slow effort to create wealth in order to raise the standard of living. The African population of about 350 million is doubling every 20 years. With education increasing in scope yearly, millions of literate young Africans are coming into the employment market without a hope of a job.

When independence came many incompetent Africans were hastily drawn into positions vacated by colonial officials. They became the elite, with cars, European-type homes and money in the bank. They resist any attempt to dislodge them for abilities.

This leads to incompetent administration and widespread dissatisfaction, with the army holding the weapons and the only means of change.

African military leaders generally recognize their inability to rule a country solely with the military hierarchy. They install competent civilians in key positions and, not being bound by political ties, can pick the best men for the jobs.

Many Western diplomats have long since given up hope of seeing classical democracy as the way of life in Africa. They feel that the best hope of creating stability, limiting corruption and giving the poor man faith in the future may be Mobutu's way.

2,152 Were Interviewed In City's Drug Survey

Out of a survey involving more than 2,000 Belleville and area people comes the statistic that if you have a 20-year-old son, you also have a 40 per cent chance of being a parent of a drug user.

The survey shows "40.4 per cent of all 20-year-olds interviewed had used cannabis (marijuana or hashish) either regularly or experimentally in the past three months."

The survey also showed that "of the 2,152 people interviewed, 54.6 per cent used tobacco and 60.7 per cent used alcohol."

Sponsored through a federal grant from the Opportunities for Youth program, twelve area youths set out to gather as many facts pertaining to drugs (alcohol and tobacco included) as possible.

"We wanted to gather enough data to be able to take a realistic look at the drug situation in the city at this time," said Milton McCrystal, one of twelve students employed by the program.

Among the objectives of the group was the hope of obtaining views of the youth of the city on a variety of subjects associated with drugs.

"One of the principal objectives is naturally the need to display to all residents of the city what the probability of drug use is in the area. We are trying to clear up the facts and give residents a chance to discuss the situation on the basis of the survey," said Mr. McCrystal.

Questions ranged from sexmarital status to how many times in the last three months have you used drugs? Are you a happy individual?

"We received 100 per cent co-operation from all participants in the survey," claimed Ann Wilson (student interviewer). "Anyone who had the time to answer the questions, complied frankly and completely."

"In the case where personalities conflicted during an interview (such as in the case of friends or close acquaintences), the interview would be taken over by a partner," said a project spokesman. "This was the reason for working in twos. We felt that if the interviewer might sway the responses by a social tie, we should have some system to relieve this situation."

When the tabulations are completed all information will be turned over to the area medical boards and the general public.

The material is now being typed and will be published in a folder form in the coming weeks. Although the project was scheduled to last five weeks, the amount of work involved made it necessary to extend this time limit.

Eight weeks have been devoted to the project so far. Three of those weeks were without pay for the handful of city youths still working.

Final evaluation for the program is expected in the coming weeks.

Barbecue in Wind Wipes Out Garage

Peripheral winds from the weekend hurricane Doria which swept up the New England coast and the maritime provinces were felt in Belleville — but not in the manner that could normally be expected.

The wind was the indirect cause of a fire that late Saturday afternoon destroyed the garage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Locke, 118 Bridge Street, West.

According to city firemen it happened this way.

The Lockes had decided to have an outdoor barbecue and set their charcoal burner up outside the open garage doors. But unknown to the family the wind blew one of the garage doors shut, knocking the barbecue and its still burning coals into the garage where it set fire to the building.

The blaze was well under way when discovered and by the time firemen arrived on the scene the garage was already doomed.

Toys and other articles stored in the garage were a complete loss.

Mini-bazaar Raises $18

Every little bit helps when it comes to raising funds for a worthy cause and youngsters in the Parkdale community are no exception in their endeavors.

After three unsuccessful attempts to organize events, the teenagers got their mini-bazaar and dance under way Saturday night, with $18 raised for the Crippled Children's Fund.

An afternoon bazaar was co - ordinated by Wendy and Elizabeth Smith, with young people donating such items as books, records, dolls, and toys.

Saturday evening, for only 15 cents a head, the youngsters danced to the music of the Half-Way-Down. Randy Degenova on drums, Brian Dresnan on bass guitar and Glen Edwards on lead guitar. The boys' music was donated free.

Effective Wednesday, Sept. 1st

Pencils May Have High Lead Content

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: On many occasions you have provided an invaluable service by alerting parents to the dangers that can cause the mental retardation or death of children. Your warning has saved countless children from a lifetime of crippling handicaps. Once again we are calling upon you for help.

Lead poisoning, which now affects over 900,000 children annually and leaves 4,000 of them with severe brain damage, is common in children who live in deteriorating inner-city tenements. These children eat chipping paint, plaster and putty that have a high lead content.

A new threat, not confined to the ghettos, has been discovered. Tests have shown that the paint which covers the common wooden pencil often has a high lead content and children who habitually chew on them are in danger of being poisoned.

Until pencil manufacturers take steps to use lead-free paint, please alert your readers to this danger so they may take the necessary precautions with their children or students. Thank you in advance. — DON MOSS, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, ILLINOIS ASSOCIATION FOR THE MENTALLY RETARDED

DEAR DON: I have checked with two pharmacologists* who said it would take a good bit of consistent pencil chewing to produce brain damage, but it is possible and I appreciate your writing.

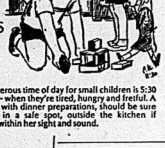
* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with interest your advice to secretaries to mind their own business and put through all calls to the boss even though the caller is the boss's wife who makes a pest of herself several times a day.

Would you give the same advice if the woman who calls is not the boss's wife?

Many secretaries feel they are protecting the boss by censoring his calls and not relaying messages from women who may be "trouble." For example, a certain man I know has several women running after him. One little trollop is creating a lot of gossip in his office because of her persistent telephone calls. If I were the man's secretary I would say he is not in and "forget" to relay the message. Some males are naive and need help. What would YOU do? — LONG-VIEW, WASHINGTON.

DEAR WRONGVIEW. I'd relay all messages and credit the boss with enough brains to know which calls he wishes to return. Self-appointed custodians of other people's morals are often troublemakers with an axe or two of their own to grind.



* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to say something to the 17-year-old boy who can't grow sideburns on the left side of his face. I had the same problem and finally solved it. Here's how:

Tell him to sleep on his back or on his right side. People who sleep on the same side night after night rub off the whiskers on the side that hits the pillow. Also, if he will apply some vaseline to his sideburns it will promote the growth of hair and protect the whiskers from friction that wears them away.

There is no charge for this advice, Ann. I'm glad to be of help. — BALD SPOT TODAY, HAIR TOMORROW.

DEAR SPOT: Thanks for the hair-raising story. My expert on sideburns says sleeping on the same side of the head night after night will not stunt the growth of sideburns, but if it worked for you — who am I to knock it?

The dangerous time of day for small children is 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. — when they're tired, hungry and fretful. A mother, busy with dinner preparations, should be sure children are in a safe spot, outside the kitchen if possible, but within her sight and sound.

MR. AND MRS. R. BRUCE MONTAIGUE

Montaigue – Doolittle

Christ Anglican Church, Belleville was the setting for the recent marriage ceremony when Rebecca Anne Doolittle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Doolittle, Frankford RR2, was united in marriage to Robert Bruce Montaigue of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Montaigue, Ottawa. Donald Withers, church organist presided and accompanied the four choir boys in their nuptial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of chantilly lace with an all over pattern of imported Russian ruffles. A wedding band collar and lily point sleeves accented the empire bodice as did a vertical row of tiny pearl style buttons and a wide band of the same material caught in a pert bow at back. The sheath skirt was trimmed with horizontal rows of the same ruffles. A wedding ring head band was attached to a cathedral veil of silk illusion trimmed with ruffles to match those of her gown. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies and Woburn Abbey roses.

Miss Laurie Doolittle, sister of the bride wore a floor length dress with long sleeves and full skirt of printed polyester cotton in shades of pale green, yellow and white with a white bodice and standup collar. She wore a white mohair picture hat with a matching band of green and carried white daisies intertwined with pale yellow ribbon.

Bridesmaids Miss Lin Montaigue and Miss Elaine Montaigue, sisters of the bridegroom and Miss Elizabeth Kuglin were dressed identically to the maid of honor, but carried bouquets of white and pale yellow daisies. Miss Darcy Doolittle, niece of the bride was dressed identically to the other attendants, but with short puffed sleeves. She carried a bouquet similar but smaller than that of the bride.

Dennis Johnston of Scarborough cousin of the bridegroom was the best man and the ushers were Steve McKeown of Foxboro, Steve Shultz, Niagara Falls and Chris Doolittle, brother of the bride.

A reception was held in Scott's Lissendale Community Hall where the bride's mother wore a pale yellow polyester crepe floor length gown with bone accessories and a corsage of glamelias. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a floor length gown of orange ice silk shantung with white accessories and a corsage of white glamelias.

Leaving on a wedding trip to the East Coast, the bride donned a beige hot pants ensemble with tan and beige accessories and a corsage of orange glamelias.

The couple will reside at 24 Union Street, Apt. 31, Belleville.

QMSA to Hold Opening Meeting September 8

The Quinte Medical Secretaries' executive met Wednesday August 25 at the home of Mrs. Eileen Copley. The summer was not entirely free of events. Several secretaries attended the Kingston MSA's dinner meeting to hear their guest speaker Dr. Andrew W. Bruce, Head of Urology Dept. Queen's University and president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Dr. Bruce's repertoire of Scottish humor produced much laughter which he said was a good deterrent. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Geraldine West, Belleville, and Mrs. Louise Mayes, Brockville. The group sang a number of old favorites while Louise accompanied them at the piano.

A barbecue and splash party was held at Oak Lake at which time some stunning bathing suits were modelled and several of the girls tried their hand at water skiing.

Another lounge chair donated to Belleville General Hospital's extended care unit, was presented to Mr. John Kneetsky on behalf of the group by Mrs. Mae Cathcart.

The Quinte Medical Secretaries' Association will begin their new year with a dinner meeting to be held in the Fiesta Room, Quinte Hotel on Wednesday, September 8, at 7.00 p.m. This meeting is primarily a membership drive and will be an opportunity for discussion. QMSA would like each member to invite one or more medical secretaries who are not QMSA members to join them in their first dinner meeting. Mrs. Jacki Vivian, Dept. of Lab. Med. BGH, is in charge of details.

The QMSA's annual car wash will be held on September 11 at the Shell Service Station on the corner of Dundas St. East and Foster Ave., beginning at 9.00 a.m.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Before her recent marriage, Mrs. Bruce Montaigue (nee Rebecca Doolittle) was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Carole Flagler with co-hostess Miss Elizebeth Kuglin, and at a community shower held at the home of Mrs. June Sine with co-hostess Mrs. Elaine Elliott. She was also honored at a presentation party given by the staffs of the Shannonville and Tyendinaga Public Schools. Following the rehearsal the bridal party was entertained by the bridegroom's parents.

Successful Living

Living with In-laws Causes Many Problems

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: We are living with my husband's parents and his mother is always telling me what to do about my baby. When I tell her to mind her own business she says I am ungrateful. Then she starts crying and I feel about two inches high.

My husband thinks I am wrong in wanting to move out. He is never home and when he does spend any time with me, he cuts me down terribly in front of our friends.

When he goes out and I tell him I don't want to be alone, he tells me that his mum and dad will keep me company. The only time he comes around is when he wants sex and then he expects me to be a loving, understanding wife when he doesn't help me with the baby or anything else.

If I did attempt to leave, his mother would probably try to take the baby away from me. Could she do this? — Going Crazy

Dear Going: You have married the irresponsible son of an overbearing mother. He has never learned to stand up to her and doesn't expect you to. Living with in-laws is risky at best and in your case it is a disaster.

Find a way to the nearest family counsellor — if you have to hitch-hike! I am sending you address, telephone number and name. Get a neighbor, a friend, or your father-in-law to drive you, whether your husband will come with you or not. You aren't a prisoner—though you may feel like one!

* * *

Dear Doris: My oldest girl is eight. She was the first grandchild on both sides and we all made a great fuss over her. Foolishly we made her the most important thing in our lives.

When the twins came she showed jealousy but we thought she had adjusted and accepted the new babies in the end. Two years later another girl was born. I became very busy with them all, and my husband, as a doctor, did not have much time at home.

My daughter became pushy and aggressive at school and wanted to be the centre of attraction. Now she resents all authority and does what she feels like no matter what the consequences might be.

What used to be a happy home is now — Unhappy

Dear Unhappy: If you are unhappy over the turn of events, so is she. She misses what she was taught to expect — all the attention. Yet she must learn to give and take in this world, if she is ever to enjoy life.

Babies are born completely self-centred. Growing up is a process of turning outward, and the happiest among us are those who have become other-centred.

She needs firm discipline; needs to know you mean what you say; needs to give some rights to others. Many another eldest child experiences the nose-out-of-joint syndrome!

You'll need more than a letter from me to handle her, at this point. Visit your child care agency and talk her over with a professional counsellor.

* * *

Dear Doris: Would you add to your list of much wanted poetry a poem called "The Mysterious Guest"? I think it was written around 1850. — D.C.

Dear D.C.: Can any reader help? I have three other requests: The Fate of the Old Strawberry Roan, and The Loss of the Titanic are two of them. The second is described by the correspondent as a "sad song". I'm thinking the other one probably is, too.

The third is in a slightly different vein, with the title: My Ears and a Funny Floppity Comical Puppy has Floppity Tail.

Well?

Your own dilemma may not be as hopeless as it looks. Write to Doris for help.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

This Relish Can Be Made in A Day

By MARY MOORE

Pickling is the order of the week and my neighbors know it by the aromas wafting through my kitchen window.

A kind friend sent me some cucumbers from a farm. They were freshly picked. All I had to do was decide what you are requesting most frequently. In the mail I counted four requests for hot dog relish with little postscripts: "something that can be made in one day"; "not all that bring".

This green relish can be made by amateurs and by experienced pickle makers in less than half a day. It is an all-purpose bright green relish — inexpensive too.

SAME-DAY CUCUMBER RELISH (Six 8-oz. jars)

Six 6" cucumbers ground and drained (see below)
2½ cups coarsely ground onions
1 tbsp. salt
½ tsp. turmeric
1½ cups sugar
3½ tsps. mustard seed
2 cups white vinegar (spirit)
¼ to ½ tsp. green food colouring

Scrub the cucumbers under running water, cut them into quarters lengthwise and then in eighths crosswise. Put through coarse knife of grinder. Drain 5 min. through colander. Measure solids. I had 5 cups. Tip into earthen bowl and add ground onions and let stand 1 hr. Drain off excess liquid. I drained off about ¼ cup.

Turn into preserving kettle and add turmeric, sugar, mustard seed and vinegar. Mix well and bring to boil. Reduce heat to "low" and cook 1 hr., stirring often. Vegetables should be crisply tender. Add the green food colouring to restore natural green shade, using your discretion.

Have ready at least six 8-oz. jars by sterilizing them and their lids in boiling water 20 min. With tongs carefully lift from sterilizer and fill with relish. Immediately cover top with ¼" thick coating of melted paraffin and at once screw on sterile lids. Wash and dry and label and date.

If you take up the cost of this relish you will find it very economical — especially if you have a cucumber-growing friend.

MADOC SENIOR CITIZENS

On Sunday, Aug. 14, a number of the Madoc and district senior citizens' club members met at the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area where they acted as hostesses to the many visitors during the afternoon.

Approximately 30 members of the club enjoyed an outing at the Price Conservation Area at Actinolite on Wed., Aug. 18. A feast of corn, hot dogs and watermelon was prepared and served by chef Mr. Johns with the assistance of Mrs. Johns.

During the afternoon the members strolled across the rustic bridge and around the beautiful grounds there.

Mrs. DeClair expressed the appreciation of all to Mr. and Mrs. Johns for the lovely treat at the conclusion of the day.

The next meeting of the senior citizens will be held in the United Church basement on Wednesday, Sept. 1 with the lunch committee for this meeting being Jim Burns, Mrs. P. Broadworth, Mrs. L. Farrow, Mrs. Moorcroft and Mrs. Yearwood. An exciting afternoon of fun and games is being planned.

University Janitor Will Retire to Teach Art or Bury Dead

DETROIT (AP) — Thirty-one years ago Elmer Fischer started work at Wayne State University as a janitor. Next July, when he is 65, he will be leaving with four academic degrees, his mops and pails far behind him.

"I might go teach sculpture in some small Negro college in the South," he said. "Or I could open my own studio . . . . . Or I might just find some nice small town that needs a funeral director," Fischer said with a grin.

In December, he will receive a master's degree in fine arts. Fischer, married and the father of an adult son, already has earned bachelors degrees in history, mortuary science and sculpture.

It all started in 1940 when he left his job as an ironworker for Ford Motor Co.

Because of frequent layoffs, Fischer only worked about five months a year. So when a friend went to apply for a job as a school janitor, he went along.

His partner on the janitorial job was Lloyd Richards, a graduate student earning his tuition.

"Well, Richards, he talked me into starting classes," Rischer said.

"First class I took was English composition. I never will forget it. I was 33 years old and started right at the bottom."

By 1953, Fischer had his bachelors degree in history, but he was still a janitor.

Subsequently, Fischer was transferred to a janitorial job with the school's mortuary science department, began taking courses in science, embalming and restoration.

By the time he earned his mortuary degree, Fischer had become the department's laboratory supervisor and was helping to teach chemistry and bacteriology.

In addition, the man who taught Fischer restoration-making bodies look better—convinced him he had a great talent for sculpture.

So he stayed at the university and enrolled in fine arts classes, earning a bachelors and, next December, a masters degree.

And in July, Fischer will be able to retire with a pension, just the security he says he needs to leave the university.

CP Air Executives Pay Visit to China

HONGKONG (Reuter) — Two executives of Canadian Pacific Airlines, which wants to open an air link between Vancouver and Peking, arrived here today after a 10-day visit to China.

They told a news conference that officials of the Chinese state airlines, the Civil Aviation Administration of China, had expressed hope that an air agreement would be concluded soon between Canada and China.

The executives are Hugh Donald Cameron, vice-president of the airline's international and corporate services, and Edwin Walter Ogden, regional passenger sales manager for Western Canada.

"What have YOU got to complain about?"

Kierans Says Economic Woes Not Solved by U.S. Policies

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States has not solved its economic woes by freezing prices and wages for 90 days, putting a surtax on imports and floating the U.S. dollar, economist Eric Kierans said Sunday.

He told a panel on the CTV network program, Question Period, the problems will remain after the freeze and the surtax have ended.

The U.S. will have to keep some kind of controls when the 90-day period which began Aug. 15 ends, he said.

"You're either going to shoot off like an astronaut on day 91 or you're going to bring in controls and permanently impede the interplay of economic forces in the economy.

"Let's put it this way. They haven't solved their problem."

The former communications minister and MP for Montreal Duvernay said the fact that goods and services in the U.S. are "too high priced" will not be altered by the surtax or the floating dollar.

"Suppose they get a revaluation of all other currencies and they continue on the way," he said. The same economic problems "are going to happen again."

Mr. Kierans said "what the United States have proved for all time is that they run the international monetary fund."

Canada should offset the U.S. moves by taking an "easy monetary policy," cuting taxes and boosting expenditures, and should also slow down export of raw materials.

Mr. Kierans, who resigned cabinet earlier this year over differences on economic policy, said he will not run again in the next federal election. He will teach economics at McGill University at Montreal this year.

Burns Fatal to Mother

OTTAWA (CP) — Carrie May Stobo, 31, died in hospital Friday of self-inflicted burns, four days after neighbors found her eight-year-old daughter bludgeoned to death in the mother's bedroom and her young son seriously injured.

Mrs. Stobo, charged in 1966 with capital murder following the shooting death of her husband at Rock Springs near Brockville, was released from a mental institution last year.

Tuesday, neighbors found Mrs. Stobo's body in her bathroom, critically burnt apparently from having poured barbecue lighter fluid over herself and setting it ablaze.

Oil Spilled in Collision

SARNIA (CP) — Canadian and United States officials were trying with limited success Saturday to clean up an extensive oil spill in the St. Clair River after two ships collided Friday.

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter scanning the area reported that up to 20,000 gallons of diesel oil may have spilled from the West Germican freighter Trans Michigan in its collision with the Brazilian ship, the Netuno.

Ken Geddes, a Polymer Corp. official, said the greatest concentration appeared to be on the Canadian side of the river between Sarnia and Port Huron, Mich.

"We'll eventually end up in the St. Clair marshes—then the ducks will get it."

The marshes are about 50 miles from the scene of the collision.

There have been no reports yet of injury to wildlife.

Boy Found Beaten

BRANTFORD (CP) — Dwight Myers, 16, of nearby Caledonia was in critical condition in hospital Sunday after being found by police in a roadside ditch badly beaten.

Police said the youth suffered jaw and skull fractures, internal injuries and extensive injuries to the lower torso. Another youth, Wayne George Bevin, 19, of Brantford, found with Myers, is in good condition with no visible injuries.

Police said Bevin told them he was unconscious during the beating.

Police said apparently both youths were hitch-hiking after leaving a mixed party when a car stopped and the occupants got out and attacked the youths.

Whisky Taken Off Lake Ship

SARNIA (CP) — The temptation was just too much for some of Sarnia's more enterprising tipplers to resist.

There was the German freighter Trans-Michigan grounded on a coal near the Canadian shore at the mouth of the St. Clair River, its cargo of Scotch whisky clearly visible through a hole in the port side.

One Sarnia man took his boat close to the ship, waded into the water with a large net, and left with three cases of liquor.

Enough other looters have plundered the ship's cargo of Scotch to prompt the posting of security men to guard the remaining whisky.

Government dock authorities, who won't acknowledge there has been looting, warn would-be whisky thieves they will be let off lightly if they are caught.

The ship was intentionally grounded to prevent its sinking after it collided with the Brazilian freighter, Netuno, last week.

Eldorado Workers On Strike

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP) — About 300 workers at Eldorado Nuclear Ltd. mining and refining division, a federal Crown corporation, in this northwestern Saskatchewan town, went on strike at 12:01 a.m. today to back contract demands.

Gert Kuchta, a spokesman for Local 913, United Steelworkers of America, said today the strike action had been approved a week ago by a 70 per cent vote.

The 300 miners, mill operators and maintenance personnel rejected a conciliation board report recommending a six-per-cent increase for the period Feb. 20, 1971, to July 31, 1972 and a further six-per-cent increase from July 31, 1972 until July 31, 1973, Mr. Kuchta said. The conciliation report was acceptable to the company.

The workers asked for wage parity with eastern mining companies, such as Denison Mines in Ontario, he said.

Present wage levels range from $3.01 an hour for laborers to $4.28 an hour for tradesmen leaders.

Formerly Fumble-free Argos Caught in First Act by Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Toronto Argonauts lost their four-game fumble-free record in the Canadian Football League Sunday as British Columbia Lions turned one of the errors into a touchdown that sparked a 27-24 victory.

Toronto—undefeated in four games—had not fumbled once, but that string was broken on their first play of the game.

Rookie Leon Shuttleworth had the ball but the Argos recovered and went on to a 10-0 first-quarter lead.

The second Toronto fumble was the big one for B.C. as Argo Peter Paquette, attempting to return a wide field-goal attempt by Ken Phillips, lost the ball on his own three-yard line early in the second quarter. Lions' defensive tackle Bob Ilesic grabbed it and barged into the end zone for a touchdown. Phillips converted to make the score 10-7.

Howe, whose three years as a Lion mate him a veteran on the young club, said it was his first touchdown since high school.

The Lions, plagued by fumbles in a 32-1 loss last Tuesday to unbeaten Calgary Stampeders, didn't cough up the ball once.

Halfback Josh Ashton, the victim of a number of fumbles in earlier games, Sunday carried the ball only three times, but his 56-yard touchdown run in the third quarter put B.C. ahead to stay.

Ashton also caught four passes for 50 yards, two of them during a 46-yard drive that led to a one-yard touchdown plunge by quarterback Paul Brothers in the fourth quarter.

Phillips scored three points by converting the touchdowns while Ted Gervais, restricted to long field-goal attempts, scored from 42 and 46 yards out.

Lions' coach Eagle Keys said after the game: "You build your offence around the offensive line. If there's no blocking, there's no offence. Today we got blocking."

The crowd of 30,243 saw Toronto quarterback Joe Theismann throw two touchdown passes, 39-yards to Bill Symons and 13-yards to Tony Moro. Harry Abofs had a three-yard touchdown run and Ivan MacMillan kicked three converts and a field goal.

Toronto held a 17-10 advantage at half time, but B.C. moved ahead 20-17 in the third quarter, matching touchdowns with the Argos in the final quarter to win.

Argonaut quarterbacks Theismann and Greg Barton threw 29 passes and completed 17. Theismann was nine for 18 and Barton eight for 11. Each had one intercepted.

Brothers went all the way for B.C., completing 13 of 22 pass attempts. He also had one interception.

Mel Profitt caught five passes totalling 108 yards for Toronto while Mike Eben caught three for 50. McQuay covered 33 yards on 18 carries. Symons rushed 34 yards on seven carries.

McQuay was limping in the final quarter but Argo head coach Leo Cahill said Sunday night in Edmonton—where Toronto plays Wednesday—that the speedster "just stubbed his toe on something."

Cahill said McQuay was okay in the dressing room and would be working out today. No injuries more serious than bumps or bruises were reported by either team.

The offensive blocking that pleased Keys gave his team the edge in rushing statistics with 249 yards to the Argos 177. Jim Evenson had 87 yards on 18 carries to lead B.C. on the ground.

In the air, Toronto was ahead in yardage 308 to 166, giving the Argonauts net offence of 485 yards compared to the Lions' 415. Toronto also led in first downs, 24 to 21.

Head Hunting Now in Vogue

TORONTO (CP) — The last time Toronto Argonauts went head-hunting in the United States to buy a national football title, the Canadian Football League took immediate restrictive measures.

The year was 1955 and the CFL at the time, in the words of Harry Sonshine, then general-manager of the Argos and the man detailed to buy the Grey Cup, was "operating amateurish despite paying players' salaries."

Among the gifts Sonshine inked to inflict on other CFL teams were Frank Gifford, outstanding running back with New York Giants, fullback Tank Younger of Los Angeles, a "famous centre with Green Bay Packers" and a number of other National Football League favorites—"I just can't remember all their names."

"We had our team pretty well formed," recalled Sonshine this week, noting the parallel being followed by the current Argo owner president Lew Hayman, general-manager John Barrow and coach Leo Cahill.

"Then they (other members of the Eastern Conference) held a meeting in Montreal, which I didn't attend, and agreed we couldn't keep the boys I had signed."

The EFC powers at the time severely restricted Sonshine's legwork, limiting Argos to use of only "five or six at most."

"I guess they were afraid we would overshadow the other teams," said Sonshine, blaming the move on Frank Clair, who had coached the last Grey Cup title in 1952, leaving Toronto.

"What I really think is that we were two or three years ahead of the game. Today they (the CFL) would be very happy to have that type of team in the country."

The Argos, meanwhile, adopted another open-purse policy this year to buy a Grey Cup contending team, as did the defending champion Montreal Alouettes last year.

The ramifications are being felt elsewhere in the CFL, most notably in the East, but not with the same impact it did in the Sonshine era.

Money has apparently been no object in Argos' search for talent.

Quarterback Greg Barton, 25, was signed to a five-year pact at a reported $70,000 annually after seeing only limited action in three years with the NFL Detroit Lions; Notre Dame quarterback Joe Theismann, 21, was inked to a two-year contract worth about $120,000; all-American lineman Jim Stillwagon, 22, also signed for two years at a reported $30,000 yearly.

The decision (to offer high-priced, multiple-year contracts) was made by the board of directors in hopes of winning," says Barrow. "We're looking to the future and for kids with talent.

"We've reached a point where when we get kids on long-term contracts, we're ensuring our future."

One Argo signed for only a year was their explosive running back, Leon McQuay. But he'll be in a better bargaining position next year when his class at Tampa (Fla.) University graduates and he becomes eligible for the NFL draft.

The current easy-money policy being deployed by the Argos and the inner-office struggles in which board chairman John Bassett is seeking full ownership of the club has little bearing on Toronto obtaining an NFL franchise in the future, Barrow emphasized.

"We've never even thought of an NFL franchise. . . . We're building for right now and the next few years."

Barrow said Argos' long-term contracts were employed for the same reason that businesses offer long-term agreements—"to enable the players' to better plan their futures."

Ralph Sazio, Hamilton Tiger-Cat general-manager, took a philosophical view of the Argonauts' high-priced talent.

"The rest of the teams are very fortunate to have people like the Argos have to come into their ball parks. They (Toronto) will attract fans."

Renovated Ivor Wynne Stadium in Hamilton now seats about 35,000, largest in the CFL.

But there were some precautions the former Ticat lineman would have to consider as a club operator.

"Setting such high-priced standards, I'd bet don't see teams like Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Ottawa and Hamilton, in that order, can keep pace as far as the economic situation is concerned.

"And I think that's important. . . .

"But I'm not about to dictate what any individual club does in this regard."

The Als sudden success at Montreal in 1970 can be traced directly to the arrival from Ottawa of owner Sam Berger and general-manager Red O'Quinn and the employment of coach Sam Etcheverry, a former Alouette quarterbacking great.

O'Quinn doesn't see Toronto's ability to bring in top players as a detriment to the league, nor as a threat to the CFL's future since Montreal also has been mentioned as the possible site of an NFL franchise.

"The thing that has kept clubs balanced in the CFL for years has been the equalization of rosters (14 imports)," said O'Quinn.

"There's no danger as long as we have the restrictive roster," adding that if the CFL's eliminate being endangered, it always had recourse to changing the bylaws. "But I don't believe it's necessary.

"Sure, Toronto went out and got some real top American talent. But that doesn't mean they're going to be all that much better.

"But releasing people like (quarterback Don) Jonas has helped Winnipeg Blue Bombers and that generally helps the league. . . .

"I guess we sort of started it last year by signing players like Steve Smear and Ed George, it enhances the whole league."

Little College Helps

TORONTO (CP) — Leon McQuay, in his first year of professional football, is almost too unbelievable to believe.

Endowed with speed and instinct to "go where they ain't," in the words of one Toronto Argonaut observer, McQuay burst on the Eastern Football Conference scene this year with far more gusto than several better known team-mates.

Joe Theismann, Greg Barton and Jim Stillwagon arrived in the Argo camp this season with heady credentials. None of the three has disappointed head coach Leo Cahill.

McQuay's statistics were lesser known for the simple reason that one doesn't normally follow too closely the progress of players from small colleges in the United States. But Cahill did.

In three years at Tampa (Fla.) University (he was a senior dropout), McQuay broke all school season and career rushing records.

"Don't ask me what the records were, man, I just know there was no competition," said the 21-year-old Tampa native. "I accomplished everything I could. Why else do I leave?"

Cahill calls him "the most gifted runner I've ever seen."

McQuay signed a one-year contract with the Argos, with the usual one-year option attached, but whether he continues in Toronto depends on the selling job he gets from Cahill.

National Football League scouts say he'll be picked up in the first round next year when his class becomes eligible for the draft.

"He's a co-operative kid . . . A great natural athlete," said Cahill of McQuay, who took an early lead in the EFC scoring race with six touchdowns.

"We know a lot of people are interested in Leon. We don't worry about it now, though.

Only Kickers Predictable

Eastern Conference

Ivan MacMillan was the only Toronto Argonaut who lived up to pre-game credentials Sunday when the unbeaten Eastern Football Conference club moved into Vancouver, then fell 27-24 to British Columbia Lions.

The 19-year-old placekicking specialist from Alexandria, Ont., kicked three converts and a field goal to bring his season's point total to 31.

The leaders:

	TD	C	FG	S	P
McQuay, T	6	0	0	0	36
McMillan, T	0	11	6	2	31

Western Conference

Place-kicker Ken Phillips booted three converts Sunday to move into sixth place in the Western football Conference scoring race.

Phillips's three points in the British Columbia Lions' 27-24 triumph over Toronto Argonauts, raised his total to 27.

The leaders:

	TD	C	FG	S	P
Jones, W	1	7	8	0	34

Trip Not Total Loss

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders didn't make their trip into the Western Football Conference entirely in vain last week.

They lost 42-21 to Saskatchewan Roughriders, but came home with a fullback they've been seeking.

In exchange for what are termed future considerations, the Eastern Conference club picked up Edmonton Eskimo back Al Pitcher.

Pitcher, who joined the Eskimos last season after being a late cut by New York Giants of the National League, is expected to be in camp Tuesday.

Rams' Rookie Coach Unique

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

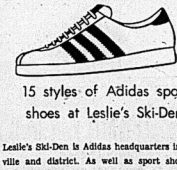
Ten men are starting their first full seasons as head coaches of professional football teams. Of the 10, only one—Tommy Prothro of Los Angeles Rams—has a winning record after the first five weeks of National Football League exhibition games.

Prothro moved into the winning column Sunday, when the Rams beat New England Patriots 31-21 to raise their pre-season record to 3-2. In Sunday's only other game, Atlanta Falcons topped Buffalo Bills 35-24.

In Saturday games, Cincinnati Bengals edged St. Louis Cardinals 22-21, Minnesota Vikings defeated Pittsburgh Steelers 30-14, Baltimore Colts topped Washington Redskins 20-14, Oakland Raiders beat Green Bay Packers 17-13, Philadelphia Eagles tripped New York Giants 25-14, San Diego Chargers upended New Orleans Saints 22-7, San Francisco 49ers rallied to defeat Denver Broncos 33-17, Chicago Bears edged Cleveland Browns 20-19 and Miami Dolphins topped Detroit Lions 28-24.

New York Jets oppose Kansas City Chiefs tonight, winding up the weekend's action.

Perez Joins Ticats



HAMILTON (CP) — Two new halfbacks have arrived in the Hamilton Tiger-Cat camp to replace two released by the Eastern Football Conference club Friday after being charged with having possession of marijuana.

They are running back Fred Quayle and defensive halfback Gig Perez. Released on waivers, were fullback Steve Worster, all-American Texas last year, and defensive halfback Seth Miller.

Perez, a former Montreal Alouette and Edmonton Eskimo, was in the Calgary Stampeder camp until last week and will likely start against the Als in Montreal Tuesday.

There is also a chance middle linebacker Jim Kates will be used in the Montreal game if he can adopt to Canadian football in time. In that case, incumbent Pete Wysocki would be released.

Top Junior Golfer Attracted More Pars Than Attention

EDMONTON (CP) — Kelly Roberts, the 18-year-old who just played the game and attracted little attention, won the Canadian junior golf title in an electrifying sudden-death playoff Saturday.

He defeated Adam Brown, 18, of Hamilton on the third hole of the playoff. Both had finished the four-day, 72-hole tournament with five-over-par 293. Roberts, from London, Ont., had rounds of 71-76-71-71 and Brown scored 71-70-73-75.

Roberts, a high school student, had been in fifth place going into his final round, six strokes behind leader Murray McLaren, 18, of Woodbridge, Ont. Brown had been tied for second with Rod Laing, 17, of Prince George, B.C.

McLaren and Laing each finished the tournament tied for third with 296.

"I just got strokes back and I never thought I'd get back," said Roberts. "But, you always have a chance in junior golf."

Brown almost took the title on the first hole of the playoff when his 50-foot birdie putt rolled up to the cup and clung to the edge. On the third hole, he topped his drive, went down one stroke and was unable to make it up on the green.

Brown, who paced Ontario to victory earlier in the interprovincial team matches, blamed his putting for the poor last round. He carded a three-over-38 on the front nine and a one-over 37 on the longer, more difficult, back nine.

Hebert, who won the Ontario junior championship two years ago, went one over on the first leg and one under on the last. He also was on the Ontario team.

The fourth-place finisher was Mike Defalco, 18, of Lacorne, Que., three strokes off at 292. He missed the first month of the golf season this year when he broke his hand playing hockey for Ottawa Rangers of the Central Junior League.

Tied for fifth with 295 were Scott Keenlyside, 18, of Langley, B.C., and Stephen Ball, 18, of Weston, Ont.

McLaren was named the juvenile champion and Robbie Jackson, 16, of Ile Bizard, Que., last year's juvenile winner, was runner-up with 299.

The strong 68 which gave McLaren the lead Friday was the low 18-hole score of the tournament and was only two strokes away from the club record set by Wilf Hershenik of Winnipeg in the Alberta Open several years ago.

Daniel Talbot, 18, of Beloeil, Que., also fired a 68, but he got his during the team competitions.

Roberts was somewhat surprised to find himself tied with Brown.

"There were a lot of people right in there. I thought I would have to be under 70 to get in."

There weren't any hard feelings about the sudden-death match. Brown and Roberts are friends and roomed together during the tournament.

Brown defeated Roberts earlier this summer in the Tam O'Shanter Junior Invitational.

There had been 235 young golfers registered for the event. But the junior field had to be trimmed and only 175 were allowed a chance at the Pepsi-Cola Silver Cup—top prize in the tournament.

Elaine Excused

TORONTO (CP) — Fourteen athletes, nine of them living, were inducted Saturday into Canada's Sports Hall of Fame.

Swimmer Elaine Tanner, one of those inducted, couldn't attend the ceremonies at the Canadian National Exhibition. The winner of seven individual and team medals at the 1966 British Commonwealth Games in Jamaica was being married in Vancouver.

Nancy Greene Raine, inducted in 1967 for skiing, accepted the award on her behalf.

The inductees: Noel Mon, Donald Robertson, came from Tripoli, Libya. Mrs. Robertson, a basketball player, starred during the 1930s with the famed Commercial Grads in Edmonton and in 1938 was voted Canada's top athlete.

Others present for their inductions were Nick Westlock, Toronto (golf); Bill Crothers, Toronto, Harry Jerome, Prince Albert, Sask., Eric Coy, Winnipeg (track and field); Bill Simpson, Toronto (soccer); Blondie Robinson, Toronto (bowling); and Charles Mayer, Montreal (sports administration).

Posthumous awards were accepted for Donald Bain, Winnipeg (all-round athlete); George Chenier, Toronto (boxer); Phyllis Dewar, Winnipeg (swimming); Fred Robson, Toronto (speed skating); and Thomas Ryan, Guelph (bowling).

WEST VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP) — Elaine (Mighty Mouse) Tanner, a member of Canada's Sports Hall of Fame as an international swimmer, married Ian Nahrgang of Calgary in a quiet ceremony Saturday.

They planned a camping honeymoon in the Rockies before returning to Calgary, where Mrs. Nahrgang is to attend University.

Wants to Pass Ruth

Hank Hammers More Records

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Records were meant to be broken and it appears Hank Aaron is intent on breaking quite a few before he's through.

And Aaron, after leading Atlanta Braves to a 5-4 National League victory over Chicago Cubs Sunday, is far from through.

The rugged right fielder, now 37, drilled his 29th home run of the season and No. 631 for his 18-year major league career.

The homer, off Juan Pizarro, a two-run shot, also gave him 100 runs batted in for the year.

It was the 11th season he has gone over the century mark for RBI, snapping a tie with Stan Musial and Willie Mays for the National League record. He is the two shy of the major league mark of 13 held jointly by Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx and Lou Gehrig.

HANK AARON

Aaron also slashed a double, keying a two-run sixth inning. The hit gave the Atlanta slugger 3,203, putting him into sixth place on the all-time hit list, replacing Nap Lajoie.

In other Sunday games, Pittsburgh Pirates topped Houston Astros 5-2, St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in 11 innings, San Francisco Giants ripped Philadelphia Phillies 8-3, New York Mets trimmed Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 and Montreal and San Diego Padres split, the Expos winning 6-1, before dropping the nightcap, 13-2.

Earl Williams also honered for Atlanta, his 28th of the season, following Aaron's shot in the first inning, gave the Braves a 3-0 margin.

Aaron, whose home run output leaves him only 11 behind Mays in career totals, thinks that the San Francisco star and himself are the only ones with a shot at Babe Ruth's record 714.

"I'd sure like to get it," said Aaron in the Brave dressing room.

"It's the most prestigious of all records. It has stood for a long time and I think that only Willie and myself have a shot at it."

The Pirates maintained their five game edge over St. Louis as Dave Giusti gained his 27th save of the year, saving the victory for Bob Johnson.

The red-hot Cards eked out their triumph when reliever Clay Carroll walked Ted Sizemore with the bases full and two out in the 11th inning.

Bobby Bonds drove a three-run homer and Juan Marichal scattered eight hits as San Francisco ripped the Phillies, increasing its West lead to 5½ games over the staggering Dodgers. Tommie Agee's run-scoring single in the ninth inning gave the Mets a sweep of the Dodgers three-game series. It was also New York's fourth consecutive triumph, the first time they have won that many in a row since June 26.

Leron Lee, Ollie Brown and Ivan Murrell each slammed homers as the Padres took the nightcap after dropping the opener to Ernie McAnally. It was McAnally's fourth straight victory as the right-hander improved his record to 7-3. Rusty Staub had solo homers in each game for the Expos.

Wins Come Easier When Blue Shaky

Vida Blue found he couldn't win with a couple of near-flawless fastballs and suffered a shaky six-hit performance and finally found elusive No. 22. 4-3 over Washington Senators.

The Oakland Athletics lefthander, with 22 victories in League triumphs already under his belt, was shooting for a 30-victory season before he was ambushed by Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees.

Gary Peters and the Red Sox nipped him 1-0 on Aug. 20 and Mel Stottlemyre and the Yankees duplicated the feat four days later, saddling him with his sixth and seventh setbacks.

Blue found he wasn't overpowering again Sunday even though Washington clipped him for six hits, including two home runs.

But Blue held on for the Athletics in the opening game of their doubleheader and then made it a pair with a 9-0 romp as Jim (Catfish) Hunter tossed a seven-hitter for his 17th victory and Denny McLain absorbed his 17th loss.

Pads Lead

The sweep padded Oakland's West Division lead over Kansas City Royals to 16 games.

In other American League action, Chicago White Sox beat Detroit Tigers 6-2, New York Yankees pounded Kansas City 10-3, Minnesota Twins edged Cleveland Indians 8-5, Baltimore Orioles split a doubleheader with Milwaukee, winning 4-3 over the finale, the Brewers, and, in a West Coast twilight game, California Angels defeated Boston 6-1.

Despite striking out 10 Senators to boost his major league-leading total to 274 and generally staying out of trouble, Blue still wasn't pleased.

"I'm not satisfied with the way I pitched," he said. "I couldn't get my fast ball where I wanted it so I started throwing the curve."

It was Dave Duncan's run-scoring single in the sixth that gave Blue the winning edge.

In the nightcap, Oakland pounded McLain and three relievers for 14 hits, three of them by Angel Mangual.

Veteran Wilbur Wood, a knuckleball reliever until this season, scattered four hits as he went the distance for the 15th time this season to pick up victory No. 14.

The White Sox pounced on Mickey Lolich, Detroit's 21-game winner, for four runs in the first, capped by Mike Andrews' three-run homer.

Expos Split

MONTREAL (CP) — Dave Mason's triple and Loron Lee's homer keyed early-inning rallies as San Diego Padres scored 10 runs in the third and fourth innings en route to a 13-3 second-game win over Montreal Expos and a split in their Sunday afternoon doubleheader.

Montreal starter Bill Stoneman allowed only one hit before the Padres got four runs on three hits and two errors in the third.

San Diego pounced on relievers Howie Reed and Claude Raymond for six more runs in the fourth inning, including two-run singles by Nate Colbert and Fred Kendall and a bases-loaded walk to Larry Stahl.

Rusty Staub's 18th homer of the year, Stan Swanson's run-scoring single and Ron Fairly's sacrifice fly produced the Montreal scores.

Montreal scored five runs in the second inning and Ernie McAnally won his fourth straight as Expos evened it 6-1 in the first game.

Rusty Staub, three-for-four with two runs batted in, accounted for Montreal's last run with a homer in the fourth.

McAnally, who registered his seventh win in 16 decisions, struck out seven and fired nine in his complete game effort.

Dave Roberts, victim of the Expos rally, was tagged with the loss. His record is 11-14.

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Une De Mai again made a stretch rally and beat Fresh Yankee by a head to win the $30,000 Roquepine Trot at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

The pacer, a probable duplicate of the $125,000 Roosevelt International last week when Une De Mai, the last animal to beat Fresh Yankee by a nose.

Une De Mai, a seven-year-old mare from France driven by Jean-Rene Gougeon, trotted the 1¼ miles in 2:32 3-5 and paid $3.40 and $2.20. Fresh Yankee, an eight-year-old mare owned by Duncan MacDonald of Sydney, N.S., is owned by George Phalen, paid $2.20. There was no show wagering.

Une De Mai earned $15,000 to increase her career bankroll to $1,315,655 while Fresh Yankee got $7,500 for a total of $1,015,030.

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — "Now I feel like I can find out just how good I am," DeWitt Weaver said.

Winning this one, well, it puts me on a level with all the other players who have won tournaments and gives me a chance to find out just how good I can play."

Weaver, 31, scored his first professional win by a six-stroke margin over Phil Rodgers Sunday in their head-to-head confrontation for the $35,000 first prize in the professional match play championship.

Weaver had a final round 71, one under par, in the unique event that features two golfers play with scoring based on total strokes over 18 holes. Rodgers had a 77, five-over par on the 6,973 yard scoring Dusted on Country Club of North Carolina course.

Kingston Sailor Tops Class in International Field

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Brian Palfreeman of Montreal had to be told about his victory Sunday in the Tornado catamaran, one of 11 sailing classes at the opening of the Canadian Olympic training regatta.

"We didn't even know who won until they said congratulations," the 37-year-old Montreal engineer said.

Palfreeman was one of only two Canadians to win events Sunday. The other was hometown favorite Harry Jemmett, a former Canadian champion and also chairman of CORK, who easily sailed ahead of 48 other starters in the International 14 class.

But Palfreeman's victory wasn't so easy. He had to battle a pair of Californians, Bruce Harvey and Bruce Stewart of Marina Del Roy, who had defeated Palfreeman and other Tornado sailors last week at a regatta in Montreal.

"We were able to go windward better than they," said Palfreeman, "but they were beating us downward.

"The final leg was to windward so that helped."

Dennis Posey of Windsor, Conn., who won the Toronto Canadian Open title at last year's CORK, placed fifth in the first race Sunday after making a little higher than the normal number of mistakes."

Jemmett had the International 14 class event almost from the start.

"It's too early to say if we can maintain our position," he said. "All I can say is that we have the boat speed."

With a new craft this year which he said is "better in the chop," Jemmett was so fast he passed several of the Flying Dutchman fleet which started earlier on the same triangular Olympic course in Lake Ontario off the Kingston waterfront.

Behind Jemmett was Tom Rosmond of Seattle, Wash., and Dennis Clark of Kent, Wash., last year's International 14 Canadian Open champion at the same regatta.

More than 300 boats in 11 different classes are registered for the third annual CORK, designed to attract top international competition for Canadian sailors and give them practice for the 1972 Olympics in Germany and the 196 Games in Montreal.

The 84 races in each class are scheduled to end Friday.

Rain poured down during Saturday's practice racing and opening ceremonies.

But Sunday, on skies were clear and sunny. At the start of racing, there were gentle 10-mile-an-hour breezes, which freshened to 15 miles an hour by the end of the day's competition on four Olympic-sized courses in Lake Ontario.

Competitors on the lake are allowed to count their best five finishes towards North American open championships in the training-class O.K. Dinghys and Fireballs, the Pan-Am class Solpins and the Olympic-Class Dragons.

The same rules apply for Canadian Open championships in training-class International 14s, Olympic-class Finns, Stars and Solings and in Tornados, promoted as a possible Olympic class after 1972.

Canadian-American championships are being held in the Olympic-class Flying Dutchmans and Pan-Am-class Lightnings.

Harness String Snapped

When it rained it poured and when it didn't it might as well have as Saturday's harness racing card at the Fairgrounds was cancelled breaking an eight-year streak of regular weekend racing.

Friday night's area downpour forced the Quinte Fair Board to cancel the heep. The decision came around 12:30 p.m. much to the ire of many harness fans and drivers who thought it was called much too early.

Former president of the Quinte Ridding and Driving Club Gerald Vance could recall only three or four times when a full night's card of racing has been cancelled and never since the rock dust track has been installed at the Fairgrounds.

Partial cards have been forced off due to rain including the Black Diamond Stakes two years ago and one card last year but full card cancellations have been few and far between.

A whole new card will have to be formed for next Saturday's races but race-secretary Doreen Kemp has been busy and has filled most of the spots for a ten-heat night, despite some early threats from peeved drivers not to run.

A Giant Cut for Junior-kind

A small cut for Pete Stallkovitch but a giant swing for the Ellis Juniors is the tag worn by the Printer left fielder who fouled this pitch back but doubled off the left field fence and singled in the 13th inning in two obbtr opperarances. Pete raced home with an insurance run on Glenn Carleton's game winning triple which scored three runs in the Juniors 7-4 Commercial Softball League playoff win over Point Anne. Here Pointer's catcher Doug Olsen reaches for the foul tip. The Pointers still lead the series three games to two.

Trainmen Force Cobourg Showdown

The Belleville Conductors and Brakemen peeweens came through in their final showdown with Oshawa to force a" finals showdown with Cobourg.

The local minor baseball representatives stopped Oshawa 7-5 in the third and final game of their Eastern Ontario Baseball Association play-off series Sunday. The victory gave them a berth in the EOBA finals with Cobourg.

Clyde Routley barked a four-hitter to earn the pitching win fanning seven batters and walking six. Leading the Belleville offensive effort was Howie Coons with two doubles and a single, Mike Burke, Rookey and Simon Bennett each added two hits to the winning total.

While the peewees were hitting a winning note in the final game of their series, the CNR Yeroboam midgets were right on key in their opening

Farmers' Sons Stunning Too

TWEED (Staff) — They may not be farmer's daughters but Tweed's Bantam B male entry in the Ontario Rural Softball Association playdowns have the same stunning effect.

Tweed advanced into the O.R.S.A. all - Ontario finals Sunday with a 4-2 victory over Oak Ridges. The winners had opened the best of three series last week with a 16-3 win in Oak Ridges.'

Tweed's final opponents in the league for villages under 2,500 people has not yet been decided yet but it is expected the competition will come from the London area.

EOBA bout taking a 5-3 verdict from Trenton.

John Masterson survived nine Trenton safeties to earn the win, setting down 13 batters on strikes and issuing only one free pass. Jeff Baker took the loss also allowing nine hits.

Gary Christopher slammed three singles for the winners with the other hits going to Paul MacDonald, Steve Burke, Dale Tummon, Allan Wood, Jeff Wood and John Masterson. McLean paced the losers with three singles.

In a house league peewee battle Golden Mile came up with an 11-6 win over Legion 99 in the third and deciding game of their semi - final series.

Paul Weeks tossed a four-hitter to lead Golden Mile to the win, while Mike Burke was tagged with the loss. Pacing the winners were Roger Suddard with a homer and single and Andy Lupenette with three singles. Weeks and Scott Bowes each added two hits for Golden Mile while Billy Whelan and Burke split the Legion hits.

Peter Pounds Plane's

Enright was all right and Plane's Concrete are up tight after the second game of the South Hastings baseball series played Sunday.

Peter Enright came up with his fifth hit of the game and went on to score the winning run in the 13th inning as Read recorded a 9-8 win over Plane's. The victory enabled them to open up a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven series with the league pennant winners.

Enright's overtime tally cracked a relief pitching duel between Harold Pascoe of Read and Plane's Garnie Adams. Pascoe yielded only one run over the final 8 2-3 innings after Plane's had pounded starter Frank Farrell for seven runs and nine hits. Pascoe allowed seven safeties, but no walks while fanning five batters.

Adams took over in the seventh inning after Read had piled up eight runs and 11 hits off starter Ted Adams. The Plane's reliever struck out ten batters and walked one man.

Enright added four singles to his last - inning double for the winning runs. Read, while Pat O'Connor had three safeties. Steve White, Carm Milligan and Larry Coffey were the other winning batsmen with more than one hit.

John Tweedy, Larry Lewis and Ted Abrams paced Plane's attack with three singles each, while Ron Urch and Bob Luffman had two hits each.

Torchy Takes Cobourg Cake

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Torchy Millar, Pan-American Games equestrian individual bronze medalist and team gold medalist from St. Margaret's Station, Que., won the $5,000 Grand Prix Sunday.

Tom Gayford of Cormley placed second and Jim Elder of Aurora third.

Only Elder managed to navigate the muddy, 970-yard course without a knockdown by the end of the first round, doing it twice —once on The Immigrant and again on Adanac.

Millar and Gayford logged four faults by the end of the opening round.

When Glenn Gets Sore Cementmen Take Lumps

Glenn Carleton proved to be a real sorehead in the lone Commercial Softball League playoff bout Sunday. Of course his head wasn't the only part of the Ellis Junior's anatomy to feel the strain of the Juniors' 7-4 win over Point Anne.

Carleton, a converted outfielder who has handled for Ellis receiving duties for the past three games, was hit several times by the offerings of battery mate Ted Waite, tagged in the head on a successful dash of second and jammed a knee sliding into third.

When the 13th and final inning was over, however, it was the Point Anne Cementmen who took their lumps as Carleton slammed a two-run triple and then stretched the hit into an extra base when catcher Doug Olsen had the ball jarred loose in a collision at home plate.

The three tallies were enough to give the Juniors their second straight extra-inning victory after Point Anne had swept the first three of the best - of - seven semi-final series.

Because the contest took almost three hours to play a scheduled bout between Rollins and Howard and Robert Printing was postponed. Their semi - final series remains deadlocked at two games each.

Waite earned the win in a pitching duel with Don Holoway, who relieved Cementmen starter Jamie Hunter in the third inning. The Ellis hurler yielded seven hits and four walks over the 13-inning route, while fanning 13 batters. Holoway gave up five safeties, while whiffing 15 and Hunter was scratched for seven hits in a losing effort.

The Juniors struck in the first frame when first baseman Neil Goyer crashed a two - run homer over the right centre field fence. Point Anne came back with three unearned tallies in their half of the inning before the contest finally settled into a, 6-4 stalemate after the fifth frame.

Singles by Waite and Peter Stallkovich set the stage for Carleton's winning drive to right field after six extra innings of play. Waite set Point Anne down in order in the bottom of the 13th to preserve the victory.

Goyer hammered a homer and single to pace the Juniors with three hits. Garfejoy, Stallkovich and Carleton added two hits each. For Point Anne Jim Horwood smacked a double and triple getting two-hit support from Eric Maher and Doug Olsen.

The next playoff games are slated for Tuesday night starting at 7.15 p.m.

SACO Outlook Bright

It all depends upon your point of view as to whether the Belleville SACO squirts were the perfect hosts in Sunday's opening game of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association Zone 4 finals against Pakenham.

As far as the visiting Pakenham squad was concerned, SACO was far from cognizant in taking a 6-1 victory over the Ottawa district champs.

Tim Soule gave up only five hits over the seven innings, striking out 11 and walking none. Doug Campbell had a double with Bob Hedge and Soule adding two singles apiece in the winners' nine hit attack.

Barr had a double and single for Pakenham.

Second game in the best-of-three series will be Saturday afternoon in Pakenham at 3 p.m.

Supporters of Thieu Lead Vietnam Voting

SAIGON (AP) — Supporters of President Nguyen Van Thieu led today in returns from South Vietnam's lower house election, but political analysts predicted their majority would be reduced to about 60 and 70 per cent.

Returns from 66 of the 159 seats at stake in the voting Sunday gave 33 to pro-Thieu candidates and 20 to opposition politicians. Two more winners were independents, and the political allegiance of the other 11 was not yet clearly defined.

Supporters of the president were scoring heavily in the densely populated Mekong Delta and other provinces around Saigon. But opposition deputies appeared to have the edge in the major cities, including Saigon, and in the northern provinces.

In Saigon, seven of the 13 winners were opposition leaders, most of them associates of Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh. Candidates backed by the anti-government Am Quang Buddhist faction won more than half the seats in Da Nang, Hue and the surrounding northern provinces.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong made nearly 100 attacks during the weekend, their heaviest activity in four months, but failed to disrupt the elections. The government claimed less than one per cent of the 7,000 polling sites came under direct rocket, mortar or terror attack.

In the worst election attack, a grenade thrown into a polling place in coastal Binh Dinh province killed seven civilians and wounded 23. Many of the other attacks were minor and caused no casualties or damage.

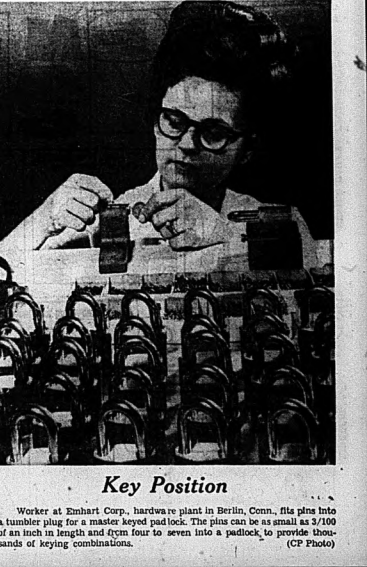
Mr. Robert Empey of Eldorado and Mr. Kenneth Bronson, Tweed, were successful in passing the scanner tests at DeVry Institute, Toronto, last week and have begun studies in the Electronics Engineering Technology Course at the Bell and Howell School.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Budd of Budd's Rabbit Ranch, Eldorado left for New York State and Pennsylvania to purchase stock improvement New Zealand White Bucks from noted American breeders.



The local Chamber of Commerce is planning on holding a sidewalk sale here next weekend, and all merchants are preparing to take part.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Sine attended the Sine — Martin wedding at Brighton last weekend.

Mrs. Roy Holgate of Eldorado has returned home from the Belleville General Hospital.

PROPOSE ABOLITION

TORONTO (CP) — The management committee of the Toronto board of education has proposed abolition of corporal punishment in schools. The trustees took this action after receiving a report showing the use of the strap has declined from 760 incidents in 1969-70 to 196 incidents in the last school year.

"I am trying but the automatic eye refuses to look."

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Reason for Ulcer Must Be Learned

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: What is the cause of a stubborn leg ulcer that has been present on and off for many months? It began when I banged my ankle against a chair in the dark.

Since then it has apparently healed. But the scab would fall off and the raw ulcer would break down again. I have used salves that helped a friend of mine with a similar condition. Do you recommend any treatment that seems to help patients like myself? — Mrs. C.

* * *

COMMENT: Have you been self-treating this ulcer all these months? Or, have you been to a doctor without finding improvement?

What's important, as in any other illness, is to discover the real reason why it remains stubborn. For example, we know that varicose veins are a common association of leg ulcers. Do you have them? If you do, then it is essential that you be treated by a doctor.

Not only will he have to clean our the ulcer itself—and not prescribe necessary local treatment — but he will treat the surrounding varicosities, either by injection treatments or by operation to remove nonfunctioning veins.

In other words, we must do everything possible to increase the circulation in the region of the ulcer before we can expect it to heal. However, there may be other reasons for ulcer formation.

I have seen stubborn ulcers in patients who suffered from anemia, tuberculosis, diabetes, syphilis, cancer or a variety of other involvements. Treating these generalized infections was more important than using local treatment like special pastes and antibiotic applications.

In some patients elevation of the leg for a week or two helps to heal an ulcer. Others have been cured by the use of bandages and supports, or by a special boot or cast applied to the leg.

* * *

What I have tried to say is that a "simple" though stubborn ulcer may not be so simple as many people think. Discovering the underlying cause (not the bump, scratch or other injury) is essential.

Not until we have an evaluation of the patient as a whole is it possible to make a successful attack on an ulcer that insists on breaking down again and again.

Stubborn as many leg ulcers are, proper treatment can often overcome an apparently incurable condition.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: There is a "young" woman of 85 who does volunteer work at our institution who has more vitality and enthusiasm than most people years younger. She tells me she has had only a doughnut and glass of water for breakfast for the past 40 years. She adores ice cream and eats lots of it. Recently she told me she was planning on a big dish of fresh tomatoes for her supper. There's a great deal we don't know yet about diet and longevity. Right? Mrs. S.

COMMENT: Right.

For Mrs. B.: It is not inevitable that a child who suffers from eczema will develop asthma when she grows older.

* * *

For Mr. T.: "Cold shots" are not a sure cure for arthritis although often helpful in managing rheumatoid arthritis. Nor is it true that once begun they have to be taken for the rest of one's life.

Clenched Fists Displace Tears at Jackson Funeral

MOUNT VERNON, IN. (AP) — George Jackson was buried Sunday in a quiet country graveyard during a ceremony that for a moment flared into violence.

Clenched fists and denunciations displaced tears from the 60 who watched Jackson's coffin lowered into the family plot.

Nearby was the grave of his younger brother, Jonathan, fatally shot 13 months ago in an armed raid on the Marin County, Calif., Courthouse.

George Jackson was shot dead last Saturday by San Quentin prison guards in what was described as an escape attempt.

Jackson's mother dominated the ceremony, flanked by a contingent of Black Panthers.

"The reason he's dead today is that the state of California, and, maybe, the United States of America, decided here was one black man who was not going to cry out," she said.

Immediately after her son was killed, Mrs. Jackson claimed he was murdered in his cell by guards and then carried into the prison yard to make it look like an escape attempt.

Prison officials denied this.

During the ceremony two Black Panthers seized news photographer Bruno Torres and demanded his film. When he refused, they hurled him to the ground and grabbed his cameras. One of the Panthers punched Torres in the face.

Torres, 26, of United Press International, had been shooting pictures from behind a bush.

On Saturday about 1,500 persons, many wearing clothes of Jackson's funeral at Oakland, Calif.

Huey Newton, co-founder of the Panthers, delivered the eulogy, just as he had a year ago in the same wooden Episcopal Church at the funeral of Jonathan Jackson.

Newton pledged the Black Panthers would fight for revolutionary ideals Jackson espoused.

"With love as our guide, we'll ask every threat that threatens our lives and our children," said Newton.

Meanwhile, in San Francisco, the radical left Weatherman group claimed responsibility for weekend bombings at two California prison system buildings, calling the blasts retaliation "for the assassination of George Jackson."

The Associated Press in San Francisco and the San Francisco Examiner received identical typewritten letters Saturday from "Weather Underground."

"Two small bombs do not cool our rage," said the letters. "We view our actions as simply a first expression of our love and respect for George Jackson and the warriors of San Quentin."

The explosions destroyed offices of the state corrections department in Sacramento and San Francisco before dawn Saturday. No one was injured.

You and The Law

Truth Is Absolute Defence In Libel or Slander Case

"The law recognizes in every man a right to have his estimation in which he stands in the opinion of others unaffected by false statements to his discredit."

So says a case decided in England in 1882 and the same principle still applies today. If a person is defamed — that is, discredited by a false statement — he can sue the maker of the statement.

Defamation can take two forms — libel or slander. A character attack made in writing, such as in a book or newspaper article, is libel while a character attack by words, gestures, etc., such as may be made in a public speech or a radio or television interview, is slander.

To constitute libel or slander, what is said about a person must not only be derogatory, it must also be untrue. Truth (also referred to as justification) is an absolute defence regardless of the fact that the statement might be most embarrassing for or harmful to the person about whom it is made.

In general terms, libel or slander is defined as any untrue statement, spoken, or either written or verbal — that tends to bring a person into disrepute and to lower public opinion of him.

Subject to some exceptions, a person who claims he has been libelled or slandered does not have to prove actual damages; that is, he does not have to prove that the statement did in fact bring him into disrepute or cause people to have a lower opinion of him. He need only prove that the statement was of such a kind that it could have done so or would have tended to do so.

The amount of the damage award to a successful plaintiff in a libel or slander action can vary greatly according to the circumstances. The damage will be greater if actual rather than potential damage can be proved as a result of the statement.

The damage award will also be greater if it is proved that the statement was made maliciously rather than mistakenly or carelessly.

Damages can be awarded not only against the person who made the statement but also against any publication in which the statement was carried. For instance, if a magazine carries a libellous article, the publishers of the magazine can be sued along with the author of the article.

There are some circumstances in which statements made about a person are privileged and do not leave the maker of the statement open to prosecution. For example, statements made against another person in the House of Commons or in any provincial legislature are privileged.

No action for slander can be brought in respect of any such statements, although the same statements could form the basis for a law suit if made outside the legislative chamber.

Also fair criticism for fair comment as it is legally known is not actionable as libel or slander and the defence of fair comment is thus quite common. Whether a statement constituted fair comment or not beyond that to a point of libel or slander is, of course, something to be decided on the particular facts of each case.

That's the law!

Sydney J. Harris Says

College Fraternities Doomed

One of the unmourned,— at least by me — casualties of the new college life-style is the fraternity-sorority system. It is going in most colleges, and almost gone in others. In my time, it seemed as permanent as a fixed principle; now it surely will not survive this decade.

In one of my first columns, more than a quarter - century ago, I attacked this system as a rude travesty of what college ought to be; at that time, I thought I was spitting against the wind, but the wind turned faster than anyone could have anticipated.

The fraternity - sorority system was based on a false premise, and so it had to collapse eventually, as all institutionalized untruths must do. It was based on the premise that young men and women who had things in common ought to live together and play together.

But college is, or should be, the place where young men and women who have little background in common except their youth ought to learn more about different kinds of people before they get into the great world and perfect-ate the errors of their elders. It is a place for broadening one's horizon, not constricting it.

The old-fashioned fraternity and sorority simply encapsulated the past, and thus learned nothing from it. The light blonds from Minnesota lived in one house, and the dark Jews from Brooklyn, in another, and the odd Hindustani stayed in a room at the Student Centre, and they joined loyalties only at football games and enthusiastically unified Class Days.

The kids today want none of that, and rightly so. They know that you learn little from "your own kind" except that your own kind is indubitably superior to any other kind. And they also have found out that it's damned dull to spend most of your time with people who look and sound and act exactly like yourself. Ethnic constipation sets in fast.

Now they are all down at the student union building, because that's where the foreign students are, and interesting people from all over the world. They live where they feel like it and with whom they feel like, because that is what growing up consists of — exploration, diversity, the exchange of experiences, the shedding of inhibitions.

Their parents wanted them to be with "the right sort." They are finding out for themselves that the right sort come from everywhere, in all shapes and shades; and the wrong sort are precisely those who think there is only one right sort. If their parents had learned that lesson, the word "fraternity" might still have its noble connotation, not just its snobbish one.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 31

Your birthday today: From an introductory point of view it's subtle and a few overt changes your year settles into a strongly creative, successful growth phase. Much of your newly developing strength goes back into your ventures rather than being scattered for fun or diversions. Today's natives are shrewd managers of personal finances, usually astute students of special arts.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Important decisions have to be made abruptly — you have little time to research the background information. Depend on intuition.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): You have it made; all you need to do is glide through the day saying nothing of your plans. Just stay busy and at work.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Surprise is the order of the day, probably happy or at least interesting. When you see what happens, you may get busy preparing more of the same.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Old memories and people come back in nostalgic memory. Former colleagues from past work experiences may come visiting.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 23): Putting your strength and resources into your promise has been is the thing to do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Clear up and clear out. Get done with whatever you're about and take a restful break.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Run a large circle today, to extremes if you can but be home on time with a surprise for your loved ones in good time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Begin in good humor, bring along others to share in your current ventures. Your example influences many others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Haste and short cuts now are likely to bring negative results. Discipline yourself to a normal, sensible approach.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): Your program deserves the best salesmanship and diplomacy for its promotion, beginning with your own, of course. An early start in the right direction tips the balance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): It may be essential to help younger people who are in need for help or whose pride hinders their acceptance.

PISCES (Feb. 19—Mar. 20): Plunge right into whatever you have stirred up. Results are indicated as good with an odd twist, an unplanned response.

Arsenal Finds Home Grounds Suddenly Not So Comfortable

LONDON (CP) — Arsenal crashed to its third successive defeat Saturday when beaten 1-0 at home by Stoke City.

A goal by centre-forward John Ritchie at the 18 minute mark gave Stoke revenge for last season's 5-0 defeat by Arsenal, which now has lost twice in succession on its own ground after previously being unbeaten there for more than a year.

Sheffield United dropped its first point of the season in a scoreless draw with West Bromwich Albion, but stayed on top of the First Division with nine points after five games.

Referees continued their get-tough policy and the number of players booked exceeded 150 after only the third Saturday of the new season.

Manchester United remained second in the First Division after drawing 1-1 with Wolverhampton Wanderers. George Best put United ahead after 15 minutes, but full-back Bernard Shaw earned Wolves a point with a 30-yard equalizer in the 78th minute.

United, unbeaten in five games under new manager Frank O'Farrell, is just ahead of Liverpool on goal average. Liverpool moved into third spot with a 3-2 win over Leicester City.

Steve Heighway, Kevin Keegan and John Toshack scored for Liverpool with David Nish and John Farrington replying for Leicester.

Leeds United, managed a 2-0 away victory over Ipswich, which lost for the first time this season. Peter Lorimer and Rod Belfitt scored for Leeds.

West Ham United found its opponents' net when Bermuda-born Clyde Best netted after 54 minutes against Everton. It gave the London team a 1-0 victory—their first of the new season.

Chelsea, without Keith Weller, Tommy Baldwin and Ian Hutchinson, because of injuries, opened its first victory of the season, 2-1 over Huddersfield.

Manchester City's Colin Bell, back after an injury, scored a brilliant seventh-minute goal to pave the way for a 4-0 slaughter of Nottingham Forest.

Play was stopped five minutes when the referee charged his side notice that several fans were removed from the stands by police. The game with Nottingham Forest ended 1-1.

Southampton managed a 2-2 draw with Derby County and Coventry could keep the Second Division lead with a 1-0 victory over bottom club Sheffield. Third Division Aldershots County was defeated 1-2 by Bolton and Fourth Division Grimsby got 1-1 draw with Workington.

In Scotland, Celtic beat Rangers 3-0 in League Cup action. Tommy Callaghan fired home a tremendous shot to put Celtic two up and Bobby Lennox added the third.

Celtic's David Hay had his name taken and Rangers captain John Greig received a stern warning for a fierce tackle on Jimmy Johnstone, but generally the game was a clean game.

Partick Thistle whipped Arbroath 4-2 and clinched its section of the League Cup.

Hibernian kept its unbeaten record beating Motherwell 2-1 to notch its fifth victory in succession.

Ontario Takes Ski Title

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — George Athans, 19, of Kew, Iowna, B.C., came from behind Sunday to win his fourth straight overall men's title at the Canadian waterski championships on Lake Banook.

Going into the final jumping event, Athans trailed Pierre Plouffe, 22, of Outremont, Que., by a narrow margin. Athans's leap of 153 feet meant Plouffe would have had to jump 155 feet or better to take the over-all title.

Plouffe managed only a 134-foot jump and was short of the British Columbian's points total. Athans' earlier won the tricks title with 8,437 points, followed in second by Rod Tipton, 22, of Lake Cowichan, B.C., who had 6,405.

Plouffe won the men's slalom Saturday.

Over-all women's champion Linda Bocock, 27, of St. Hippolyte, Que., won both tricks and jumping Sunday. She won the slalom Saturday.

Helene Gregoire, 18, of Hull, Que., finished second in tricks, jumping and slalom.

Ontario won the provincial competition with 91 points, followed by Quebec with 77 and British Columbia with 76.

Manitoba skiers run up 49 points while Alberta and Nova Scotia each had 15. Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan did not score.

It consists of John Preston, 22, of Brantford, Ann Donahoe, 18, of Sherbrooke, Que., Mary Biocock, Athans and Plouffe will represent Canada in the world championship at Banolas, Spain, in September.

Alberta's Long-lived Social Credit Rule Faces Test Today

EDMONTON (CP) — The life of one of the oldest provincial administrations in Canada was at stake today in Alberta's 17th general election and indications were that a record turnout could be expected.

Started by evangelist William (Bible Bill) Aberhart in the 1930s, the Social Credit party won power in 1935 and has been re-elected ever since. It held 54 of the 65 seats in the last legislature. There were 10 Progressive Conservatives and one seat was left vacant by the death of a government member.

The main threat to Premier Harry Strom's Social Credit administration is expected to come from Peter Lougheed's Conservatives, the only other party to field a full slate of 75 candidates.

Grant Notley's New Democratic Party, which has 11 of the 18 women in the campaign, has put up 70 candidates. Bob Russell's Liberals have 20 and there are three independents for a record total of 243.

Also a record number is the total eligible voters—about 880,000—compared with 795,034 at the last general election on May 23, 1967, when 62.68 per cent cast ballots.

For the first time, 18-year-olds will be able to vote. The voting age was lowered from 19 at the last session of the legislature this spring.

The polls opened at 9 a.m. MST (noon EDT) under warm, sunny skies and close at 8 p.m.

As well as choosing legislature members, voters are being asked to decide whether the province should switch to daylight time in the summer as does most of the rest of the country. Until now, it has stuck to standard time throughout the year.

In a 1967 plebiscite, 31.25 per cent or 248,680 of the 483,235 voters turned down daylight time by a slim margin of 13,125.

While none of the party leaders have taken an official stand on the issue, all say they are in favor of daylight time. City dwellers, on the whole, like the idea but farmers don't, saying a time change would adversely affect their operations.

Redistribution added 10 seats this year, mostly in Calgary, Red Deer and Edmonton. And for the first time, the urban dweller has more ballot power than his rural counterpart. Thirty-eight seats are in city centres.

For Premier Strom, Mr. Notley and Mr. Russell, it's the first general election as party leaders.

Mr. Lougheed has led the Conservatives for 6½ years and the party took six seats in the 1967 election, added two in byelections and two others by luring men from other parties.

Mr. Strom, a 57-year-old farmer and rancher who took over from E. C. Manning, now a senator, in 1968, seeks re-election in the southeastern constituency of Cypress, which first sent him to the legislature in 1955. Some critics have said he lacks the fire shown by Mr. Manning, who was provincial secretary in the first Aberhart cabinet.

Mr. Lougheed, a 43-year-old Calgary lawyer, seeks re-election in Calgary West, the constituency where he had the largest majority of any riding in 1967—4,320 votes. The Conservatives have worked on the theme that 36 years of Social Credit is too much; it is time for a change to the "Lougheed team." Social Credit's reply has been that no change is necessary in a responsible, dependable government which has brought prosperity to Alberta.

Mr. Notley, 32, a socialist party worker since 1961, became NDP leader in November, 1968 after he was defeated in the northwestern riding of Spirit River-Fairview by A. O. Pimlott, minister without portfolio in the Strom cabinet. Running again for that seat, Mr. Notley had the most outside help in terms of "name" politicians. The party brought in premier and former national leaders David Lewis and T. C. Douglas as well as Joe Borowski, the colorful Manitoba highways minister.

Mr. Russell, a 40-year-old advertising executive and council member in St. Albert, about 10 miles north of Edmonton, said during his campaign that Alberta's major political parties "leave little choice" for voters.

Man's Body Found

TORONTO (CP) — Police identified Sunday the badly decomposed body of a man as that of Raymond Dreyer, 50, of Port Hope.

The body was found Friday by children playing in bushes by a road here. Police said the man had been dead two or three months.

Identity was made through a wallet which was found on the body. Authorities have not decided whether to conduct a post mortem investigation.

26 Perish

Italian Police Hold Burned Ferry's Captain

BRINDISI, Italy (AP) — Italian police arrested the captain of the burned-out Greek ferry Heleanna early today as he was trying to leave Italy and charged him with homicide.

At least 26 persons died after fire ravaged the ferry Saturday about 25 miles off Brindisi in the Adriatic.

Captain Dimitrios Antipas was seized aboard another Greek ferry, the Egnatia, and was put in the Brindisi jail.

In addition to homicide in the deaths of some passengers, Antipas was charged with overloading his boat, sailing without adequate firefighting and lifesaving equipment and leaving the boat himself while "numerous passengers were still aboard."

Police said although the fire occurred in international waters, the body of at least one victim was found floating in an Italian territorial waters.

The charges against Antipas resulted from the accusations made to police by man of the 1,089 passengers who survived the disaster. A number said they saw the 43-year-old captain and his wife jump aboard one of the first lifeboats to leave the 11,400-ton ferry.

Antipas's wife, Anastasia, left Brindisi hospital where she was being treated and met reporters at a Brindisi hotel. She gave an account of how her husband reacted to the fire.

Mrs. Antipas said a crew member awoke the captain and her at 5:30 a.m. announcing the fire. "My husband left the cabin without dressing," she said, "taking with him a shirt and pair of pants.

"A few minutes later he was back and said, 'We must wake all passengers and make them go to deck—fast.' Then he went to the telecommunications room and sent the SOS several times.

"Then an explosion was heard, followed by another one, stronger. The electrical plant of the ship broke down and emergency batteries were turned on."

The captain's wife insisted that she and her husband left the ferry last of all.

Defending himself and his crew Sunday, Antipas also said he and his wife were last to leave the burning ferry, "and I left swimming."

He said the boat had adequate lifesaving equipment on board and denied that the ferry was overcrowded.

Five Groups to be Consulted on U.S. Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary James Hodgson says unions and consumers will be among those consulted before Phase II of the Nixon economic program that began with the 90-day wage-price freeze.

He's decided that there are five groups with whom we ought to undertake some rather formal consultations—organized labor, business and industry, agriculture, state and local governments and consumers," Hodgson said Sunday on ABC radio-television.

"We will be engaging in some reasonably formal consultations with these groups," Hodgson said. "We'll be doing it well enough in advance of the end of the 90 days in order to have something when the 90 days is up."

Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans said the freeze "will be followed by some kind of a thaw in which some of the things that are now prohibited or prevented will be allowed to occur."

Appearing on CBS, Stans estimated Phase II would last "less than one year."

Treasury Secretary John Connally said the U.S. is "at an end of an era in our economic policy."

In an interview in the New York Times, Connally said: "It will be at the disposition of the American people to have as few constraints as possible after the 90-day freeze period, and if we can get voluntary compliance now we can avoid stringent controls later."

"But," he said, "It would be unwise to think we can go back to where we were before. American business and labor may have to get used to the idea of living within certain parameters." He declined to speculate in detail on what would happen after the freeze.

In an interview in Newsweek magazine, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, offered "under certain circumstances" to sit on a board to administer Phase II. He did not say what those circumstances would be.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, called for a permanent wage-price board using public opinion to keep prices from rising.

Homosexuals Stage Rallies

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's gay liberation movement came out into the rain on Parliament Hill Saturday, waving signs calling for an end to "heterosexual imperialism" and chanting "gay is good." About 100 men and women demonstrated for 40 minutes on behalf of social equality for homosexuals.

Charles Hill of Ottawa, a spokesman, said "we are here to demand equal rights."

He said amendments to the Criminal Code two years ago legalizing homosexual acts between consenting adults have "done nothing for us as gays."

"Even today, homosexuals are losing their jobs, are being forced out of their churches, are being assaulted in the streets.

"We're fed up with the genocide of gays. We're fed up with having to pay the price of other people's hangups.

"There's not a homosexual problem in Canada, there's a heterosexual problem."

The demonstrators were also warned by gay activist John Williams of New York that in the U.S. the "press has turned Gay Lib into a circus."

Mr. Williams charged that the real "perverts and degenerates and sickies" are not homosexuals in the streets but the political leaders responsible for war and poverty.

The demonstrators were unsuccessful in a search for a government official to accept a 13-page list of demands.

The brief asked that the terms "gross indecency" and "indecent act" be removed from the Criminal Code and be replaced by a list of specific offences.

It also demanded that all references to homosexuality be deleted from government acts and urged that homosexuals be allowed to serve openly in the armed forces.

Davis Stands Firm Against Grants for Catholic High Schools

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis said today his government will not extend provincial grants to Grades 11, 12 and 13 in Ontario's Roman Catholic high schools.

The announcement—reached after several major cabinet and caucus meetings—clears the way for the calling of a provincial election, Mr. Davis has said the grant issue would be decided first.

Speculation centres on Oct. 14 or 21 as election dates.

The grant decision was somewhat anti-climactic. Queen's Park sources had been predicting for weeks that the answer to separate school demands would be no.

In making the formal announcement of the decision on a request made two years ago by the Ontario Separate School Trustees Association, the premier said:

"We do not believe the refusal to do so rescinds any constitutional right nor does it offer any further limitation or condition to the voluntary decision of any parent or child to choose between a secondary education in the public school system or in the private school of their choice."

However, if the government maintains through use of public funds "a complete educational system determined by denominational and religious considerations, such a decision would fragment the present system beyond recognition and repair . . .

Such a decision would also disadvantage citizens who want their children to enter a public school system free of a denominational or sectarian character, the premier said.

Mr. Davis discussed the issue last week at a special caucus. Although no official statement was made at the time, sources said most Tory members, including Roman Catholics, were opposed to extension of grants.

Despite protestations to the contrary on the part of both government and opposition spokesmen, it appears almost certain the grant question will become a major election issue.

Both the Liberal and New Democratic parties support extension of grants through Grade 13. They now stop at Grade 10.

Mr. Davis, while still education minister, consistently opposed extension of grants to Roman Catholic schools. His argument was that other private schools, such as Jewish Parochial schools or Upper Canada College, would demand similar grants and that the budget could not stand the strain.

Education costs already account for more than 30 per cent of the provincial budget and both opposition parties and others have blasted the government on these high costs.

Alberta Socreds Beaten by PCs

PC Win Makes History

EDMONTON (CP) — Peter Lougheed, Alberta's 43-year-old premier elect, said Monday night he was surprised at the overwhelming Progressive Conservative victory in the provincial election. It was the first Conservative victory in Alberta's history.

At an impromptu news conference at the party's northern campaign headquarters, Mr. Lougheed told reporters:

"I thought we could come close. I really wasn't sure we could win it but I thought there was a chance we could."

Mr. Lougheed said his first major decision will be to select his cabinet.

Alberta Backs Daylight Saving

EDMONTON (CP) — Rural residents joined the already-convinced city dwellers in a province-wide plebiscite Monday to approve introduction of daylight time in Alberta.

The plebiscite, held jointly with the Alberta general election, showed in nearly complete tabulations that 296,720 or 62.75 per cent favored the introduction of daylight time, illegal in Alberta since 1948.

A total of 178,144 or 37.25 per cent, opposed the measure.

Lougheed Team Scores Upset

EDMONTON (CP) — The Progressive Conservative party, led by 43-year-old lawyer Peter Lougheed, rode a "time for a change" theme to a stunning upset victory over Social Credit in the Alberta election Monday.

The "Lougheed team" — the other key campaign pitch — shattered Premier Harry Strom in the big cities, sweeping all 16 Edmonton seats, to shunt the 36-year-old Social Credit party into a position it has never before occupied — the legislature opposition.

Ministers caught in the landslide. He attributed it to "door-to-door and farmyard-to-farmyard" campaigning.

Premier Strom, 57-year-old farmer and rancher, sadly joined the six other government leaders who have been defeated in the last eight provincial elections.

Conceding defeat of his party in his first general election as premier, Mr. Strom told a small group of supporters in Social Credit headquarters that "the voice is supreme and I accept that position, whatever it is."

Mr. Strom, who succeeded E. C. Manning as premier in December, 1968, said there is a "distinct" possibility he will review his position as Social Credit leader.

Social Credit, which first came to power as a reform movement in 1935, felt back on its traditional rural strongholds to escape with 25 seats. Grant Notley, the 32-year-old New Democratic Party leader, slipped in as the victor in the northwestern Alberta riding of Spirit River-Fairview to become only the second member of his party to enter the legislature.

The Conservative campaign was built almost entirely around the young, handsome image of Mr. Lougheed, whose grandfather was the first Conservative federal cabinet minister from Alberta.

The voters apparently liked what they saw and elected the first Conservative government in the province's history.

But even Mr. Lougheed was surprised by the extent of his party's triumph, which saw eight of 15 Social Credit cabinet

President Nixon Planning Visit to Canada Next Spring

OTTAWA (CP)—President Nixon will make an official visit to Canada next spring, but so far there are no details on dates, duration or destinations.

A brief announcement from Prime Minister Trudeau's office said that "it now has been agreed that the president will visit Canada sometime next spring. As soon as a mutually agreeable date has been determined, an announcement will be made."

During the past several weeks, sources say, there has been behind the scenes encouragement from Ottawa for Mr. Nixon to visit here this fall for talks with Mr. Trudeau. The prime minister was anxious to meet the president to talk about the trade crisis, arising from the U.S. imposition of import surcharges.

Since Mr. Trudeau made an official visit to Washington in 1969, he wanted the next meeting to be held in Canada.

Officials here said Mr. Nixon's full fall itinerary did not provide time for a Canadian visit.

The U.S. president has already announced plans to visit China sometime next spring.

While no agenda has been drawn up for the Nixon-Trudeau talks, officials say it is obvious that international trade and monetary matters will be a dominating subject. If the U.S. import surcharges are maintained, their full impact on the Canadian manufacturing industry likely will be felt by spring.

The visit will be the first official presidential visit to Canada since the late president John F. Kennedy came here in 1961.

Since then there have been short, unofficial forays into Canada by U.S. presidents, Mr. Nixon himself spent several hours on the Expo site in Montreal in 1969 during ceremonies marking the 100th anniversary of the St. Lawrence seaway.

Earlier, in 1964, former president Lyndon Johnson made a brief visit to British Columbia to sign a protocol on the Columbia River Treaty.

He also visited Expo 67 and had a brief meeting with former prime minister Lester Pearson at his Harrington Lake cottage. The two met briefly again at Campobello Island, the summer home of President Roosevelt off the New Brunswick coast.

Nothing Sacred! Guinness Is Bombed

BELFAST (CP) — More bombings, including an attack on the headquarters of the giant Guinness Brewery, punctuated the troubled Northern Ireland scen as the Ulster government today pondered ways to prevent terrorists from slipping into the country from the Irish Republic.

John Taylor, minister of state for home affairs in the Northern Ireland government, suggested Monday that the border between the north and south be sealed off altogether by blowing up bridges and blocking the 150 roads that wander across the partly unmarked frontier.

In the Irish Republic, Prime Minister Jack Lynch called a cabinet meeting to discuss British protests over the killing of a British soldier in a border gun battle Sunday.

British demanded action to catch the gunmen, members of the IRA, who despite being officially outlawed operate openly in the south.

The British soldier was killed in Northern Ireland by shots fired across the border from inside the republic. Dublin: the IRA openly praised its men "who efficiently and speedily went into action against the enemy."

The shooting came after two armored British vehicles strayed over the unmarked border into the Irish Republic and were set upon by an angry crowd.

LRC May Prove Just Medicine CN Needs to Forget About Turbo

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

LRC may cure the Canadian National Railways' multi-million Turbo headache.

LRC could mean a lot of things to a lot of different people, but to the men of Canadian National it means Light, Rapid and Comfortable and that means the Turbo may be replaced one of these days.

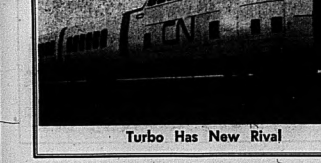
Canadian National's Turbo was termed at its inauguration as "a super streamlined, super elegant and super fast train." One year and several breakdowns later, CN president N. J. MacMillan himself told the press because of the number and variety of problems experienced with the train, "the return time of turbo service is obscure".

Now the CN has an alternative, "or may have in the coming months," said George Van de Water manager of the Rideau Area.

A prototype, or experimental, full-scale model has been constructed of the LRC and, if found to be dependable, may put the Turbo in the shed for a while.

"The Turbo has not been written off," said Mr. Van de Water "but United Aircraft of Canada Ltd., prime contractor for the train will certainly have to reappraise and modify the Turbo before the CN re-fastens it to the track."

Much like the Turbo, the LRC will have a continuous silhouette, be elegant and will attain similar speeds.



"The greatest difference between the two would be the motive power," said Mr. Van de Water. "Rather than using another turbo or aircraft type engine, the LRC will use a standard deisel engine."

Spokesmen for the CN state that most of the engines used by the CN will go as fast as the Turbo, but because of grades and track curvature, it is dangerous to pull a train around them too quickly.

Through body design and an elaborate suspension, the Turbo train overcame the problem of rounding corners too quickly. This led to the averaging out of speed and the one-hour slice from the Mon-

Tent Hostel Shuts Down

Yesterday afternoon marked the end of a season for the youth hostel located just north of the city at the junction of Highways 14 and 401.

Sponsored by D. J. Whalen of Whalen Real Estate, the fifty by twenty - foot tent became an overnight home for hundreds of hitch - hiking youths throughout the summer months.

"We are absolutely pleased with the outcome of the project. We just couldn't be happier," said Mr. Whalen.

In the beginning, there had been fears that youths would abuse the facility. "Now that the end has come, we have found that none of these fears were well founded," said Douglas Boulton sales manager for Whalen Real Estate. "The tent stood the summer very well. There are a few minor tears in the canvas, but these can be and were expected. Cost for repairs will be negligible."

Members of the Circus group spent yesterday, taking down the tent and cleaning the grounds. Financed by the federally sponsored Opportunities for Youth Program, the members of Circus staffed the hostel throughout the summer and maintained the grounds.

"If it wasn't for this group and city council the project might never have gotten off the ground," said Mr. Whalen. "The rental of the tent and the piping in of water and servicing of electricity and telephone resulted in a cost of approximately $1,500. With the additional cost of round - the - clock staffing, it wouldn't have been workable for me. City Parks Department was also instrumental in making the project work."

At this time there has been little mention of a similar project for next summer. "It would be happy to help again in a program of this kind but I feel that the city or more likely a service group should be offered the chance to take over the project. It's a little too much for one person to handle."

PC Convention September 9

TRENTON (Staff) — September 9 has been set as the date for the Progressive Conservative nominating convention in Quinte riding, although a provincial election has not yet been formally declared.

In making the announcement this morning, Ted Parker, president of the Quinte Riding Progressive Conservative Association, indicated he expects an assembly of between 300 and 325 delegates for the convention that will begin at 8 p.m. in the Centennial Secondary School auditorium.

Each polling district will be represented by two delegates, while the riding executive and Young Progressive Conservatives will be represented as delegates - at - large).

Purpose of the convention will be to select a candidate to represent the party in the next Ontario Provincial election. According to Mr. Parker, a Trenton industrialist, the sitting member, Minister Without Portfolio, Dr. Richard Potter, is the "only serious candidate" at the present time.

The riding president said he has no knowledge now of a definite election date, adding that even if an election is not held until early 1972, to hold a nominating convention now is not premature.

Two members of the Davis cabinet, Minister of Health Bert Lawrence and Minister of Energy and Resources Management George Kerr, will be guest speakers for the party gathering.

Mr. Parker explained these senior government leaders had been asked to address the convention because of their involvement with areas in which Dr. Potter has been most active.

He recalled that before the Quinte MPP was taken into the cabinet, he had pressed for a revamp of the region's waterways and pointed out that some Quinte industries, like Dorator's, Trenton paper mill, are now initiating large-scale pollution abatement programs.

As the department of energy and resources management is responsible for environmental controls, Mr. Parker suggested George Kerr's presence at the convention is particularly appropriate and likewise that of Bert Lawrence for Ontario's health programs have also been object of Dr. Potter's attention both before and after his cabinet appointment.

Plow Falls, Kills Owner

Belleville detachment, Ontario Provincial Police report the death of Sidney Township resident Fred Earl Myers, sometime before 3.30 p.m. yesterday.

Mr. Myers had been repairing a plow, when the machine fell on his neck, pinning him to the ground at his farm on the Glen Miller Road, RR 5, Trenton.

Police report no post mortem or inquest will be held.

Born on the farm, he was the son of the late Samuel Myers and the late Naamah Sidels. A lifetime resident and farmer for the past 67 years, he was in his 76th year at the time of his death.

A member and former trustee of Johnstown United Church, he was educated at the Johnstown School.

He is survived by his daughter Mrs. Alfred (Jean) St. Hilaire of RR 5, Trenton, son Edward, at home, four grandchildren and one great-grandchild. His wife, the former Edna Mikel, predeceased him six years ago.

Resting at the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton, service will be conducted Thursday, Sept. 2 by Rev. Frank Hobbs of the funeral home chapel, 11 a.m. Interment will be in White's Cemetery.

OPP Constable Tom Hulme was the investigating officer.

Belleville Cheese Prices Lead to Milk Increase

Higher market prices for cheese on the Belleville Cheese Exchange will result in more money to Ontario farmers for milk used in processing cheddar, brick and colby cheese.

Ontario Milk Marketing Board announced Monday in Toronto an increase of 32 cents per hundredweight for milk used in processing the above cheeses, and 46 cents for milk used in specialty cheeses.

George McLaughlin, OMMB chairman said the increase — the second in two months — followed a review of cheddar cheese prices on the Belleville Cheese Exchange.

The price farmers will receive for 3.5 per cent milk used in cheese production will be $5.46 for cheddar, $5.51 for brick and colby, and $4.95 for specialty cheeses, effective Wednesday, Sept. 1.

Mr. McLaughlin said it was expected the new price increases will result in an increased daily price to all producers whose milk goes into manufactured dairy products of between 12 and 17 cents per hundredweight.

Producers of industrial milk will receive a blend price for milk produced in September in the range of 65 to 70 cents per hundredweight above the July blend price.

The July increases boosted milk for cheddar cheese from $3.99 per hundredweight to $6.14 which is now increased to $3.46 as result of the latest increase.

At the time of the July increase, Mr. McLaughlin said producer prices would be reduced by 32 cents per hundredweight in the light of present market conditions.

The National Farmers Union objected to the July increases of more than 25 per cent and called for a more gradual increase to about $5.75 per hundredweight.

Today in Belleville, Arnold Johnston, general manager of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board (Eastern Division) said that the price of cheese on the Belleville exchange last week was 6 cents higher than on the same date a year ago.

Today's price for square cheese was 70½ cents per pound as compared with 64½ cents per pound equivalent August date in 1970.

LRC

treal to Toronto running time.

"The LRC has enough motive power and reliability with the deisel engine and an equally sophisticated suspension that it can duplicate the performance of the Turbo," said Mr. Van de Water.

Situated at both the front and rear of each car in the train is a "truck suspension," that may impede from a truck monitor, will bank the car into a curve so that crushing speeds may be maintained.

The monitor, located at the front of the train, gauges the amount of banking, or leaning, of the car needed for the individual turn, and then sets the suspension to the requirement.

"On paper at least, the LRC seems more economical and gives equal performance to the Turbo," said Mr. Van de Water.

"The problem with the Turbo is that not enough time was set aside to properly test the machine before it was put into service. Designed to carry people to the Expo site, it was rushed through production and was not tested and proven in the manner that the LRC is being tested now," said Mr. Van de Water.

Much like the Turbo, the LRC is a concept that will have to be given a great deal of consideration before too much emphasis is placed on when it will be in operation.

"All we can say," said Mr. Van de Water, "is that on paper it seems to be a better train for the money than the Turbo proved to be. The location is not known, but testing is now being carried out in Quebec on the new train and perhaps the Turbo in the meantime will make a second debut."

Potter Discusses Plans for Youth

Quinte MPP Dr. Richard Potter outlined government youth programs and discussed a wide range of youth-oriented topics with area young people at an informal gathering in the Pinnacle Street Recreation Centre last night.

Just as youth is keen to experiment, he told his audience — that also holds true of a number of interested adults — the provincial government is experimenting with programs for the young.

The Ontario Youth Committee chairman told the gathering of various schemes initiated during the summer on a province - wide basis, particularly craft, art and music programs. He also recounted his experiences with the controversial Waches tent city, assessing those involved as generally well-behaved.

Organizers of Belleville's tent hostel told the Minister Without Portfolio that over 900 people had stayed at the hostel here without incident.

Potter said the province needs an expanded hostel network must be co-ordinated with the federal government and that studies are going on currently for such expansion, with particular attention being given to incorporating the advantages of European youth hostels.

Some members of the audience expressed the view that use of hostels by young people should not be free of charge - instead, it was said, they should pay or work for their keep.

Considerable attention was shown in the Ontario education system. Dr. Potter indicated that apprenticeship programs deserve review because of a substantial need for skilled tradesmen.

He suggested that education may not retain its priority in provincial government spending in the future and that loans, grants and scholarships may become increasingly hard to get.

Dr. Potter indicated that within the new year the advisory committee on youth (composed of young people) will be fused more closely with the government's youth committee so that young people themselves will be directly involved in the decision - making process of youth affairs.

Youth Guilty On Two Counts

A Belleville youth who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the Foxboro Co-Op May 31, was also found guilty of theft of a tape cartridge player and tapes from a car parked behind Fred's Hi-Fi on Front Street.

Assistant Crown Attorney Glen Deline, in presenting summary evidence, told the court Arnold Edward Slote, 17, of 61 Safe Blvd. broke into the Foxboro store after smashing a basement window and an interior door. Stone told police he used a sledgehammer in the unsuccessful attempt to smash into a floor safe, thereby causing $200.00 damage. He was going about his business, his unidentified accomplices stole approximately $65 in hardware tools.

OPP scuba diver Constable Garnett Brebner recovered one of these tools, an axe in a nearby quarry. The youth was arrested on May 31.

Following a special voir dire hearing in which Stone's statement admitting his guilt in theft of a tape deck, was heard, the accused told the court his statement to police was completely false, that he had not stolen the player.

Fred Hebden, owner of Fred's Hi-Fi, repudiated this denial with his testimony following the special hearing.

"I opened the back door (of my shop); it was teeming rain. I saw this fellow working on this young lady's car with the door open; he got out of the car and took out the tape player and put it in a brown paper bag. He went into the pool room and deposited the brown paper bag in the men's room." Mr. Hebden testified.

The witness said he checked with the owner, who works in a nearby beauty salon. He and the girl checked her car, which she had left unlocked, and found the window broken.

Police were called and Stone was arrested, referring to possible accomplices, Mr. Hebden said when the accused was apprehended, a young blonde man "took off like a bullet."

At this point, defence attorney Louis Maraskas agreed to accept the tape deck, recovered in the Uptown Billiards washroom, as the one having come from the car.

Mr. Maraskas offered no defence and the youth was found guilty, having pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was remanded until Sept. 16 while Judge T. Y. Wills studies a pre-sentence report.

John Emerson Morton was found guilty of speeding on Highway 2, July 30, and was fined $37 and $2.50 court costs. Police testified he was followed at speeds between 72 and 75 miles per hour and then at 60 miles per hour on the 40 mph stretch of Dundas Street West.

He was given two weeks to pay the fine. "If you didn't own the car, let him (the driver) pay. If he lets you drive it that way, collect it from him," he was told by Judge Wills.

A 16 - year - old Belleville girl pleaded guilty to a charge of theft at the Allied Towers Store on Highway 2 Aug. 21 and Aug. 23.

Marlene Michel, 16, of 56 North Park Gardens, picked up five jewellery records Aug. 21 and two days later, walked off with a pair of pants, two sweaters and a cloth shopping bag.

When the girl was asked if she had worked, she replied she has not had a job for at least three months.

She was remanded until Sept. 13 while her case is studied. Judge Wills observed, "she has no money to pay a fine. On the other hand she's just humming around, apparently."

The judge said the court would conduct "some check on her for her own protection."

Ferris Memorial Park Work Is to Continue

CAMPBELLFORD (Special) — A special meeting of Campbellford Municipal Council was called recently to discuss with representatives of the department of lands and forests for development of Ferris Memorial Park and also with Public Utilities Commission members regarding installation of water and sewer facilities for proposed campsites.

Previous to developing the park a master plan had to be prepared, land had to be purchased to increase the park area, surveys had to be made which included elevations, nature of riverbanks and waterfront and depths for safe swimming, roadways planned in relation to present highway systems. Artificial swimming areas are proposed because of some high river banks and deep water close to shore.

No water would be required for fire protection in the park because pumps were available in pump house from the river into any section of the park.

Fred Davidson of the department felt that preliminary work having been completed it was time to move ahead and develop the park to its full potential as funds become available.

The area of the park at present is 550 acres. It is planned to provide 324 camp-sites and when fully developed it could accommodate 1,000 persons in addition to the campers.

This fall a start will be made on a roadway into the park from the Campbellford-Stirling Road. The present entrance to the park would be closed to vehicular traffic but would remain open as a pedestrian entrance.

In regard to water and sewage, a six - inch water main was laid to the park entrance in 1969, a small plastic line continued into the park, now a four- or six-inch main will have to be laid in the park.

The PUC felt there should be no problem in expanding the service. A sewer will have to be installed from the present first pumping station to service three residences to the park gate and the department will carry the sewer and water on into the park at no expense to the municipality.

No definite time limit was set for completion of work at the park but improvements would be carried on as funds were made available.

Nixon Would Spread Government Offices

TRENTON (Staff) — If Robert Nixon is elected the next Premier of Ontario, he will initiate a massive dismantling of Queen's Park as the home of provincial administrative activity.

"We would move some government departments out of Queen's Park and shift them to other points in the province," the Liberal Party leader said in a press conference here Monday.

The concept of scattering the bureaucracy was expressed while Mr. Nixon sketched his party's plans for a decentralization of government.

Liberals would also reorganize the forms of administration, reducing the number of departments from 24 to a bare dozen largely through amalgamation of existing departments, he indicated.

Also in the process, the province would return powers to the municipalities so that "they will, for once, have a right to set their own goals."

The Opposition Leader said that, under present conditions, municipal governments are constantly being "second-guessed" by the department of municipal affairs.

To facilitate programming at the local level, he promised unconditional money grants to municipalities. Liberals would also remove some of the burden of education cost that are now borne directly at the municipal level.

The municipalities raise 45 per cent of the cost of education from property taxes. Under Liberals, the province would assume 80 per cent of the cost within four years — in 1975 — and 100 per cent, Mr. Nixon said.

He reiterated his party's promise to an extension of aid to the province's Roman Catholic Separate Schools to the end of Grade 12. Although the constitution provides for aid to the end of Grade Eight, he said "we must deal with the community the way it is now."

The Robarts Government had extended partial aid to Separate Schools to the end of Grade 10 but Liberals would include Grades 11 and 12 because junior matriculation is now in line with minimum education standards, he explained.

(Liberals would not extend aid to Grade 13 of the separate school system—they want to abolish it in both public and separate spheres).

Mr. Nixon told the local press "we would put a moratorium on all regional government plans now on the files of the department of municipal affairs."

Through regional government, he said, the cost of local administration in the Niagara region had climbed by 40 per cent in 17 months.

"The province must provide the financial arrangements that will ensure that, under regional government, the local government is worse off financially than it was before," he said, suggesting equalization grants and new tax structures as possible answers.

Questioned on Liberal transportation philosophy, he said the reason his party supported completion of Metro Toronto's Spadina Expressway to Eglinton Avenue was based on the fact the project had advanced so far.

"You just cannot throw $140 million down the drain" (a reference to money already spent) he said.

Although Liberals endorse partial completion of this expressway, Mr. Nixon pointed out the party is in substantial accord with the Davis government's decision to shift the transportation emphasis from super highways to mass transit systems.

"There is one salient difference," he said, "we have felt the emphasis should be changed since 1963."

On the subject of Ontario's government hearing of $25 million a year worth of mid-town Toronto office space, Mr. Nixon said arrangements for the leasing (to provide homes for such departments and agencies as the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, the department of consumer and commercial affairs) had been done without tenders and without explanation to the legislature. He said a Liberal government would institute a full investigation of the leasing policy.

Referring to the Davis government's "New Wave", the opposition leader called it "a product of the ingenuity of a large public relations staff."

He said the legislature had sat for six weeks examining government spending estimates before the wave of new legislation began. Commenting on two bills, he said that one of his own amendments to the new environmental bill that would place responsibilities on the government to sue polluters was turned down by provincial parliament, while on revised pit and quarry legislation 14 amendments were needed before the bill satisfied the assembly.

Mr. Nixon spent an hour in Trenton yesterday morning, discussing Liberal policies with the press and having lunch with local supporters, before leaving for Kingston and an evening speaking engagement at Alexandria.

REAL ESTATE

WHICH BUYER WILL PAY MOST FOR YOUR HOUSE?

ED McKINNEY J. McKINNEY Realty Ltd.

As a general rule of thumb, the one with the least cash.

The answer would be little funny if it weren't for the fact that most home owners require a high percentage of cash — sometimes the entire price in full — to meet other obligations.

The answer to this problem lies in the mortgage arrangements created by the Realtor. If the Realtor is well-connected in the money lending field with many different sources of finances available to him, the chances are good that he can find a solution to the client's and buyer's problems that will satisfy the needs of both.

Creative mortgage information changes daily. Institutions and individuals will be found to work and move off the money market temporarily, their place taken by other groups and individuals with mortgages just being paid out.

Who, where, when and how much form the basis of a capable Realtor's service. A successful transaction is often three-sided — the seller and buyer and the mortgagee — brought together by the work of the Realtor.

A Negative Report

Not content with wanting marijuana legalized the federal youth committee — its members, we suspect, still a little wet behind the ears — are out to dispense with such proven character builders as the cadets. Away with the cadets, says the committee, claiming they are outdated, and instead use the estimated $10 million a year they cost for social development programs.

Like what? Well there is a suggestion that a youth employment directorate be established, but what other development programs are recommended we don't know. Instead there is vague theorizing, such as this: Canadian young people "show every indication of joining in the great refusal taking place throughout the world . . . their confidence in the existing order is being undermined on two fronts: not only are they forced intellectually to challenge many of the values inherent in our society, but also the traditional motives or incentives for participation in the system are increasingly unavailable."

This is pure negativism . . . there is nothing in the report to suggest that the young are prepared to stand on their feet and work for a better society. Just vague talk about social development programs which likely as not would prove to be only vehicles for do-gooders.

Strangely enough the committee recommends disbandment of the Company of Young Canadians and we agree this would be no loss.

Notable besides the tender years of the committee — chairman David Hunter, a Toronto socialite is only 28 — is the fact that their views are based on interviews with some 10,000 Canadians between 15 and 24. Maturity then is not the principal ingredient of this report. Moreover, chairman Hunter betrayed some youthful sensitivity and lack of humor when asked if any of his committee had first-hand experience with drug usage. He suggested reporters who asked the question were rude and he accused them of sensationalizing the drug recommendations. Actually the latter speak for themselves, and they are not, we contend, based on mature judgments.

We do not want an end to the cadets for example. We need the cadets, and we need out-door training establishments similar, ironically, to the Boulder Bay prison camp in British Columbia where youths on charges associated with drugs, theft, breaking and entering and the like go through army-style training: obstacle courses, callisthenics, sports, rescue methods, life-saving, first-aid, rock-climbing and wilderness survival training. Just the kind of thing our young people should be getting, instead of a government-sanctioned licence to the "anything goes" syndrome.

Across the Curtain

Despite word of agreement to facilitate visits between east and west across the Berlin wall, the iron curtain separating the Communist world from the free atmosphere of western democracy still exists — so much so that efforts are still made to escape to the west.

A Munich report says that eight Czechs (a 23-year-old man, his 32-year-old woman companion, and six women aged between 18 and 36), as well as four East Germans (three men and a 19-year-old woman student) have all managed to cross Czechoslovakia in recent days.

We can sense the tension and excitement of it all, far from the soft and unchallenging life that confronts many of that age in this country. We wonder how these courageous young people made it across the heavily guarded frontier. Between Czechoslovakia and Bavaria there is the Bohemian Forest which could provide good cover; but then, what of the mines, patrols, watchtowers, barbed wire and all the other paraphernalia of the iron curtain. Freedom from all that entails great risks which these young people obviously have been prepared to take, and with happy results.

Tardy Mail

Mail service in these days of supposedly more efficient (not to mention costly) functioning continues to present a contrary image. Instead of about three days letters to Britain now takes up to a week. Similarly, an air mail letter to Australia or New Zealand can take ten days. This is nothing short of ridiculous, especially when you can get a letter here from those countries in three to four days, about the same as from Britain. What gives? Maybe the Postmaster-General has an explanation.

Ministerial Scene

The Day They Come to Chat with the P.M.

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Interesting to see the Great Men — the 30 members of the federal Cabinet, give or take a couple as the Prime Minister shuffles and reshuffles the ministerial assignments — when they come to the East Block Privy Council Chamber for their discussions and decisions on matters of state.

Each makes the approach in his own characteristic way.

As they stroll over the slopes of Parliament Hill from their Centre Block parliamentary offices, or tumble out of cabs or chauffeur - driven departmental cars rolling up from the mid-town high-rise administrative offices, each reflects his inner tensions.

Each displays his style of man.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, a crowd - pleaser in a class all by himself, already is there in the East Block, in his office 30 feet down the second floor corridor from the Privy Council Chamber.

He arrives early, before the tourists swarm in with their cameras and autograph books, postcards and bits of paper on which they beg him to scribble.

And most of the time, even in moments of Government crisis when the crunch is on, before the radio and television crews lay siege at the East Block door with their picket line of mikes and cameras.

So he slips out of his limousine, with its red phone mounted and secured just back of the chauffeur's seat, and darts through the door, past the sal-uting RCMP patrol and into the privacy of the 153 year-old stone building.

His exit is something else again.

Mob scene.

Mounties struggling to keep the surge behind the ropes which reach from the East Block door to his waiting limousine where the chauffeur stands alert to usher him into the rear seat, slide behind the wheel and take off.

There is time, usually, a moment or two, for the Prime Minister to "twinkle?" — and that's THE word for it — his eyes, and, enchant the crowd with that strange shy smile.

But he is special. Like no other Prime Minister. No Canadian PM of living memory. And that is a fact.

Watch the others though.

Some of them across is interesting.

Like the other day when the best in the Cabinet kitchen was so blistering high in the Canadian - American trade - tariff - surcharge crisis, it brought the Prime Minister blasting back from vacation.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson who had flown in overnight from what had been only a two-day holiday in Holland, putting down at Ottawa International Airport, in the middle of the night, looked fresh and unconcerned, six hours later as he ambled down the gentle slope from the Peace Tower to the East Block.

Sure he was rumpled. But is he not always?

Solid, though. Outwardly unshaken by the events in Washington that have been shaking this Government.

Looked comfortably confident. Probably was. Reassuring sight, Ben Benson.

His White Paper on Taxation may hang you up as it has so many other taxpayers — but give him this you must: he tries, he sweats to do the very best he can.

Of the 30-odd members of Cabinet, Ben Benson as Finance Minister was carrying, as is customary, the heaviest load of responsibility — except, of course, for the Prime Minister, who, at that critical point in time, having shrugged off his burden of responsibility was vacationing in Yugoslavia.

But Edgar Benson bore the weight with practised ease.

Finance Ministers must get that way — just possibly for purposes of self - preservation.

At the other pole of personality — in flamboyant contrast to unobtrusive Edgar Benson — was show-boating Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey.

Mackasey's sharp, silky suit, his shirt and tie were as vivid as Benson's were subdued.

The peacock and the sparrow.

Breathless, Bryce Mackasey bounced out of a cab and scooted up to the East Block door — but not until the taxi driver got out, came around and opened the door for him.

Then from half a block away, running up the sidewalk, came his secretary, an attractive lively young lady of some 35 summers who raced up to pay off the cabbie as her boss, uncaring, had sashayed up to the East Block door, trading "Hi-ya's" with the TV crews.

Bryce Mackasey is always on display, forever playing the part of the fey Irishman, as he did when he was a bright green topper salant his round and beaming face, in Montreal's annual St. Patrick's Day parade.

His performance, though, was far from concluded.

His Girl Friday still had to play out the charade.

After paying off the cab, she vanished, reappearing shortly behind the wheel of a yellow stationwagon. She parked it and waited in the hot afternoon sun for nearly three hours until Bryce Mackasey came waltzing out of the East Block, the Cabinet's emergency session done for the day, climbed into the wagon and was away with a wave and a big "Hiya" for one and all.

Should Police Have the Right to Strike?

Quebec Le Soleil: The city of Sydney, N.S., is learning, at its own cost, and especially at the cost of its taxpayers, what the policeman's right to strike is worth. In effect, as a result of legislation passed in 1969, this Maritimes city can today claim the doubtful honor of suffering the first legal strike by policemen in Canada.

While disorder increases everywhere, while mischief-makers go to it with happy hearts, while young motorcycle hoods paralyze the main streets, the police stand by with arms folded.

There is no question, it seems, of protecting property, no officer is assigned to traffic control, and the only calls bringing a response are emergency calls in which human beings are in physical danger.

There you have a capsule picture of what can happen when the "law" decide to be donkeys.

(The strike now has ended and the police are back on the job.)

Here in Quebec, we have only to remember the tragic occurrences of October, 1969, in Montreal, when anarchy quickly threatened to get out of the control of the forces of order. . . .

It remains useful to recall these events and to evaluate their occurrence in light of certain campaigns which exist in pressing for extension of the right to strike to our policemen.

In the event that such a right were given to our police officers, even with all the restrictions that could be brought into it, are we correct in supposing that the result could be otherwise? . . .

The policeman certainly has the right to be treated as a full citizen. . . . Perhaps for the very reason that he has special functions to fulfill, he should receive a special guarantee in the area of labor relations . . . such as to affirm the continuity and efficacy of the duties he fulfills.

On the other hand, an individual who wants to take on a role as decisive and weighty as that of a police officer, acquires by this very fact many privileges and extended powers that permit him, in some sense, to limit the liberty of citizens.

Is it not logical, then, that in return he agree to renounce certain privileges to guarantee the effectiveness of his task?

Critical Look at the Defence White Paper

Ottawa Journal

The White Paper on Defence is largely an exposition of the self-evident and a re-statement of the policies presented by Prim Minister Trudeau more than two years ago. The few new steps it announces could have been taken by the Government or by the Minister of Defence without the pretentiousness of a White Paper, even a remarkably short one by this administration's standards.

The freeze on defence spending could not last much longer, White Paper or not. The acquisition of new kinds of tanks or aircraft, is routine, if highly technical and expensive, business. The country did not really need a White Paper to proclaim that Canada's overriding defence objective is to prevent a nuclear war or to announce that NATO, NORAD and other collective security arrangements were still the best interests.

Yet the fundamental realism of the statement is reassuring. The isolationists and the neutralists have not prevailed. With its cold references to the possibility of an attack "from Soviet nuclear forces," the White Paper provides a necessary counter-point to Trudeau's Moscow - signed protocol.

But the Government should have dispensed with pompous, inflated statements such as this: "... Canada's resources, its territory, and its Armed Forces will be used solely for purposes which are defensive in the judgment of the Government of Canada." Even aggressors plead defensive purposes. Moreover, it is conceivable that the first line of the defence of Canada may be outside our borders. It has been for years.

There is this insufferably condescending sentence:

"The Government is therefore prepared to continue to allow U. S. Strategic Air Command (SAC) refuelling tankers to use Goose Bay; and SAC bombers will continue to be permitted to overfly Canada on training, alert in times of crisis, as determined by the Government."

Translation: "We are prepared to allow the Americans to defend us." How generous! Does the Government play out those little delusions of grandeur as a sop to our supernationalists?

The same sin of pride selfishness or plain stupidity leads to this effusion on UN peace-keeping:

"The Government will consider constructively any request for Canadian participation in peace-keeping when it is in opinion . . . an operation holds the promise of success . . ."

That sounds fine, but many a worthwhile UN operation can't dare hope for success, though it can control a fire or perhaps prevent one.

And then this:

"If asked to participate in such an operation, a major factor affecting the Government's design would be the existence of realistic forms of reference."

Such negative attitude is not worthy of this country's role in UN. Because UN has in find a majority to approve its terms of reference they have often to be built than "realistic," but even so they can be very much better than no authority at all.

As to our getting out of the Bomarc missiles: they are largely obsolete as the Americans no doubt know. If the realism Trudeau has shown in that decision had been shown towards our duty to face up to the uncertain but essential risks and responsibilities of peace-keeping we'd have little complaint with the Defence report.

Biblical Concepts

May I say a few words on the Jehovah's Witnesses for the benefit of Mr. Wallace or interested parties. Matt.: 5:44

It seems to me the Witnesses are on public discussion every time they go from house too house. Acts 20:20.

All anyone has to do to learn their belief is ask a Witness to study their home Bible study; there is no obligation to join for learning. Mark 13:10.

I have read their literature off and for years and finally checked my King James Bible. They made a lot of sense and so I had their New Bible study so I didn't have to take other people's word and I'm not sure what the Catholic church had gone to stood for; not the Ten Commandments or we wouldn't have wars.

No one has to guess at the Witnesses belief, just ask the next one that knocks at your door.

How about it Mr. Wallace? John 13:35

'International Monetary Speculators' Just Prudent Officers of U.S. Firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The phrase "international monetary speculators" conjures up an image of shadowy figures who ride the Orient Express, their luggage stuffed with fluctuating currencies and gold bullion.

In denouncing them for "waging all-out war on the American dollar," President Nixon said they are "not the working man, not the investor, not the real producers of wealth."

But if you're looking for one don't ride the Orient Express; try the 5:10 commuter train to Larchmont, N.Y.

Who are they?

"Some of the vast American corporations," replied A. James Meigs, a vice-president of First National City Bank of New York.

"The mark of a really sophisticated corporate treasurer today is to have been right on one of these big currency - rate changes, said Meigs in an interview. "It's like hitting a hole in one."

"Not that there is anything unusual about it," he added.

When someone hunting for a speculator thinks he's cornered one, he finds he has instead "a prudent corporate manager" — to use a corporation term.

An official for one of America's largest multinational corporations, who asked that he and the company remain anonymous, gave some examples of how his firm distinguishes between speculation and prudence.

"If we said the German mark looks strong and we double it next week, so let's buy marks, that would be pure speculation," he said. "We don't do that."

What his company and a lot of other multinationals do is enter into what are called forward contracts.

For example, he said, suppose an American company is buying $1 million worth of machinery from a German manufacturer, to be delivered and paid for in 90 days. "A prudent business manager ought to consider the exchange rate."

The American might examine the exchange rate of say, 3.5 marks for $1, and decide that in 90 days that dollar will only be worth three marks. In that case, he would enter into a forward contract under which payment would be at the 3.5-to-1 exchange rate.

Of course, he might guess wrong. Instead of dropping to three marks for $1, the rate might shift to four marks for $1, leaving his company stuck with a less-favorable rate.

Speculation?

"No," said the multinational executive. "Forward cover just fixes the dollar position. You have to look into the reason for the speculation."

John R. Petty, assistant secretary of the Treasury for international monetary affairs, said in an interview that a lot of things besides pure speculation affect the value of currencies.

"Someone who moves capital at times of great uncertainty, tends to compound that uncertainty," he said, including "individuals who see some chance for gain."

But actions by corporations such as changes in billing periods and forward contracts also can increase or diminish pressure on the dollar.

President Nixon served in on the money speculators in his Aug. 15 economic speech, Petty said, "because they thrive on crises, they help to create them."

How much of the pressure on the dollar can be attributed to speculators?

"Our figures don't lend themselves to a breakdown," said Petty. But, he added, all-international dealings, whether legitimate corporate transactions or pure speculation, have the same effect, create the same kind of pressures.

PC Team Scores Alberta Upset

A party leader "can never shrug off responsibility" in such a situation, he said.

Mr. Strom has served in the legislature since 1955 and indicated he will fulfil his responsibility as an MLA during the next four years.

Mr. Lougheed, who won personal re-election in Calgary West, paid tribute to the Social Credit movement for its "remarkable contribution" to the province.

"I believe Alberta is the best darn province in the world and we're going to keep it that way," he said.

Mr. Lougheed said it was probably take about two weeks to form his cabinet and indicated the first piece of Conservative legislation will be an Alberta Bill of Rights.

It has been a rags-to-riches story for Mr. Lougheed, who became Conservative leader 6½ years ago when the party did not have a single seat in the legislature.

Pushing the Conservatives as a credible alternative to Social Credit, he managed to build up Conservative strength to 10 at the dissolution of the last legislature.

In cutting a swath through the Social Credit cabinet, the Conservatives dropped Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart; Municipal Affairs Minister Fred Colborne; Ambrose Holowach, minister of culture, youth and recreation; Ethel Wilson, a minister without portfolio and the only woman in the last legislature; J. Donovan Ross, minister of lands and forests; A. O. Fitzrite, a member without portfolio; Ray Reierson, minister of labor and telephones; and Ray Ruzzlaff, minister of industry and tourism.

Two women, both Conservatives, made it into the new legislature—Catherine Chichak, a realtor and accountant in Edmonton Norwood, and Helen Hunley in Rocky Mountain House, where she has been mayor for the last five years.

The 30 Liberal candidates, including party leader Bob Russell in St. Albert, and three Independents were defeated.

Even Lougheed Surprised

same aircraft which flew outgoing Premier Harry Strom from Edmonton to Pincher Hat—Mr. Lougheed and his wife were met by a large crowd which surged around and made it difficult for him to get to a waiting car.

A path was made and a piped-and-drum group led the way, flanked by city police.

Excited, shouting supporters reached out to clasp his hand, slap him on the back and scream congratulations.

The Progressive Conservative leader said he will call the legislature into a fall session in future years, but he had no intention of calling one this year.

Mr. Lougheed declined to make any announcements about his cabinet, saying that he was excited and concerned that all five of his colleagues in the last legislature win re-election.

Asked about the leadership of the federal party, he reiterated he had no intention of becoming involved personally in the federal Progressive Conservatives.

Greek Ferry Captain to Be Questioned About Fire

BRINDISI, Italy (CP) — Greek ferry Captain Demetrios Antipas goes before an Italian prosecutor today to face interrogation about the disaster which overran his ship when it caught fire in the Adriatic Saturday.

Twenty-five passengers died in the tragedy, and Antipas, 43-year-old master of the 11,400-ton car ferry Heleanna, has been accused of multiple manslaughter. There were 1,150 survivors.

The arrest warrant, signed Monday by Dr. Aldo Perrone, Brindisi's deputy public prosecutor, also accuses Antipas of allowing his ship to be overloaded and having inadequate safety equipment.

Determining exactly how many people were on board the ill-fated ferry, reported to be one of the biggest of its type in the world, has become one of the most complicated aspects of the investigation into the disaster.

Col. Osorio Carlesimo, chief of Brindisi port authority, announced discovery of a certificate issued at Piraeus, Greece, May 27 stipulating the ship could carry a maximum of 620 persons, including crew. Italian authorities said at least 1,175 persons were on board the ferry, while her owner in Athens put the total at 1,128.

The acting Greek consul in Brindisi said, however, that another certificate allowing a total of 1,200 was in its way from Athens when the disaster struck.

Antipas said before he was arrested the ship could carry 1,300.

The Greek marine ministry came to the defence of the operators and crew of the Heleana Monday night, maintaining that the ship met the highest international shipping standards and the crew performed well during the emergency.

As well as interrogating Antipas, Deputy Public Prosecutor Perrone is scheduled today to make the first judicial inspection of the charred hulk of the Heleanna, which was towed, still billowing smoke, into the harbor here Monday.

Italian authorities are continuing an indefinite air and sea search for victims, with some unofficial reports putting the number of passengers still unaccounted for at 16.

Catholic Schools May Speed Study

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Roman Catholics may devise a high school program that would complete the four-year course by Grade 10 if the provincial government refuses to support their school system to Grade 12, a trustee said Monday.

Dr. Nick Mancini of Hamilton, president of the Ontario Separate School Trustees Association, told 200 Catholic education-ists that a curriculum might be devised whereby a student could get the necessary 27 credits for high school graduation in two or three years.

Dr. Mancini also said Ontario Roman Catholics have "ample reason" to believe that the government wants to abolish separate schools by ignoring them.

Dr. Stuart E. Rosenblatt, chairman of the Ontario committee for government aid to Jewish day schools, said in a statement his committee believes that Premier Davis and his cabinet will not be influenced by opponents to religious education.

"We believe that the cabinet will recognize that minorities in Ontario have equal rights and that children of religious parents should not be discriminated against."

Pepin Consults Businessmen

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin has called a special meeting Thursday of his 43-member advisory council of Canadian businessmen to discuss the recently-imposed United States import surcharges.

Also invited to the meeting are the heads of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Canadian Export Association and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

U.S. Post-freeze Program To Be Sketched in Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first outline of President Nixon's post-freeze economic program will be unveiled by the end of September, but it may be weeks later before it takes final form.

A group headed by Herbert Stein, a member of Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, will be ready by the end of the month with recommendations on what should follow the freeze, administration officials said. The recommendations then will be submitted to the Cost of Living Council.

The council, headed by Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, will shape the recommendations for President Nixon.

Quier than to say the wage-price program after the freeze must contain some form of control, administration officials have carefully avoided details of what will result.

"It's too early now to prejudge what Phase 2 will be," Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, told the joint congressional economic committee Monday. He said it would be a "little less severe than the freeze we have at the present time," but "it will have to be something with some clout," wages, prices and rents, announced Aug. 15, expires Nov. 13.

McCracken refused to say whether profits would be considered in the post-freeze restraints, but added that the only way profits could be approached is through "a tax route." A ban on profits, however, would weaken incentive in the economy, he said.

As a result of Nixon's economic program, McCracken said, 500,000 jobs will be created and Gross National Product—output of goods and services—will increase an additional $15 billion next year.

Orangeville Rock Festival Called Social Disaster for Area Residents

TORONTO (CP) — A rock festival in the Orangeville area last July was a "social disaster to all those who normally live here", Ontario Chief Justice Dalton Wells said Monday.

In a 27-page judgment, Justice Wells gave reasons for granting an injunction last week which stopped promoter James Atwood Hill from using his rock Hill Park property, 50 miles northwest of here, for a festival during the Labor Day weekend.

The injunction was sought by the attorney-general's department on the grounds that the festival would be detrimental to public interest.

The chief justice said there was no real evidence of extensive use of drugs at the July festival, but added that some method for coping with the sale and use of drugs at such festivals should be devised.

"As far as the police are concerned, although I may have seemed critical of their action, I question whether any concerted effort on their part might not have produced rioting and attacks on them for which they were not equipped to handle. I do not think that in this instance they can be particularly criticized in respect of what went on here.

The chief justice added that banning this particular festival should not be taken as a general condemnation of all rock festivals. Each must be measured on its facilities and organization, he said.

Following Mr. Hill's first rock festival in July, which drew about 6,000 people, local residents complained about noise, inconvenience to the neighborhood and health problems.

An Aug. 1 festival Mr. Hill had intended to hold was also blocked by an injunction.

Belleville's First School Of Modelling to Start Classes

By SUSAN KORAH
Women's Reporter

"Body movements are extremely important", said tall, reed-slim Juliana Van Dongen, directress of the London of England Modelling Academy in her opening talk on deportment and make-up that officially launched Belleville's first fully fledged school of modelling.

"Don't slouch or let your back touch the back of your chair" she continued in her Australian - accented voice as she demonstrated to a group of attractive would-be students, the correct technique of sitting down. Her slender body, clad in a black hooded caftan was an attractive arrangement of graceful lines as she showed the girls how to sit, stand and walk in smooth, gliding movements that give an impression of being perfectly natural and uncontrived.

Later, Miss Van Dongen demonstrated the importance of make-up in transforming a woman's face from attractive to irresistibly beautiful, using a member of the audience, Mrs. Phyllis Reeve as a model.

Earlier, Mayor Russell Scott gave a brief message wishing the new venture success and commending the management for realizing the need for well groomed and socially poised career girls and housewives in this community and for setting out to fill a gap in the education system.

In an interview with The Intelligencer, which was conducted prior to the opening, Sandra Saunders, director of the Belleville branch of the London of England Modelling Academy explained that the course is open to women of all age groups and all walks of life. The first class will be on Thursday, September 2 she said.

Primarily, the school will offer a finishing course, she said, which will include deportment, make-up and hair styling, figure control through exercise and an effective diet program, social graces and business etiquette and wardrobe planning. These will be useful to any woman, pointed out Miss Saunders, regardless of her life style or career plans, but out of this finishing course, many professional models are born, she said.

Here, Miss Clementine Chilvers, an executive director of the Academy, joined the conversation. Miss Chilvers, a former fashion and photographic model with dramatic eyes and an extremely expressive face, remarked that in addition to achieving a high standard in all the subjects taught at the Academy, a professional model would also have to have certain other qualifications such as a height of at least 5' 6", well-set eyes, good bone structure and good hair.

Asked what opportunities are available for professional models, Miss Saunders, whose apple green gown set off effectively her blonde good looks replied that there are opportunities for fashion modelling in stores in Toronto and Montreal and hopefully in Belleville too in the near future, with all the new stores that have opened recently.

Miss Saunders continued that classes at the Academy which is located at 310 Church Street would be on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7.30 to 10 p.m. Each course would last two months and would be composed of up to 10 lessons. The classes would be divided into age groups so that the students would have something in common, she said

Teaching at the Belleville school will be Miss Saunders and Miss Joan Bryan, another assistant directress of the Academy. Juliana Van Dongen will be coming up from Toronto to lend a helping hand before she leaves for England shortly to study the latest developments in this field.

The school has appropriately equipped rooms for teaching various subjects and Miss Saunders will direct affairs from her beautifully furnished office. The decor consists of a deep purple carpet contrasting brilliantly with the dazzling white of the furniture and set off by the pale mauve and lilac walls and curtains.

The Magic of Make-up

Juliana Van Dongen, directress of the London of England Modelling Academy, Toronto, demonstrates the art of make-up on Mrs. Phyllis Reeve at the opening of the Belleville branch of the Academy on Monday night. One of the top graduates of the Toronto Academy Miss Sandra Saunders has been chosen to direct the course in Belleville which starts on September 2.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Plum Pie to Reward Dieters

By MARY MOORE

At another house there were three for dinner. At my house there were two. So one pie was shared between two homes and telephone calls ensued.

I had left two-thirds of the fresh plum pie I had made on the kitchen counter of my sisters' home when they were out, with a note asking "Is this pie sweet enough?" For them it was. Their guest sprinkled on a little more sugar. So did we at my house. So I have given optional amounts of sugar in the list of ingredients.

FRESH PLUM PIE (10")

Pastry:
2 cups stirred but unsifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. salt
2-3 cup shortening
2½ tbsps. butter
2½ tbsps. cold water

Plum Filling:
5 cups washed, quartered, stoned yellow plums (one heaped up quart)
¾ to 1 cup granulated sugar
2½ tbsps. minute tapioca
¼ tsp. cinnamon

To make the pastry cut the shortening and butter into the flour and salt with pastry blender until size of small peas. Drizzle water over, tossing with fork until you can pack the dough into a ball between your palms. Roll out half on floured board to fit 10" pie plate.

(Note: It took me 20 minutes to remove the stones from the freestone plums.)

To make Filling combine all filling ingredients in large bowl and mix well. Turn into pastry-lined pie plate. Roll out remaining pastry and gash at centre. Cover filling with it and seal pastry edges. Brush top with mixture of 1 tbsp. each milk and sugar mixed. If desired, protect edges of pastry with long fold of foil.

Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 10 min. then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 min. longer or until juices begin to bubble through gashes. This pie should rest for at least 3 hrs. before cutting to allow filling to set.

Incidentally it was a delicious reward to four reducers who had managed to lose 8 lbs. between them in a month.

Ann Landers Agrees with Motto 'Forgive and Forget'

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are probably fed up with letters from women who want to respond to Infantryman's Wife — the gal whose husband carried on an affair with an Army nurse the whole time he was in Vietnam, but please read one more.

I am married to a serviceman who is now in Vietnam. All I want is for him to come back alive and whole. I wouldn't dream of asking him what he did over there. This might sound awful, but I wouldn't care what he did. It's not important. War is a dehumanizing, brutalizing experience. When a man is 13,000 miles from home he is capable of behaving in a manner completely out of character. A normal male has physical needs. An Army nurse has physical needs, too. And it seems, to me that she would be a much safer choice than some tramp on a bar stool.

You probably won't print this letter because it runs counter to the Puritan ethic on which your column is based, but I just wanted you to know that I agree wholeheartedly with your "forgive and forget" philosophy and I especially liked your line, "War is hell and a man doesn't need any more hell when he gets home." More power to you, Ann. Hang in there, Doll. — I'LL GIVE MINE HEAVEN.

DEAR HEAVEN: Here's your letter and my thanks for writing it. Drop me a line when your man gets home. I'd love to know he made it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your reply to "Infantryman's Wife" should be printed on cards and attached to every marriage license. It should also be reproduced, framed and hung over every marriage bed. In case you've forgotten, an irate reader called you a traitor to your sex because you told the wife whose husband had cheated on her, "Forget it." That same woman wrote again to say, "What do you mean, forget it? How can a tortured, miserable wife put something like that out of her mind? She is not a machine. She's a heart-broken wreck who has been betrayed, lied to and double-crossed!"

Your answer was beautiful, Ann. You said: "O.K., don't forget it. Remember it. Harp on it. Keep him up nights. Make him suffer. Get even with the rat. After a while you'll notice he is no longer defending himself against your tirades. He'll become quieter and quieter. One day it will be so quiet around your house you won't be able to stand it. He'll be gone."

No, I am not an Infantryman's Wife, but I, too, was a jealous, suspicious woman. When my husband dared speak to another female I sulked, pouted, stayed up half the night crying and accusing him of everything under the sun.

O yes, we kissed and made up after I got the anger out of my system, but he became quieter and less communicative as I beat him into submission.

Tonight it is so quiet in this house I can't bear it. He is gone. No, he didn't walk out on me. he died. Today is the first anniversary of his death. How odd that I should have read that particular column today. It's too late for me, Ann, but it might not be too late for somebody else. I hope you get through to those foolish, immature women who kill the most precious thing in their lives. — ONE WHO DIDN'T KNOW WHAT SHE HAD 'TIL SHE LOST IT.

DEAR FRIEND: Thank you for writing. I hope it helped. Unfortunately the words of Omar Khayyam seem ready appropriate — "Nor all your piety nor wit shall have it back to cancel half a line, nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

Successful Living

It Takes Courage To Admit A Mistake

By DORIS CLARK

One of Confucius' most famous sayings is that "a man who has made a mistake and doesn't correct it is making another mistake".

It is pretty natural to fish around for an alibi or try to find an excuse for something you've done wrong. But it does a lot to cement friendship if you are able to say, "I was wrong that time. So glad you drew it to my attention!"

All of which reminds me of just how disagreeable it can be when a person insists that what they have said is right and nobody else could possibly know better. A teacher I admired used to say, "Everybody makes mistakes. That's why they put rubbers on pencils." Made me feel good when I had pulled a boner.

Don't be afraid to admit it when you're wrong. So who's perfect?

* * *

Dear Doris: When we came in at 10.45 p.m. my son's girl was with my son sitting on the bed in his room. When I objected he said that we only care what the neighbors think or that we don't trust him. They are both 18.

I feel uneasy about this permissive way of living, and perhaps my main concern is for our 15 - year - old boy who will tend to see his brother's actions as being o.k.

Some of our friends are having trouble with their children going to live in apartments with girl friends, and I'm wondering if it starts like this? Remember the days when you thought that when children were 18 they would at least be off your mind? — Perplexed Mother.

Dear Perplexed: It's not a question of trust nor the neighbors. Customs were built up to help meet situations, and that's the case with this one.

Your boy may indeed have invited his girl to his room in all innocence. In the living room, anybody can interrupt, or sit down with them and listen to conversation. Not that anything they discuss is so weighty; but the teens are self-conscious years and they don't like to be listened to. So much for his excuse.

Deep down, he will know it is fair if you invite him to visit with his girl in the living room, promising you will not interrupt them unduly.

* * *

Dear Doris: You wrote about a home in Regina where elderly people could go and meet together and pool their ideas and time in meeting others. Would you please tell me where this is in Regina?

I have an 86 - year - old lady who would just love anything in this line and who gets awfully lonely. — Regina Reader.

Dear Regina: This day care center is going on at Central Park Lodge, a residence for senior citizens with a full-blown program of care and recreation. The residents welcome their daily visitors and miss them when they don't turn up.

The address is 4125 Ray Street, Regina. I am sure the director would take an interest in your lady, if you could see that she gets there, one way or another.

I am hoping this experiment in day care for seniors will inspire other locations to do likewise.

County High Schools Brace for Student Rush

Students in Hastings county schools have only one more week of holidays left before classes start again Sept. 7 for another year.

But senior personnel is on the job already, preparing for the influx next week.

Not the least of the problems of secondary school principals is the task of squeezing a burgeoning enrolment into existing buildings originally constructed for fewer students.

Tightest squeeze will be at Quinte Secondary School, expecting an enrolment of 1,400 this year. This is about 70 more than last year in a building rated for 1,200 students.

For portables and a double portable for an art room will be moved to the school to accommodate the extra students. Quinte will have 82 teachers when school opens, four more than last year.

On the other side of the city, Moira will have five portables in use, including a double portable for a music room. Its enrolment is 1,100 but this year there will be 1,145 students and 65 teachers in the school. Moira will also have its largest grade 13 on record, about 145 students. About 110 is the normal number in grade 13, but more students, unable to find jobs, are returning to take grade 13 this year.

BCI will have 60 more students this year than last, to bring its enrolment to 1,000. It will add one teacher for a total of 57.

Centre Hastings is the only school with about the same enrolment this year as last. It will have about 1,200 students for the second year in the new addition that doubled the capacity of the school.

Trenton High School will operate under the greatest disadvantage of all, at least until January. It will have two schools, Trenton and Bayside, running under one roof. Trenton's 1,900 students will attend Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 to 5 and Fridays from 8:30 until 12:45. Bayside's 700 to 800 students will attend all day on Tuesdays, Thursdays and afternoon on Friday. Trenton will have 75 teachers and Bayside 40.

Bayside's students are scheduled to move into their new school in January, and so far construction is running on schedule.

With the opening of Bayside in borrowed quarters, Centennial's seven portables are gone. Its enrolment is down from 1,250 to about 1,200 with the transfer of some of its grade 9, 10 and 11 students to Bayside.

Grade 13 and 13 enrolment at Centennial will be high this year in proportion to the total size of the school because Centennial will retain its senior students from the areas served by Bayside for another two years. The number of teachers is down from 85 last year to 70 this year.

Milk Price Hike Seems Inevitable

The producer price to farmers supplying the fluid milk trade will be increased by 20 cents a hundredweight tomorrow (Sept. 1) and some Toronto distributors have announced a retail price boost.

But in Belleville at least one dairy is going in for a "wait and see" attitude before any price change is made.

"We are too small to take a lead," said Armin Quickert, manager of Silver Spring in Belleville. "We'll hold off until some of the larger distributors make a move."

At the same time, however, Mr. Quickert expected that all dairies would make some adjustment in the price of milk.

J. J. Spencer, manager of Brookside - Price's Dairy in Belleville, was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

In Toronto, Silverwood's Dairy said that milk would be increased by three cents a three quart jug.

Other Toronto dairies said retail prices would go up but the increase would be announced later.

Suppliers to city dairies received a 20 cents a hundredweight increase last March at which time the milk marketing board said a second increase of a similar amount would be given in the summer.

The latest producer increase for bottle trade milk brings the farmers price to $7.05.

Young Cuban Still Swiftest of CORK's Snipe Sailors

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Two years and seven races after he entered it, Augustin Diaz of Miami is yet to be defeated in the Canadian Olympic-training Regatta.

"I guess I'm the fastest here in the Snipes," said the 17-year-old Cuban emigre Monday after sailing to his second straight victory in the Snipe division.

Last year Diaz, who captured his first race and settled for a third, but came back to win the next five and easily captured the North American open champi-onships at CORK.

Diaz, who also sails Finn and Flying Dutchman, began sailing when he was seven years old.

He placed third in the nation-als and won a silver medal re-cently at the Pan-American Games in Cali, Colombia, and says the competition is "better here than last year."

Winds Monday made sailing tricky as they swelled to 18 miles an hour to tail off to 10 miles an hour by the time Diaz won his first race.

Peter Bateman of Southamp-ton, Eng., the Fireball class' steadiest performer said:

"We race better upwind. I don't know why we are so quick. It's nothing special."

Bateman, North American open winner and the only non-American to win one of the 11 classes at CORK, has sailed to two straight victories here and is almost assured of retaining his title.

Bateman said the "nothing special" involved "cutting his own sails." He had to add a wood edge to bring his boat, a new glass-fibre sloop, up to the regulation length.

Despite the fine showing so far, crewman Hamish Ferguson of Calgary, thought he and Bateman made "a couple of wrong moves" Monday.

Fireball is one of the more popular two-man class boats at this year's CORK. There were 82 other Fireball entries in the event, designed to give Cana-dian sailors top international competition in preparation for the 1972 Munich Olympics and the 1976 Games in Montreal.

More than 600 boats are com-peting at the third annual CORK, which began with 313 en-tries in 1969 on a trial basis.

Six races in each class are scheduled to end Friday and competitors are allowed to count their best five for the var-ious class titles.

Craig Thomas, formerly of Washington state and now living in Auckland, N.Z., won his first two O.K. Dinghy races this year, a repeat of his perform-ance last year.

However, last year he dropped behind in later races and finished second behind North American champ Gary Carlin of Long Beach, Calif.

Carlin, sailing the one-man Finn boat this year "because it is an Olympic class," slipped to a fourth Monday after placing a close second in Sunday's sailing.

Both Finn races this year went to Dick Tillman of Charleston, S.C.

Peter Wright, 18, with his 63-year-old father Bill, took their second straight Star-class vic-tory while hometown favorite Harry Jerome retained his lead in the International 14 class despite slipping to a sec-ond-place finish. Jerome, 31, met has only three points against him since the first race Sunday, which he won.

Former Canadian Olympic sailor, Roger Green of Toronto, moved into solid contention in the Flying Dutchman class Monday with a victory over P. J. Hyslop of Vancouver who placed second in both races so far. Chris Chelsea of Wilmette, Ill., who won Sunday's race, fell back into third Monday and is tied with Jerome for the point lead in that division.

The Tornado class is also tied. Larry Woods of Port Dover, Ont., won the first race after a third on Sunday while Brian Paircroman of Montreal took a third Monday after a first Sun-day.

Alex Wants Back

DETROIT (AP) — Alex John-son, the 26-year-old outfielder suspended from California Ang-els baseball team, will cite emotional problems to seek reinstatement with the club at a hearing in Detroit today, his lawyer says.

Johnson, the 1970 American League batting champion, was suspended for 30 days July 26 without pay after the Angels charged "he did not give his best effort toward the winning of games."

Prior to his suspension, he was fined 29 times for a total of $3,700 by club manager Lefty Phillips for such things as not running out ground balls and missing practice.

Johnson, in turn, accused the Angels of racism and accused a player of threatening him with a gun.

When the maximum 30-day suspension ran out, baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn placed Johnson on a "restricted list" which, in effect, prevents him from playing any more ball this year.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association and Johnson's legal representa-tive on the three-man hearing board, said if the incidents were due to emotional reasons, "then the fines and suspensions were all wrong and he should be placed on the disabled list."

Johnson also was expected to testify in addition to at least two psychiatrists.

Miller also said: "It would be better for everyone concerned if he (Johnson) went to another team."

CAUGHT IN RUNDOWN — Trapped between third and home, Montreal Expos' runner John Bateman (2) is tagged out by Chicago Cubs' third baseman Ron Santo (10) who took throw from catcher Chris Cannizzaro (43) in third inning Monday in Chicago. Play started when Expos' Boots Day bounced in front of the plate and Cannizzaro grabbed it. (AP Wirephoto)

Bailey's Belt Cinches Expo Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Bailey belted a three-run homer Mon-day and pitcher Steve Renko added a two-run blast, powering Montreal Expos to a 6-2 victory over sagging Chicago Cubs.

Renko, 13-13, began the eighth inning with a five-hit shutout. But an error, Glenn Beckert's second homer of the year and a two-out double knocked the Montreal starter out.

Mike Marshall took over to stifle the Cubs, handing them their seventh defeat in nine games. Bill Hands, 10-17, took the loss.

Rusty Staub began the Expos' four-run sixth inning with a leadoff double and scored on Ron Fairly's single. Jim Fairey then beat out a bunt before Bai-ley crashed his 13th homer over the field wall.

In the eighth, Bailey singled and moved to third on a sacri-fice and an error by Don Kes-singer on John Bateman's grounder. Renko, missing an at-tempted squeeze bunt that ended with Bailey being tagged out in a rundown, then drilled his second homer of the season over the left field bleachers off reliever Bill Bonham.

Red Sox Owner Says Even Yaz Expendable

BOSTON (AP) — Tom Yawkey, owner of slumping Boston Red Sox, said Monday that energy player on the club, including high-salaried slugger Carl Yastrzemski, is available for trade.

"Under the circumstances . . . I cannot say anybody on the team is not up for trade if the right deals come along," sports columnist Larry Claflin quoted Yawkey as saying.

Yawkey made the statement when asked whether the Red Sox would consider trading Yas-trzemski, who is gripped in the worst slump in his 11 seasons in Boston.

Yastrzemski, 32, signed a three-year contract for a re-ported $500,000 last spring and has been regarded as one of baseball's favorite players.

General manager Dick O'Connell said after signing Yaz to the rich agreement in March that "you don't trade a player of Yastrzemski's calibre."

Asked about Yawkey's state-ment Monday, O'Connell said:

"Mr. Yawkey feels that trades are part of baseball.

A three-time American League batting champion, Yas-trzemski has slipped to a .259 average with only 14 homers and 64 runs-batted-in this year. He hit .329 with 40 homers and 102 RBI last season.

The Red Sox, just 2½ games out of first place in late July, have slipped to third in the American League east, 14½ games behind the front-running Baltimore Orioles.

Hexed Owner Scratches Hambletonian Favorite

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — A fa-vorite who didn't get into the race and drankknown who got in after post positions were drawn may help shape the outcome of the 45th annual Hambletonian Trot at the Du Quoin State Fair Wednesday.

Heavily-backed Noble Gesture was held out of the race by owner K. D. Owen of Houston, Texas, making the unofficial handicappers' job easier. But still they must contend with four prime favorites.

The unusual addition of An-chor Boy, six hours after the entry box was closed", appar-ently poses no problem for the odds-makers—at least on the basis of the colt's past record.

Owen entries appear to be victims of a Hambletonian jinx. He has had 16 horses in the trot classic since 1951. Other than Speedy Streak's win in 1951,) fourth is the best he has done.

Owen's Uncle Sam was the race favorite in 1960. He was 11th in the summary.

Noble Victory was considered an almost certain winner in 1965. He finished sixth. The next year, on the same Du Quoin track, he set a world's record of 1:55 3-5. The mark still stands.

Several hours after the draw in Du Quoin, tumblestone offi-cials discovered an entry for Anchor Boy was laying in their mail box in Lexington, Ky.

Swinging, Stealing

Wild Night for Nats

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a wild night in the Na-tional League Monday for Lou Brock of St. Louis, Willie Craw-ford of Los Angeles and Billy Wilson, Tim McCarver and Wil-lie Montanez of Philadelphia.

When everything had returned to normal, the Cardinals had edged the New York Mets 3-2, the Dodgers nipped Houston by the same score, Pittsburgh turned back the Phillies 6-4, Montreal whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-2 and Cincinnati split a pair with San Diego, winning 2-1 and losing 4-3.

San Francisco and Atlanta were not scheduled.

Brock stole his 50th and 51st bases of the season against the Mets, setting a league record of seven years with 50 or more steals.

With the Cardinals trailing 2-0, Brock singled with one out in the third and Ted Sizemore beat out a bunt. Brock then led the way on a double steal, getting such a big jump that there was no throw. Julian Javier singled both runners home.

In the fifth, Brock singled, stole second and raced to third on Jerry Koosman's wild pick-off throw but was stranded. He singled for the third time with two out in the seventh, took a wide turn and continued to sec-ond on left fielder Cleon Jones' poor throw. Brock advanced to third on Sizemore's infield hit and scored the winning run when Koosman uncorked a wild pitch.

The Los Angeles-Houston fire-works occurred in the first in-ning. Crawford objected to two close pitches from Ken Forsch and started for the mound, only to be intercepted by catcher Jack Hiatt. The two exchanged words and then began swinging, exchanging several punches. Crawford pulled Hiatt's shirt and Hiatt had a spike wound on his right and a bruised shin.

Philadelphia's Montanez was fined $100 by umpire Mel Stei-ner for throwing his helmet after being called out on strikes in the fourth inning, and that was just the beginning.

Steiner ejected catcher Tim McCarver in the sixth after pinch hitter Willie Stargell drew a walk that loaded the bases with the Phillies in front 4-3. Relief pitcher Bill Wilson then charged the plate and had to be restrained by several players.

LOU BROCK

Roberto Clemente promptly singled to put the Pirates ahead and Manny Sanguillen singled for an insurance run. Wilson was replaced by Joe Hoerner and had to be wrested to the ground by about seven players as he left.

In peaceful contests, Bob Bai-ley hit a three-run homer and pitcher Steve Renko belted a two-run shot to pace the Expos over the Cubs. Glenn Beckert connected for the losers, who dropped eight games behind Pittsburgh and three in back of St. Louis in the National League East.

Lee may's eighth-inning ho-mer-his 37th-enabled the Reds to take their opener from the Padres. But Clarence Gaston doubled home the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning of the nightcap to give San Diego a split.

Individual Ottawa Efforts Look Better Than Collection

TORONTO (CP) — One curious aspect of Ottawa Rough Riders' losing performance in the Eastern Football Conference this season is that Ottawa players are at or near the top of most of the division's offensive statistics.

The Riders' Hugh Oldham is the top Eastern pass receiver and finds himself among the EFC scorers and quarterback Gary Wood is the leading passer.

Ottawa halfback Dennis Duncan is second only to Leon McQuay of Toronto Argonauts in rushing while Wood is fourth in that race behind Montreal Alouette Moses Denson.

The Rough Riders, of course, have had more opportunities to pick up yardage in their six games, compared to five played by Toronto and only three each by Montreal and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Ottawa, however, has won only two games behind the passing of Wood who has hit on 68 of 124 attempts for 958 yards and nine touchdowns. That doesn't include the Canadian Football League's longest pass completed this season—100 yards by Ottawa backup pivot Rick Casata to Oldham in their match with Toronto Aug. 19.

Second in the passing race is Toronto's Joe Theismann with 39 of 81 completed for 747 yards and six touchdowns. And like Wood, Theismann has had seven throws intercepted.

Oldham has caught 18 passes for 430 yards, well ahead of Toronto's Mel Profit with 14 for 292. And only Dave Granmer of the Argos has a better average with 26.1 yards from nine catches for 235 yards. Oldham's average is 23.9 yards.

McQuay, the explosive Toronto halfback, is still the EC's leading ground-gainer, logging 560 yards in 67 carries. Duncan has run for 385 yards in 71 tries.

Denson has made 50 runs for 283 yards, Wood 30 for 213 and Theismann has hung on 20 times for 197 yards.

McQuay's six touchdowns still top the EFC scoring race with Argo place-kicker Ivan MacMillan a close second with 21 points from 15 converts, six field goals and two singles. The scoring leaders:

Denson on Sidelines

MONTREAL (CP) — Halfback Moses Denson, who suffered torn tendons in his left ankle in last Wednesday's 12-8 win over Hamilton Tiger-Cats, will be out of the Montreal lineup tonight when Montreal Alouettes engage Hamilton in a rematch at Molson Stadium.

Denson was placed on the Alouettes' suspended list late Monday while Ron Massey was brought off the suspended list.

The Alouettes can recall him at any time.

Since it is unlikely his injury will take long to heal, it is better to put the fleet halfback on the suspended list rather than the 30-day injury reserve list.

Massey was suspended at the start of the season for failing to report a pinched nerve in his neck during his camp-opening physical. The 6-foot, one inch, 223-pound halfback had a 6.1 yard rushing average with the University of Hawaii last year.

Hamilton will be looking for its first win in the Autostade since the Alouettes moved there from McGill Stadium in 1968.

In nine meetings with Montreal during regular CFL play at the Autostade, Hamilton has managed one point—as 18-18 tie here last November.

The Tiger-Cats will have two new faces in the lineup tonight to replace two who were given their releases after being charged with possession of marijuana.

Running back Frank Quayle and defensive halfback Gig Perez are replaced by Jim Worster and defensive halfback Seth Miller who were released on waivers Friday.

Youngster Aces in Third Round

KITCHENER (CP) — Nine-year-old Scott Krueger of Kitchener, making only his third tour of a golf course Sunday, scored a hole-in-one on the sixth hole.

Using a set of old clubs with shafts cut down the youngster shot a 99 on the par-58 course.

His mother, Helen, shot a 101.

The boy said he started playing golf three weeks ago and had made only two nine-hole tours before sinking his ace with a 72-yard shot.

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Feagan added three victories Monday night at Greenwood raceway, bringing his record this season here to 30.

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — John Lotz of Hayward, Calif., registered his first major victory Monday by winning the $50,000 Concord open golf tournament with a four-round total of 289, one over par.

Lotz, the younger brother of tour regular Dick Lotz, earned $12,000 for beating Jim Wiechers and R. H. Sikes by two strokes.

Kicker Sticks To Politics

MONTREAL (CP) — George Springate, the place-kicking Quebec politician, will make his last appearance in a Montreal Alouette uniform when the Grey Cup champions meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats here tonight.

Springate, 33, who joined the Alouettes mid-way through last season, will vacate his position on the club roster for one of the returning injured Canadian players. Both tight end Peter Dalla Riva and guard Pierre Desjardins are almost recovered from knee surgery and one of some kind has to be made.

"... I've come to the conclusion that one of the ones to leave should be me," Springate said in an interview.

"After all, I came to this team last year when I felt they needed me as a kicker, and when that's over, I should be the first to admit it ..."

"I think it's kind of fitting that I'll go out against Hamilton. They were the team that drafted me out of McGill in the first place," he added.

Springate played college football with McGill Redmen of the now-defunct Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association while studying law.

In recent weeks, Justin Canale and Springate have divided the place-kicking duties and Canale's kicking has been good. He kicked a 50-yard field goal against Toronto three weeks ago and last week booted a 43-yard three-pointer against Hamilton.

Tonight's game will start at 8:05 p.m. EDT and there will be no television coverage.

Gaudaur Not Satisfied

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal Alouettes will have to take another run at trying to prove that United States track star John Carlos qualifies as a non-import in the Canadian Football League, commissioner Jake Gaudaur said Monday.

The CFL commissioner said he had received statements from the Als which said Carlos had not played college football in the U.S. He said the statements probably are correct but don't fit the legal requirements. "I require affidavits properly attested."

Red O'Quinn, Alouettes general manager, said last week he hoped to sign Carlos because of his sprint speed, Carlos won a bronze medal in the 100-metre dash at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

On another matter, Gaudaur said he has concluded a $100,000 deal with Ralmar, a New York firm, for delayed television broadcasts of 1971 CFL games in the United States.

He said the Ralmar contract was negotiated after a similar one with All National American Sports Inc. of San Francisco broke down.

Giants Learned Skills Here

NEW YORK (CP) — An even half-dozen of the men who manage, coach and scout for the New York Giants football team either played or coached in Canada.

One of them, Jim Trimble, says that in the broad field of supervision and player experience in Canada is invaluable.

"The very best scouts in the National Football League have had a Canadian background," says Trimble, former head coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes and now the closest thing to a general manager that exists in the Giants hierarchy.

"With the quota system on United States imports, coaches and scouts in Canada just can't afford to make a mistake. They must do their research very well. This training carries over here."

Trimble, heavier and greyer than when he coached the powerful Tiger-Cats in the years 1956 to 1962 and the Alouettes for the following three years, is officially director of pro personnel. He serves as liaison between president Wellington Mara and head coach Alex Webster, helps co-ordinate trades, works closely with the scouting staff and handles a multitude of front-office details.

Webster, known to all as Big Red, was a backfield star with the Alouettes in 1953 and 1954 under Peahead Walker. On his coaching staff are Canadian alumni Frank (Pop) Ivy, North Hecker and Jim Garrett. And Ken Kavanaugh, long a coach, now is a member of the scouting staff.

The Giants, finished second, to Dallas last year in the eastern division of the national conference, failing to make the playoffs on the final day of the season.

Webster, backfield hero of the glory years of the Giants in the late 1950s and early 1960s, is starting his third season as head coach.

This year he has elevated Pop Ivy from the team's scouting ranks to offensive line coach.

Ivy was head coach of Edmonton Eskimos when they won three consecutive Grey Cups, in 1954-55-56. After leaving the Eskimos after the 1957 season, he was head coach of St. Louis Cardinals during 1958-61, head coach of Houston Oilers in 1962-63 and defensive coach of the weak Giant teams in 1963-66.

Webster has promoted Jim Garrett to offensive backfield coach. Garrett, who played with Saskatchewan Roughriders in 1955, will continue to direct the special teams, a job he which he was first assigned in 1970.

Norb Hecker will for the third year be over-all defensive boss of the Giants. Hecker, an end and defensive back, played for Toronto Argonauts in 1954. Then he spent three years with Washington Redskins before Trimble took him to Hamilton in 1958 as a prospective player-coach. A bad knee kept Hecker from playing, but he coached the defensive backs and the kicker

Kavanaugh, Webster's top offensive aide last year and once a great coach with Calgary Stampeders, has been reassigned to the coaching staff along with longtime Giant Rosey Brown.

Webster says he hopes the wide experience of these two men will assist in the evaluation of young players.

Trimble, in a time-out from a massive task of assembling a wall-size record of the personnel of all 26 NFL teams, spoke fondly of his years in Canada.

"I think Hal Patterson was one of the greatest all-round football players I've ever seen," he said.

One of Trimble's six children, all of whom spent their formative years in Canada, is going to Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., this fall. That's Jim Jr., a six-foot-three running back or fullback, who made all-state while playing football at Pleasantville, N.Y., high school last fall and compiling a 97-per-cent mark in his studies.

"Our 30,000 mile guarantee proves a lot about this $36.88 Disc brakes extra. BRAKE OVERHAUL"

"That 30,000 mile guarantee tells you a lot about the quality of brake linings we use. About our workmanship. And about our concern for your safety. "Thorough, painstaking care goes into every step of the job. It'll be a rock-bottom price. But we certainly don't cut any corners. There's too much at stake.

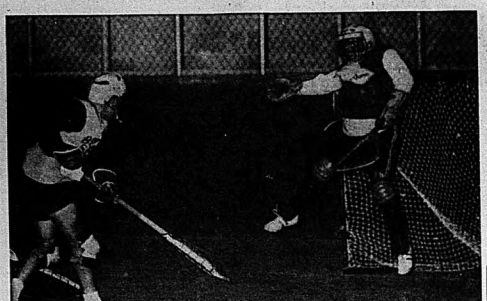
1 "We turn the drums and are the new brake linings for a perfect fit. Total contact between drum and lining over the entire surface is your best guarantee of ideal braking performance.

2 "We check the entire braking system. We examine the wheel cylinders and the master cylinder.

"We also inspect the brake shoe return springs to make sure they have even tension on all four wheels. If not, your car will pull to one side when you brake. "Then we check your brake fluid lines. Very carefully. We also check for leaks. We look for potential hazards — weak spots that may give way if you must make a panic stop.

3 "We clean and re-pack your front wheel bearings. We remove inner and outer bearings and inspect them for flaws. We clean off the old, crusted grease and re-pack with top-quality grease. This could save you from replacing wheel bearings damaged by neglect.

4 "We add super heavy duty brake fluid. We use the best. This is certainly no place to skimp, after we've taken so much care every step of the way.



5 "Then we road-test your car. When our Riding System technicians put their stamp of approval on your brake overhaul, you can be sure it measures up to the highest standards of material and workmanship. That's Firestone standard, backed by a 30,000 mile guarantee."

He may not be any ballerina but Ronnie Isaac can get up on his toes when necessary to stop any shot coming his way. Isaac, goalie for the Dairy Queen novices of the Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association, was almost flawless, letting only one shot elude him in their 1-1 tie with Bob's Sport. This point-blank shot from Gerry Healey in the overtime period was wide. Healey had tallied the only goal for Bob's but missed on this game winning attempt.

Two Teams Not Ready to Quit

Monday night was to be the wrap-up of the Belleville Minor Lacrosse novice division play-offs but the two teams involved had something to say about that!

Dairy Queen and Bob's Sport locked horns in the third and deciding game of the novice city championships last night at the Richard Ellis Memorial Arena but the clubs battled to a 1-1 overtime tie to force another game.

Bob Isaac scored for the Dairy Queen while Gerry Healey replied for Bobs.

In the first game of the banntam city final's the Queens Motor Hotel upset pennant winning Simpson Scars 4-3.

Rick Barbeau netted three goals for Queen's, including the winner. Prower opened the scoring for the Queens. Terry Coglin, Rodger Chapman and Don Bruce were the marksmen for Simpson's.

Quinte League Caught in Draft

Quinte Hockey League entries will be caught in the draft this season, but all that means is that weaker teams won't be left out in the cold.

In order to provide better balance for the four-team loop it was decided at the first league meeting last night to initiate a draft system for players with OHA experience wishing to compete in the league.

Under the proposed system the fourth - place DCA Transfer entry would get four picks, Stinson Construction three, Central Taxi two and league champion Belvedere Hotel one.

All four teams from last season were represented at the meeting and there is a possibility of two more entries forthcoming before the September 20 deadline.

Al Kelcher will continue in his role of league president with Art Buller as secretary-treasurer and Earl Rivers as the third executive member. Teams will play 18 - game schedules starting October 14. Thursday will be "Quinte Hockey Night" with the games running from 8:15 - 11.45 p.m.

The next league meeting is slated for Monday, September 20th with the location to be announced at a later date.

Brakemen Hope Loss Not Omen for Playoffs

TORONTO (CP—Staff) — The Belleville Conductors and Brakemen peewees hope they didn't receive an omen of things to come in their second game of the annual Canadian National Exhibition peewee baseball tournament.

The local boys were thumped 10-1 by Cobourg who will supply Belleville's Eastern Ontario Baseball Association final round opposition.

Harry Cortello was the big gun for Cobourg pitching a three - hitter, fanning 10 and smashing two doubles and a single.

Peter Hall and Clyde Routley toed the rubber for Belleville fanning five and walking five. Scott Bowen, Howie Coons and Paul Weeks each singled for the losers.

The loss eliminates Belleville from any further competition but for two local players it isn't over yet. Scott Bowen and Simon Bennett will return to the CNE Thursday evening at 5 p.m. to participate in the finals of the run, hit 'and three competition. Bowes will be in the running and throwing portion while Bennett is in the batting section.

One Stop Enough For Ike

Ike Christopher came up with a shutout the easy way in Belleville Minor Soccer peewee action Monday night — he stopped the only shot he had on him the entire game.

The Station Square Canucks could manage only one shot on net as the Golden Mile Restaurant walked away with a 5-0 victory.

Robert Kitchen, Jim Tugnett, Jim McSherry, Dan Thiffault and Enzo Marino were the Golden Mile scorers.

Rovers Come Across

Red rover, red rover let Belleville come over — and over — and over — and over. . . The Belleville Rovers got the call to come over to Cobourg for an exhibition soccer match and the local club responded by bulldozing the host Cobourg squad 10-1.

Joe Romano booted a hattrick for the winners with Chris Johnston and Stuart Mason adding two goals apiece. Single tallies went to John O'Neill, Bill Lucas, and Marco Colvingh.

The win marked the third victory in three starts for the Rovers which consist of members from the Belleville Parsons and United clubs in the Bay of Quinte Soccer League. The Rovers have defeated Kingston 4-2 and Montalia, Quebec 2-0 while losing to Montreal, 2-1. The Rovers will host another Quebec team on September 14 when the Verdun Celtic from the Major League will be in town.

Juckes Says Japan Out

OTTAWA (CP) — The executive director of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said today Canada has refused an informal invitation from Japan to send a team to the Olympics at Sapporo, Japan, in 1972.

Gordon Juckes said in an interview he wrote to the vice-president of the Canadian Olympics committee, Frank Shaughnessy of Montreal, saying that a Canadian hockey team "would not be prepared to go to Japan" even if a formal invitation was received.

If Canada can not enter a top professional team in world competition it will not enter an amateur team, he said. That is the position taken by Canadian hockey since January, 1970.

"I simply reaffirmed it."

Local Horse Makes Good

Simca Farms had something in reserve at the Canadian National Exhibition horse show — the Reserve Champion three-year old Arabian stallion. In addition to that first place effort the entries of W. D. Allin of Corbyville placed first and second in the yearling filly class for Arabians.

Day Bright for Bakelite

It was a bright 'day' for Union Carbide in Monday's third game of the Industrial Softball League finals when they nipped Mead Johnson 4-3 for a two games to one lead in the best-of-seven series.

Frank 'Junior' Day fired a four - hitter for the Carbide, setting down six men on strikes and walking two. The only moment of weakness he faced was in the top of the third when Ken Lessels doubled in two runners and then scored on a sacrifice fly for Mead's entire scoring output.

The pennant - winning defending champion Bakelite crew tallied once in the second on Cliff Hineman's single and twice in the third on Bob Zalkewitz's rbi triple and Jack Hughes' single. Carbide picked up the winning run in the sixth inning when Wayne Brown Jr. led off with a double and raced home on Don Anderson's single.

Sonny Holoway hurled for Mead's, allowing ten hits while fanning ten and walking two. Lessels had a triple and single to pace the losers hitting with Blaine Young and Ray Finkle adding singles.

Brown had a double and single, and Anderson and Jack Lucas contributed two singles each to pace the winners' hitting.

Fourth-game in the series will be Wednesday night at the C.N.R.A. Park in a 6.15 game.

Reid Kerrys Juvenile Load

The Belleville Juvenile lacrosse all - stars were 'Kerry-ed' to an 8-2 win last night in their Bay of Quinte final series with Trenton.

Forward Kerry-Reid counted three goals to pace Belleville to the win, giving them a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series, with one game tied. Danny Payne was top man in the assist department with five helpers in addition to a goal. Other scorers were Audie Brant, Danny Coulson, Gerald Grier and John Hanley. Trenton goalgetters were Sandy MacDonald and Rod Turner.

The fourth game of the series is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday in Campbellford.

Beware of falling objects.

They can put a severe dent in your wallet. You see, in only a matter of weeks, they'll be used cars.

So what you gain buying this year's leftover right now, could be what you lose in depreciation after the '72 models arrive.

Unless you decide to buy a new Volkswagen. Volkswagens depreciate at a snail's pace. In fact, the same Beetle that sold for about $2100 three years ago is still worth about $1500 today.

That's right.

You only lose about $600 over 3 years in depreciation.

Of course, if you still can't resist that car with the "rock bottom" price, just remember:

You'll never really know what "rock bottom" means until you try to resell it.

Sudan Will Join Arab Federation

CAIRO (CP) — President Anwar Sadat says Sudan soon will join the Arab federation of Egypt, Libya and Syria, strengthening Egypt on the south in any new war with Israel.

Sadat said Monday the federation is necessary for victory over Israel and will check the increasing Arab disunity.

"Out of defeat we will draw victory," Sadat said in a radio, wide radio and television address to whip up enthusiasm for the federation. He said Sudan will never die. After the federation comes into being, we will be strong and we will have started on the right road."

The federation is expected to be approved overwhelmingly in a referendum Wednesday in Egypt, Libya and Syria, joining together 43 million people.

President Hafez Assad of Syria said in a broadcast from Damascus the new group is committed never to negotiate peace with Israel, abandon Arab territory or give up the rights of the Palestinians.

The Sudanese are expected to join early next year, bringing together more than 50 million people in an area covering more than two million square miles.

Sadat appointed and was signed by the three presidents earlier this month, paving for the admission of other Arab republics which believe in Arab unity and which adopt socialism as a basis for their regimes.

This clearly rules out the Arab monarchies of Saudi Arabia —Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Morocco.

President Sadat emphasized that the federation was closed to the Jordanians.

In other developments the Israeli army said its anti-aircraft batteries fired at Egyptian warplanes that flew over Israeli fortifications along the Suez canal Monday and Algeria announced Premier Houari Boumedienne and Kosygin will visit Algeria in Oc-

MR. TWEEDY by Neal Riddle OFF THE RECORD By Ed Reed

Peter Lougheed Is New Giant In Politics with Alberta Win

EDMONTON (CP) — Peter Lougheed, the man who breathed new life into a strangling Alberta Progressive Conservative party, has emerged a new giant in Canadian politics.

Just over six years ago the party was wandering in the political wilderness, unrepresented in the legislature. He agreed to try to rebuild it, and today, with 48 of 75 legislature seats after Monday's general election, he is premier-elect.

As Conservative leader he has directed his energies at offering Albertans a credible alternative —a party which could end 36 years of Social Credit administration without making the people feel uncomfortable about change.

The 43-year-old Calgary lawyer's appeal first became evident in the 1967 general election when he led six Conservatives into the house and formed the official Opposition. Later the party won two byelections and Mr. Lougheed persuaded the lone Liberal member and an Independent to join his cause.

During the last two sessions of the legislature his small band continually harassed the government, and as part of its strategy of alternatives, offered 40 bills. The Social Credit majority declined to debate any part of them.

Mr. Lougheed brings considerable business experience to the premier's office. He has a master's degree in business administration from Harvard University and served briefly as vice-president of Mannix Construction Co. before setting up his own legal practice.

Nixon's 90-day freeze on He was admitted to the Bar in 1955, becoming the first third-generation Alberta lawyer. His father and grandfather were well-known lawyers and the town of Lougheed, in east-central Alberta, was named after his family.

Mr. Lougheed has natural appeal. He is lithe, muscular, good-looking, and has a smile which even staunch Social Credit supporters find hard to resist.

He used these attributes to full advantage during the election campaign. He visited all 75 constituencies, meeting the people in what he termed door-to-door and farmyard-to-farmyard campaigning.

"When I went into this, I said I'd be in it for three elections," he said late in the campaign. "At first I didn't think we had any chance, but now I think we do."

Monday night he admitted the victory surprised him.

Perhaps some of his fierce determination comes from his sports activities. He played football in university and was a defensive halfback for the Edmonton Eskimos.

Mr. Lougheed's platform promised a new deal for the common man. It called for respect for human dignity, protection of individual rights, open government, education to train people to improve the quality of their lives, welfare to help people help themselves and recognition of agriculture as a basic industry.

He has promised that his government's first piece of legislation will be an Alberta Bill of Rights.

PM and Benson Blamed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield says the true cause of the high inflation and unemployment is the "incredible incompetence" of Prime Minister Trudeau and Finance Minister Edgar Benson.

His comment was made at a news conference Monday, second day of a four day visit to British Columbia.

He described as "quite indecent" the way "the apologists of the federal government, including the prime minister himself, have so hastily taken up the suggestion that if the Canadian economy is in trouble we should blame Washington."

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

Senses Affected After Illnesses

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I used to love food, now eating is a chore. For the past six months, I have lost my sense of taste. Is there anything to do? Mrs. Y.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I had the flu two months ago. Since then I can't smell a thing. Will it go away? Mr. F.

* * *

COMMENT: Over the years I have received many complaints from patients and from readers of this column. All I could do was to refer them to a nose and throat specialist or to a neurologist, with the hope that some cause or specific treatment would be discovered. In some cases the complaint was so severe that psychiatrists were asked to help the patient.

I was sorry for these people and sorry for myself and for other doctors. There is nothing so frustrating in the practice of medicine as not to be able to help a patient. The point I am trying to make is that we have all been looking for an answer to the problem without any success until lately.

Perhaps you have read recently of a study reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, July 26, 1971, by Robert I. Henkin, MD, and associates who at least bring us some hope that we may be on the track of discovering the whys and wherefores of taste and smell problems.

The title of their paper will surprise you: Dysgeusia: Hyposmia with Dysgeusia. Hyposmia, and Dysosmia: A New Syndrome."

Let me break down the meaning: Hypogeusia (decreased taste acuity); Hyposmia (decreased olfactory acuity); Dysgeusia (a perverted taste), and Dysosmia (perverted smell). Some patients have a combination of these complaints; absence of taste and smell; metallic tastes that persist; sensations of sweetness, saltiness, sourness or bitterness; foul odors that prevent normal eating and produce severe loss of weight and many neurotic symptoms.

One estimate is that about this syndrome. My guess 3,000 Americans suffer from it is much more, thousands considering the complaints I have personally heard — is that many more thousands complain of this "idiopathic" syndrome, the cause of which is not specifically known — although it often follows (gradually or suddenly) an attack of flu or other upper respiratory illness.

What is hopeful is this increased medical interest in this pernicious, stubborn condition. The doctors have found that some patients have improved after taking zinc sulphate in prescribed doses.

* * *

Now, at least, we hope that patients will not be turned away as "imagining these symptoms." When a man comes to his doctor and complains that "I can't smell" or "My food tastes like garbage, I can't eat anymore" — at least he will find sympathy and understanding, and not be considered a psychiatric case.

By their recent study, I believe that an excellent contribution has been made by Drs. Robert I. Henkin, Paul D. Schechter, Robert Hoye, and Carl F. T. Mattern. I know many distressed patients who will second the motion.

* * *

For Miss D.: Your girl friend is no "friend" if she insists on piercing your ears so you may wear earrings. Although she may have got away with it in the past, it may be just your bad luck to get an infection. Better leave it to your doctor. Although our experience in simple process, complications are always possible when this "operation" is not conducted with aseptic precautions.

'Sydney J. Harris Says

Draco Killed by Kindness

We haven't had a word-quiz for many a moon, and today's subject is going to be popular phrases and sayings. If you can answer half the questions, you're entitled to preen.

1. Was anyone actually reputed to have been "killed by kindness"?

2. What is meant by someone "of the same kidney"?

3. Why do we speak of "the acid test" for something?

4. What, in actual terms, is a "battle royal"?

5. How did a "moot point" get its name?

6. What is the origin of the phrases, "the cat out of the bag," and "buy a pig in a poke"?

7. What did it originally mean to get off "Scot free"?

8. Why do we refer to something as done "in the nick of time"?

9. Can even an experienced sailor explain why a temporary rigging on a ship is called a "jury - rig"?

10. What is the historical incident behind the phrase, "to leave no stone unturned"?

Answers:

1. Draco, the Athenian statesman (B.C. 590) met with his death from his popularity, being smothered in the hearts of Aegina by the number of caps and cloaks showered on him by the fond people assembled.

2. In ancient times, the "reins" or "kidneys" were supposed to be the seat of the affections, as the heart was in later times.

3. The "acid test" comes from the use of nitric acid, which would decompose inferior metals, and was used to detect true gold.

4. Originally, a "battle royal" was a tournament of fighting cocks, to which 32 were pitted together; then the eight victors; then the four, and finally the two; the ultimate winner being victor of the battle royal.

5. "Moots" were student debates in law which took place in the halls and libraries of Inns of Court, or "practice courts".

6. Country-folk used to substitute a cat for a suckling-pig and bring it in a bag, or "poke", to market. A sucker might buy a pig in a poke", but if he opened the sack, he "let the cat out of the bag".

7. "Scot" was a tribute or tax, which some escaped paying.

8. Tallies were marked with nicks or notches at colleges and chapels; if a man entered chapel just before the door closed, he would be just in time to be "nicked" on the tally; thus, "in the nick of time".

9. From the French, "jeurygir", meaning, "just for the day".

10. Polycrates (472 B.C.) sought for treasure in the abandoned tent of the Persian general, Mardonius, without success, when the Oracle at Delphi told him "Leave no stone untumed". He returned and discovered the treasure under the stone floor.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very satisfying improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new cells. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H relieves and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Canadian Company Profits Regain Ground Lost to Price Curbs

OTTAWA (CP) — Corporation profits, which were tightly squeezed last year by the government's price restraint program, now have recovered all the lost ground, Statistics Canada reported Monday.

Profits before taxes, which were running at an annual rate of $5.76 billion in the first quarter of 1970, were trimmed by more than $1 billion by the fourth quarter.

They rose in the first and second quarters of 1971, however, to an annual rate of $7.3 billion, and at mid-year were only about four per cent below their early-1969 peak.

The government statistics bureau said corporation profits now contribute significantly less to the country's gross national product than they did in 1968 and 1969. They amounted to at least 10 per cent of GNP then; now they contribute 8.6 per cent.

Statistics Canada said detailed distribution of corporation profits by industry in the second quarter of 1971 is not yet available, but it seemed clear that sizeable gains were made in some trade industries, notably in automobile sales.

The over-all gains were eight per cent in each of the first two quarters of 1971.

Labor income also recorded a sharp upswing, increasing 3.3 per cent in the second quarter, the largest increase since the first quarter of 1969. Wages and salaries in the service industries were up 3.5 per cent; in the goods-producing industries they were up by 2.8 per cent.

Total wages, salaries and supplementary labor income ran at an annual rate of $50.85 billion in April, May and June this year. Unlike corporation profits and other major sectors of national income — unincorporated business income, interest and investment income, and farm income—they rose steadily though at a reduced rate through the economic slump.

Unincorporated business income was running at an annual rate of $4.91 billion in the first quarter of 1971, compared with $4.66 billion a year earlier after slumping fractionally.

Japan Asks for Exemption from U.S. Surcharge In Return for Its Decision to Let Yen Float

TOKYO (Reuter) — Japan asked today for removal of the United States 10-per-cent import levy in response to the Tokyo government's decision to float the yen.

The request was made in a formal note being sent to the Japanese embassy in Washington for delivery to the U.S. government.

The contents of the diplomatic note were read to Philip Trezise, visiting U.S. assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, when he met top Japanese government officials today.

The note made it clear that the Japanese government regarded its decision Friday to allow the yen to float and find its own exchange level against the U.S. dollar as sufficient justification for removal of the additional U.S. lax of up to 10 per cent on dutiable imports.

The foreign ministry said Trezise was told that Japan had floated the yen to establish a new international monetary system in co-operation with other countries. This action had basically changed the situation which led the United States to impose the levy, the note said, adding that it was for this reason Japan was asking for its removal.

The government abandoned the old fixed rate of 360 yen to the U.S. dollar as of Saturday in preparation for multi-national talks next month on currency parity adjustments.

The value of the Japanese currency continued to rise on the foreign exchange market and was finally quoted today at between 339 and 339.80 yen against the dollar. Monday it had been around 341 yen.

Today's figure amounts to an upward revaluation of slightly more than six per cent.

Earlier today a foreign ministry spokesman said Japan may consider joint action with the Euromart against the tax.

Measures could include discriminatory increases in import tariffs, import quota restrictions and possible removal of voluntary export control over items such as steel and textiles sent to the American market.

Hees Asks Higher Tax

OAKVILLE (CP) — George Hees, Progressive Conservative MP for Prince Edward-Hastings, suggested today that the federal government tax 100 per cent of capital gains realized on investments made by Canadians opment of other countries."

Mr. Hees told the Oakville and District Chamber of Commerce that such a move would result in "an additional half-billion dollars a year available for investment in Canadian development instead of in the development of othe countries."

The government now taxes 50 per cent of such capital gains.
